RUSSIAN CREWMEN PICKED UP SAFELY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 45-man crew of the Russian cargo ship Velikiyi Ustyug were picked up safely today after they abandoned their vessel in the stormy North Atlantic, the United States coast guard reported. Another Russian ship rescued the crew of the stricken ship and they apparently were in good condition.

Legislature Sits All Night In Battle Over Education

GROGGY BUT READY for a second round tonight, two mothers from Victoria Low Income Group and a sympathizer put in the long hours in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings. They outlasted the legislators by continuing their sit-in until 5:30 this morning. Total of 75—mothers and supporters—joined the demonstration protesting low welfare rates. See page 17. Tempers Flare; Estimates Pass

By JOHN MIKA and BRUCE YEMEN

The Legislature adjourned at 4:55 this morning after a stormy session during which the Social Credit government beat down three attempts by Opposition Leader Strachan to end the marathon sitting.

Premier Bennett didn't allow the exhausted MLAs to go home until all 23 separate votes in the $271.1 million estimates of the education department were passed.

As a concession after the ordeal, he ordered resumption for 2:30 this afternoon, a half-hour later than usual.

But he told reporters there would be another late sitting tonight and Thursday and the legislature will go into a steady day-and-night-sitting routine until the session ends.

The education estimates came before the house at 2 p.m. Monday and took 16½ hours to complete half of it in continuous sitting that began after the Tuesday supper break.

Mr. Strachan's adjournment attempts all came after midnight.

It was the longest sitting for several years but short of the record set during the Bill 42 wrangle in 1959 when Premier Bennett kept the house sitting until after 6 a.m.

Mr. Bennett timed the all-night sitting to follow the annual press gallery dinner for MLAs Monday which saw many of them late to bed.

Through most of the early hours this morning, there were three or four backbenchers, and occasionally a minister, obviously sleeping in their chairs while opposition members spelled each other off criticizing education policies or asking questions.

Premier Bennett several times was accused of slipping off to catch 40 winks on the couch in his office but he denied it.

Bennett Refuses Recorded Vote

He retaliated by refusing the traditional consent for recording the results of the four divisions—one non-confidence vote in Education Minister Peterson and the three adjournment attempts—in the journals of the legislature.

Throughout the marathon sitting, the "sit-in" group of mothers on welfare and sympathetic students — along with a covey of uniformed and plain-clothes RCMP watching them —sat in the spectator galleries.

"I don't think it's necessary to have armed RCMP protecting us because some people come to visit us here," he said during the education estimates.

The Legislative Building janitors were added to the listening audience as they began cleaning up while the house still sat in the chamber below.

Tempers flared frequently as the hours wore on, most of them vented on the head of Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) as chairman of estimates committee who frequently ruled the opposition complaints about the lateness of the hour were out of order.

Twice Mr. Bruch called in Speaker William Murray to restore order and the speaker warned MLAs that regardless of their private opinions about the government's insistence they stay in session, they had to obey the rules or face serious consequences.

Demand Speaker Be Called In

By 4 a.m. opposition members angrily were demanding that Mr. Bruch call in the speaker a third time because they were unsatisfied with his conduct of the committee but he ignored the demand.

"You don't know the rules, you've never known the rules and what's more you never will," Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) screamed at Mr. Bruch.

Mr. Bruch spent much of the time pounding his gavel and rising to his feet to outshout MLAs he claimed were straying from the estimates and twice he shouted at MLAs who were sitting in their seats to sit down.

Mr. Bruch also twice became

U.S. SEEKS MORE MEN FROM ALLIES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is pressing its Vietnam allies — Australia, New Zealand, Korea and Thailand — to commit more men to the war, according to reliable sources.

CANBERRA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Gorton reiterated today his decision not to send additional troops to Vietnam. He told Parliament he was standing by a promise not to do so.

Stampede For Gold At London

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush became a virtual stampede today and bullion dealers curtailed trading sharply in the London market.

The curtailment was the first such action taken since the formation of the international gold pool in 1960.

London dealers made clear there was no suspension of sales. They raised the price of gold five cents to $35.20 an ounce and refused to take small orders. No big orders were refused.

The action came as the Italian treasury described as "without foundation" a report from Zurich that the United States was shouldering Italy's share of bullion in the international pool.

U.S. DENIAL

In Washington, the treasury also denied the Zurich report. "The report is without foundation," a spokesman said.

The dealer's action came as the gold stampede in Europe reached near panic proportions.

Sales of gold in Paris reached a record of more than 16 tons, compared with the previous high Dec. 15 of 14 tons. Sixty to 80 tons were estimated to have been sold in Zurich during the morning alone.

A source in Zurich said Swiss banks expect an embargo on gold sales will be announced soon by the United States, which with the other six nations of the gold pool is pledged to sell gold at $35 an ounce.

ROBERT KENNEDY
... party divided

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire Democrats returned a startling split decision today, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory in the first U.S. presidential primary—while awarding rebellious Eugene J. McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 20 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Richard M. Nixon won the overwhelming Republican vote he sought to help wipe out the memory of past defeats and propel his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

But the drama was in the Democratic story. It was a story of political trouble for Johnson, and a leadoff success for McCarthy, whose campaign on a platform protesting Vietnam policy once was scorned as inconsequential by Democratic professionals.

Minnesota's McCarthy far surpassed his forecasts—and those of his opponents. Johnson's name was not on the ballot, but the state Democratic organization waged a tough write-in campaign. Its product: a minority win for the president, who received 49 per cent of the vote.

4,000-VOTE EDGE

The near-final count had Johnson leading McCarthy by less than 4,000 votes. The president's promoters had forecast a 3-to-1 victory—and even that prediction was toned down from earlier odds of 10 to 1.

The contest for delegates appeared to be reversing the verdict of the presidential preference poll. Actually, the poll, popularly called a "beauty contest," is binding on no one.

In the separate contest for Democratic delegates, candidates pledged to vote for McCarthy's nomination were leading for 20 of the 24 national convention seats at issue, while contenders favoring Johnson led for four.

LBJ SCOFFS

That showing lent new stature to his campaign of opposition to Johnson's policy in Vietnam, although the president scoffed at the outcome, saying New Hampshire is the only place where a candidate can claim "40 per cent is a mandate."

See Story Page 53

Nixon, a former vice-president, swept 79 per cent of the vote in a state where Republicans outnumber Democrats two to one, smothering the last-minute write-in campaign for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Nixon was out to erase the label of loser pinned to him after defeats for the White House in 1960 and for the governorship of California in 1962.

With 99 per cent of the anticipated 54,000 Democratic votes counted, Johnson had 25,970 and McCarthy had 22,479.

NIXON LANDSLIDE

On the Republican ballot, with 99 per cent of the expected 106,000 votes in, Nixon had 83,071 and Rockefeller had 11,517.

Nixon and McCarthy were listed on the ballot; Johnson and Rockefeller were not.

Despite the Johnson ridicule, there could be no doubt that the outcome in snowy New Hampshire stirred concern at the White House. That concern may not in fact be about McCarthy himself, but about the possible impact of his showing on the plans of New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

PRIMARY MAKES DIFFERENCE

Kennedy Reconsiders Whether He'll Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Kennedy said today he is thinking of running against President Johnson for the Democratic nomination because of the strong showing of peace candidate Eugene McCarthy in New Hampshire's primary.

"I am reassessing the possibility of whether I will run against President Johnson," the 42-year-New York senator said.

Reporters asked Kennedy if he believed the New Hampshire results showed the Democratic party already was "so seriously divided it can't be hurt much more?"

"It's my impression that's true," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the result "clearly indicates that a sizable group of Democrats are concerned about the direction in which the country is going both in the fields of foreign and domestic policy."

Kennedy added that the party division which exists has been shown to be one of issues, not personality differences between the president and a democratic opponent.

"I'm aware there has been a good deal of unrest," Kennedy told reporters. "It is clear from New Hampshire that the unrest is deep and considerable."

Kennedy began the political season saying that he would support Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey for re-election this year. After McCarthy entered the race, Kennedy switched his position to one of neutrality; he said he would not take sides but would support the Democratic nominee.

Asked if he would actively support McCarthy if he decided against directly opposing Johnson, Kennedy said, "I will have more information on all of that at a later time."

Discussing the "personality struggle" that he said was one of the factors that has kept him out of the race up to now, Kenedy said he feared the primary focus would be "the differences between President Johnson and myself that have been built up over the years."

"I think the New Hampshire primary has demonstrated quite clearly that it had nothing to do with personalities—that it was the deep concern of the United States . . ."

Emergency UN Session Urged

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Thirty-six African countries Tuesday requested an urgent session of the United Nations Security Council to consider the possible use of armed force against Rhodesia.

A letter to the council president, Ousmane Soce Diop of Senegal, described the situation in Rhodesia as "a threat to international peace and security."

35 Africans Reprieved By Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The government of Prime Minister Ian Smith today reprieved 35 Africans under sentence of death, including four who have been under a stay of execution since Monday.

Clifford Du Pont, officer administering the government, under the advice of the executive council of the cabinet, had "reviewed all cases pending and gave prior consideration to those which had the strongest claims for the exercise of clemency," government announcement said.

The government said this was done "in view of the lapse of time since the conviction of the men concerned."

"The remaining 33 cases, which include the most serious ones, require further consideration and these will be dealt with as speedily as possible," the statement said.

85 CASES

"There were 85 cases which were up to the stage where they could be considered by the executive council but which had to be held up pending the recent decision of the appelate division of the high court.

"Five of these persons have been executed and 47 persons have been reprieved, their sentences being commuted to varying terms of imprisonment."

The 47 reprieves included earlier grants of clemency.

The government said at previous trials some persons were reprieved but the court ordered their names should not be published for security reasons.

Africans Call U.K. 'Toothless Bulldog'

By REUTERS

Anger over recent executions of Negroes in white ruled Rhodesia erupted in three African capitals Tuesday, although in each incident the Negro demonstrators were venting their anger against Britain's failure to prevent the executions in its breakaway colony.

In the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, British Ambassador Sir Thomas Bromley was forced to retreat to safety as some 2,000 students he was addressing hurled a barrage of rocks.

In Nairobi, Kenya, British Deputy High Commissioner Bruce Greatbatch was pelted with coins and garbage when some 200 students from Nairobi's University College met to present a petition of protest.

Another group of 200 students in Accra, Ghana, tore down the Union Jack, halted traffic and harangued whites during a parade in front of the British high commission building.

Shouts of "toothless bulldog" come from the demonstrators in both Accra and Nairobi.

Student Riots Spread To Second Polish City

WARSAW (Reuters) — Club-swinging militiamen went into action against about 1,000 students demonstrating in Cracow, south Poland, today in sympathy with Warsaw students, reliable sources said.

The students were reported to have marched from a hostel to the main university building in the centre of the medieval former royal capital of Poland.

They carried banners reading, "Warsaw is not alone, we want justice," the source said by telephone from Cracow.

The students burned newspapers and defaced and tore down wall posters reprinting editorials from Warsaw newspapers condemning recent student demonstrations in the capital, the sources said.

MILITIA ON GUARD

Before the procession started professors addressed a one-hour student meeting over loudspeakers and appealed for calm. But the students shouted them down. Militiamen were waiting for the students when they reached the 14th century Jagiellonian University and the clash followed, the source said.

The official Polish news agency PAP said student demonstrations took place in Lubin, east Poland, Monday. Informed sources said there were also demonstrations in Poznan, west Poland.

Warsaw, which saw three days of street violence between students and militia starting Friday, was calm today. Students attended classes as usual at the two focal points of previous demonstrations, the uni-

. . . ALL NIGHT SITTING

confused as to which specific vote was before the house and Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) seized on this as proof that the government was forcing MLAs to deal with huge sums while they were too tired.

"Mr. Chairman, if you can't keep your mind on this—and you're supposed to be in charge here—how can we?" Mr. Macfarlane demanded.

Through most of the debate, the opposition hammered at Mr. Peterson's refusal to described school construction restrictions as a "freeze", his refusal to reveal the financial requests of the universities and his refusal to concede the cabinet did not make full use of federal funds for building technical and vocational school facilities.

At one point, Mr. Macfarlane said he simply did not believe the minister's protestations he did not know how much the university boards asked by way of grants.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Mr. Petson's refusal to divulge the information was part "of this government's efforts to destroy parliamentary democracy in B.C."

Mr. Strachan made his first attempt at an adjournment shortly after midnight and it was voted down 28 to 22 with NDP and Liberals voting together. His second attempt attempt came an hour later and it went down 27 to 21.

Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) also tangled with Mr. Bruch when, stopped by the chairman from discussing the government's capital grants to schools in his riding, he argued that a vote providing homeowner grants for school levies entitled him to "discuss the whole housing policy of this government."

Reduce Salary

An opposition move to reduce Education Minister Peterson's salary to $1—the traditional non-confidence motion—was defeated 28-22 at 12:20 a.m.

It was moved by Mr. Strachan and supported by the Liberal MLAs.

The vote came after Mr. Strachan catalogued criticism of the government's education policies which he said had met opposition from every segment of society.

He said the minister had failed to answer the criticisms or give assurances needed to guarantee the needed educational opportunity for the youth of B.C.

He called the minister's performance "a demonstration of 1920 Babbitry—"we should be proud of this, we should be proud of that . . . of an education system heading straight for 1930."

After the 12:20 a.m. vote Premier Bennett refused consent for the result to be recorded.

Restore Order

"Obstruction," cried Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) and there were cried of "afraid to face the music."

Mr. Bruch called the speaker from his chambers to restore order at 1:20 a.m. after Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) refused to sit down while ripping the government for letting the house sit so late.

The speaker urged members to "keep calm and discuss things rationally" and reminded them of the "most severe penalties" at the chairman's command when members disobey.

"In all due respect Mr. Speaker you don't discuss things rationally at 1:20 a.m.," he said.

Mr. Nimsick began the uproar by noting the people still in the public gallery and observing:

"We must look very very silly to those people and the people of B.C. to be sitting here at this hour . . . It's just a pack of foolishness that we're working at twenty after one.

Sleeping

"This is the way you treat the people of British Columbia."

As the house awaited the speaker's arrival Mr. Nimsick accused Premier Bennett of "sleeping all afternoon on a couch" to get an unfair advantage over other MLAs.

"That's a straight lie," shouted the premier.

Subsequently several MLAs repeated the charge that the premier was snoozing on the job.

As the premier laughed and pointed at him, Mr. Nimsick challenged him, "You laugh and point at the people of B.C. . . ."

After the speaker's counsel, Mr. Strachan moved the second motion for adjournment, the government refused, and a division was called.

"Masochists!" shot back Mr. Dowding.

The flare-up had developed after Mr. Dowding had failed to get an explanation from Education Minister Peterson on how the $53,000,000 operating grants to universities are arrived at and how they are split.

Again Defied

The speaker was called a second time about an hour later at 2:20 a.m. after chairman Bruch was defied again by Mr. Nimsick.

Mr. Bruch interrupted the MLA as he questioned the minister about department plans, if any, to aid rural students in attending college.

"You're repeating yourself," said Mr. Bruch.

"At this time of morning you're bound to repeat yourself," Mr. Nimsick snapped back.

The call for the speaker went in as the MLA refused to sit down.

After the MLA had been seated several seconds and continued talking, Mr. Bruch yelled at him over the din:

"Order! Be seated!"

"I am seated!" cried Mr. Nimsick, as the house exploded into laughter.

The speaker warned the house that if he were called a third time severe penalties would be imposed on any member defying the chair.

Mr. Harding then recommended the chairman be removed.

Exhaustion

Mr. Strachan told the speaker he had some "sympathy" for the chairman in view of his obvious exhaustion but "he was calling for a member to sit down and he was already sitting down."

Liberal Leader Perrault said the speaker should be made aware that the premier had "told the press" the house would sit until noon on Friday if necessary to get the education estimates through.

Shortly after, Mr. Bruch ordered Dr. Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver-Point Grey) to withdraw a remark that Mr. Peterson showed "cowardice" in failing to give the legislature "an honest declaration" of the needs of B.C.'s universities.

Dr. McGeer withdrew it and substituted "lack of courage."

A further Nimsick-Bruch clash developed when Mr. Peterson demanded a withdrawal of the NDP member's statement that he was not telling the truth about rural access to university education.

After repeated denials that he hadn't meant that the minister never told the truth, Mr. Nimsick withdrew the remark, adding that he had been misled by the minister.

In a heated exchange with William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet) chairman Bruch again found himself ordering a member to be seated who had already sat down.

The house settled down as the debate droned on.

A third attempt at adjournment went down to a 26-20 defeat at 3:20 a.m. as the house considered $160,000,000 in grants to school districts.

"As 20 after three is no time to be debating this amount of money," Opposition Leader Strachan said, "it gives me a great deal of pleasure to move that the committee rise and report progress."

The government refused a recorded vote for the third time, leading Mr. Strachan to say, "Thank you once again for your courtesy and kindness."

As Mr. Berger resumed efforts to get the education minister to announce an end to the "freeze," the premier leaped up to accuse him of being "unworthy of the socialist movement."

Chairman Bruch declared the premier out of order as he continued his attack.

Liberal Leader Perrault at 3:50 a.m. criticized the "attempt to bludgeon this house into voting $160,000,000 when it's on its knees and groggy."

Back to 6-Day Week

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Low labor productivity has forced some Russian factories to return to an unofficial six-day work week, Pravda complains in an editorial. The Communist party newspaper says the introduction of the five-day week during the last two years led in some places to slower growth of labor productivity.

Four Polish writers were blamed for provoking the student riots, and a veterans organization headed by Interior Minister Mieczyslaw Moczar demanded punishment for "inspirers" of student unrest.

Polish Communist leaders were also trying to turn the wrath of the people by accusing Jews of being behind the riots.

Warsaw newspapers printed the names of alleged Jewish instigators among the students, and leading party officials are making speeches in which they try to put the blame on the Jews.

The government apparently is relying on the Polish tradition of anti-semitism to discredit the political opposition which has matured among the young people of Poland—including the relatively few Jews remaining after the Nazi slaughter.

CRITICIZE WRITERS

The newspaper Durier Polski called the writers "enemies of People's Poland" and said demagogic slogans and speeches hostile to socialism made during a recent meeting of the Polish Writers' Union were addressed to academic youth.

The riots Friday, Saturday and Monday began as protests against the expulsion from Warsaw university of two students for participating in a previous demonstration against a government ban on a 19th century Polish play.

The writers' meeting passed a resolution understood to have condemned the ban on the play Dziady, imposed because of enthusiastic audience applause at anti-Russian lines.

The newspaper said one writer, Pawel Jasienica; gave information about the meeting to two leaders of the student "excesses"—Adam Michnik, one of the two expelled students, and Irena Grudzinskia, daughter of a dismissed undersecretary of state at the forestry ministry.

Other writers attacked by the newspaper were Antoni Slonimski, a Jewish poet; Stefan Kisielewski, a Catholic author and former parliamentary deputy, and Leszek Kolakowski, professor of philosophy at Warsaw University. Kolakowski was expelled from the Communist party in 1966.

Jan Grundzinski, forestry ministry undersecretary of state, was one of three government officials dismissed from their posts after their children were named as ringleaders in student demonstrations.

The others were Jan Gorecki, finance ministry director-general, and Fryderyk Topolski, responsible for Warsaw industrial questions.

Three hundred persons most of them teen-agers, were arrested after street clashes in Warsaw Monday. The Polish news agency said all the teen-agers were released after being made to clear up the riot debris.

HORN
. . . nothing to say

Indian Model Charged With Assault

MONTREAL (CP) — Kahn-Tineta Horn, outspoken Indian model, was arrested by RCMP officers Tuesday night as she got off a train from Toronto.

Miss Horn was detained overnight on a charge of assault causing bodily harm after a warrant was sworn out following a visit to a Toronto newspaper Tuesday.

After being allowed to see his client at police headquarters, Mr. Campbell said Miss Horn would likely be returned to Toronto today to face arraignment on the charge.

Miss Horn was in Toronto to speak to the Canadian Club before visiting the newspaper.

The complainant in the assault case is Robert MacBain of The Telegram who wrote articles about Miss Horn last month.

Miss Horn wrote several letters to The Telegram about Mr. MacBain, then challenged him to debate the issues at the Toronto Men's Press Club. When he did not appear she went to The Telegram office.

Mr. MacBain said Miss Horn thought his articles had put her in a bad light and that she accused him of degrading Indian women. He said The Telegram had offered to publish an article stating her case while he wrote his side of the controversy but that she declined, issuing the challenge to a debate.

No Health Risk In Chickens, Says Minister

Canada's food laws ensures that chickens sold to the public do not contain substances which would endanger public health, Agricultural Minister Frank Richter said Tuesday.

The use of substances having estrogenic activity was prohibited by law in the production of all poultry products, he said.

His statement backs an assurance made by Dr. Kenneth Thornton, pathologist at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, that chicken sold in Canada carried no risk to health.

A lecture by Dr. Thornton last week carried a suggestion that chicken meat might contain hormones which may cause cancer.

But, as the doctor explained later he was not referring to the Canadian chicken industry which, he said, produced a "first class and absolutely safe product."

First Things First

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNment is hardly likely to accept the opposition challenge to a general election on the issue of school construction. Important as it is, education is only one facet of the broad problem of provincial spending policy, and the Social Credit government, in its present financial squeeze, is not ready to face a very uneasy electorate without having much more in the way of general results to show.

This, however, does not reduce the gravity of the school situation in this province, and particularly in Greater Victoria. The local school board has submitted plans for $7 millions worth of urgent construction. These projects are being held up by refusal of the provincial department to authorize a go-ahead. The effects of the classroom shortage are already evident in this district in the form of mis-use of existing facilities. Gymnasiums, auditoriums and stages, music rooms and other special quarters have in many cases been converted to classroom use. The next step, in the absence of more needed teaching space, will be the shift system.

There is something to be said for extended use of school classrooms throughout the daylight hours on the basis that full value should be received for public expenditure. There is less to be said for the disruption of households which must be adapted to the demands of varied school hours. There is, too, the problem of providing the full benefits which pupils should be receiving from their school experience — band and choir practices, club activities, sports and social gatherings. This would be difficult under the shift system. A price must be paid for scrimping on school facilities, and in this case the children pay it.

Education Minister Peterson refers to the pre-fabricated and so-called mobile classrooms which are being provided in Greater Victoria and elsewhere in British Columbia. These are a very handy means of meeting an emergency situation such as a sudden flood of pupils to a particular area of the community which cannot be met immediately through permanent construction. The temporary rooms are appropriate too, in situations where the increased school population is expected soon to return to a previous level.

But Mr. Peterson speaks of the mobile accommodation as though it were a permanent answer to schoolroom requirements. He refers to an expected levelling-off of the elementary school population here, but there seems in this regard to be a basic disagreement between the minister and the school board and it should be resolved as quickly as possible.

The large backlog of local school construction has not been vetoed in principle by the government — the understanding is that it has merely been deferred. But if the government believes that much of it will never need to be implemented, due to a levelling-off of the school population, why has this not been made clear? The school board lives in hopes that the proposed items will be approved at any time. But now a fundamental difference in thinking emerges. If the population of Greater Victoria is expected to level out at its present total, this must be news to the planning bodies which have projected almost continuous growth through the coming decades.

Schools and hospitals should have a top priority claim on public funds. This is not an age in which education can be relegated to a secondary position, for the whole future of our society — political, technological and social — rests on intensive training of the population to manage the vast machine it is producing, and the encouragement of learning and wisdom to provide necessary guidance. The government has not yet grasped this principle, apparently. But full comprehension cannot safely be deferred.

The Owikeno Testing Ground

THE LIMITED AWARD OF FOREST lands granted to Crown Zellerbach to permit the company's consolidation of a coast tree farm licence excludes the Owikeno Lake area sought by the company. This is the region where prospective logging has caused concern to the Fisheries Association of B.C. Owikeno Lake and tributary rivers, the association notes, are the spawning grounds for Rivers Inlet salmon and have consistently been one of the three important sockeye-producing areas of British Columbia as well as an important source of major coho, spring, pink and chum salmon populations.

"It is not our objective to argue against or to resist logging operations in the Owikeno area," the association explains. "It is our objective to argue that these logging operations, if permitted, must not be allowed to jeopardize the rich salmon and other fish populations of the area."

The anxiety of the fisheries interests arises from the fear that careless operations in the woods could result in clogging or scouring of spawning grounds, which would vary water temperature and flow to the detriment of the fish and eventually block their migration. Exclusion of the Owikeno land from the Crown Zellerbach award does not, of course, prevent logging. The region is still within a public sustained yield unit where some cutting is now under way and more is due in the future.

Controls are established by the B.C. Forest Service over such cutting and contracts to loggers specify procedures which must be followed to protect the fisheries. There have been, however, earlier occasions, notably in the Stellako, where conflict has arisen between fisheries and logging interests. Presumably there will be differences on the Owikeno.

Under the circumstances, the Owikeno becomes an excellent testing ground to determine how far British Columbia has progressed in satisfactory application of the multiple use principle. As far as resource industries are concerned, that involves the best return one industry can glean from a resource without serious interference with any other. And in the Owikeno watershed also exists the opportunity for loggers to demonstrate the degree of responsibility they have reached in honoring the requisites of the multiple-use ideal.

Who Gets Whose?

DR. CHRISTIAAN BARNARD, heart-transplant pioneer, has presented his case for a doctor's right to withdraw supportive therapy from dying patients whose organs are destined for transplantation. His argument involves points raised on the issue of euthanasia and, perhaps, more.

"The authority to decide legal and ethical implications in cardiac transplants rests with the medical profession alone," he says. "Doctors have one obligation—to treat their patients until no further means are available."

The lay public is left wondering, however, what decision would be made in the hypothetical cases of a cardiac patient requiring a new heart to survive and an equally critical case whose life depended on a kidney transplant. Which doctors decide who shall get whose?

DAUGHTER OUT ON THE TOWN — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Indications of Canada's New Look

THE wisest Canadian of my acquaintance puts the current political phenomenon in a nutshell. "If Trudeau becomes prime minister," he says, "then this isn't the country we have always taken it for. It's a different country."

Hutchison

My friend didn't mean that Mr. Trudeau was unfit for the highest office. Indeed, he was inclined to the opposite view. He merely meant that the Canada of our national legend and stereotype would never choose a man of Mr. Trudeau's temperament, habits and brief apprenticeship.

This seems to me incontestable. But surely Mr. Trudeau's overnight rise is not the first or only evidence of a deep change in the nation's outlook. One can think of many others.

We had always assumed, for example, and foreigners had taken it for granted, that Canada might be dreadfully dull but it was the most stable nation on earth. Until recently a Canadian travelling in the United States was almost embarrased to hear Americans lamenting their own instability and envying the sound, plodding government of their northern neighbors.

Stereotype Broken

Yet the fact of record is that in 11 years and five elections we have elected a workable, majority government only once — in 1958. A people famous for their cold, sub-Arctic judgement and steady common sense could not make up their minds on the first order of business. In party politics at least, we can see now that the stereotype was broken in 1957, with John Diefenbaker's arrival (an event as extraordinary as the emergence of Mr. Trudeau) and the pieces still haven't been put together.

Or again, take the management of the national economy. Here we were long distinguished, in the war and postwar years, by our thrifty housekeeping. Canada was probably the only Western nation that taxed itself to pay off a large part of the wartime debt and soon its currency became more valuable than the American.

Deficits

Starting in 1957, under the Conservatives, we began to run gigantic deficits which the Liberals denounced as ruinous. Water Gordon warning us that we would soon be "on the rocks." When he took over our finances the deficits continued to pile up and the rocks turned out to be nothing more than a harmless mirage.

And when Mr. Gordon was succeeded by Mitchell Sharp, that grim portrait and living symbol of Canadian frugality, the deficits were increased, for wise Keynesian reasons, until, in the autumn of 1967, the rocks suddenly appeared again, close at hand, undeniably solid rocks this time and terrifying to the nation's treasurer.

We need not go over all this painful history but it shows that in financial affairs Canada has not behaved as natives or foreigners expected. In a recent book an eminent foreigner, Dean Acheson, called Canada the "stern daughter of the voice of God." I wonder if he still thinks that his quotation from Wordsworth applies any longer. The stern daughter has been out on the town, painting it red.

Repudiating the Legend

According to the stereotype, Canada's harsh experience in the wilderness has made it a naturally conservative country, even under Liberal administration. Other countries, with more people and better climate, might gamble on the future but we could afford to take no chances. And yet we have far outstripped the Americans and the British, our original mentors, in social experiments of all sorts while borrowing massively from our neighbors to build the second highest living standard in the world. These were bold and hopeful ventures, generally approved by the electorate, but they didn't fit the legend.

Nor did our latest effort to increase our wealth still faster by raising our prices, since our productivity has not risen in proportion.

Here, too, a personality change is vividly marked. Our grandfathers, who made the stereotype in the first place, had few machines of production but they built the CPR across the continent, sometimes a mile a day, and that was productivity on a stupendous scale, though no one had heard the word in those days before the new economics were invented.

The common assumption has been that we retain all the virtues of our grandfathers, with some new ones added, and perhaps we do. Clearly however, there has been a deeper change in our nature than we suspected. Otherwise, as my friend says, we would not be considering a prime minister like Mr. Trudeau, who is supposedly the new Canada incarnate, as Mr. Winters is the old.

Of course, these are extreme and over-simplified versions of a complex process which no one understands very well, neither man being much like his public caricature and the cliches of television. Nevertheless, their contest is interesting far outside the ordinary concerns of politics, because they do represent, within the broad bosom of a single party, a clash of basic attitudes, a rough litmus test of a Canada unquestionably changed, but how much and in what direction? By rejecting both men the Liberal convention will avoid any answer. By choosing one or the other it will give us a useful measurement of ourselves.

Negotiate

New York Times

THREE years ago the first American combat units were dispatched to Vietnam, with the announced purpose of defending United States bases. Their arrival boosted the number of American military personnel in Vietnam to 27,000.

By the end of that year — 1965 — the United States had 185,000 troops in Vietnam, and they had taken over the brunt of the fighting from the South Vietnamese.

Nearly two years and 300,000 additional American fighting men later, Gen. William C. Westmoreland came home from Saigon last fall to report that the enemy was on the run and that he expected the United States to begin to "phase out" its operation in Vietnam within two years. He expressed himself as content with the ceiling of 525,000 troops President Johnson promised him by next June.

More recently the chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, was in Vietnam to review the most critical situation the United States has faced in that ravaged land. He was pressed for more troops, well beyond the 525,000 limit, to shore up thinly spread allied forces. In anticipation of that call, the Joint Chiefs are reported drawing up plans for partial mobilization of National Guard and Reserve ground forces.

Given the precarious predicament of the American forces now in Southeast Asia and the dangerous deterioration of the strategic ready reserve at home, both the dispatch of more troops to Vietnam and the mobilization of reserves are inescapable. Such is the grim compulsion of a policy that has mired this country ever deeper in a land war in Asia against long-standing expert military advice.

The time has come for Americans and their leaders to recognize that the policy itself is illogical; that it entraps the United States in a war without visible limits, despite all official optimism; that it will continue to make insatiable demands on American manpower, resources and energy far beyond the worth of any conceivable gains. The only sound policy is to move from the battlefield to the negotiating table with fullest speed.

The search for a road to a negotiated settlement must start with a bombing halt. The risks in such a pause are obviously far less than those in the boundless escalation on which Washington is embarked, especially since United Nations Secretary General Thant reported recently his belief that meaningful negotiations would begin "perhaps within a few days" if American planes stopped bombing North Vietnam.

Correspondence From Our Readers

Keep the Old Names

I quite agree with the Kamloops Council of British Columbia in its objection to changing the name Yellowhead to any personnel-named highway.

Those old names of our early day landmarks, of our rivers and mountains, etc., as given by our early explorers, should never be changed. They were here before many of us. Please leave these ~~things~~ as they are.—H. Milne, Langford.

Lessons in Vietnam

The logic of reviewer David Marquand as he seeks to propitiate, somehow, the gods of unreasoning brutality, is understandable . . . he has a living to make.

But one fails to understand the quavering voices of some onlookers who want to soften the description of the tributes to an unrelenting Caesar.

Americans proclaim themselves the best people on earth; the brightest, the most progressive, the most liberty-loving advocates of justice, equality, and fraternity . . . then they go to Vietnam and give lessons.

For my part they can stop now. Let them begin to behave like the human beings they claim to be and I am sure they and their admirers will get the applause they seem to crave.—E. Bailey, 728 Haliburton.

CBC "Trash"

Canada is supposed to be Christian, yet on every side I see more heathen attitudes and way of life than can be found in most parts of Africa.

What has stirred me to write is the programs presented by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. In recent days the CBC have placed on screen, the very type of life the laws of our country are trying to keep Canadians from.

The latest episode was seen on a program called Wojeck. It appeared Tuesday, February 27, at 9:30 p.m. This displayed an unmarried girl on a bed with two different men. All the girl was wearing were two small pieces of underclothing. How much more deplorable can the CBC become? I urge all respectable people to write to their member of Parliament, to call for a clean up around the CBC. We pay for this trash. Why should we have what is rapidly becoming the ruination of our country, produced at our expense?

The CBC is starving our youth of what they not only need, but are desperately searching for. Canadians need to know the true meaning of their name. They need to know what it is to be one of Christ's followers and to give this to the youth of today, not the demoralizing program the CBC is now producing.—Dan A. Chapman, Minister of Cobble Hill Baptist Church.

Too Tired

May I through the vehicle of these cool columns extend hearty condolences to a recent correspondent, describing herself as a "tired Canadian," who submitted an impressive list of grievances. Mayhap she was born already ancient. Should the latter be the case she may enjoy the quite unique experience of outliving the ennui through the rejuvenation of her ideas.

I would suggest to Patricia Young that before "or else," she make an effort to comprehend how very fortunate she is residing in Canada, rather than being a Vietnamese citizen gasping out her last breath because dear devout benign Uncle Sam decided on her behalf to burn her to death rather than permit her to suffer the indignity along with a billion or so other inhabitants of this globe of living out an expanding life within the framework of a communist economy. —P. Gibbens, 1205 Fernwood.

Three Cheers

Three cheers for Patricia Young . . . I've started to write a similar letter many times, but always gave up in disgust, or hadn't the courage to mail it.

It just takes one spark (like Patricia's) to ignite the fires of public indignation, that will eventually put this great country of ours back on a sensible pathway.

Sing out and march on, all ye Patricia Youngs! We need you. —Roy Bullough, 975 Brighton Crescent.

— And a Tiger

Three cheees for Patricia Young for putting into words so aptly the feelings of many fellow Canadians. Her letter was worthy of space on the front page of the Times.—L.G.

Clothes Maketh, Etc.

The Speaker has "lowered the boom" on the wearing of turtleneck sweaters in the Legislature by MLAs, and all of them must appear in conventional dress.

A newspaper article suggested that some informality should be permitted in the interest of greater comfort.

This overlooks the necessity for maintaining dignity (as far as possible) in such a body, and the fact that people tend to behave in accordance with how they are dressed. Proper decorum in law courts is enhanced by the formal attire of judges and others. Even boys react, mostly unconsciously, to being better dressed.

Surely the whole history of civilization shows that for the maintenance of appropriate conduct in serious affairs it is necessary to have rules, and that of these the ones concerning attire do much to bring about a desirable atmosphere.—R. Morris Wilson, 235 Cook.

Follow-up Care

I am only one parent of a child who is in desperate need of follow-up care and treatment following a mental illness.

Being a divorced, working mother I am unable to find the time to organize similar parents into a group so that some force would be behind this plea for assistance.

My daughter is 18 and has been through the Mental Health Clinic; has been to several psychiatrists; and has twice been in the Bay Pavilion following which she was released because that was as far as treatment could go. This left her half treated; back where she came from; where somehow she was expected to pick up her life and live it as a normal person.

Where is the final treatment centre? Where is the follow-up — a 'home' as I would prefer to call it, where these mental patients can be gradually brought to the stage where they can fit into the outside world and its daily problems?—Concerned mother.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THERE'S A NEW LITTLE KID IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD WHO HAS TO CARRY A BLANKET AROUND WITH HIM ALL THE TIME!"

Looking Back

From the Times, March 13, 1908.

Long Willie, the west coast Indian, was set at liberty this morning by Magistrate Jay. He was accused of having obtained from Capt. Heater of the sealing schooner Dora Steward, the sum of $10 by a "trick".

The charge against Long Willie was that he had taken $10 in advance on the understanding that he was to go on the Dora Steward as a hunter. Later he took an advance from the captain of another schooner.

Magistrate Jay found Long Willie not guilty.

Vietnam War Presents Danger Of Moral Collapse in the U.S.

By NORMAN COUSINS
Editor, Saturday Review

A home television set is more than a technological triumph in communications. It is a symbol of a comfortable way of life. People sit in easy chairs to watch it — most frequently after the evening meal.

It was in such a setting of security and prosperity that the American people saw the other evening a segment of the Vietnam war.

They saw people in a South Vietnam village being herded together by American soldiers and sent off in the direction of refugee camps, there to become part of a homeless band of more than 2,000,000.

They saw an old woman crying out and struggling to get back to her little hut, then carried off by force. Then they saw the village destroyed by U.S. fire bombs.

The news announcer said that this was only one of hundreds of villages being similarly bombed or set afire in order to deny targets to the Viet Cong. There is not much the Viet Cong can do with scorched earth, he explained.

America, 1968.

It is in the name of freedom that the United States has gone into Vietnam. And it is in the name of freedom, if freedom is to have any meaning, that the American people must denounce the massive and destructive blundering being carried out in their name.

The notion that the best way to save people from the terrors of the Viet Cong is to burn down their homes, uproot them, and send them off to refugee camps is the kind of logic that makes moral cripples of us all. Why not carry this incredible process to its weird conclusion and shoot down the Vietnamese themselves in order to keep them from becoming the victims of the Viet Cong?

Does anyone know — can anyone guess — how many new Viet Cong are created as the result of such policies? Is there any quicker way to make heroes out of the Viet Cong than to drop fire bombs on villages?

President Dwight D. Eisenhower once estimated that 80 per cent of the Vietnamese people would turn to Ho Chi Minh if a nationwide free election were held. Are we likely to win the Vietnamese by burning down their houses, defoliating their crops, and dislocating their families?

There is a tendency in some quarters to shy away from these facts and their implications by saying:

(1) War has always been messy; we shouldn't flinch from facing up to its grim necessities;

(2) We ought to be talking about the pervasive terror-and-assassination tactics of the Communists rather than about people who get hurt by us in the line of fire;

(3) The more we criticize and lament our own role in the war, the more encouraged Hanoi will be to think the United States will be forced by its own people to pick up and go home.

On the first argument: It is ghastly nonsense to say that anything goes in war. It is precisely at a time of sanctioned killing and devastation that it becomes critically important to make morally responsible decisions.

We commit lives to war and we take lives in war, but that does not mean that life should ever be held cheaply or that there are no moral obligations in war.

The problem here is not that we may be condemned by others but that we have to live with ourselves. If we accept policies calling for the bombing of villages, or the spraying of farmlands with poisonous chemicals, then it will be only a matter of time before the moral collapse represented by these acts becomes the standard for government at home.

Second: The fact that the Viet Cong have cut off heads and terrorized people is incontestable. Such being the case, we ought not involve ourselves in a competition of raw horror. We ought rather to seize every opportunity to provide the Vietnamese with a dramatically effective alternative. Increasingly, however, we have subordinated human values to military values and have thus lost support of many of the people we seek to save.

The way to deal with the Viet Cong is not to shoot into a crowd in the hope of killing a few of the enemy but to persuade people to turn to us rather than to the Viet Cong for social justice, liberation, and peace.

Here, however, the hard fact is that the far-reaching social and economic objectives promised by President Johnson at the Honolulu Conference last year have yet to be effectively pursued by the Saigon government. The one thing that might make a difference—land reform—is as remote now as it was five years ago.

On the third point: There is no doubt that Hanoi believes the American people will force their government to pull out of Vietnam. The way to cope with this danger is to pursue policies in Vietnam that the American people can support.

The Hanoi theory that the United States will at some point just go home is the same as the one held in certain Washington quarters about Hanoi.

Members of the American military who complain that dissension in the United States over the war is aiding the enemy should know that such dissension is a direct expression of what Americans have been taught best to do by their own history.

They have been taught to insist on straight answers and to refuse to be manipulated by men of powerful station who apparently have little understanding of the democratic process.

The Tonkin Gulf episode and the Pueblo incident indicate that there may be contempt rather than respect for the intelligence of the American people and for the Constitutional process of decision-making.

So long as this is so, what is most to be feared is not severe criticism of the war but its erosion under mindless and powerful pressure.

Lots of Talk, But is It Actually Communication?

By ART STOTT

Have you ever been a member of a discussion group in which one participant so monopolized the conversation that the dialogue became a monologue?

That's the point that was put across to me, ever so gently, during a weekend conference on education. It was done with infinite kindness, but it was done. "This is very interesting," a lady said, "but do you think we might have opinions or observations from those who have remained quiet so far?" Pat handles the problem more forcibly. "If you thought before you spoke," she says, "you wouldn't talk so much."

Stott

She and the lady at the conference are right, of course. But it's tough on a compulsive talker. I should know better. The lesson has been driven home to me since childhood, and I accept the truth of the statement, that the art of good conversation is achieved by those who have cultivated the ability to be good listeners.

No doubt most of us who suffer my affliction agree with that theme. They know that silver as speech may be, silence is golden. Knowing this, we persist in emulating the farmer in Tennyson's "Brook", babbling.

Reacting to the delicate reproof at the conference, I maintained a specially-sworn vow of silence for at least half an hour. In that time the group swung back to one of the problems studied by the conference—the lack of communication where it was needed.

The irony of it. Here I was ready to communicate and all they wanted me to do was shut up. By conforming to their wish I had the opportunity to turn the idea of communication over in my mind a time or two and, with a flash of enlightenment recognize the obvious. The obvious is that using the vehicle of communication—talk or the written word—isn't necessarily communication.

Communication starts with an idea or concept that should be thought through before it's articulated. I have a friend who disagrees. He says he has to state an idea before he can properly formulate it. When the words are out he then has a thesis. It causes him all sorts of trouble, he says, because he has then placed himself in a fixed position and has to defend what he has said.

Still, in most cases, a person has to know what he wants to say before he goes through the mechanics of expression. With a lot of us, the difficulty arises because we don't think through what we think we have to say or, in other cases, we just don't know what we're talking about.

Was it Gracie Allen or Mary Livingstone who gave the procedure classical form with her announcement that "People have more fun that anybody?"

But the problems of communication are not restricted to the difficulties which arise when those seeking to convey ideas to others suffer a sudden rush of words to the mouth without the preconditioning of thought. Sometimes the danger is the reverse: Somebody who has given a particular case a great deal of thought, who wants to serve a special interest and knows the mechanics of communication, creates the hazard.

The ingenuous listener is impressed by the plausibility of the argument, yields unconsciously to some of the gimmicks that are effective in influencing a relatively uncritical mind and accepts the presentation handed to him. As far as the thoughtful individual delivering the message is concerned, his communication has been successful. The same can scarcely be said for the responsive receiver of the message if he has failed to use adequate critical faculties in assessing it.

It is one thing for individuals involved in both ends of communication to seek an honest understanding of the idea one wishes to convey to the other. It's another when one has an axe to grind—and is probably quite honest in the grinding.

Years ago I used to listen in court to Stuart Henderson speaking for the defence in criminal cases. It was his job to get his client off. In the pursuit of that objective, he very properly used what powers of persuasion he possessed to influence the jury favorably. As one of his techniques he used to set up a possibility, try to convert it into a plausibility and eventually refine it into a probability. The skill of his communication technique was attested by the number of acquittals he won in murder defences.

Even when there is no ulterior intent, communication can become infinitely complex. I have an acquaintance high in public life. He has policy to establish and decisions not only to make but to justify. He does his homework, marshals his facts, given them logical sequence and delivers his case. He has a natural impatience for people who contradict him without doing the same amount of fact-gathering as he does or applying the same degree of logic as he applies to his conclusions. Therefore opposing critics, to him, are wrong. He is right. But in his case communication is a one-way street, not always acceptable to others who do not wish to travel it.

Just possibly he should consider the axiom which I disregard for other reasons. As in good conversation, so also in communication, success depends in part on the development of the good listener.

Three Principal Groups Contend Within Latin American Church

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

(This is the second of two articles by the Latin American correspondent for The Washington Post on the role of the Roman Catholic Church today in the southern half of the Western Hemisphere.)

In considering recent developments in the role of the Catholic Church in Latin America in recent years there is a general tendency to categorize the main church blocs within three principal groups: conservatives, radicals and progressives—although this is obviously an oversimplification.

In the forefront of the conservative camp stand such unabashed counter-revolutionaries as Brazil's Dom Jaime de Barros Camara and Colombia's Cardinal Concha —men who sincerely view such encyclicals as Pope Paul's Populorum Progressio as verging on heresy and who stubbornly resist the decrees of Ecumenical Council Vatican II. Even those who sympathize with their position, however, privately concede that they have lost the initiative and that time and the weight of papal authority are running against them.

Too Slow

Of greater concern to liberals are those bishops of more loosely conservative stamp such as Peru's Juan Cardinal Landazuri Ricketts and Argentina's recently retired primate, Antonio Cardinal Caggiano. Although they have bowed to the Vatican Council dictates and made certain gestures toward reform, they have done so at a pace that many younger clerics regard as too slow and half-hearted.

Says one observer: "They, and too many of our other bishops, are basically opportunists who blow with the wind. Right now, the prevailing winds are toward reform, so they're trying to adjust and go along. But their hearts aren't in it. If a reaction were to set in, they'd be right back on the conservative bandwagon."

At the opposite end of the spectrum are the radicals. Mostly, they are younger priests and nuns whose first-hand experience with the misery of the masses has convinced them that the church must join the vanguard of radical social reform movements.

Two Forms

In its mildest form, this radicalism has led priests to buck the established order by organizing unions and peasants' co-operatives, by leading strikes and by campaigning openly for leftist political candidates. At its most extreme, it has resulted in breaks with higher church authority and calls for the violent overthrow of the existing political, social and economic order.

Impetuous, idealistic and inclined to emotionalism, the radicals understandably have captured the fancy of the foreign press and reaped a vast harvest of publicity (more, in the opinion of some observers, than their actual influence and accomplishments rightly warrant). Still, they have played a big part in dramatizing the revolution within the church and peopling it with a whole pantheon of folk heroes.

These include Father Salomon Bolo Hidalgo, the Peruvian priest who addressed an impassioned appeal to Pope Paul after he was jailed in 1965 for supporting a Castroite guerrilla uprising in the Andes; Father Juan Zaffaroni, an Uruguayan who eulogized the late Che Guevara as "the revolutionary I idolize," and Panama's Father Carlos Perez Herrera, another Guevara admirer who has announced plans to run as an "anti-imperialist" candidate in the Panamanian congressional elections next May.

Rocked Order

The group's most celebrated recent recruits are the three Americans — Father Thomas Melville; his brother, Father Arthur Melville, and his wife, the former Sister Marian Peter — who rocked the Maryknoll Order in December by casting their lot with Guatemala's Communist guerrillas.

As one admirer of the trio puts it: "There are lots of priests who condemn the United States for supporting reactionary, oppressive systems down here. But how many of them have U.S. passports?"

The real idol of the radicals remains Camilo Torres. A member of one of Colombia's best-known upper-class families, this charismatic young man spent most of his career in the church as a sociologist trained at the University of Minnesota and the Belgian University of Louvain.

Toward the end of his short life (he was killed at the age of 38), he became actively involved in politics, advocating violent revolution if necessary to win social justice. This, in turn, led to his departure from the church, his enlistment with the guerrillas, his death in a skirmish with Colombian army troops on Feb. 15, 1966, and his burial in an unmarked grave.

Since then, his name has become a legend and rallying cry across the entire length of Latin America. To Catholic radicals, his confrontation with the aged Cardinal Concha symbolizes the struggle between progress and reaction within the church.

Castroites revere him as a martyr on the same heroic scale as Che Guevara. In an even broader context, an entire generation of young, politically informed Latin Americans sees him as the personification of selfless idealism.

In distinct contrast to Camilo Torres and his "way of arms" are the progressives — the most loosely knit and difficult to define of the major groups within the Latin theological struggle. These are the people to whom North American journalists and diplomats usually are referring when they talk about the development of a non-Communist Catholic left in Latin America.

The description is actually a misnomer since the term "left" in this context is more applicable to the radicals. Still, there are similarities between the two groups that make such confusions understandable.

Like the radicals, the progressives believe both in an accelerated reform of the church's internal doctrines and a ministry of the temporal that would enlist the church actively in the cause of social justice. And like the radicals, they believe that the achievement of such justice ultimately depends on profound changes in the existing political, social and economic structure of the region.

Parting Point

Where the two groups reach a parting is over the proper means of effecting these changes. The radicals, in their despair, generally come out thinking that the entire structure must be torn down violently and rebuilt from scratch. The progressives feel that reform can be brought about from within — that change is possible through evolutionary rather than revolutionary means.

Although there are many other theoretical differences between the two factions, their major practical disagreement involves their attitude toward Marxist groups. The radicals advocate co-operation with Marxist and other extremist groups committed to revolutionary change; the progressives are firmly anti-Communist on the grounds that Communist doctrine is in fundamental conflict with the eternal truths of the church.

Diversity

Yet, once one moves beyond these basic shared principles, it is possible to find a wide diversity of opinion sheltered under the progressive tent. Included here are the advocates of change through such Catholic-inspired political movements as Christian democracy, the scholars and theorists mapping position papers for the church of the future, the prelates of the more liberal national hierarchies and the dissenters from those countries dominated by a clergy of conservative cast.

If this polyglot assemblage can be said to have a leader, then it is probably Brazil's Dom Helder Camara. But he is not a leader in the sense of a general who lays down specific battle plans for his lieutenants to carry into the field. The problems of Latin America's myriad dioceses are too numerous for any one man to fill that type of role.

Close to Pope

Instead, Dom Helder holds his distinctive position among the progressives mainly by virtue of his pioneering courage, his eloquence and his well-known closeness to Pope Paul — all qualities that make him a figure around whom the progressives can rally on basic questions.

For despite their many disagreements, the progressives are united on the basics. They want, on the one hand, to pull the church out of the moribund state into which it fell under the conservatives and make it a viable, relevant force in the lives of the Latin American faithful.

On the other hand, they want to do this without falling into what they see as the error of the radicals — allowing a legitimate concern for temporal suffering to obscure and crowd out the church's basic theological mission.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Tax Proposals, Board Under Sharp Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — The government trotted out its proposed prices and wages review board for Commons inspection Tuesday only to have the opposition judge it unfit "and a complete hoax."

Prime Minister Pearson entered the debate on Finance Minister Sharp's latest tax bill —to levy a three-per-cent surtax on corporation and personal income taxes—to outline the new board's role.

The opposition heard him out, then responded with blistering criticism of the board and the tax proposals generally. The Commons was to continue with second-reading debate on the bill today.

Mr. Pearson said the proposed board would move quickly in an attempt to curb inflationary moves by business and labor.

The agency will:

—Analyse the nature and probable effect of "major decisions affecting prices, incomes and costs" and where necessary subject them to public review and criticism;

—Discuss price and cost problems with representatives of management, labor and consumers "in order to clarify the issues involved and insure that, before major decisions are reached, all concerned are aware of these issues and that the public interest is taken into account."

PLAN TALKS

The agency's precise terms of reference, Mr. Pearson said, will be determined after consultations with interested parties including the provincial governments, leading elements in the labor movement and industry and professional associations.

It was important the agency be established quickly and this could be done under the Enquiries Act.

"If—and when—in the light of experience, an agency with greater powers and authority is required, then government can submit legislation in Parliament for that purpose."

The prime minister did not say what teeth the proposed agency would have, he said.

Dave Lewis (NDP—York South) accused Mr. Pearson of "spending an awfully long time on a silly, elementary exposition of orthodox economic nonsense," then revealing something he did not define.

'MEANS NOTHING'

The prime minister's statement "literally means nothing at all and tell us nothing about what he will do about prices, wages, incomes or anything else."

Mr. Pearson said that an immediate step to deal with price stability in Canada will be creation of an ad hoc cabinet committee made up of ministers with responsibilities in such matters.

He had sent letters to all premiers expressing the government's concern about the problem "and our ideas as to how we should proceed to deal with it." Early federal-provincial meetings to discuss details of co-operation on the topic were proposed.

RETURNING as chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations is Jacob A. Malik. He held the job from 1948 to 1953 during the Stalin era and succeeds Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Snow, Not Spring, for East

MONTREAL (CP) — The heaviest snowfall of the winter swept into Montreal Tuesday night, dumping nearly 10 inches of snow on streets bared by recent spring-like temperatures.

Montrealers looking forward to an early spring awoke today to find major roads only passable and side streets clogged with drifting snow whipped by 20 mile-an-hour winds.

Planes and trains were running late schedules in most cases. Air Canada said its two Toronto-bound flights would be delayed as much as two hours and reported flights to and from the Maritimes were operating under "abnormal" conditions.

Both railways reported delays of more than an hour arrivals.

The weather office said the storm dumped the highest amount of snow on the city this winter.

The storm, which gave more than 12 inches to southern Ontario Tuesday, drifted eastward into the Maritimes today.

Hippies Agree To Follow Store Rules

Legal action will be taken against teen-agers if they refuse to behave like mature adults when congregating in the basement cafeteria of a downtown store.

The ultimatum was made at a meeting Tuesday by the management of the Bay.

Personnel and operations manager John Jellison and other store officials met for two hours with four teen-age leaders to make clear the stand to be taken by the department store.

"We laid out some rules and they agreed to abide by them," Mr. Jellison said.

Friction had been brewing over a period of time as teen-agers used The Bay's Olympic Room as "a place to 'hang out.'

Mr. Jellison said the store had been plagued by the juveniles milling about and lingering by the hour, annoying customers.

RULES

The new rules which will be put in writing and posted throughout the store, state:

- Lying on table tops, feet on tables, is out.
- Obscene language must stop immediately.
- Everybody who occupies a table must make a purchase, and no more than four persons may sit at a large table.
- The teen-aged hippies must use discretion in the length of time they take in the restaurant.

"We're not out to build up a crusade against hippies," Mr. Jellison said. "We just want to make our place a clean place.

"They now know that we are prepared to bring in the police and later take the case to court," if the rules are not followed.

STAGED SIT-IN

The showdown meeting came as a result of a major confrontation last Saturday when about 50 teen-agers were invited to leave the restaurant.

But they trooped up to the fourth floor and staged a sit-in alongside the executive offices. Their complaint was "discrimination."

Mr. Jellison said Tuesday's meeting turned out to be "a pretty good session."

Colin Constant, leader of the young people, said, "Probably everyone is happy with The Bay. All that remains to be settled is police intolerance, harrassment and discrimination."

CONFERRING in Ottawa today with Consumer Affairs Minister Turner is Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon, chairman of the royal commission on consumer problems and inflation in the three prairie provinces. She is expected to ask for an immediate probe of the profit records of at least two western companies. Judge Batten presented the commission report to members of the department.

Air Force Resumes Search

The search for Vernon flyer Jerry Brock and three others has been resumed today, the Air Search and Rescue unit at CFB Comox reported.

The search for Mr. Brock, his wife, their son Tim and Jim McClusky, both 14, was halted Tuesday due to bad weather.

A spokesman for the rescue centre at Comox said "although the weather isn't what we wanted, we've got planes in the air.

"There is a lot of cloud over the mainland, but the Nanaimo area is fairly clear."

In the air are two Albatross aircraft and a helicopter. A third Albatross is being considered for the search.

Search officials said "we will continue searching until we feel we've done everything we can to locate these people."

Earlier, on March 5, a suspected sighting on the side of Mount Arrowsmith near Cameron Lake turned out to be a snowbank.

Tank Lights Spark Climb By Searchers

NANAIMO (CP) — Headlights of a military tank were mistaken Tuesday for a missing light aircraft and prompted searchers to make a fruitless climb up the side of mountain 23 miles west of here.

A logging company employee spotted a light at the 3,500-foot level of Mount Moriarty but searchers found it was a tank taking part in a Canadian Armed Forces training exercise.

The search resumed today for the float-equipped, single-engined Cessna, missing since March 1 on a flight from Vernon to Port Alberni.

300 to Compete In March 22-24 Bridge Tourney

About 300 players are expected to compete in the annual Duplicate Bridge tournament held by the Victoria unit of the American contract Bridge League March 22-24.

One third will be from Oregon, Washington, the mainland and up-land points.

The tournament will take place in the Empress Hotel with games starting at 1:30 and 8 p.m.

Vancouver Island championships will be decided in the Men's Pair, Women's Pairs, Mixed Pairs and Teams of Four.

SWEDISH SOCIALIST URGES JUSTICE FOR ALL UNDERPRIVILEGED

Negro-Only Program Will Create Resentment

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A better life for Negroes will not come about if national programs are directed only toward the Negro, Swedish socialist Gunar Myrdal said Tuesday night.

"Every advantage given to Negroes helps to create resentment in other underprivileged groups," Myrdal said.

Therefore, he said, all the groups, including "poor whites," in the "submerged underclass" must work together in pressing for justice.

Negro housing cannot be improved unless it is a general policy for all, Myrdal said. Schooling must be improved for all. In the labor market "there is little chance of accomplishing much as long as there is unemployment among whites."

Myrdal stressed in his speech at the University of Hartford that the Negro problem "cannot be solved except in the frame of solving the poverty problem."

This he acknowledged, makes the problem three times as big. He also commented that "Negro nationalism must be a blind alley." Black Power, he said, is no solution.

WAR CAUSES UNREST

Much of American racial unrest is caused by the Vietnam war, he said.

The war, he said, takes away money that might be spent domestically "and lowers morals."

"It breeds moral cynicism. You see in pictures how people are being killed, real people being shot and killed and maimed."

"I am not hopeless about America," he said, however. "I am not speaking in anger, but with anxiety and sorrow."

LAKE REACHES PAR

Russia's Lake Baikal is a mile deep in the middle and is larger than Belgium in area.

Coroners To Meet

The annual conference of B.C. coroners will be held in Trail, May 27, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced Tuesday.

The coroner's conference will be followed in Trail by the annual conference of B.C. magistrates, to be held May 28, 29 and 30, Mr. Bonner said.

Why Can't You Control Your Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name and address to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-213, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

Transportation Scrutiny Set

By AR KENT
Business Editor

The role of transportation in the future of Vancouver Island will come under close scrutiny when delegates to the 1968 meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce gather in Powell River this week.

Kent

First of all it should be pointed out that Powell River, a mainland community lying some 70 miles up-coast from Vancouver, itself falls victim to transportation and communication inadequacies, being dependent on circuitous, unpaved roads and two ferry connections to West Vancouver.

The paper mill community therefore feels closer to Vancouver Island than the lower mainland and its business community maintains membership in the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island. (Comox is just one ferry trip away.)

The ACCVI was one of the groups that protested withdrawal of the Queen of Prince Rupert ferry last year, partly on the basis that it formed a highway link with Central B.C. and stimulated traffic along the Island Highway.

With problems of limited access and remoteness to overcome, communities of upper Vancouver Island especially are sensitive to interruptions in transportation such as the Queen of Prince Rupert grounding.

To deal with coastal transportation problems, the conference will present a panel of speakers, including ACCVI past-president Pat Frumento, of Victoria, and Gerald Furney, a Port McNiell campaigner for better existing roads and new access on the northern end of the island.

Mr. Frumento, local representative of Black Ball Transport, proposes to look ahead to super-ferries now coming into use in Europe.

Some of these are triple-deck ships capable of carrying 400 automobiles per trip.

He suggests that as mass transportation develops, fewer and fewer frills will find their way into the systems as concern concentrates on getting as quickly and cheaply as possible from point A to point B.

Moderating the discussion will be University of B.C. Prof. William Hardwicke.

Also taking part in the two-day program will be Canadian Chamber of Commerce president William Anderson, of Vancouver, and provincial minister without portfolio Isabel Dawson, whose home is Powell River.

Delegates from Victoria Chamber of Commerce will include manager Earl Dicknoether, Hector Alexander and ACCVI president Stan Britt.

Chamber president William Armstrong, Mr. Dicknoether and director Newton Cameron will study the format of an important regional conference to be held in Eugene, Ore., next month.

They have high motives in their mission to the 1968 Pacific Northwest Trade Association spring conference, April 21-23; the 1969 PNTA meeting will be held in Victoria.

This is the first year the Victoria chamber has been a member of the association, but under Mr. Armstrong it is anxious to make a contribution to the concept of regional trade.

Referring to PNTA, Mr. Dicknoether said:

"They seem to be the only organization interested in trade on a regional basis. And this becomes more important with development of the Pacific rim trading community."

General theme of the conference will be forest resources, and one of the speakers will be B.C. Minister of Recreation and Conservation Kenneth Kiernan. Others include Ed. Cliff, chief of the U.S. forest service, Washington, D.C., and executive vice-president Otis Hallin, of Crown Zellerbach Corp., San Francisco.

Luncheon speaker April 23 will be Wayne L. Morse, senior Oregon Democratic senator.

Brenda Mines Ltd. said Tuesday it plans to bring its Okanagan copper-molybdenum property into production in late 1969. Earlier a mid-year start-up was forecast.

Of the estimated $60 million capital cost, Noranda Mines will put up $27.5 million and will hold about 50 per cent of the common shares.

Nippon Mining Co. will have around 9 per cent and will put up about $7.5 million of the capital.

Bank of Nova Scotia will provide loans of $25 million for the balance of capital requirements.

Plans call for a 24,000-ton-per-day open pit mining operation to recover higher grade ore for about three years and large low-grade deposits of copper and molybdenum for the balance of its lifetime.

A total of 4.19 million shares are authorized, of which the financing-management group will own about 3.2 million, leaving no more than 1 million shares free.

'Canada Must Taper Off Cost-Price Increases'

OTTAWA (CP) — The governor of the Bank of Canada expressed some satisfaction Tuesday about Canada's adjustment from the 1961-66 economic boom, but he repeated his warning that the country must make a better attack on inflationary pressures.

Louis Rasminsky said in his annual report there are a few hopeful signs the country is beginning to arrest the price increases that marked the economy last year.

Yet wages and salaries continue to increase at "very high rates," frustrating a return to price stability and a "more vigorous rate of expansion of the economy on a non-inflationary basis."

In phrases echoing those of Finance Minister Sharp, the central bank governor said direct fiscal and monetary policies will not be enough to meet the problem of excessive price increases.

He urged governments to press powerful groups in the economy to restrain their demands for increased incomes.

It appeared to be another call for the kind of wage-price guidelines promised by coincidence Tuesday in a speech Prime Minister Pearson delivered to the Commons about an hour after Mr. Rasminsky's report was formally tabled in the House.

Mr. Pearson outlined the program that a government wage-price review agency will follow in submitting major decisions of business and labor to analysis and public discussion.

The Rasminsky report offered reassurance that price increases have been lower during the 1960s in Canada than in other major industrial countries with the exception of the United States.

But Canada must do better. It is a matter of "greatest importance" to taper off the increases in costs and prices.

Major wage settlements in 1967 continued to provide for annual increases of at least eight per cent—far ahead of gains in output, and therefore inflationary.

Happily, said the report, other countries also face inflation and Canada has not lost its competitive position in world trade.

In fact, there was an extraordinary improvement last year in the deficit on current transaction with other countries. The current-account deficit as announced last week dropped to $425,000,000 from $1,140,000,000 in 1966.

The report said the deficit represented only two per cent of the total output of goods and services in the economy, compared with about 4½ per cent when conditions were similar in the mid-1950s.

But unless inflation subsides, Canada faces the prospect of pricing itself out of world markets. A better attack on inflation could protect or improve Canada's competitive position, said the report.

Sun Reports $1,906,741 Net Income

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sun Publishing Company Ltd. had a net income of $1,906,741 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1967, it was reported Tuesday.

C. B. Delbridge, Sun chairman, said Sun Publishing's fiscal year was changed to Dec. 31 from Aug. 31, so comparable figures with the previous 12-month periods are not available. In the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1966, the company had net earnings of $667,483.

Included in the 1967 net income was $934,428 which represents the company's share of undistributed income from Pacific Press Ltd.

Sun Publishing holds a 50 per cent interest in Pacific Press which prints the Sun and the Vancouver Province.

The annual report said the Sun's daily circulation for December was about 250,000, an increase of 1.2 per cent over the similar period in 1966.

Advertising lineage was down slightly but revenues were 6.4 per cent ahead of one year ago because of rate changes, the report added.

TRADE DEFICIT DOUBLED IN BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters) — The British trade deficit doubled to £700,000,000 ($182,000,000) last month, it was announced today.

The January deficit was £35,000,000.

Exports fell by £3,000,000 to £515,000,000. Imports jumped £38,000,000 to a record £655,000,000.

The £70,000,000 deficit took account of invisible exports, such as shipping and insurance earnings, the Board of Trade said in a monthly announcement.

The board said the figures reflected initial effects of devaluation of the pound Nov. 18, which were mainly adverse to Britain's trade balance.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted today at $1.08⅜ for cheques, $1.08¼ for notes and $1.06¼ for silver. Sales were $1.09¼ for cheques and $1.09¼ for notes.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was up 1/32 at $1.08⅝. Pound sterling was down 3/16 at $2.60.

NEW YORK—The Canadian dollar was unchanged at 92 5/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 9/64 at $2.39 21/64.

EPAIR WORK UNPREDICTABLE

Shipbuilding Future 'Bleak'

By ROGER STONEBANKS

"Bloody bleak."

In plain language, that is how Yarrows general manager John Wallace sums up the west coast shipbuilding outlook.

In the last two months, Victoria Machinery Depot shipyard has closed down and the federal government has slashed defence and other marine work.

With hundreds of skilled men laid off, at least seven American companies — from as far east as Baltimore and as far south as Mississippi as well as San Diego, San Francisco and Seattle—Have either advertised or sent recruiters to British Columbia for workers. Nearly 300 men have gone from Victoria.

Mr. Wallace says west coast shipbuilders have been "ignored completely in Ottawa" and all they want is a fair share and reasonable opportunity.

He makes these points, in an interview and in the company publication Yarrows Review:

- The federal government's austerity program knocked out all defence and other marine work previously-scheduled for the west coast;
- Ship repair work has become dominant, but it is unpredictable and by its nature won't keep skilled men around;
- In terminal ports such as Vancouver, ship repair is essential but it has to be sustained by new construction to provide a nucleus work force to draw on for "spasmodic" ship repairs.

Yarrows is building a $2.5 million fisheries research ship, due for completion in June or July, but peak employment on this vessel is only 120.

He said that recruiters from American and eastern Canadian companies have met with some success in Victoria and Vancouver.

"And we should be thankful that those unemployed by ourselves are at least having the task of relocating made easier and with some choice in that their skills are being actively sought by others.

"Both the unions and ourselves are very much aware that such inroads into the available manpower with shipyard skills will directly affect us for the future.

"The lack of new construction shipbuilding and insecurity created by the hire-layoff procedures of ship repair work destroys any thought of job security in the industry and makes the task of training future shipyard workers extremely difficult.

FASHION '68

Mini or maxi? Clinging vine look or gangster's-moll? It's the year of glorious choice, according to Doyle Klyn, our Weekend Magazine Women's Editor, as she and Patricia Welbourn preview the new fashion trends in a special eleven-page color section. Included in this Weekend special are exclusive sketches from two of Canada's top designers.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

For a start today, here is a letter from Pascagoula, Miss., where former Victoria Machinery Depot boilermaker William Lyons and his family are shaping a new life.

"I've been hearing so much about the griping and complaining regarding the 'Mississippi Move' that I just have to speak out," Mrs. Lyons writes.

"I was born in Victoria, and I had never lived anywhere else. I left my Mum and Dad and all my relatives and friends when we moved. We sold our house and furniture. But when I speak of Victoria, I cannot say 'home,' because home is where my husband and three children are.

"Certainly the way of life is a bit different here, but then again, we're not cut off from civilization, either. My husband is doing one of the dirtiest jobs in the yard, but the men did similar jobs in Victoria without complaint. Working and living here, we know that we'll not have to go on welfare. In Victoria, that was questionable.

"Most of us have only been here a month, and I don't think that's long enough to judge. But we have not been treated any differently than a newcomer to Victoria would be. Also, we did not expect a royal reception just because we are Canadian."

Mrs. Lyons finds the Negro's situation "ugly" in her adopted town, but does not see it as basically different from the Canadian Indian's.

"I look on this move as a good opportunity to see different parts of a country both scenic and historic," she concludes.

A stout-hearted letter, and I learn from union sources that a good many like it are being received from ex-Victorians whom the VMD closure forced to up-stakes and head south.

On Tuesday I told you about a Montrealer who, though she likes our city, would sooner fight than switch. Not all who come visiting from the Eastern townships are so stubborn, however, and I am glad to report that B.C. has wooed and won two keen and skilful anglers from Ontario.

They are Ed and Mair Wiskin, a couple who came here in the course of a trailer honeymoon from Ottawa two summers ago, and as many another has done before them, got hooked.

When I last mentioned this pair, their trailer was grounded under Goldstream Park's dripping fir trees, and they were stubbornly waiting the return of spring.

The elastic honeymoon extended yet another summer. Not until the salmon were into their autumn spawning run did Mair and Ed set off for an Ottawa neglected, except for a couple of look-ins by plane, for about two years.

But they didn't stay.

Ed, a builder, has set up shop in West Vancouver, and on clear days, he and Mair look wistfully across toward their promised land. A few years in West Van, they assure us, then they'll be over here, not just for vacations, but for keeps.

North at Campbell River, where celebrating tame apes once washed the bark-dust from their throats with overproof Demarara, I sat down last week to a well-mixed martini.

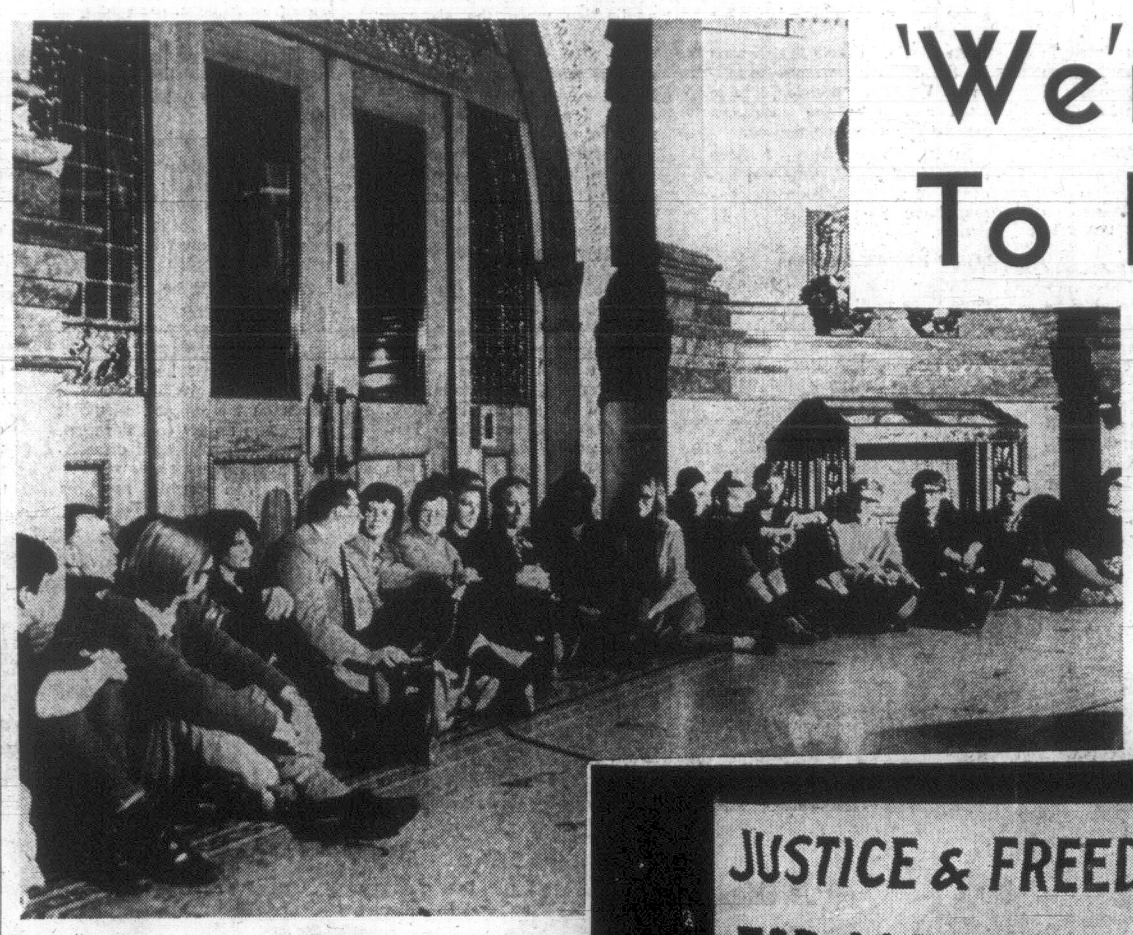
Then, after nibbling a couple of dainty hors d'oeuvres, up by elevator to a Driftwood Inn room that included among its furnishings a bed vibrator.

This device, if you've never encountered one, is supposed to rest the restless, and lull the insomniac into blissful sleep. Even though no lulling was needed, I dropped a quarter into the neat little control box.

Then, while the vibrator got in its licks, I fell to remembering the Campbell River we knew before its boosters began referring to it as a city. There was a government wharf, a general store, the Willows Hotel (a fire razed it), and damn-little else.

"This town has a real future," the old man who sat in the sun on the landing used to assure us in pre-vibrator days. We smiled then. But . . . between drowsily-chattering teeth . . . it seems he was right after all.

'We're Going Back To House Tonight'



NEARING THE END of their first sit-in at 4:30 this morning, mothers of Victoria Low Income Group had plenty of support form other more fortunate mothers and university students. The weary group left the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings at 5:30 vowing to return tonight.

Sit-In Mothers Stay All Night

By PETE LOUDON

"We called their bluff and they didn't throw us out. We'll go home."

With those words Reg Clarkson, parade marshal of the first sit-in ever held in the B.C. Legislative Buildings, dismissed his troops at 5:30 this morning.

With that, 26 members of Victoria Low Income Group and supporters, got up from the floor of the rotunda where they had sat unchallenged for more than two hours.

"We've got to come back tonight so we've got to preserve ourselves," said Mr. Clarkson.

If there was chagrin at the fact their protest against welfare rates was unrecognized by the government officially, it was hidden.

Everyone who sat through the long night was satisfied the government was fully aware of the protest and that accounted for the late, late session.

They felt they had outsat the Premier. And they planned to be back at the legislative chambers before 6 tonight.

The demonstration had started 10 hours earlier. Mothers of the Low Income Group had arranged baby-sitters and turned out at First United Church prepared to risk arrest in a civil disobedience aimed at winning government consent to an unbiased arbitration board to consider higher welfare rates.

TWO CLERICS

Backing them and swelling their numbers to 75, were a group of sympathetic mothers who were not on welfare, a group of University of Victoria students and two clergymen, Rev. A. G. MacLeod of St. Aidans and a missionary just returned from Africa, Fred Anderson.

The group sat in a circle while Mr. Clarkson laid down

UP TO COUNCIL

New Pool By Summer Of Next Year?

Victoria should have a new swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden by the summer of 1969.

The city's recreation and community services committee went on record this morning as favoring the phasing out of the old Garden and the building of a new public swimming complex.

The committee's decision will now go to city council as a strong recommendation.

The committee made its decision after receiving a special committee report on the pool.

It will recommend that:

- The Crystal be discontinued as a community swimming pool and phased out of operation in as short a time as possible.
- That a new pool be constructed in the general area of Central Park, Royal Athletic Park and the Memorial Arena.
- That the committee immediately start detailed site studies for further recommendation to council.
- That the committee commence immediate studies on the most desirable pool design.
- And that land acquisition for the new pool be paid for with money borrowed from the McPherson Estate fund now standing at $1.2 million.

$650,000 TOTAL

Total cost of the new pool, including land acquisition, was estimated at $650,000.

Cost of the pool itself has been estimated at between $350,000 and $500,000.

Of the recommendations brought in by the study committee only one was tabled.

That was the suggestion the Crystal be demolished and the site disposed of at a price compatible with its highest and best land use.

It was suggested the disposition of the site be tabled until greater progress has been made on the construction of a new pool and until a final decision is made on the location of a proposed convention centre for the city.

The committee was informed that just keeping the Crystal operative for the next three years would cost $105,000 and to bring it up to reasonable standards would cost nearly $600,000.

No target date was set for the completion of the new pool but city manager Dennis Young said if an immediate start is made it could be ready in a minimum of 18 months with two years a more likely period.

"Construction, based on local experience, starting in the early fall of this year could see a new pool ready for use in the summer of 1969," Mr. Young said.

Argus Replaces Comox Neptunes

Bigger Sub-Hunters Coming West In June From Eastern Squadrons

The Neptune submarine-hunting aircraft based at Comox will be phased out of service by the end of June, department officials disclosed today.

The eight twin-engined Neptunes will be replaced by six of the larger four-engined Argus aircraft gleaned from other squadrons across Canada.

Twelve Neptunes in service on Canada's east coast will also be taken out of service.

$8 MILLION

The move is expected to save annually in personnel, maintenance and operating costs.

There are now three Argus squadrons in the east with eight aircraft each. They will be reduced to six each, the remainder coming to Comox.

MORE RANGE

Defence officials said because of the greater range of the Argus, replacing eight Neptunes with six Argus will increase the Comox-based squadron's operational capabilities.

The American-built Neptune carries a crew of 10 and replaced the Second World War Lancasters in 1957.

The Canadian-built Argus carries a crew of 15 and first went into service with the then Royal Canadian Air Force in 1958.

The switch to the larger aircraft is expected to result in a slight increase in the number of personnel attached to the maritime command squadron of CFB Comox.

Water Board Merger Urged On Peninsula

Establishment of a new water district to cope with the needs of the northern end of the Saanich peninsula was advocated today by Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee.

The peninsula has four water districts — Central Saanich, Brentwood, Deep Cove and Sidney — all acting independently.

The merged district would plan for the extension of existing facilities in the three municipalities, the reeve said.

"Apart from the need for more water, we will soon face high costs for improving our present waterworks system," the reeve said. "We have to get down to business."

The reeve's suggestion is expected to be discussed by representatives of the four boards in April.

One of the most pressing problems is the renewal of the existing 12-inch pipeline from Elk Lake which serves a large part of Central Saanich, Deep Cove in North Saanich and Sidney.

Crump In Town Recuperating

Norris Crump, chairman of Canadian Pacific Railway Co., is having a brief "no interviews" holiday at the Empress Hotel until Thursday morning.

He caught influenza on a trip to Calgary and is taking it easy to recuperate, a spokesman said.

En route to Montreal Mr. Crump is expected to visit CPR managers informally at Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Quick Decision Asked to Solve High Tide Sewer Woes at Sidney

A malfunction in the main Sidney sewerage outfall is creating a serious pollution problem.

The "urgent problem" caused when a high tide and wind combine to back sewage up into the main disposal line is at present under study by the Regional District sewage and waste disposal committee.

Tuesday the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health decided to ask the regional board for a quick decision on the matter.

Sidney's main sewer system was constructed in 1945 and the main Ocean Avenue outfall, some 700 feet long, was completed in 1966.

At low or medium tide on a calm day it works fine.

CAN'T USE TOILETS

But when the tide is high and the breeze a little higher than average homeowners on Ocean Avenue can't use toilets, baths or even drain the kitchen sink.

The sewage is untreated.

A consulting engineer familiar with the Sindey problem said this morning that while the immediate problem lay with the outfall the main problem lay within the municipal boundaries of the town.

"The problem starts with the fact that there are no true records of just what they have below ground," he said. "What they have to do out there first of all is spend a few thousand dollars on a survey to find out what they have got, what levels existing lines are at and just what goes into them.

"Once they have that information they can find out just what they have to do."

$140,000

Cost of the extension, based on 1965 construction costs, was set at $140,000. The cost of the outfall extension, because it ties in with the main trunk and outfall program, would be shared with other municipalities using the main trunks and the outfall.

While calling on the regional district for a fast answer the metro health board decided to commence immediately its "polluted water" sign posting project.

Other signs will be posted at the following locations:

Foot of St. Lawrence Street (Dallas Road) small beach; foot of Howe Street (Dallas Road) beach; Clover Point, east and west sides (2 signs); Dallas Road ramp, east of Bushby Street Ross Bay; foot of St. Charles Street, Ross Bay; all ramps and steps leading to Ross Bay and Clover Point to be stencilled on the walkway; foot of Crescent Road (Oak Bay) small sewer outfall; Twin Beaches opposite 586 Beach Drive; Golf Links Beaches, foot of Newport Avenue, posted, recommended 2 additional signs required one on each small beach; Beach Drive, foot of Broom Road (2 signs); Beach Drive, foot of Humber Road, near steps to small beach—small septic tank outfall; Ten Mile Point side of Cadboro Bay Beach; Finnerty Cove at Solarium; Shoreline School (Christie Point) 2 locations; corner Admirals and Craigflower Road; Craigflower Park Bridge; Kinsmen Beach, outside waters; Tillicum Park, Gorge Bridge; Admirals Road and Colquitz Creek; parking lot, No. 1 Highway, signs both ends; Craigflower Creek Estuary at Helmcken Road; Banfield Park, Victoria West.

'They'd Sooner Look At Gorge Than Swim'

"Far more" people want to drive by the Gorge and enjoy the view than want to swim in it, Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

He made the comment in defending Saanich support for a Capital Improvement District Commission shoreline beautification project near Craigflower Bridge paid for by provincial money.

He said the reason CIDC accepted the project in the first place was that it is a start on the "total rehabilitation" of the waterway, both in that water and on the shore, and it is within reasonable and attainable economic limits compared with some million-dollar schemes.

To date, $86,000 has been spent plus $105,000 for underground wiring. Second stage costing $65,000 was delayed because of a postponment in allocation of provincial money.

Earlier, Gorge resident Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, called the shoreline project beautiful "and the kind of thing we really need, but it doesn't change the state of polluted water.

"It's something like going to town in a beautiful fur coat and dirty underwear. Some people might do it but I wouldn't."

'REAL PROGRESS'

Reeve Curtis said concern over swimming has to be tempered with "real progress" through the regional sewerage plan, the Saanich study of Portage Inlet and Gorge area undertaken with professional help from the University and the shoreline project.

"I don't think government should refuse to move ahead on shoreline beautification just because it isn't able at the moment to finance the total environmental rehabilitation of the waterway," he said.

"I don't believe that residents of the Gorge area are really aware of the man hours and detailed thinking now under way towards saving this waterway.

"Their criticisms over the years have been justified and they have spurred on this municipality at least to taking a complete look at the problem."

'OBEY THE LAW, DO ALL YOU CAN TO CHANGE IT' SAYS MAGISTRATE

By DON VIPOND

Victoria's senior magistrate was challenged Tuesday on the jail terms he has been handing convicted marijuana users.

"I know this question concerns young people very deeply," Magistrate William Ostler told a meeting of the Pre-Law Society at the University of Victoria.

He had been invited to deliver a noon-hour talk on the functions of the magistrate's office. But he devoted most of his hour-long stay to answering questions, the majority dealing with drug laws. About two dozen students were present.

Questioners challenged the justice in similar jail terms for convicted muggers and those caught with marijuana, the deterrent value of jail for "pot" smokers and what they should do about laws they think are unjust.

The Court of Appeal has directed that suspended sentences are generally inappropriate in marijuana possession convictions, said the magistrate. He and other magistrates must follow directions from a higher court.

"The court of appeal is trying to say the only thing we can do is provide a deterrent. Narcotics, even marijuana, are considered such a social evil, the deterrent is given predominance."

He said that if students could see some of the probation reports he deals with showing drug progression from marijuana to LSD and others they might feel differently.

He cited the case of a youth who took a drug without knowing what it was, was arrested, and 12 hours later in court was "still hallucinating badly."

"Perhaps there is a tenable argument that marijuana taken by a mature person will do no harm."

But the law is concerned with irresponsible use of drugs and alcohol and for this reason there are some people who are forbidden alcohol because they have proved not responsible.

Magistrate Ostler said there might be a "compelling argument" in not having marijuana under the Narcotics Control Act "but this has nothing to do with magistrates."

"How do you see our duty if we feel a law is unjust?" asked one student.

Their duty was clearly to obey the law first "and then do all you can to get it changed."

"It may be that when your generation is in charge," said the magistrate, "you may see some difficulties you don't see now."

There isn't anything that can't be changed, he said.

"And it's up to you to do it.

"But don't let your frustration bring you into folly."

On another topic, one student asked him why persons responsible in a fatal accident are sometimes charged simply with careless driving and receive light fines when convicted.

It was important to examine the circumstances of such cases carefully, replied the magistrate.

A person can be killed but the degree of negligence might have been minimal.

Ask The Times

Q. What are the nationalities of Ed Sullivan and Dean Martin? M.E.

A. Both are Americans. Edward Vincent Sullivan, newspaper columnist and television emcee, was born in the borough of Manhattan, city of New York, Sept. 28, 1902. Dean Martin was born in Steubenville, Ohio, of Italian parents June 17, 1917.

Q. Do you have any statistics for 1966 or 1967 as to how many deaths in Canada were attributable to smoking in bed? J.T.P.

A. The most recent figures available are for 1965. In that year 32 deaths were attributed to fires caused by smoking in bed.

MUST COME UP WITH $2,000,000 SAYS OAKLAND SECRETARY

CHARLEY O. JOINS BIDDING FOR FRANCHISE

'Got Gun the Size of Cannon Pointed at Our Heads'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For a team that can't win hockey games, can't draw fans, is reported in debt up to $700,000 and is being sued for $100,000, Oakland Seals are mighty popular.

The extent of interest in the National Hockey League club became clear Tuesday when at least two, and possibly three groups, expressed a desire to purchase the club.

A spokesman for Labatt Breweries announced Tuesday negotiations for purchase and transfer of the franchise to Vancouver are in progress.

A second group is headed by Calgary millionaire sportsman Max Bell and Vancouver industrialist Frank McMahon, is reported to be negotiating with Frank Tatum, secretary and director of the Seals.

The third interested party is Charles O. Finley, owner of Oakland Athletics of the American League. The baseball magnate, also dickering with Tatum, said Tuesday his main concern is to keep the Seals in Oakland.

Tatum said Tuesday that Labatt's would assume control of the Seals in exchange for paying off the club's debt to the NHL.

"Labatt's will provide us with funds to meet our commitment on the date it is due, May 15. We owe the league several hundred thousand dollars, but not nearly as much as the published figure of $700,000."

He also said the Labatt's offer is completely contingent on the franchise being moved to Vancouver.

"Labatt's have let us know in spades that the brewery is in no way interested in operating a hockey club in northern California. They want control and operation to repose in Canada."

Sale or transfer of a franchise requires approval of nine of the other 11 NHL clubs. Indications are that this could be tough to obtain.

A meeting of NHL governors is set for March 19, at which time a vote would probably be taken should the negotiations have been completed successfully by one of the competing groups.

In Montreal Tuesday, NHL president Clarence Campbell said he had no first-hand knowledge of the reported negotiations, but that he has known for some time "something is in the works."

The Seals, in their first season in the NHL's six-team expansion Western division, have been a flop at the gate and fared even worse on the ice.

In 32 home games, they've drawn just 182,732 fans—an average of about 5,400 a game—and have won just 15 of 67 games.

MUST REPAY $700,000

Earlier this year Campbell gave them until May 15 to clear what he said were $700,000 in commitments to the league. Former manager Rudy Pilous is suing the Seals for $100,000 he claims is owed him for breaching a three-year contract.

Vancouver has been bidding for an NHL franchise for some time, losing out in their original application when the six new league teams were formed, and early this year moving back into the thick of speculation following a visit to Vancouver by Barry Van Gerbig, 29-year-old principal owner of the Seals.

Bell and McMahon are among 14 owners of Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, which would be replaced should the Seals move to Vancouver. But other Canucks officials say the bid is in no way a move by the group to obtain the franchise.

"This is news to me," Bell, who is vacationing in California, said of a report that he is heading a Canadian group to buy the club and move it to Vancouver. "But I am interested that Vancouver get big-league hockey.

"If somebody is going to bring in big-league hockey, I'm all for it, whether it's Labatt or whomever. I think Vancouver is a big-league town and they're entitled to a National Hockey League club as quickly as possible."

SEATING FOR 15,000

If the franchise is shifted, Vancouver is ready with a new 15,000-seat $6,000,000 arena built by the Pacific National Exhibition and now used by the Canucks.

Campbell said he was aware of some resistance to the switch in the franchise from Oakland. He refused to elaborate.

Although most league governors said they would keep open minds on the subject, should it ever come up for consideration, at least two expressed dissatisfaction with the possible move.

After Van Gerbig and his group bought out San Francisco Seals of the WHL from George Fleharty and Shasta Corp., then paid the NHL $2,000,000 for the expansion franchise, their troubles started.

The team first was called California Seals, but because the arena was in Oakland and San Franciscans didn't support the team, the name was changed to Oakland Seals in a bid for fan identification.

Now Tatum says the owners have a $5,000,000 investment in the club.

"If we don't pay the NHL by the termination date, they can take back the franchise and we go down the tube.

"We've got a gun the size of a cannon pointed at our heads and the only way we can solve it is to come up with at least $2,000,000."

FROM LEAFS . . . . . . AND KINGS

Opposition to Move

TORONTO (CP) — Chances of Oakland's National Hockey League franchise moving to Vancouver took a decided dip Tuesday night when Toronto Maple Leafs executives joined the opposition.

Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday in Vancouver that they were negotiating takeover of the tottering franchise and shifting it to Vancouver.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Kings, said he was opposed to the move and Sidney Solomon III of St. Louis Blues said he would go along with whatever the league decided although "I'd like to see the team stay where it is."

"I don't want to see hockey used by beer or whisky people.

"I don't think the game should be used to promote either beverage, and the only reason Labatt's is interested in a hockey franchise in Vancouver is to peddle their product."

Cellar Finish Looming For Floundering Wings

PETE STEMKOWSKI
. . . Detroit scorer

By The Canadian Press

The propect of finishing last in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division loomed desparingly closer for Detroit Red Wings.

Only once before in 32 years have the Wings finished last and Tuesday night's 2-2 tie with Los Angeles Kings left them on the brink of elimination from this year's division playoffs.

Wings have just nine games left in the 74-game schedule and trail fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks by 18 points. Their only hope of escaping the cellar is to overtake Toronto Maple Leafs, whom they trail by six points.

The Leafs have a game in hand on the floundering Wings and they haven't finished last since 1958, the year before the Wings gained that dubious honor.

Toronto, however, appears headed out of the playoff picture for the first time since that 1958 tumble, the year before Punch Imlach became general manager-coach.

Detroit's Gordie Howe scored No. 33 of the season Tuesday while Peter Stemkowski got the other Wing goal. Doug Robinson opened scoring in the game for Los Angeles and Ed Joyal, the Kings' leading scorer with 22 goals, tied it in the third period.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

A heavy schedule is planned for tonight with Toronto at St. Louis against the Blues, Boston Bruins in New York to play the Rangers, Detroit at Oakland, Pittsburgh Penguins in Chicago and Philadelphia Flyers in Minnesota against the North Stars.

The Flyers, who hold a one-point lead on the Kings in the western standings, still are looking hard for a home since the Philadelphia Spectrum was closed two weeks ago for repairs and inspection.

GAME FINALLY SET

Their Thursday game with Los Angeles, originally scheduled for Philadelphia, then switched to Quebec City's Coliseum for Friday now is rescheduled for Thursday, but still in Quebec City. Their Sunday game against the Leafs also is to be played in Quebec.

The only other Thursday game has New York in Montreal to take on the Canadiens, Eastern Division leaders by six points over the Rangers. Oakland is in St. Louis Friday.

While the lack of scoring is the clear reason for the demise of both Toronto and Oakland this season, the same can hardly be said of the Red Wings.

Their 214 goals are second only to the 236 scored to date by Boston among all 12 teams in the two-division league.

GOOD YEAR PREDICTED FOR AMERICAN ANGLERS

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Preliminary figures indicate 1967 may have been a record year for Washington sports fishermen and the outlook is good for 1968, the state department of fisheries has announced.

Frank Haw, sport fishing project leader for the department, said about a million salmon were caught last year, including catches in fresh water areas which totalled about 2½ times the previous record.

"This year should be another big year for salmon anglers," Haw said. "It depends chiefly on the ocean distribution of coho. Our hatcheries have put a lot of good fish out there and if feeding fish are concentrated near our sport fishing ports, we are in great shape."

Predictions for hatchery returns of chinook and coho salmon to Puget Sound are good, Haw said, but pink salmon will be absent and prospects for a good run in 1969 are poor.

Rivals Wait as Farmer Keeps His Curling Cool

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Three provincial rinks in the Canadian mixed curling championship are sitting on the edge of second place, waiting for Larry McGrath, of Kindersley, Sask., to blow his cool.

McGrath, undefeated after the fourth round Tuesday, is defending mixed champion. The 28-year-old farmer, curling with the same rink, won nine of 10 games last year.

The three rinks tied for second hope McGrath will lose one while they maintain their one-loss records to force a playoff Saturday.

With 3-1 records after the fourth round were Edward Stochinsky of Edmonton, Bill Tetley's Northern Ontario rink from Port Arthur and Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown.

SERVICE RINK FIFTH

Fifth spot in the 11-team round-robin event was shared by Quebec's Earl Carson of Canadian Forces Base, Bagotville, who had the fourth bye, and Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont.

Three rinks had 1-2 records after playing only three games —Nova Scotia's Cliff Robertson of Halifax, Vern Becker of Kimberley, B.C., and Frank Stent of St. John's, Nfld.

Saskatchewan started Tuesday walloping Quebec 14-7, then doubled B.C. 10-2 in a game that lasted only eight ends.

Alberta and Northern Ontario came from behind and forced their fourth-round games into extra ends to win.

Alberta had to score a three-ender in the ninth to tie Nova Scotia 6-6 then stole two in the extra end for an 8-6 victory.

Northern Ontario got two in the 10th and stole two in the extra end to down Manitoba 9-7.

In the afternoon round, McGrath was down 4-2 to Quebec after four ends. Saskatchewan stole nine points in the fifth to ninth ends on the way to the 14-7 win.

Carson said later that the ice changed midway in the game and he lost his draw weight. "I couldn't cope with it too well and started chipping my draw shots off guards."

PENTICTON ONE GAME FROM FINAL

PENTICTON (CP) — Penticton swamped Vernon 8-3 Tuesday night to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Hockey League semi-final.

Fourth game will be played Friday in Vernon.

Referee John Culos called a tight game, each team taking 10 minor penalties.

BY MUTUEL CLERKS

Ontario Tracks Facing a Strike

TORONTO (CP) — The Jockey Club Ltd., which operates thoroughbred and standard bred race tracks in southern Ontario, faces a strike by mutuel clerks, with Greenwood race track opening March 30.

The clerks Tuesday authorized their bargaining committee to take strike action, if necessary, to gain a wage increase of $6.40 a day over the $19 a day they received under their old three-year contract, which expired Dec. 31, 1967.

Fred G. Lane, president of Local 528, Building Service Employees International Union, said Tuesday the strike authorization was not a threat against Jockey Club, but added:

"Surely we are entitled to something more than nothing in lieu of the increased cost of living."

The Jockey Club, which operates tracks at Woodbine and Greenwood in Toronto, Fort Erie, Ont., Campbellville and St. Catharines, told the clerks at a meeting Feb. 21 it was in no position to offer wage increases and proposed a continuation of the old contract terms.

Clerks End Strike At Yonkers Track

NEW YORK (AP) — The strike of pari-mutuel clerks at nearby Yonkers, N.Y., raceway was settled Tuesday night and harness racing will resume at the suburban track in Weatchester County tonight.

The strike extended for eight racing days. The track was to have opened a 70-night meeting March 4.

The strike idled 2,000 other track employees and cost the state an estimated $200,000 a night in taxes, a total of $1,600,000.

The strikers were members of Local 32-E, AFL-CIO Building Service Employees Union. They had demanded a $6 a night increase over three years in their wages of $30 to $32 a night. The new contract provides a $1 a night increase in the first year and an unspecified productivity bonus in the third year.

Aussies Keep Rifle Trophy

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters) — Australia retained the Empire Rifle Shooting Trophy in competition against Canada and Britain at Williamstown Rifle Range Tuesday.

The Australian team will make a nine-week tour of Britain and Canada in June and take part in the annual Queen's Prize and British Empire match.

Australia finished the competition with a 95-point lead over Canada and 56 points over Britain.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Pressure Forces Olympic Meeting

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The executive board of the International Olympic Committee will meet here April 20 and 21 to discuss the controversial admission of South Africa to the Summer Games at Mexico City.

The meeting was called by Avery Brundage, IOC president, after pressure from the Mexican organizing officials and other sources.

Brundage spurned a demand by five members of the nine-man Executive Board to bypass the board meeting in favor of a general meeting of the 73-member IOC.

It was the IOC general convention which voted last month at Grenoble, France, to readmit South Africa, which had been barred from the 1964 Games at Tokyo because of its policies of separating blacks and whites.

The South Africans were brought back into the Olympics after promising to field a mixed team with mixed managers.

ANNOUNCE BOYCOTT

However, 32 African countries, protesting South Africa's apartheid policy, announced they would boycott the Mexican Olympics, scheduled Oct. 12-27. Some dozen other countries followed suit.

The Olympic Committee of the Soviet Union issued a strong denunciation of the IOC action, re-admitting South Africa, and hinted of a withdrawal unless the move was rescinded.

Russia was one of the Executive Board members who called for a general IOC meeting.

The Mongolian Olympic Committee echoed the Soviet statement, threatening to reconsider participation at Mexico City unless there is a reversal of the South African stand.

Soviet satellite nations in mid-Europe would be expected to follow any move made by Russia.

Hall-of-Fame Member Dies

TORONTO (CP) — George Duthie, 66, a member of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's Hall of Fame, died Monday in hospital after a long illness.

Born in Scotland, he was an organizer of the Canadian Boating Federation, the governing body for motor boat racing in Canada.

He was a life member of the AAU of the United States.

IN 1967 he was appointed to the national advisory council on fitness and amatuer sports.

Don Leo Wins Over Butcher

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Third-place San Diego Gulls scored a 5-1 Western Hockey League victory Tuesday night over Portland, breaking San Diego's six-game losing streak.

The decision also snapped Portland's five-game unbeaten string that included four victories and a tie.

San Diego goalie Dave Kelly made the big plays to keep the Bucks scoreless until early in the third period, when the Gulls already had a 4-0 cushion.

Barlow Close To Point Lead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Barlow of Rochester Americans is within seven points of the American Hockey League's scoring leader, Andre Lacroix of Quebec Aces.

Lacroix, who was called up by the National Hockey League Philadelphia Flyers, still holds the top position with 41 goals and 46 assists for 87 points.

ALLEGE DISCRIMINATION, RACIAL PROBLEMS . . . . . . AT U OF WASHINGTON

Negro Athletes Demand Trainer's Dismissal

SEATTLE (AP) — Demands by Negro athletes to end alleged discrimination and racial problems at the University of Washington, including formation of a Negro Athletic Committee and dismissal of the school's trainer, have been made public.

The demands of 13 Negro athletes at the big Seattle school first were reported in a 10-page March 15 Life magazine spread on discontent of Negro college athletes around the U.S.

Jim Owens, athletic director and head football coach, said he would not comment immediately on the reported demands. Dave Carr, captain of the school's basketball team and one of four Negro athletes who met with Owens Sunday, verified the demands as "basically" correct.

The demands were listed as:

1—Neutralization of 'Jim Owens power' through the formation of a four-man black athletic committee, which could be consulted on such matters as 'demoting a black athlete to the second string.'

"2—A review of all coaches to bring to light examples of prejudice and discriminatory practices.

"3—Immediate dismissal of Washington trainer Bob Peterson because of alleged inferior and perfunctory treatment of injuries and his reported use of the word 'nigger.'

"4—Permanent appointment of a black coach or administrator 'to bridge the gap in communications between the black athletes and the administration.'"

That is "basically what was presented to Owens," said Carr, "but the part about neutralization of Jim Owens power is wrong."

The star basketballer said: "We do not have the right to suggest this. We are athletes and Jim Owens is the man in charge. We recognize his authority and we respect him as a man and we respect the position he holds."

Carr said the reference to consulting on such matters as "demoting a black athlete to the second string" did not refer to day-to-day lineup changes, which occur frequently in all sports.

"But we want the black committee to be recognized and if there is an injustice we want to have some recourse," Carr said.

"I just can't make any statement at this time," Owens said. "I will probably have a statement to make at a later date."

Confusing Spitball Rule Has Some Teeth Pulled

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The commissioner and two major league presidents stepped in Tuesday and took some of the teeth out of baseball's confusing and controversial spitball rule.

A pitcher no longer will be subject to ejection from the game after two violations. He will be charged instead with an illegal pitch, similar to a balk.

Commissioner William D. Eckert, making the announcement, said the revised rule would be in effect until the rules committee is able to restudy the problem, probably before the season opening April 8.

The spitter has been illegal for years but nobody did anything about it. Violations became so flagrant last year the rules committee decided to get tough.

At winter meetings in Mexico City it was decided a pitcher would not be allowed to bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips nor be permitted to spit on the ball, his pitching hand or glove.

The penalty was drastic. For the first violation, the umpire warned the pitcher. For the second, the umpire was supposed to thumb the pitcher out of the game.

SOME ENFORCE RULE

Confusion arose when American League umpires enforced the rule and the National League umpires did not.

Under the temporary rule announced Tuesday, a pitcher is given one warning as before on his first offense. If he repeats the offense, he is charged with an illegal pitch.

With men on base, this would have the same effect as a balk. The runner or runners would advance. With nobody on base, the illegal pitch would be called a ball.

The batter is not to be penalized. If he gets a hit on the illegal pitch, the hit counts. If he hits the ball and is out, the pitch is called a ball. If it's the fourth ball, he walks.

REVISION NECESSARY

Warren Giles, National League president, said the revision was necessary because of the confusion caused in spring training games.

At Palm Spring, Calif., last Sunday, Emmett Ashford, an AL umpire, threw out two Chicago Cub pitchers, Frank Reberger and Dean Burk, in a game won by the California Angeles 3-1.

There have been half a dozen instances of ejections this spring. Pitchers who have been given the heave-ho included Dean Chance of Minnesota, Camilo Pascual of Washington and Denny Ribant of Detroit.

PRO SOCCER CLUB PLANS . . . . . GAME WITH O'KEEFES

Royals Switch to Victoria

Special to The Times

VANCOUVER — Victoria's climate is beckoning Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League.

Coach Ferenc Puskas announced today that he will take the professional club to Victoria Thursday morning for four days of training in an attempt to get the Royals badly-needed work on outdoor pitches.

In training at Richmond since Feb. 5, the Royals have been forced to work indoors in recent days as heavy rains left mainland turf pitches in water-logged condition.

Puskas expects to run his club through training paces at Victoria's Topaz Park on Thursday and Friday and to have the Royals play exhibition games against Victoria clubs on Saturday.

One of the games will be against Victoria O'Keefes of the Coast League. In order to allow Puskas to use most of his players, substitution rules will be waived for the match, which will be played at 2 p.m. Sunday on the Macdonald Park pitch.

Royals, who are scheduled to face Oakland Clippers in an exhibition game in Victoria on March 24, usually practice around 11 a.m.

Puskas considers outdoor workouts are vital since he must trim several players from his roster in the new two weeks.

Puskas has been pleased with the way forward Johnny Green from Blackwood United of the English League first division has injected new life in the Vancouver attacking unit. Green, who has one of the hardest shots in the league, was a late arrival at training camp but is rapidly rounding into top conditions.

Sandra Post Ready For Debut as Pro

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra Post watched her first professional golf tournament when she was six, got her first clubs at seven and wanted to be a woman professional ever since.

Miss Post, the 19-year-old sensation from Oakville, Ont., will play in her first professional tournament this week—the $12,500 Orange Blossom Classic, which opens Friday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

"You know it will be funny playing against Marilyn Smith. She's a real good friend, but she was the girl who gave me my first set of clubs."

Miss Smith, formerly of Australia, lived in Ottawa for a time before becoming a regular on the women's professional golf circuit.

The blonde, who becomes Canada's first woman professional golfer, first caused a stir in local golf when she won the Canadian junior title at 14.

The entire Post family headed south this winter with one goal—that Sandra play well enough to play professional. She made it after winning the prestige South Atlantic title, perhaps the biggest she has won to date.

Miss Post filed her application for professional status Feb. 26. She must pay $50 as a rookie competing in any tournament.

To get her regular card and save the $50 fee, she must finish in the top 80 per cent of the field in three of four events. If she misses, she starts another four event series, again paying the extra tab.

The system was introduced because there are not enough women professionals to justify qualifying rounds and the $50 eliminates camp followers.

She began under family financing, although an equipment and sponsorship company is being negotiated.

Meanwhile, Marlene Stewart-Streit, of Toronto, one of Canada's top women golfers, says Sandra's decision to turn professional will pave the way for many other Canadian girls.

"Now that someone has taken the plunge, I think someone else might not be as reluctant," Mrs. Streit said.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

'They Should Go Away Enriched'

"I have found the standard of performance and teaching very good," Mrs. Patch said Tuesday.

She praised the warm, friendly attitude among the contestants and organizers and the feeling of camaraderie.

"The children seem to enjoy getting together and this is wonderful.

"If they don't go away enriched then the festival will have been a waste of time."

Mrs. Patch is from Vancouver and one of her pupils won second place in the national centennial competition at New Brunswick.

HEINZ DIEKERT
. . . "the body relaxes; mind stays alert"

Do-It-Yourself Hypnosis 'Helps Them Help Themselves'

BY DON DINGWALL

At a night school class here he teaches self-hypnosis.

It's the only course of its kind either Mr. Diekert or adult education director Robert Thorburn know about.

Mr. Diekert also teaches a window display course and it was only through friendly discussion about his interest in hypnosis that the latter course developed.

Mr. Thorburn advertised it and now the class has an enrolment of 15.

They include a biologist, nurse, store clerk, stenographer and housewives.

He is licenced by Victoria to practise hypnotism.

Unlike the United Kingdom and the United States, no diploma is required in Canada.

Mr. Diekert says: "The course is mainly to help people help themselves.

"The biggest percentage of those enrolled would like to be able to help themselves with problems of nervous tension, insomnia and the breaking of bad habits."

One businessman said: "I just want to learn to relax."

Mr. Diekert said the class members are mainly in the 40-50 age group and are "keen and fascinated."

Mr. Diekert's interest in hypnosis sprang from reading, then he studied more and more.

He finds the easiest way to hypnotize people is by verbal suggestion but he does have equipment such as a pen light and hypno disc.

"I also use music sometimes. It's just an aid to give people something on which to focus their attention."

His idea is not to put people into a deep state of hypnosis but into an advanced state of relaxation.

"Under this kind of hypnosis the person's mind is quite alert but the body is relaxed.

"They are completely aware of all going on around them unless they are in the deepest state of hypnosis.

"Most people have full recall afterwards."

Mr. Diekert said hypnosis is approved by the medical profession but because it is time consuming is not practised too widely.

He said he is trying to make all the people in his class independent of him and able to induce hypnosis in themselves.

"During this state they are able to give themselves auto suggestions which will benefit them.

"It is completely harmless," he said.

Mr. Thorburn said the class is stressing the therapeutic benefits to be derived from hypnosis.

SHIFTS AT PREVOST?

'200 More Students, Nowhere to Put Them'

DUNCAN — Mount Prevost Junior Secondary School is going to have an additional 200 students in September with no place to put them.

Cowichan school board chairman Joseph Frumento told a PTA meeting he hopes the education department will approve construction of additions at the school.

"We do not build luxury classrooms and we can certainly prove the need.

'COULD HAPPEN'

"I'm opposed to the shift system for students.

"It is not a good policy but we must face the possibility that it could happen because of lack of funds."

He said even if new construction started July 1 (earliest possible date) the new accommodation could not be ready before Jan. 1, 1969.

Mr. Frumento said: "From the board's point of view there is no alternative to the shift system if the additions are not completed in time."

HE'LL HIT THE HEIGHTS FOR CHARITY

PORT ALBERNI — The manager of a five-man band called the "Kinking Machine" plans to spend two weeks in a tent atop a 35-foot pole to raise $2,000 for the March of Dimes.

John Frahill, 25, plans to remain in the six by eight-foot tent for the full two weeks or until he collects $2,000.

After a 1.3-inch rainfall he's hoping citizens will be generous enough to put up the cash before his stay runs the limit.

Every night the weather holds, the Kinking Machine will be in the parking lot where the pole is set up.

Donations are being received at the Toronto-Dominion Bank, the B and W Fidelity and radion station CJAV.

Top Rider From Europe To Judge

Dressage judge for the April 14, show will be Dietrich Von Hopffgarten of Germany.

Club president Don McCool said Tuesday he is in Vancouver for 12 months training such peope as Miss Inez Fischer-Credo, a member of the Canadian Olympic team and a previous judge of the Cowichan show.

GUEST INSTRUCTOR

Mr. Von Hopffgarten is guest instructior at Southlands Riding School, Vancouver.

He is a house guest of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. G. Mackenzie, former residents of Maple Bay and members of Cowichan Pony Club.

This year's two-day show will include jumping and equitation classes Saturday, April 13.

Cowichan district riding club's Easter hunter trials and gymkhana will be held Monday, April 15, at Genoa Bay.

Smoke Damage Extensive In House Fire

Some of the children had apparently been home at lunchtime. A neighbor raised the alarm at 1:30 p.m.

Municipal South End fire chief Pat Clackson said the fire started in a living room clothes closet.

It must have been smoulding for hours as it had burned through the top of the closet to the attic, he said.

There was extensive smoke damage and part of the small, older house, was damaged by water.

Mr. Scholefield is up the west coast working at a logging camp.

PILOTS' BID FOR GRANT SHOT DOWN

DUNCAN — City council Monday night congratulated Cowichan Airport Society on its enterprise but refused a request for a grant.

Society spokesman Bob Maxwell said they have run into financial difficulty by going into debt to build a cross-strip, and subsequently having their electrical wiring system at the airport condemned under new provincial regulations.

Mr. Maxwell said normally the society could run the airport on its annual budget of $1,700.

He told council the society has plans to develop float plane facilities at Somenos Lake and make them revenue-producing.

Peterson Forced To Toss in Towel

Opposition Attack On ETV Lack Prompts Minister's Wild Swings

By JOHN MIKA

Opposition MLAs Tuesday attacked the absence of a provincial educational television so Education Minister Peterson swung back—at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

But some of his haymakers went wild.

Mr. Peterson said more ETV programs should be produced by the CBC.

"Here is one area where the federal government could provide more help for education through the CBC and get some of these objectionalbe programs off the air," he said.

Hecklers demanded he name the objectionable programs.

"I can't remember any names now but you know what I mean," he said.

Mr. Peterson then told the MLAs the province has an ETV program which was responsible for beaming 150 half-hour programs into the schools last year alone.

CBC-PRODUCED

But, under questioning, he admitted they were produced and paid for by the CBC to meet his department's requests.

"But you are taking credit for them," stormed Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

Mr. Peterson danced away from that verbal punch by pointing out that the province also employs closed circuit television within the school system for some instruction.

Asked where, he said its experimental use is under way at Kamloops, Campbell River and Duncan.

Mrs. Eileen Dailly (NDP — Burnaby-Edmonds) asked if it was true that these experimental programs are conducted and paid for by the local school boards involved and Mr. Peterson admitted they were.

"Well how can you claim credit for your department?" she demanded.

THREW IN TOWEL

Mr. Peterson retreated to his corner where he threw in the towel after a final feint:

"Well at least the percentage increase in my department, if I may use percentages in this respect, is up 50 per cent for EVT," he said.

"But it still is a modest sum, I admit," he added hastily.

(The department's estimates for radio and television programming have been increased from $20,000 to $30,000 for the coming fiscal year.)

The minister finally conceded his department "has not launched itself into ETV yet" but said it was due to uncertainty whether the federal government would undertake a major program using ultra-high frequency television channels or some other technique.

'NATURAL RESOURCE'

Mr. Peterson later told Mr. Clark that B.C. has asked the federal department of transport not to issue any licences for ultra high frequency TV channels without clearing them with the province.

He was replying to questions from Mr. Clark who wondered if the province realized that television channels are "a natural resource" and are rapidly being used up.

Mr. Clark said the province should be considering reserving a channel for University of British Columbia, Simon Fraser University and possibly B.C. technology institute.

'INVALUABLE'

Educational TV is the cheapest form of adult education ever devised, besides being an invaluable aid to the school system, he said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said Mr. Peterson's earlier concern that educational TV is excessively expensive was not justified and used the Washington State system as an example.

It runs 12 to 14 hours a day for six days a week at a total annual cost of $378,000 and a capital outlay of $1,421,000. This represents a tremendous educational bargain, he said.

CLASS ROOM BUILDING 'GENEROUS'

Education Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday said the province is building class rooms faster than it is enrolling new students.

He told the legislature that in the past three years 3,569 new class rooms were built, while the total student population increased by 69,460 pupils.

"Which suggests that every new class room has been filled, on the average, with 19 pupils and this is generous treatment by any standard," he said.

END DELAYS

Teacher Certification Speeded Up

A new system for certifying teachers will be introduced to eliminate "undue delays" hampering the teacher supply, Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced in the legislature Tuesday.

He said the present eight step certification process will be cut to two steps and a special licence intoduced for acceptable teachers who do not meet the exact qualifications.

Mr. Peterson said the new system will include a standard teaching certificate available after three years post-high school training.

In addition, there will be a higher level certificate for those who complete five years of training, including a university degree.

The licence will be good for four years and will be available to out-of-province teachers obtaining posts in B.C. or others who are in the process of qualifying for certificates.

"This is a simpler method of evaluation than we have had in the past and we hope it will substantially speed up the certification of teachers trained outside the province," Mr. Peterson said.

Fund Started For New Organ

Rotary Boys' Choir will hold a choir concert Friday night to start a fund for a new organ for Esquimalt United Church, it was announced Tuesday.

The concert, starting at 8 p.m., will be held in the church hall at Lyle and Constance.

Admission for adults is 50 cents, for children, 25 cents.

CUSTOMIZED SCHOOLS OUT, SAYS MINISTER

'Second Layer of Ice Added'

The government did not restrict B.C. Hydro in building "the nice (W. A. C. Bennett) dam for that nice man with that nice name" the way it clamped restrictions on school construction, Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) charged Tuesday night.

He claimed that two weeks ago the government "added a second layer of ice to the freeze" by putting a $15,000 ceiling on classroom construction costs in addition to its prohibition against building of gymnasiums, libraries, activity rooms and administrative facilities in the schools.

Mr. Berger said this means that Vancouver school board will not be able to build anything but portable classrooms during the freeze and "it's questionable if they can even do that."

He said the ceiling is a "bureaucratic edict made for political reasons to cut back costs without any relation to the school requirements or any consultation with boards.

'DON'T BUILD THEN'

The government is saying you can have schools so long as you don't build, them," he charged.

"Has the government in any other sphere of the province made such an edict?

"What about the W. A. C. Bennett dam—did the government tell B.C. Hydro 'you build that nice dam but don't spend more than $100 million even if you know you can't do it for that'?

"Did the government say 'you build that nice dam for that nice man with that nice name but don't built the powerhouse?"

He argued that library rooms, gymnasiums and activity rooms are as essential to a proper school as a powerhouse was to a dam.

Both sides of the house hammered desks loudly and heckled persistently several times as Mr. Berger spoke.

He warned the opposition "has no confidence in this minister and will not pass his (salary) vote tonight unless or until he lifts the freeze."

'BULLDOZING'

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan jumped up to say that if the opposition "makes that kind of ultimatum then we might as well call the vote right now." Several opposition MLAs shouted "bulldozing."

Mr. Peterson said he had answer all the points raised by Mr. Berger Monday "when you chose to absent yourself to make a political speech to the students at Selkirk College."

He said it was presumptious for Mr. Berger to rely on press reports of the house's business while he was away because "the questions he posed today and the answers given yesterday didn't appear in the press."

"Well tell those of us who were here, we didn't hear any answers," called out Dr. Ray Parkinson (NDP — Vancouver-Burrard).

Mr. Peterson said Mr. Berger "deserves the Pulitzer Prize for fiction in the way he has resented the school situation. I can only compliment him on his frank disclosure that he will conduct a filibuster.

"His comments are just a lot of nonsense because there are millions of dollars of schools being constructed in the province today."

Mr. Peterson said the current "restrictions are temporary but I feel great savings can be made in this area (prefabricated and modular construction schools) and I don't want to be misconstrued on this oint but I doubt that we shall epver go back completely to customized schools in B.C."

He said lessons learned in legitimate cost-savings during the temporary restrictions will not be forgotten when they are lifted.

Bill Would Approve Debate Broadcasting

A bill which would provide for the broadcasting of debates was given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

The bill was introduced by Barrie Clark (L—North Vancouver-Seymour), a Vancouver broadcaster. Mr. Clark is on the air staff of CKWX.

The bill defines broadcast to include live or delayed transmission by radio, television, tape or film recording.

One clause reads that "the Crown shall not make any financial contributions directly or indirectly to the broadcasting of debates . . ."

A similar bill introduced by Mr. Clark last year never received the required three readings to become law. It died on the Order paper at the end of the session.

Name Officials

Robert Stokes was elected secretary-treasurer; Allan McKinnon and George Jones, directors from Victoria; Mary Jane Hall and Owen Dermod-Flood, directors from Oak Bay; Mrs. Thomas Jackson and Peter Pollen, directors at large.

Look Mr. Premier, We'll Replace You'

The cabinet should dump Premier Bennett if it wants to survive the school construction issue, it was warned by an opposition MLA Tuesday night.

"Education comes first with this party and this province and it's time it came first in this government," said Randolph Harding (NDP — Revelstoke-Slocan) to Education Minister Peterson.

"If the premier won't give you the money, I'm going to give you a suggestion.

"The cabinet can hold a meeting and say 'look Mr. Premier, we're going to replace you'."

Laughter burst out but Mr. Harding persisted that the cabinet "has just got to proceed on schools" regardless of Premier Bennett's opinion.

Mr. Peterson repled that Mr. Bennett "is deserving of a great deal of praise for the way he has managed this province's finances" and borrowed one of the premier's favorite homilies.

"The last thing I would want to see is education being Saturday night rich and Monday morning poor."

David Barrett (NDP — Coquitlam) prompted more laughter when he said the suggestion that Mr. Bennett be deposed has at least made Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell sit up in his seat and Mines Minister Donald Brothers take off his dark glasses "so everyone could better see their leadership images."

Grit Quotes Alberta Figures

A statement by the Alberta provincial treasurer was waved at the B.C. government Tuesday as proof they weren't spending enough on education.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault quoted Alberta Provincial Treasurer Anders O. Aalborg as telling Opposition Leader Peter Lougheed that the province could balance its budget if it cut back spending on education and health to the lower levels of British Columbia and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Perrault said Education Minister Peterson had admitted the Alberta Social Credit government was a good one so he could hardly disagree with the statement.

The Liberal Leader said Mr. Aalborg gave figures showing B.C.'s per-capita education of spending of $150 well behind Alberta's $189.

Per-capita health spending in B.C. was given as $112 compared with $130 in Alberta.

Keen Plantswoman A Legendary Figure

By HILDA BEASTALL

Known to hundreds of gardeners throughout Vancouver Island and the adjacent islands, Mrs. E. W. Carey has been a plants woman and amateur horticulturist among us since coming to the coast 21 year ago.

Hilda

Interest in plants of this remarkable woman seemed to be even more keen if that were possible as years passed.

I say remarkable without apologies for, at the age of 86, Mrs. Carey counted it a lost day if she failed to learn something new.

It was a tremendous pleasure for her to recognize and be able to name a plant which perhaps she last saw in England 70 years ago.

New plants were a challenge, things to be catalogued mentally and stored away for reference at some future date.

PRACTICAL LESSONS

Among the treasures and prized possessions in her garden were her compost heap and coldframe, counted as essentials, and practical lessons in gardening were always available on the spot.

A visitor could see where special soil conditions had been created to accommodate a few rhododendrons and other choice acid-loving plants; or a terraced section in the sun for alpine plants.

Vegetables and small fruits were grown in quantities, always enough to distribute among friends so that successes and failures became of general importance in the community.

JUDGING

During the last 12 years or so, her prime interest was judging at horticultural shows and various garden club affairs on the island.

Always stern in her decisions, there were those who differed with Mrs. Carey's judgments on some occasions, but the legacy of intense interest in her surroundings and the people and plants making up her environment is something all of us must treasure. She is destined to become a legendary figure in our records.

We who knew this personality intimately, find joy without sorrow in our memories of her.

New Gibraltar Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain announced Tuesday it will reopen discussions with Spain this weekend over the future of its colony of Gibraltar. However, British officials reiterated that there could be no question of transferring sovereignty over Gibraltar from Britain to Spain.

TWO NERVOUS GUNMEN AND AN OLD MAN

Jet-Style Kidnappers 'Were Expected'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A passenger jet with 58 persons aboard was hijacked over south Florida Tuesday by two nervous gunmen kidnapping an old man who tearfully told passengers, "I'm going to be killed!"

The pilot of National Airlines flight 28, Capt. Clarence J. Delk, said: "They were expecting us. I don't know how they knew we were coming. We were identified from the Cuban tower by flight number during our approach to Havana airport."

The hijackers' prisoner, a man who appeared to be in his 60s, was led from the plane crying and gesturing for help.

Stewardess Sarah E. West said the man slipped her some personal papers when the men weren't looking. She hid them on the plane and they were not found when Cuban soldiers searched the aircraft during the six hours at Havana. The papers were given to the FBI.

All three men were met at Jose Marti Airport in Havana by Jose Abrantes, Cuban vice-minister in charge of security. They were driven away with him in a government security car.

The three Spanish-speaking men boarded together in Tampa. The airline said they gave their names as J. Arnentero, G. Carrazana, and R. Donate when they bought tickets.

Four minutes after takeoff on the Tampa-to-Miami leg of a flight that began in San Francisco, one of the gunmen put a .45-calibre automatic pistol at the neck of stewardess Donna Goldinher, 26, and forced her into the cockpit.

American officials tracked the plane on radar. Cuba notified U.S. officials after the plane's safe landing at 12:36 p.m. The plane returned to Miami at 7:57 p.m.

The man who said he was going to be killed sat quietly in the coach section of the plane until the landing in Cuba.

"I heard noise that sounded like a fight in the cockpit," said stewardess Sally Jackson Kenner, "but then I saw it was the old man beating his hands and arms on the chair armrest.

"Then he began pacing up and down saying in his broken English, 'I'm going to be killed!' "

To reports that the hijackers were drunk or on dope, Mrs. Kenner said: "They were not drunk. They were just petrified, scared to death."

PM Probes Northern 'Apartheid'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson told the House Monday he has asked for a report from the justice department on the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court upholding the validity of an apartheid clause in a job contract.

The prime minister was asked in the Commons by Opposition members if his government would introduce legislation making such contract clauses illegal in the future.

Mr. Pearson said he would examine the report from the justice department before replying.

The Supreme Court Friday upheld the validity of an apartheid clause in the job of a white man fired for wooing an Eskimo woman, a petite, pretty, well-educated Eskimo called Anniapik, now Mrs. Ann Shields.

The decision upheld rulings of lower courts and washed out the $25,000 damages action brought by electrician Terence John Whitfield against Canadian Marconi Company of Montreal.

AUSTRALIAN

Mr. Whitfield, an Australian reported to be working now in Labrador, was fired from his $650-a-month Arctic radar base job by Canadian Marconi in 1961 for associating with Anniapik.

The relevant clause in his contract read:

"Indians and Eskimo cillages are considered out of bounds and the personnel are prohibited from fraternization or association with the native populations except in special circumstances. Infringement of these orders is cause for discharge."

Mrs. Shields told newsmen after the Supreme Court ruling: "Canadians go around saying there is no discrimination in my country. They are dreaming."

It Once Was Too Big

Oak Bay council decided some weeks ago that a proposed change house for Windsor Park was too big.

Now council's B committee thinks less grandiose plans prepared last week are too small.

The plans unveiled at a committee meeting Monday night incorporated most of the features of the original design, in a smaller and cheaper space.

But committee members thought the three showers per shower room would not be enough for large sports teams using the facility.

They decided to look into the cost of putting extra features into the building to make sure they build something adequate.

Municipal engineer Geoffrey White was asked to look at change houses built by other areas to see how Oak Bay's plan compared.

Original plans calling for a $90,000 change house to be built in three stages were scrapped by council to avoid spreading the cost over three years.

It had been decided to cut the ornate, Tudor trim from the exterior of the building and cut down on size to save money.

Test Case Set In Loitering

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men arrested Saturday and charged with loitering near the courthouse were remanded Monday to March 18 for what a defence lawyer described as test cases against the arrests.

Fourteen others were remanded to March 19. Arrests came after police ordered a crowd of about 200 to move from the courthouse square. Many were described by police as "hippie types."

Sidney Symons, a Vancouver lawyer who is a member of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association which protested the arrests, said he will argue the arrests were improper.

Remanded to March 18 were Stanley Persky, 27, undergraduate arts president at University of British Columbia, and Joseph Richardson, 19, both of Vancouver.

Deputy police chief John Fisk said the arrests could be seen as a warning to hippies who may be planning to come here in spring and summer. Arrests were prompted by provincial authorities' complaints.

Youth Fined $75 For Obstructing

A youth police say blocked their way when they were attempting to place an arrested man in the patrol wagon was fined $75 in central court Monday.

Victor Kraeling, 18, of 2702 Victor, was found guilty of obstructing a police officer at Paul's Restaurant, 1900 Douglas, Feb. 2.

Const. Clifford Harrison testified he and Sgt. John Maybin were taking a man to the patrol wagon when Kraeling told them the man had done nothing wrong and put his arm against the wagon, blocking Const. Harrison's path.

Victoria Daily Times

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Entertain Ambassador

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will give a dinner at Government House on Thursday evening in honor of His Excellency Francois Leduc, ambassador of France. The ambassador will be guest at Government House during his stay in Victoria.

Left Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stokes have been visiting Victoria and were the house guests of Mrs. Stokes' cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Osmund Matson of High Street, View Royal. A consulting restoration architect, Mr. Stokes was here on official business for the federal government. The Stokes left here on Sunday for their home at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont.

Visiting Victoria

Former Victorian, Miss Vivienne Coombs, is currently visiting Victoria and is now the house guest of Mrs. Hew Paterson of Victoria Avenue. She plans to stay with a few more friends before returning to her home in Vancouver at the end of the month. The visitor intends to spend the summer at Banff.

Fete Couple

The Brentwood home of Rev. and Mrs. John Wood was the scene of a recent get-together of members of the United Church and other friends, gathered to honor Rev. and and Mrs. Harold Marshall, who have lived in the Brentwood area for the past 15 years. Retired for that time, Rev. Marshall has assisted the local church in many ways. In recognition of these services, he was thanked by Rev. Wood and presented with a gift of money, to be spent at his pleasure. Mrs. Roy Tidman presented Mrs. Marshall with a bouquet and paid tribute to her musical contributions to the district. Rev. and Mrs. Marshall are leaving Brentwood soon to make their home in Victoria.

Return to City

Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah of King George Terrace have recently returned from a vacation in Hawaii. They spent January and February at the Coral Seas Hotel in Waikiki. While they were there they saw many Canadian tourists including Mr. John Manning and his wife, Pat, of Victoria, who are currently on a 12,000-mile cruise aboard their sailing ship Powindah.

AT JOINT MEETING HELD IN THE INN

Speeches Cover Variety of Subjects

The doctor's right to withdraw supportive treatment of terminal cases with a view to transplanting of organs; the necessity of conformity in boulevard trees and the desirability of women handling government finances — all were topics for discussion when the Arbutus Toastmistress Club and the Camosun Toastmaster Club held their first joint meeting at the Inn recently.

Table topics were conducted by S. H. Ferris. Toastmaster was G. E. Garside, who introduced the speakers.

Speaking were Mrs. G. L. Cook who gave a lesson on speech construction, Mrs. R. S. Butt, "Dynamo"; R. A. Hodge, "The Abuse of Love"; Mrs. H. Winstone, an impromptu speech on "Should Civil Servants Have the Right to Strike?"; W. Mertton, an impromtu speech on the Camosun Club's youth training program.

The speeches were evaluated by Mrs. H. M. Butt, Mrs. L. R. Hammett, Mrs. P. Small, J. Farthing and V. J. Christison.

Mrs. A. M. Clarkson commented on the meeting and presented awards to Mrs. Butt for her speech and V. Christison for his evaluation.

The inspiration was given by Mrs. J. A. Miller. Mrs. D. E. Pite gave the education, Mrs. C. M. Dowling acted as lexicologist and grammarian, and Miss Mary Horan gave the vote of thanks. Mrs. F. R. Morris gave the closing thought.

President Mrs. G. H. Love welcomed several guests to the meeting. They were: Mrs. Lil Larsen, a toastmistress from Saskatchewan; Bert Farthing, a toastmaster from California; Mrs. Joan Hackney, Mrs. Sheila Arnot, Miss Helen Ranson, Mrs. S. H. Ferris and Frank Ericson.

Swimmers Hosts For Games Night

Feel like sawing a log or walking for a cake? You'll have an opportunity to do just that when the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club holds its games night on Thursday. The event will be held at Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street from 7 to 9 p.m. The swimmers will assist with the games, which will include a log sawing contest, fish pond, cake walk and many more. Hot dogs, coffee and popcorn will be sold to keep up the strength of the players.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

Shown in Reports Made at RJH Alumnae Association's 47th Annual Meeting

GROUP PROVIDES LOANS, BURSARY AND EQUIPMENT

Mrs. Barbara McNeish was re-elected president of the Alumnae Association of the Royal Jubilee Hospital's School of Nursing when the group held its annual meeting in the nurses' residence, Monday evening.

Other 1968 officers are: Past president, Mrs. R. A. Bolt; first vice-president, Mrs. R. Eldridge; second, Mrs. J. R. Parris; secretary, Mrs. G. Chater; assistant secretary, Mrs. C. M. Nicholson, and treasurer, Mrs. N. McConnell.

Conveners are: Social, Mrs. R. Lewell, and assistant, Mrs. R. Godtel; sick visiting, Miss Treva Lewis; press, Mrs. V. J. Wilson; program, Miss Mary A. Smith; membership, Miss Avonne Dixon, and phoning, Mrs. W. R. Hindle.

Mrs. Bolt was nominating committee chairman.

Miss Margaret Plunkett reported on the group's current project which is to supply a suitable cabinet for the rotunda of the hospital which will house a collection of dolls, each dressed in a nurse's uniform. The uniforms trace development since the first nurse was appointed to the hospital.

A year of service was shown in the reports given at the 47th annual meeting.

Nursing equipment totalling $500 had been donated to the hospital. This included six commode chairs, a radio for the Fourth West ward, and a punching bag for the Bay Pavilion.

A bursary had been awarded to Miss Marilyn Phillips, who is completing her final year for a bachelor of nursing degree. Five student loans, totalling $500, were made, and a grant of $100 given to an alumnae member.

The group had provided refreshments for two capping teas and sponsored a mother and daughter tea as part of the graduation festivities. Miss Paula Klammer and Miss Mary Shaw had been awarded gifts marking their high achievement in the pre-clinical training period.

Mrs. McConnell announced receipts of $4,059.77, disbursements amounting to $1,615.96 and a bank balance of $2,443.96. Other funds on hand included a $250 bond, a $2,300 fund earmarked for reunion expenses, and $2,066.60 in the sick nurses' fund.

Mrs. Eldridge had convened the annual hospital ball, which netted $125.13. The sum of $112.25 was realized from a games night, organized by Mrs. Nicholson. A fashion show had raised $189, being convened by Mrs. V. Skinner.

Mrs. L. Kahler had convened the annual reunion dinner, held in the McPherson Playhouse Restaurant.

It was agreed to hold a fashion show and hospital ball during the new year of activities.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Legs Show, Even When Fashions Become Longer

Are we women—or slaves? SLAVES!

It is like a holdup job. The fashion designers say, "Put them up" and up go the skirt lengths. Then they say, "Take them down" and down they come.

Lowman

They have us where they want us because it is practically impossible not to comply. After a certain length of time the eye becomes so accustomed to any new style which has been almost universally adopted, that we feel dull and dowdy if we look very different.

The smart woman goes along with the new fashion to a certain extent; the extent to which it is flattering to her individually. There she stops. There is always enough margin so that a woman can be up to date without looking like a freak.

Now there are great rumblings that skirt lengths are coming down. In fact, some designers have some longer lengths in their spring collections. I think it is going to take quite a while for this brainstorm to take hold. In the first place, many women are wedded to the short skirt. Then, too, if hems are dropped too suddenly, women are not going to discard all the clothes they have.

Although mini-skirts will prevail, there are also the midi-skirts, and maxi-skirts that extend to the ankle. Today a woman has a great variety to choose from.

Anyway, legs are here to stay and will always be an important part of a woman's total figure. Even if there are ankle-length skirts, there will still be swim suits and play clothes.

This exercise is excellent for firming and contouring the entire leg. Stand tall, arms hanging at sides. Bend the knees all the way down to a deep knee bend and touch the fingertips to the floor. Now straighten the knees and lift the trunk to erect position, rising on the toes and raising the arms overhead. Lift the chin slightly and stretch toward the ceiling. Continue. This is slimming to the diaphragm too.

If you would like to have my tested leg exercises, send for my free leaflet, "Why Not Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs?" To obtain your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Marriage Counsellor The Best Answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a woman who has many fine qualities, but she is the world's lousiest cook.

I could forgive her if she would only try, but she doesn't. She buys frozen foods and canned foods, and doesn't even follow the instructions. Everything she makes is either undercooked or burned. I know food isn't everything, but if I want something that's fit to eat I have to make it myself.

She doesn't have an outside job, and we have no children. We've been married nearly two years and she hasn't made one decent meal. Any suggestions?

HAROLD

DEAR HAROLD: A wife who hasn't cooked or even thawed out a "decent" meal for her husband, and won't even try, needs more help than I can give her in a letter. Find a marriage counsellor — and invite him to dinner.

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary of a very busy man and I like my job. My problem is that my boss has instructed me to find out not only who is calling and his telephone number, but with whom he is associated and the nature of the call.

I have tried to get all this information by asking, "Would you please tell me, what is this call regarding."

You would be surprised at some of the answers I get from businessmen and lawyers who probably expect the same information from their secretaries. They usually say, "Just have him call me. He'll know." (Usually, he doesn't.) How can I let these callers know that I am not nosy, I simply want to give my boss the information he seeks?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Continue to ask the questions in your usually courteous, business-like manner, and report the responses to your boss. And don't take them personally.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son has recently become engaged, which is fine. Up until now I have minded my own business, but last night was the straw that broke the camel's back.

My son is about to go into the service, so while he is gone he is giving his brand new automobile to his girl to use for her convenience. He is also paying for her insurance so she can drive it.

Now, Abby, what kind of girl would accept things like that from an 18-year-old boy? And what kind of parents would allow her to? Please advise the parents of their duty to their daughter and my son. And please let my son know that he is being the world's biggest sucker. Thank you.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Apparently this 18-year-old "boy" is man enough to own a "brand-new" car, and to become engaged. If the car (and insurance money) belongs to your son, he may do with it as he pleases, and shouldn't be labeled "sucker."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RICH BUT POOR": Don't borrow any more money unless you're prepared to face the music when the note is due.

Mouth Lines Fade Away

The quicker mouth lines . . . and crows feet around the eyes . . . disappear, the quicker you'll look younger! You, too, may know the thrill of a second debut when you try 2nd Debut, the lotion-like substance containing CEF 600. Applied nightly and before daily make-up, 2nd Debut Liquid pushes so much moisture under the skin, it pushes mouth lines and crows feet up and out. Make-up goes on smooth and easy. No wonder mothers say they've enjoyed a 2nd Debut. You can also get "2nd Debut" with CEF 1200 for double strength moisturizing action. Ask for 2nd Debut by name at drug and department stores and see almost immediate results that are absolutely astonishing.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Gay, Filmy Slip Sets Steal Penny's Heart

By Penny Saver

Gifts! Finding them will be the death of me yet. I feel as though I have just finished with Christmas (indeed, my husband is still paying some of the bills) and I am already having to come up with more gifts for various occasions. I'm scraping the bottom of the idea barrel. Every time I must choose a gift for someone, I find myself torn between the practical and the frivolous. Some of my gifts must seem very strange to the receiver! Beautiful things act as a balm to my soul, even if they are for someone else. On the other hand, I like the feeling of having helped someone find an item that they can really use. I usually descend from the horns of this dilemma by means of an impulsive twitch toward my pocket-book when I see the item that "feels" more right than any other.

One item that I couldn't resist as a birthday gift for a fashionable young miss on my list was a mini-slip complete with matching bikini briefs. This daring little ensemble was made in sheer chiffon in a breathtaking shade of mauve. A row of ruffles were on the hem and a short slit had been made up one side to allow for a full walking stride. These slips also are available in turquoise and sherbet orange shades. These mini-length sets come with both full and half-slips. The half-slips and matching briefs are $3.98. The full slip is slightly fitted with the broader style shoulder straps. The set of slip and briefs is $4.98. Just buying this delightful little ensemble made me feel years younger.

Protect Baby With These

Another item I gave in to was a pair of baby scissors. This was for a shower gift for another of my nieces who is expecting a child soon. I think these are a wonderful idea since baby's sharp little nails must be clipped often to keep him from scratching himself. Since he cannot be expected to co-operate it is best to have him as well protected as possible. With this in mind, the manufacturer produced these special scissors with a rounded tip so that even if baby should move suddenly, there is no danger of stabbing him with a sharp point. I also noticed that these scissors curved ever so slightly, making them ideal for clipping nails. They are 69 cents a pair.

Both practical and a practical joke was the item I picked up for my sister. She has lately begun fighting against the grey with bi-weekly applications of hair-dye. Her hair looks fine, but the first time she forgot to cover her hands! By now the dye has worn off, but she has complained that the protective gloves she has are clumsy and hard to use. With this in mind I picked up a little item I saw—five gloves for 89 cents. These are of a lighter weight rubber than the ones she has and look to be more flexible. They are economical and give adequate protection from all liquids, like hair dye, that could be harmful to the hands. My sister will laugh when she sees what I have bought her, but I know she will find my gift practical as well.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I found these items.

Libraries Need $200 Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — A sweeping $200,000,000 improvement program for Canadian university libraries was recommended Tuesday in a brief to the Senate committee on scientific policy prepared by the Canada Council.

The action was encouraged as a first step in a general upgrading of research into the humanities and social sciences in Canada.

The four council representatives were the first witnesses to appear before the committee established to discuss questions of the adequacy, balance and efficiency of Canada's scientific efforts.

The present condition of university libraries, the brief stated, "is the fundamental and most dramatic shortcoming of Canadian research institutions especially compared with American ones."

Canada was lagging behind the U.S. in the development of library facilities for use in research and "this gap is broadening every day."

If Canadian universities were not to slip into the role "of glorified high schools very soon," university library collections would have to be doubled and extensive use made of available technological facilities.

"This will call for real co-operation and self-discipline among universities and for quite substantial expenditures by government. It is easily a $200,000,000 operation," the brief said.

SCREEN STAR Maureen O'Hara was married in the Virgin Islands Tuesday to PWA airlines pilot Charles Blair. It was her second marriage. Miss O'Hara was divorced from movie director Will Price in 1952 after an 11-year marriage.

'Don't Try to Convert Us,' Say Indians

VANCOUVER (CP)—A white man's conference on Indian education was told by a group of Indians Tuesday there is too much emphasis on conversion and not enough on education at residential schools.

Four men and one woman, members of a recently-formed Indian organization known as the Native Alliance for Red Power, picketed a workshop conference of the National Association of Principals and Administrators of Indian Residences for two hours before being invited to place their demands before the association.

"We are taught the white man is good, but our way of life is heathen," Indian spokesmen said. "we are losing our culture, our history, our background and our language. When we graduate from residential Indian schools we are white Indians."

He charged there is too much emphasis on religion in residential schools, most of which are operated by church organizations but subsidized by the federal government.

"Priests and religious teachers have our souls not our education at heart," he said.

Mr. Antoine said the "Red Power" organization feels:

—Curriculums of Indian schools should be brought up to the level of the white man's schools;

—Indians should become members of school boards;

—Residential Indian schools should be abolished;

—Indians should be taught by Indian teachers, not by white men;

Association representatives and R. F. Davie, head of education services for the federal Department of Indian Affairs, told the Indians that many changes they advocated are in the making now, with more coming.

He said only 16 per cent of Indian children are in residential schools, down from 65 per cent in 1945.

J. A. Andrews, association secretary-treasurer, told the group the association was formed three years ago "because a lot of school principals feel the way you do."

"We see the writing on the wall and it is our duty to do something about it," he said.

Group Has $75,000 Towards New Clinic

The Handicapped Children's Association has raised about $75,000 of the $250,000 needed as the local share of a new clinic.

Campaign chairman Rear Admiral Michael Stirling said Tuesday most of the money had come from special names and corporate donors and a community wide campaign was being organized.

Provincial and federal governments have pledged another $400,000 toward the clinic that will be built on the grounds of the Queen Alexander Solarium.

The present clinic, located in old army huts behind the University of Victoria's former Lansdowne campus, is treating 112 children in crowded conditions.

One of the techniques being used to promote the campaign is a movie of the clinic's work, made by a group of local photographers.

Admiral Stirling said it was recently shown to the students of S. J. Willis junior high school, who were so moved by it they decided they would do everything possible to help the handicapped youngsters.

Panel to Discuss High Schoolers

South Vancouver Island branch, B.C. Social Workers, Thursday will probe the problems of the secondary school student and discuss how he can best be helped by his family.

Taking part in a panel discussion at the closed meeting will be Don Bingham, superintendent of child welfare in B.C.: Jack Drummond, Colquitz Junior High principal; Dr. Pierre D'estrube, a psychiatrist in the provincial mental health department and Dr. Elizabeth Patriarche, a public health official.

CYC Giving Financial Aid To Schools?

OTTAWA (CP) — A complaint by a British Columbia MP that the Company of Young Canadians is subsidizing two Vancouver private schools will be drawn to the attention of the company's director.

He said a weekend CBC program—Through the Eyes of tomorrow — dealt with the Barker School and the No Place School but did not publicize the fact that both are subsidized through CYC employees teaching at the institutions.

Further, the program through interviews with workers at the school, was critical of the public school system. The company's terms of reference did not allow such subsidization.

John Matheson, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister, said the complaint will be relayed to company Director A. M. Clarke.

DIRECT CYPRUS TALKS PROPOSED BY THANT

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Secretary-General U Thant says he intends to invite Greek and Turkish-Cypriot leaders to hold direct talks on the Cyprus problem.

Despite an improvement in the atmosphere of the island during recent months, Thant said basic issues were still unresolved and he recommended that the Security Council extend the mandate of the UN peace force for a further three months from March 26.

'MUST PUT GUN AWAY' SAYS AFL-CIO BOSS

Reuther Challenge Accepted by Meany

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany has accepted a challenge for a special AFL-CIO convention to judge whether American labor is foundering under his leadership. But he said Walter Reuther must first abide by the verdict.

Reuther, the United Auto Workers president who joined with Meany to found the 14,000,000-member labor federation 12 years ago, can have the special convention he demanded "if he puts his gun away," Meany said.

Reuther, who for more than a year has been attacking the 72-year-old Meany's leadership in the AFL-CIO presidency as "stagnant," "undemocratic" and "vegetating," called a meeting today of the Auto Workers executive board to consider the offer of a special convention.

Meany said the AFL-CIO's 29-man executive council unanimously agreed to the demand for a special convention if Reuther first promises to show up and accept any decisions of the convention.

But he said the council "unanimously rejects out of hand the ultimatum" by Reuther that he will pull his 1,500,000 Auto Workers out of the federation if he doesn't get the convention.

Reuther said the AFL-CIO had failed in its responsibility to organize millions more workers and to use labor's total resources to help solve racial discrimination, poverty and other social ills.

IN BERLIN

New Wall Thwarts Escapes

BERLIN (Reuters) — A new wall being built around West Berlin by East German authorities has so far proved escape-proof.

It consists of mesh - wire fences, ditches, plowed strips and trip wire. There are watch-towers around which blood-hounds roam about on long leads.

West Berlin police say 25,000 East Germans have escaped to West Germany and West Berlin since the first Berlin Wall was built in 1961. Last year there were just under 1,000 escapes to West Germany and 120 to West Berlin.

None of the 120 who reached West Berlin made their escape by way of the new wall, of which one-quarter has been constructed. When completed it will extend for 102 miles along the East German frontier with West Germany.

U.S. Tourist Curb Vetoed By Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Washington Post says the Canadian government has refused a U.S. request, made "cautiously and unofficially," to help enforce proposed restrictions on tourist travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

The Post says the plan "was for Canadian customs officials to check the passports of persons leaving for Europe from Canadian airports and seaports and report back with the names and addresses of all Americans."

"This would have plugged a possible loophole permitting evasion of a travel tax. Canadian officials rejected the suggestion, according to informed sources."

No confirmation of the Post story was available from Canadian or U.S. officials here. Nor was there any denial of the report.

Disturbance Brings Fine

Ignoring Warning Costs Driver $350

A man police say was warned Monday night not to drive and was observed 15 minutes later driving on Topaz Ave. was fined $350 in central court Tuesday.

Duncan Turner, 1790 Chandler, pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Magistrate Ostler also prohibited Turner from driving for eight months except for business purposes.

Fund Started to Aid Emotionally Disturbed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Youth Resources Society has launched a $180,000 fund drive to finance facilities to treat emotionally disturbed adolescents from 13 to 18 years of age. The organization plans to establish six group homes, Dr. Bennett Wong, a Vancouver psychiatrist and acting treatment director, told a news conference.

NO CRISIS—PETERSON

Teacher Dropout Rate 'Alarming'

By BRUCE YEMEN

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) told the Legislature Monday the dropout rate from the teaching profession has reached alarming proportions.

He said 2,500 of the province's 17,000 teachers left the profession last year and that 3,400 new teachers are needed annually.

There is a teacher recruitment crisis and it is made all the more serious by the province's failure to give financial aid to prospective teachers, he said.

Education Minister Peterson replied that there is a problem but no crisis, expressing alarm at the danger that "loose political talk" would "destroy public confidence in the public school system."

2,500 QUIT

Mr. Peterson said that of the 2,500 who left teaching last year only 300 went into another profession, indicating that women teachers leaving to get married or raise families were a substantial part of the total.

Government student assistance is already available to prospective teachers, he said.

Mr. Macdonald said teachers must be given professional status including a full share in curriculum and school planning. They should have self-government over teaching standards and membership in the profession, he said.

"Attractive loans" to young people who show teaching aptitude would be acceptable aid "if that's the best you can do," he said.

Teachers face unattractive conditions, including a shortage of teaching aids and too much time spent on superivison and marking of papers.

LONG-STANDING PROBLEM

Mr. Peterson defended the quality of teaching in B.C., said the recruitment problem is a long-standing one and rejected a claim by the NDP member that the province isn't doing enough for instruction in languages such as German, Spanish and Russian.

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) complained that the school system tends to promote many teachers into positions they are not competent to hold and that the best teachers are made into administrators.

He called for a study of the utilization of teachers and a greater emphasis on teaching machines and audio-visual aids to get the most out of good teachers.

PRIORITIES

Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) said the Victoria West school criticized Monday by Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) needs replacing but stressed the need for spending priorities.

He said that a case could be made that the Coquitlam area—with its low cost ratio per student and rapid population growth—has a greater need for schools than Victoria.

He said opposition MLAs wanted more money spent on practically everything and they asked for reduced taxes too.

Mr. Bruch defended his early departure last week from a meeting of parents concerned about schools by pointing out he had to be back at the legislature to serve as supply committee chairman.

Mr. Bruch called for greater use of school facilities during evening hours to teach vocational skills such as those of the restaurant, motel and home construction industries.

SEX COURSE READY BY FALL

A sex education course approved by the department of education for general use in the public school system will be ready for classes this September, Education Minister Leslie Peterson indicated early this morning.

He told the legislature at 1 a.m. that a curriculum revision committee is working on the "health course" now.

"I hope we will have a provincial program for all schools this September, but it would be permissive and not mandatory," he said.

He was replying to questions by Dr. Ray Parkinson (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) who asked when there would be a generally-applied sex education course "not just in a few districts but for all children in this province to prepare them for family life."

EXCHANGE SHOUTS

Harding Tees Off On Capozzi

A 23-year veteran of the legislature told off a sophomore member in a shouting exchange Tuesday night.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) said he is "sick and tired" of the "disgusting vocabulary" of Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) and berated supply committee chairman James Chabot (SC—Columbia River) for not demanding withdrawal of a Capozzi insult.

Mr. Capozzi had called Mr. Harding "an idiot."

The exchange occured after the Socred had interrupted Mr. Harding when he said rural people in B.C. are subsidizing urban people who lived "in the lap of luxury" and have an unfair advantage in access to universities.

"What garbage," said Mr. Capozzi.

Mr. Harding then accused him of having no knowledge of what it was like to live in a rural area and the "idiot" charge was thrown.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell interrupted Mr. Harding's fiery lecture to chairman Chabot to say that "after 23 years in the legislature you should be ashamed of yourself for abusing the chair."

Mr. Harding said that Mr. Capozzi's behavior in the house is the most "disgusting" of any MLAs that he could remember.

Board May Expand Yoga Courses

Yoga continues to be an "in" subject.

Two evening classes totalling about 70 students complete a 10-week course this week and one, perhaps two beginners' courses start shortly.

Instructor Gordon Limbrick gives lessons on Yogic concentration, breathing, mind control, mysticism and Yogic diet. The classes are sponsored by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board.

Pupils will also be taught how to perform various yogic postures and the Yogic fundamentals of good health.

The four-week course, which starts March 19 at Oak Bay junior secondary, is designed for all ages interested in the basic principles of Hatha Yoga and something of its deeper aspects.

The second class will be held at the Ewing Building on Thursday evenings if enrolment justifies.

. . . And So It Goes

Premier Bennett to opposition just before 6 p.m.: "We expect a very, very late sitting tonight. This is no threat . . . it's government policy."

Capozzi, on declining birth-rates in Vancouver: "The pill has become a factor even in Catholic sections of the community since they found out it's good for arthritis."

Mines Minister Brothers (heckling Barrett's reference to political races): "Your horse came in last in our riding."

Barrett: "Yes, but at least in our case the front end finished first."

Clark to Little, who was heckling him: "When was the last time you investigated television?"

Perrault: "He watched the Beverly Hillbillies last week."

Education Minister Peterson: "Most of us can find fault with the school system. After all we've all been subjected to it."

Liberal Leader Perrault: "The premier said the other day he could provide money ($25,000,000) in three minutes. That beats the fastest loan company in B.C."

Stupich, on government aid to local school taxpayers: "It's like throwing an anchor to a drowning man."

Nimsick, on Peterson's complaints, about "loose political talk:" "Loose political talk doesn't stop school construction. Tight economic talk does."

Clark on educational TV: "I'm worried because I don't think the minister really realizes what's going on at Ottawa."

Capozzi: "Who does?"

Strachan, to deputy chairman Chabot while Bruch discussed federal Liberal leadership candidate Eric Kierans during education estimates: "Mr. Chairman, the regular chairman (Bruch) wouldn't allow this conduct."

Perrault, about education TV plans of the British labor government: "I don't care what kind of government it is—they're good plans."

An NDP voice: "Come on home, Ray."

NO CONFUSION ON OTTAWA STAND: HELLYER

Superport 'Ready by 1970'

OTTAWA (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked Tuesday for a full statement on the projected Roberts Bank port in British Columbia, claiming "there is much confusion about the federal government's position in this matter."

Transport Minister Hellyer said there is no confusion about it. The federal government wants the port, in Vancouver's southern outskirts, to be ready by March, 1970, and intends to go ahead and build it so that it will be ready.

He agreed to consider making a fuller statement on the project, however, when transport department estimates come before the Commons later this month.

In reply to D. V. Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) Mr. Hellyer said the federal government was just beginning a review of the country's port facilities and administration.

It would be some months before the government could say what "local participation" in federally operated ports might be permitted in the national interest.

Mr. Hellyer said the governments of the Prarie provinces have "considerable reservations" about British Columbia's desire to share in the running of Roberts Bank, which would be a major outlet for exports of grain, potash and Alberta coal.

"We decided that the best course of action would be to build the port, continue with our study, and at the same time keep an open mind about further discussion with the province at a later date as to the possibility of additional local representation."

QUESTIONED OFTEN

Mr. Hellyer has been under questioning almost daily in the Commons about Roberts Bank since the B.C. government moved into the picture, and he has been saying constantly that Ottawa is determined to go ahead with the $20,000,000 development.

Howard Johnston (SC — Okanagan-Revelstoke) asked Tuesday whether the federal government may submit its case to the Supreme Court of Canada.

He thought this might be done because of a review by the B.C. attorney - general's department of "the relative legal positions of the federal and provincial governments with regard to jurisdicition over Roberts Bank."

Mr. Hellyer said he had not seen the review Mr. Johston was talking about.

Mr. Johnston said it "indicates the strength of the provincial position."

Mr. Hellyer said the federal government hopes to get ahead with construction of the port without the interference of any "unnecessary legal obstacles."

The federal government has volunteered to co-operate with the province in reclaiming land for use by industries associated witht the port's development, he said.

He was waiting to hear whether Premier Bennett wants to pursue this proposal.

In reply to H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West) the transport minister said it is not necessary for the federal govenment to accept any money from the B.C. government for construction of the port itself.

Sooner or later, that day comes, the day when a woman feels she's changing. It's not a good feeling either. And she could use a good old-fashioned medicine then.

Could be you feel a little edgy, or maybe cross. You might even have what we call hot flashes and feel sad and slightly off-balance.

Whatever you feel, we have something for the day you need a little comforting. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle ingredients that work to give you a better sense of well-being. A sense of well-being you might lose when you start changing.

CITY OF PRINCE GEORGE LAND SALE

The City of Prince George will sell at auction, in the Council Chambers at City Hall, 1100 Patricia Boulevard, Prince George, at 3:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 11th, 1968, the following parcel of land zoned RM 3 Multiple Dwelling:

Amended Lot 1, Plan 16510, except Plan 16975, in District Lot 2610, Cariboo District, at an upset price of $116,800.00.

This land is located at First Avenue and Ospika Boulevard and is 4.88 acres, more or less in size, with a permitted density of construction of thirty (30) units per acre.

At this auction, bidding will be limited to those qualified under the Conditions of Sale which are available with other information from the undersigned.

ARRAN THOMSON, CITY MANAGER,
1100 Patricia Boulevard,
Prince George, B.C.

AUCTION FOR CHARITY

It's Top Secret Until You Buy It

Do you have a craving for the unknown, for purchasing surprise packages?

If so, your big opportunity is coming in two weeks—a Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored mystery auction.

The sale is being run March 28 and 29 to raise funds for a new building to house the White Cross Centre of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Present quarters used by the association are in a house on Lee Avenue, rented from Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"We're too cramped here," says CMHA executive director Mrs. Joan Dumka.

"We have an average of 25 members using the house every day, for rehabilitation and recreation. We have a terrible basement with a saw set up, and some of the members work on projects in the dining room.

"But we need larger quarters," Mrs. Dumka said.

Persons are steadily referred to the centre for mental after-care by doctors and Royal Jubilee Hospital's Bay Pavilion staff.

GROCERY STORE

CMHA has its eye on a Fort St. building that once housed a grocery store.

"But first we have to raise the down payment," Mrs. Dumka said.

The first night of the auction will be the traditional attic auction held every year by the CMHA—selling off goods that are donated from private citizens.

But that will be just a warmup for the second night of the auction when the element of mystery comes to the fore.

No one will know what they are bidding for—the three mystery articles will be a closely-guarded secret.

Joe Kampman, Jaycee in charge of the auction, said the sale will be a regular auction, with the mystery merchandise bargained off at intervals during the evening.

LOT OF MONEY

The only information he would divulge is that the articles will be donated by local businesses and that "they will be worth a lot of money."

Funds raised from the auction will go directly into the down-payment fund.

The CMHA has collected about $3,000, mostly through member donations and rummage sales. Mrs. Dumka said they will have to raise at least that amount again through the sale to buy the premises and renovate the interior.

Articles wanted for the auction include china, pottery, paintings, books, records, luggage, furniture, garden tools and handicrafts.

Faith Healing Provision Asked In Legislation

Workmen's compensation allowances should be paid to an injured worker who goes to a faith healer for a cure as well as to one going to a doctor, the legislature's labor committee was told Tuesday.

Edward T. Rand, chairman of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for B.C., proposed an amendment to the new workmen's compensation bill under study by the committee.

It would permit a workman, with the consent of his employer, to seek a cure "in good faith on treatment by prayer through spiritual means alone in accordance with the tenets and practice of a recognized church or religious denomination by a duly accredited practitioner thereof without suffering loss or diminution of his compensation benefits under this act."

Welfare Council To Hear Campbell

Welfare Minister Dan Campbell will address the annual meeting of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria Thursday at the Red Lion Motor Inn at 12:15 p.m.

He will speak on "Total War on Welfare Problems Needs Total Community Mobilization."

'Best Thing That's Ever Happened'

That's the discovery of 20 teen-aged boys from the Victoria Chapter of DeMolay who have decided to help a welfare family here rather than send the money to the needy in Greece, which is their usual practice.

Through the father of one of the members, they heard of a house in need of refurbishing on Cloverdale.

Two weeks ago they went along and prepared five rooms for painting.

Paint was donated and they started in Saturday with the painting, which they hope to finish next week.

"We chopped some firewood too," master councillor Arthur Joyce said. "We had to use wedges — it's no job for a woman."

SIX CHILDREN

They are helping a mother who was left alone with six children, aged 1½ to 9, three years ago.

The family gets along on social assistance, but as the condition of the house deteriorates, the mother finds it impossible to put money into upkeep.

"With so many young children, I must be home to look after them properly, so I can't work," she said. "I have to depend on social assistance, and what they won't pay for, I do without."

She receives $260 a month.

"The help from these boys is the best thing that's ever happened to us. It's showing the children that someone cares about them and they'll be able to take a pride in their home once this job's finished."

Auxiliary Police To Be Sworn

Victoria Magistrate J. A. Byers will swear in 24 special constables of the Auxiliary Police Service at a ceremony Thursday night.

The men have just completed a 20-week intensive training course to earn their auxiliary police certificates, an association official said today.

Certificates will be presented by Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant at the ceremony at the service's training hall, 4512 West Saanich Road in Royal Oak.

Those to be sworn in are: B. C. Akehurst, R. C. Baylis, L. J. Binks, R. J. Burgess, D. C. Coughlin, J. W. Edwards, R. W. Hatch, E. G. Hawkins, W. D. Hemming, P. J. Holden, K. A. Mossman, R. E. Neil, D. R. Oakley, J. W. Payne, J. S. Paxton, M. B. Perry, L. N. Reid, K. W. Skead, K. D. Sluggett, R. B. Smith, M. N. Sudds, C. R. Upward, R. K. Warren and J. B. Wright.

In addition to the swearing in ceremony, three special constables will be sworn in as corporals. They are: A. Stewart, F. Lindgren and A. Rowley.

Corporal I. S. Fredin will also be promoted to the rank of sergeant.

This is the 13th class to complete training since the auxiliary police program was organized in 1958.

Car Struck Three Vehicles

The driver of a car which struck three cars parked on Esquimalt Road early Saturday was fined $250 in central court Monday.

Sidney Colleypriest, 1444 Camosun, was fined $200 for failing to remain at the scene of the accident and $50 for careless driving.

Esquimalt police said Colleypriest's car struck three cars parked in a row causing a total of over $1,000 damage. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Hospital Rush Wards Are Instant Success

In its first 12 days of operation, Royal Jubilee Hospital's new instant surgery ward has cared for 77 patients.

St. Joseph's Hospital has used emergency ward beds in a similar crash program which is making dramatic gains on the 3,000-name hospital waiting lists.

The new procedure — bringing in selected cases as outpatients and sending them home for recuperation — was made possible recently when Health Minister W. D. Black announced the hospitals would be compenstated for day care surgery.

Under B.C. Hospital Insurance Service such cases now are treated with the patient paying a $2 fee and BCHIS assuming the balance. Previously there was no legal assurance that outpatient costs would be covered and the service was limited.

It is expected to greatly reduce the number of people waiting for simpler, elective surgery. Royal Jubilee has set up a six-bed ward that has handled as many as 14 patients per day.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Steven J. DeBellis, age 12, of St. Louis, Missouri, for his question:

What is a tuatara?

After a full day at the zoo, you may think you have been introduced to every fair-sized animal on this planet. Not at all. Chances are, you missed a captive tuatara from the Antipodes. You would remember him as a 30-inch dragon-type fellow. You might suspect that he is rather an unusual lizard.

The tuatara is called a living fossil because he is the sole survivor of a long-gone group of animals. His ancestors thrived in large numbers and vast varieties before the dinosaurs reached their monstrous peak. They were beak-headed reptiles of the Triassic Period that opened about 200 million years ago. Fossil remains found in many lands show that many beak-heads grew five or six feet in length. They were, of course, midgets beside the bulky dinosaurs of the Mesozoic Era. This may explain why the beak-heads began to decline. Scientists assumed that the last of them departed with the dinosaurs at the end of the Mesozoic Era, about 65 million years ago.

One species, however, survived and thrived securely into modern times. He found a home in New Zealand and on several nearby islands where none of the big, meat-eating animals ever encroached. His days of secret seclusion ended soon after settlers from Europe arrived to make their homes in far-off Australia and New Zealand. They were astonished by the outlandish kangaroo, the wallaby and an assortment of other unheard-of marsupials of Australia. Perhaps they were less surprised by the New Zealand tuatara. He looked like a doghouse-sized dragon and he seemed to be a lizard.

Protected by Law

When the experts found him, they were astonished. No, certainly he could not be classed as a small dragon. But neither was he a true lizard. He had the expandable lower jaw of a snake and certain features of the extinct beak-head reptiles. The sole survivor was given an order of his own and an animal family for himself alone. The New Zealand Maoris had named him Tuatara, meaning spiny back. Zoologists decided to keep this name for him. The living fossil is classified in the Tuatara Order and the Tuatara family. His name is pronounced too-a-tar-ra.

A sizable tuatara grows 2½ to 3 feet long. His lizard-type body is brownish olive and speckled with small yellow spots on each of his bumpy scales. From his neck to the tip of his tail, he has a crested row of spike-shaped scales. This, of course, accounts for his spiny-back name. The tuatara's most amazing feature is the dwindling remains of a third eye, right in the middle of his forehead. A three-eyed, lizard-type animal, you would think, just has to be dragon. But experts are positive that he is neither a dragon nor a lizard.

The tuatara is a harmless fellow, inclined to be friendly. Dogs and other meat-eaters that came with the settlers soon ended his days in New Zealand. Fortunately laws were passed to protect him before he was totally exterminated. He now lives securely on several nearby isles and islands. He shares his small world with flocks of nesting mutton birds and makes himself comfortable in their burrows. All possible enemies are banned from his refuges. Even the birds and the trees he enjoys are protected by law.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Rhonda Chambless, age 13, of Sarepta, Louisiana, for her question:

Was a real body buried in the grave of the Unknown Soldier?

No nation can express its full heart-felt grief for the young men who lose their lives in warfare. But a nation can try. After the First World War, the allied nations tried to honor their dead with a special token. Each nation took an unknown body from the torn battlefields. It was buried with the national honors usually reserved only for heroes. And the tomb became a national shrine. Yes, there is a body in the tomb.

The tomb of Canada's and other Commonwealth countries' Unknown Soldiers is in Westminster Abbey, London, England.

YOUR HEALTH

There's Hope For Autistic Children

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Some time ago, Dr. Margaret Lovatt of Toronto wrote an excellent article on some 200 children studied at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto—all suffering from some form of childhood schizophrenia. A large number of them were called autistic, because of their isolation and withdrawal from all contact with people.

Alvarez

These children were unresponsive even to their mothers; they seemed to live in a dream-world of their own, unrelated to anything outside them. They appeared to be mentally retarded, most of them lacked speech, or seemed to refuse to learn to talk, or to talk if they had learned some words. They did not play like other children do. They might seem to play a bit, but always with one toy, and twirling that in some queer, weird way.

As all psychiatrists know, these children do not seem to be able to feel any affection for anybody, even their mother. As Margaret Lovatt said, the children either do not learn much speech, or if they do, they do not use it to communicate with others. They may keep parroting phrases such as they may have heard many times in television commercials.

Even their play is compulsive, aimless, a mere handling of things, and it seems to give them little if any pleasure. If left to themselves, some may spend hours just sifting sand or playing with bits of paper. As one watches them, one wonders how anyone can ever learn to help them. Actually, a teacher will first try to get the child interested in playing properly with a toy, using it sensibly; and as she does this she will try to keep him from withdrawing into his inner world of silence and complete unconcern.

A schizophrenic child finds great difficulty in distinguishing between the characteristics of inanimate objects and people. He has to learn that it hurts a child if you kick him, but it does not hurt a ball. Also, without any concept of space and time, he may try to squeeze himself into a tiny box, or he may be unable to understand why some of the things he wants to happen cannot happen instantly—"right now."

It is hard to teach him even how to use a swing or a slide; he is too afraid of them. If taken into a playroom where there are normal children, he will ignore them or seem to look right through them. Perhaps he will brush their toys off onto the floor, and then he will go out.

The first sign of some success may be that he will imitate what healthy children are doing; but he will not yet join them in their activities. Some of the autistic children will eventually learn to play, but their relationship with normal children has "in no instance become very close." Sometimes when introduced into a normal group of children, the autistic child's behavior will become so very disruptive that he will have to be taken out.

What can give great hope to many parents of autistic children is that Dr. Lovatt says that four of their first graduates are now in the second and third grades, and "are doing remarkably well."

I am so glad to see that Dr. Lovatt feels that the usual theories that cause psychiatrists to blame the parents of the autistic children aren't always correct.

Heavy Increases in Ontario Taxes

MacNAUGHTON
. . . keep down deficit

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario citizens started paying more today to refuel motor vehicles and planes, smoke and play the horses as a result of tax changes announced in the legislature Tuesday by Treasurer Charles MacNaughton.

On July 1, they will pay more for provincial hospital and medical coverage, and $5 to $10 more to license a car on Dec. 1. Owners of trucks weighing up to three tons face a $10 increase when their plates expire next March 31. Car registration costs now are $15 for a four-cylinder vehicle, $20 for six cylinders and $25 for eight cylinders.

No date was set for a number of other changes, including introduction of a $3 resident angling licence and increases in resident hunting licences.

In presenting his budget for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969, Mr. MacNaughton raised by one cent a gallon the provincial tax on aviation fuel and by two cents the tax on a gallon of gasoline and diesel fuel.

The tax on cigarettes jumped four cents for a pack of 20 while the tax on pari-mutuel betting at race tracks rose to seven from six per cent of the take.

A pack of 20 cigarettes now sells for 46 cents in most of Ontario. A gallon of regular gasoline sells for between 45 and 49 cents in major centres. Premium gasoline retails for as high as 53 cents a gallon. Prices are higher in Northern Ontario.

Minutes after Mr. MacNaughton presented his second budget since being appointed treasurer in November, 1966, the legislature gave first reading to four bills formalizing the increases that went into effect today.

There is no chance of the bills being defeated in the 117-seat house that holds 69 Conservatives, 28 Liberals and 20 New Democrats.

Mr. MacNaughton said in forecasting record government spending of $2,780,000,000—up $489,000,000 from 1967-68—that the tax changes were necessary to keep the provincial deficit at $252,000,000.

They would add an estimated $105,000,000 to provincial coffers in the next fiscal year while increases in hospital and medical care premiums would raise them "to levels that reflect the true cost of operating these plans."

The new monthly rate for the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan will be $5.90 for a single person, $11.80 for married couples and $14.75 for families.

Current rates are $5, $10 and $12.50 respectively.

The Ontario hospital care insurance plan rates will be $5.50 for single persons and $11 for married couples with or without families, up from $3.25 and $6.50.

Mr. MacNaughton said the government would spend $78,000,000 to support the hospital plan, a drop of $12,000,000 over the previous year, and $37,000,00 on OMSIP, an increase of $12,000,000.

Total health department expenditures would come to $396,454,000; an increase of $37,712,000 over 1967-68.

Canada Safeway Limited Statement regarding press reports of Prairie Commission Report:

"We in Safeway are frankly perplexed as well as shocked by what has been reported in the Press as the conclusions of the Prairie Commission.

"We categorically and emphatically deny that Canada Safeway has derived any excessive profits, in any area of Canada, from discriminatory discounts in our procurement, as alleged, or from our retail pricing, as also charged, or from any other source.

"A year or so ago, Safeway co-operated fully in the investigation of the Prairie Provinces Cost Study Commission, under the Chairmanship of Judge Mary J. Batten. We submitted extensively detailed records of Safeway Operations in the Prairies, including our Departmental gross margins, our store operating expenses, and our Stores' net operating profits. We also provided a great deal of additional information concerning Safeway's pricing and operating policies and practices. Although we have not yet been able to examine the Commission's Report in detail, the charges recently publicized do not appear to be merited, in any way, by the facts clearly revealed by Safeway Submissions to the Batten Commission, and to other investigatory bodies.

"In early 1967, for example, Safeway responded to the request of the Chartered Accountants firm of Clarkson, Gordon & Co., which conducted an exhaustive study for the Special Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Commons. That report documented the fact that profitability rates of Canadian Food Retailing Chains, including Safeway, were only slightly higher than in the United States as a percentage of sales. Moreover, chain food retailing profits in Canada were about equal as percentages of equity, and were, in fact, lower than in the United States as ratios to the assets employed. Furthermore, that study clearly demonstrated that good profits are not derived simply from higher prices, but rather from more efficient operations, often at lower prices. We believe our Prairie Operations are efficient, and we are certainly striving to make them more efficient . . . not only to keep them profitable, but also to help curb the impact upon our customers of the inflationary forces at work throughout our economy.

"The recently publicized criticisms of Prairie Food Retailing appear to have been based upon misconception and theoretical conjecture, rather than upon the by now well documented record.

"Safeway regrets this unfortunate and misleading publicity. But we pledge that we shall continue to serve our customers in the Prairies as well as throughout our Canadian operating areas with quality products, at fair and reasonable prices, in convenient and attractive facilities. We are grateful for the confidence in Safeway which our customers have proven by their patronage. And we fully intend to continue to conduct our business as efficiently as possible within our own operations, with fairness to our suppliers and to our customers alike. This is the way, and the only way, by which we may competitively earn the nominal profit rates necessary to conduct a successful food retailing business in our growing Canadian Economy."

Bibliology Of Early B.C. Printed

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A little over two-and-a-half years ago, Barbara Lowther, newly graduated from library school, was assigned by the Social Science Research Centre of University of Victoria, to compile a bibliology of British Columbia for the years 1849 to 1899—the first of its kind in the province.

She started with an ideal of a perfect bibliology. She had worked at McGill University on the Lande Collection of Canadiana, considered to be the finest book ever produced in Canada. Her name appears in the preface as indexer.

Forbes

So, in compiling the British Columbia effort, it was the Lande standard she adopted.

"We didn't reach its perfection," she told me as she turned the pages of the British Columbia effort "Laying The Foundations", published this month. "We didn't have their kind of money."

That may be true. But in aiming for the ideal, Barbara Lowther has produced a book that compares favorable with it.

Included in the 328 pages are the titles of several thousand publications that deal in whole or part with some phase of life in the British Columbia of the chosen period. Authors' names are given and there are short annotations on them and on their subjects.

I asked what was entailed in finding and selecting the chosen items. Time, effort and complete absorption in the project for the full two-and-a-half years, Barbara Lowther said.

She had two librarians working with her. Also a small clerical staff.

In all, 34,000 catalogued books and pamphlets were checked. Of these, 2,173 were chosen.

One thousand, seven hundred of that number was found in the provincial archives here. "After going over shelf after shelf reaching from floor to ceiling and crowded with every imaginable type of writing."

This necessitated climbing up and down an old-fashioned ladder, making selections for further study and then climbing up and down again to return the books to their proper places.

While Mrs. Lowther was busy with the non-fiction items on the main floor of the archives, one of her librarians, Miss Muriel Laing, was in the tower going over the fiction collection.

Miss Laing worked along a narrow passage, lined two deep with books. She had a single electric light bulb attached to a coat hanger above an orange box she used for a seat and desk. Her principal weapons of attack, besides pen and paper, were a duster and a dust mop.

At Ottawa' national library, where Mrs. Lowther spent several months, she discovered "a terrific source" of material, on card forms encompassing 10 volumes with 25 thousand entries of literature dealing with Canadian works 1867 to 1900. From these cards she chose 500 that "might" relate.

Then she had to "go looking" for the publications, in the archives and the parliamentary and national libraries at Ottawa, in Toronto libraries, at the Glenbow Foundation in Calgary and in a swing around to various libraries in the Pacific Northwest.

When that phase of her research was completed, only about half of the 500 books culled from the Ottawa cards were relative and could be included in the B.C. bibliology.

Every entry in the book had to be checked and double checked.

First names of the authors and their birthdays had to be established. Places and dates of publication had to be authenticated. Once the book reached the printers there were proofs to read. "Proofs ... proofs ... and more proofs!"

Greatest responsibility Mrs. Lowther believes, was centred in the need "for critical but not biased judgment." It was important that there be no prejudice, for or against an item. Two main highlights were essential, physical description and correct annotation.

Now that the bibliology is off the press, would Barbara Lowther like to compile another in the series that will eventually include explorations and 20th century writings?

Perhaps! First however, she'd prefer "to rest a bit." This means working at the reference desk in the Uvic library "and loving every minute of it!"

9 IN MEMORIAM

MORTON—In loving memory of my dear husband William, who passed away March 13, 1967
Many a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear
But always a beautiful memory
Of one I loved so dear.
—Lovingly remembered by his loving wife Jessie and Family.

MORTON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Morton, who passed away March 13, 1967.
We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep
But still within our aching hearts
His memory we keep.
—His loving daughter Evelyn, son-in-law Allen and grandchildren Marjorie and Robert.

SEEDHOUSE—In loving memory of my dear husband and a loving father:
Four years have passed since that sad day,
Your Heavenly Father called you away,
But, sealed in my heart, your love will stay,
When, one glad day we will meet again
And then never, no never, part again.
The Good Lord knew what was best for you,
But, we cannot Lord thy purpose see
Though all is well, when done by thee,
So, sleep on beloved, sleep, and take thy rest.
—Your loving wife Elizabeth and all the family.

(CLEAR TITLE)

Situated just off Austin, close to bus and store, this little bungalow is a gem. Perfect for the retired couple or even a person on their own who wish economical living and a nice garden. The home is spotless. The living room has new turquoise wall to wall carpet. There has been considerable modernization resulting in one good sized bedroom and an electric kitchen plumbed and wired for washer and dryer, combined with very nice dining area. (THE WASHER, DRYER AND ELECTRIC RANGE ARE INCLUDED). There is an almost new automatic gas heating unit. Outside there is a tool shed with work bench, separate garage and a greenhouse. The well maintained garden has a laburnum tree, lawn and rockery plants in front and several ornamental flowering fruit trees in the completely fenced rear yard. If you live in an apartment and are missing your garden, don't fail to see this one. Net annual taxes are only $48. Sorry, a substantial down payment is required. DRIVE BY 508 DAVIDA and then call me if you're interested. Call Mr. Yells, 382-2101, Res. 383-5039.

HOUSE ADJOURNMENT EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Possibility of the present session of Parliament adjourning this weekend appeared to disappear today when the New Democratic Party indicated it wanted to get one or more additional pieces of legislation passed before it rose for the Liberal leadership convention.

Members of Parliament are now looking for the House to adjourn next Tuesday or Wednesday.

This will give the Liberal leadership candidates little time to intensify their campaigns before the convention takes place April 4.

. . . MOTHERS

the rules for the demonstration.

"The most important thing is that we all recognize the seriousness of what we are about," he said.

He said in order for the community to support the Low Income Group in the campaign which it hopes to extend over four weeks, "we've got to show that we are good citizens."

He said, "our strength comes from our right" and he said that in order for the final civil disobedience to carry weight (the sit-in) all laws up to that point must be respected.

"We must show we know the seriousness of what we are doing and that we are conscious of the responsibility and recognize the seriousness of what we are doing."

SIDEWALKS ONLY

He cautioned the group to march to the Buildings using the sidewalks only, in two columns, each pair of marchers four to five feet apart.

Group president Mrs. Donna Langstaff and Mrs. Elaine Olszewski led the parade. Mr. Clarkson warned that the signs carried on the march (the largest said "Justice and Freedom For Our Children") must not be carried into the Buildings.

The plan was to enter the legislative chamber and take seats and it was anticipated the house would rise at midnight. Then the marchers were to gather in the rotunda and seat themselves around the wall—"We don't want to obstruct anybody."

NO SMOKING

Mr. Clarkson added, "Unless we are there a long time you shouldn't smoke. It doesn't make a good impression."

He said the sitters should be prepared to stay all night if necessary and must be prepared for the fact the government might ignore them.

"If anyone comes and makes any effort to remove us, make no reply. And the minute they touch you we'll leave—and leave as a group.

"If people try to provoke you, do not respond. If there is any sort of upset which may reflect on us, we will leave the Buildings."

He said that once the authorities began to remove the demonstrators they would have committed their civil disobedience.

MET BENNETT

Mr. Clarkson said he had had a last-minute meeting with Premier Bennett late in the afternoon Tuesday.

"He wouldn't listen to any compromise. He just started talking and you couldn't get a word in edgewise. It's a technique he uses."

The demonstrators followed Mr. Clarkson's every word. The walk through downtown Victoria was completed almost in silence with the only comment the occasional hooted insult from youths in cars.

They were unhindered in entering the Buildings and were admitted to the public galleries in small groups. But soon after midnight, the debates began to pall and several gathered in the hallways. Some began to drift away.

ALONG WELL

By 3:30 a.m., with signs of exhaustion evident, the group decided to stage its sit-in without waiting for the house to rise. Twenty-six people seated themselves along the wall.

No one interfered with them except a television reporter who sat among them while pictures were taken. Soon some were asleep. They were visited by several MLAs but no government representative.

A group of RCMP officers and civilian guards were apparent throughout most of the evening but they disappeared then the house rose.

The demonstrators left with the admonition from Mr. Clarkson:

"Tomorrow we form up at Bastion Square. Be there before 5:15 p.m."

He was to speak to University of Victoria students today to enlist more support for the demonstrations.

Woodwynn Farm Scores Win At Kamloops Show

Mr. Turner, formerly of Victoria, is the son of the late Jim Turner, a pioneer exhibitor who was part of the annual show for 39 years, who farmed at Sayward Beach, Victoria.

Piped Water Soon For Residents Of Prospect Lake

Prospect Lake area residents should be able to drink piped water next month.

Saanich engineer Neville Life said Tuesday he expects the watermain extension work will be finished in four or five weeks.

Residents currently draw their water from the lake or from wells, but for several years have been told to boil domestic water coming from the lake.

Last September, 166 property owners voted 66 per cent in favor of a bylaw to extend municipal water mains.

Cost is $226,455 with $86,455 coming from Saanich waterworks fund. Interest on the $143,000 to be borrowed and repaid by area residents over 20 years was given as $117,910 in the bylaw.

Viet Debate Sought In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate's Vietnam war doubts spilled over into the house Tuesday with members demanding a review of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia before any major war escalation is undertaken.

Rep. Paul Findley, R—Ill., triggered an outburst on the house floor when he announced that his 1967 resolution to reappraise the Gulf of Tonkin resolution carried 120 co-sponsors or about one-quarter of the house's 433-man membership.

Reps. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., and John Dent, D-Pa., accused the Findley group and dissidents on the Senate foreign relations committee of trying to "second-guess" the president.

'WOULD HELP UNITY'

But Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., brother of Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, said a full-scale debate on Vietnam would aid in unifying a divided nation.

"Don't regard it (Findley's resolution) as a hawkish or a dovish resolution," Udall said. "It's a congress resolution. It says we in congress should be in on the take-off."

Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., said he was not against the principle of congressional participation in the decision-making process, but disputed Udall's claim that President Johnson was considering a request for 200,000 additional troops to be sent to Vietnam.

"We shouldn't act on the basis of what's in the newspapers," Carey told Udall. "I prefer to take my recommendations from the president of the United States."

Cleanup Starts April 22

The annual spring cleanup in Saanich will start April 22 and continue for two weeks.

Garbage trucks will pick up discarded material on a rotation basis and residents will be informed of details, engineer Nevill Life told public works committee Tuesday night.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said it will be a good time for residents to improve their property and get rid of accumulated junk.

The committee also decided to send to the solicitor a rough draft of a bylaw to regulate junked and discarded cars on private property.

And police chief W. A. Pearson will be asked for a review of the strets and traffic bylaw and the problems of enforcement.

Committee chairman Coun. William Campbell said it is "not unusual" to drive through Saanich and see an accumulation of old cars.

Development officer Joseph Barber-Starkey said the new compulsory motor vehicle testing station, due to open June 1, will produce a "major problem." He recommended it be tacked on a regional basis.

Group Studies Use Of Schools

A committee established to study greater utilization of public school facilities in B.C. is inviting opinions from interested organizations and individuals, Education Minister Peterson announced Tuesday.

The committee, under chairmanship of J. L. Canty, coordinator of services for the department of education, has already had its first meeting, Mr. Peterson said.

He said the committee will include in its investigation possible use of a quarter and semester system and alternative organization of the school day for greater utilization of facilities.

South To Invade North?

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government's chief spokesman said today that a volunteer "liberation army" is being formed to invade North Vietnam.

U.S. officials expressed surprise at the report.

The spokesman, Nguyen Ngoc Linh, director-general of information, said the invasion army would be made up of Vietnamese who are "sick and tired of those people who want to 'liberate' South Vietnam." This was a reference to the Viet Cong, who call themselves the South Vietnamese Liberation Army.

Vietnam Press, the government news agency, reported earlier today that authoritative sources had said a "high-ranking member of the vice-president's office is forming a March-to-the-North army." The vice-president is Nguyen Cao Ky, the former commander of the air force who was premier for two years before he and President Nguyen Van Thieu were elected last fall.

Linh told a reporter the new force would ask the government to provide it arms and ammunition and would be called the North Vietnam Liberation Army. He said it would consist of guerrillas and would not be part of the regular South Vietnamese Army.

U.S. officials had no comment.

Israeli exports dropped $300,000 during January compared with January, 1967, to a total value of $16,000,000.

Will History Repeat In Khe Sahn Siege?

SAIGON (AP) — By day, green, mist-shrouded hills from a military plane, there was little to see but the dark brooding over a seemingyl empty land.

By night, the earth spat fire.

A ring of death surrounded the fortress. Planes no longer could land there. It had to be supplied and reinforced by air.

That was Dien Bien Phu toward the end of the road for the French.

The decisive battle began 14 years ago today. It ended May 7. And with it ended France's colonial empire in Asia.

Many in Vietnam wonder: Is Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the military mastermind of that 1954 battle, seeking another Dien Bien Phu for precisely the same reasons he sought the first victory, at a frightful cost in human life?

YEARNED VICTORY

The 1954 victory was as much psychological as military—perhaps much more important psychologically. The build-up for the battle had begun months earlier. As Giap built, there was talk of an international meeting to bring the war to an end. Giap desperately wanted a big victory, to have a winning hand at the table.

Today there is frequent talk of the possibility of a conference. Some here say they are convinced that the Communist offensive of the lunar new year was intended to seek a winning hand in the event of talks.

By the time the 1954 agreement was reached on Geneva talks opening in April, Giap was ready, patiently awaiting his opportunity to isolate the French and starve them out of a fortress designed originally as the bait to lure him into battle.

The psychological moment was at hand. France was in an uproar over the war. For a long time it had looked hopeless. Giap and his chief, Ho Chi Minh, saw a chance to win the war more quickly in Paris than in the hills of Tonkin.

SYMPTOMS APPARENT

Some of the things you hear the Americans saying today about the Viet Cong you heard the French say 14 years ago about the Viet Minh, Ho's Communist League for Independence. The sort of war Ho and Giap were fighting was new and bewildering for a French army accustomed to classical war on fixed fronts.

Frenchmen had looked with scorn on the little men they called "les-jaunes"—the yellows—and considered them cowards for scattering and running away from superior forces. The French could not understand why "les jaunes" would never get involved in a "set-piece" battle, the sort the French wanted, so that superior forces could mow the enemy down.

The Viet Minh, unless they were sure of victory, would melt away into the countryside. Their war was one of ambush, of sporadic terror in the cities, of long and patient attrition.

By French estimate, the Viet Minh had 300,000 men, many of them conscripts dragooned against their wills but others considering themselves patriots fighting to drive out the foreigner. The French had their own forces of 200,000 along with 200,000 in a Vietnamese army. But—as is the case today—the Vietnamese army fighting with the foreigner often was ineffective against the shadowy foe. As today, young men dodged the draft or bought their way out of it.

It is the suddenly enigmatic Kennedy who is more likely to be the major concern of the men who work for Lyndon Johnson.

McCarthy did not talk like a man who would willingly step aside to see Kennedy take over the torch of dissent to Johnson's leadership.

"I intend to go on in Wisconsin and on to California," McCarthy said. "I've said that I would run as long as anyone wanted me to. And I mean to do that."

Wisconsin is the next state to vote on potential presidential nominees balloting April 2.

NO PRIMARY RIVAL

On the Republican ballot, Nixon was left without a real rival when Michigan Gov. George Romney withdrew as a presidential candidate 12 days before the primary.

While Rockefeller brushed off the vote in advance, saying Nixon "deserved it, he's worked hard for it," the former vice-president said the returns "far exceed our expectations."

Nixon said the outcome would "put pressure on Rockefeller to get in or get out."

Rockefeller said he would decide by March 22 whether to become an active, declared candidate for the Republican nomination. That is the deadline for withdrawal from the Oregon primary—which looms as the New Yorker's chosen battleground with Nixon.

ADMIRING decorations made by patients at St. Mary's Priory are Sister Mary Elizabeth, left, and Sister Laurice Beaudry, from Minnesota, featured speaker at Rehabilitation Workshop.

AT NURSING HOMES

Aged 'Renewing Lost Abilities'

By KATHRINE THOMAS

"Doesn't it bother you to work with the elderly?" people used to ask Sister Laurice Beaudry.

"Yes," was the reply, "it bothers me enough to do something about it."

Sister Beaudry has been doing something about it ever since she entered nursing.

Now director of the St. Francis Nursing Home in Breckenridge, Minnesota, she was in town last week for a day-long rehabilitation workshop at St. Mary's Priory.

"I've always had a love for older people ever since I was young," she recalled. "As a night nursing supervisor I used to sit up with them."

From nursing, Sister Beaudry soon moved into the field of administration. She spent eight years at St. Otto's Nursing Home in Little Falls, Minn. and in 1960 moved to St. Francis.

132 PATIENTS

At St. Francis she is in charge of 132 patients and 90 staff who are engaged in an imaginative attempt in rehabilitating the elderly through physiotherapy, occupational therapy, recreational therapy and social service.

For the past four years she was also chairman of a National Conference on Aging sponsored by the Catholic Hospital Association.

"We feel it's important that older people remain active for as long as possible even though they may be afflicted with an infirmity or disability," she says.

"Everyone prizes their independence and since an elderly person is a human being we want to give them every opportunity to exercise their independence to the very end of their days.

"In doing this we help them to help themselves in every possible way we can. We use the means of encouragement, reassurance, challenge, competition, recognition, praise and tender loving care."

Sister Beaudry feels the greatest effort must be made to make the aging self-sufficient and self-reliant within the scope of their capabilities.

"The key to the success of a nursing home," she says, "is good communication to effect good resident care. The staff needs to be open and communicative in regard to the resident's response to every effort made by the staff."

Great strides have been made in the past 10 years in understanding the need to renew the lost abilities, interests and activities of the elderly.

"For years people had the misgiving that the elderly with disabilities were not capable of doing their former activities.

"We have found this to be untrue since every capability can be strengthened even to the extent where one who has only his voice left can use it in many ways such as dictating to a secretary, emceeing a radio program, phoning the handicapped in a telephone assurance program and giving guidance to teen-agers."

COUNSELLING

St. Francis also gives counselling advice to families of their patients through their social service department.

"We correspond constantly with families and they are invited for activities in the home," says Sister Beaudry.

A concerted effort is also made to make young people and even children understanding and concerned about the elderly.

The nursing home has produced a coloring book that educates small children with regard to the aging. Teen-agers are also hired in an attempt to help acquaint them with the field and St. Francis sponsors writing contests for youngsters on such themes as "Why we should respect older people."

"We all also have many volunteers of all ages," says Sister Beaudry. "They have found that they really enjoy it."

IT'S BAD NEWS FOR JOHNSON

By JACK BELL

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Johnson can expect the storm of criticism over his Vietnam policies to grow in national fury as a result of the outcome of the New Hampshire primary.

While the president's supporters may dismiss as insignificant the verdict by about 53,000 Democrats in a state that is Republican by a two-to-one margin, the inescapable fact is that when he and his policies were tested at the polls for the first time in this presidential year Johnson could barely manage to get 48 per cent of the vote.

Added to this is the fact that a heavy turnout of Republicans, reaching nearly 100,000, gave 79 per cent of their votes to former vice-president Richard Nixon, who concentrated his campaign attacks on Johnson.

When politicians add all of this up, they are likely to call it a psychological setback for the president.

The performance of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in racking up 42 per cent of the Democratic vote is certain to give the war critics a shot in the arm that will spur them to greater efforts to dynamite Johnson's policies.

BECOMES HOPEFUL

McCarthy began his low-keyed campaign with the announced intention of stimulating debate within the party and forcing the president to change his war course. Not until recent days has he become starry-eyed with the belief that perhaps he might prevent Johnson's renomination.

McCarthy's showing under drumfire attack on him as an appeaser whose victory would give comfort to Hanoi has demonstrated that he and other candidates can stand up under this kind of political infighting.

Colleagues who have muted their criticism of the president in an election year are likely to become bolder in speaking out against him. If McCarthy, little known in New Hampshire, could come close to beating the president, they will feel that there is a strong wind against Johnson's ship on its present course.

The squads of youngsters who joined in ringing doorbells, passing out leaflets and doing all of the hard chores of campaigning for McCarthy indicated that there is a reservoir of support available for an anti-war candidate.

Candidates who share McCarthy's dissent are likely to try to organize their own youth teams of volunteers, particularly if their opponents support Johnson's policies.

Arthur Mayse

For a start today, here is a letter from Pascagoula, Miss., where former Victoria Machinery Depot boilermaker William Lyons and his family are shaping a new life.

"I've been hearing so much about the griping and complaining regarding the 'Mississippi Move' that I just have to speak out," Mrs. Lyons writes.

"I was born in Victoria, and I had never lived anywhere else. I left my Mum and Dad and all my relatives and friends when we moved. We sold our house and furniture. But when I speak of Victoria, I cannot say 'home,' because home is where my husband and three children are.

"Certainly the way of life is a bit different here, but then again, we're not cut off from civilization, either. My husband is doing one of the dirtiest jobs in the yard, but the men did similar jobs in Victoria without complaint. Working and living here, we know that we'll not have to go on welfare. In Victoria, that was questionable.

"Most of us have only been here a month, and I don't think that's long enough to judge. But we have not been treated any differently than a newcomer to Victoria would be. Also, we did not expect a royal reception just because we are Canadian."

Mrs. Lyons finds the Negro's situation "ugly" in her adopted town, but does not see it as basically different from the Canadian Indian's.

"I look on this move as a good opportunity to see different parts of a country both scenic and historic," she concludes.

A stout-hearted letter, and I learn from union sources that a good many like it are being received from ex-Victorians whom the VMD closure forced to up-stakes and head south.

On Tuesday I told you about a Montrealer who, though she likes our city, would sooner fight than switch. Not all who come visiting from the Eastern townships are so stubborn, however, and I am glad to report that B.C. has wooed and won two keen and skilful anglers from Ontario.

They are Ed and Mair Wiskin, a couple who came here in the course of a trailer honeymoon from Ottawa two summers ago, and as many another has done before them, got hooked.

When I last mentioned this pair, their trailer was grounded under Goldstream Park's dripping fir trees, and they were stubbornly waiting the return of spring.

The elastic honeymoon extended yet another summer. Not until the salmon were into their autumn spawning run did Mair and Ed set off for an Ottawa neglected, except for a couple of look-ins by plane, for about two years.

But they didn't stay.

Ed, a builder, has set up shop in West Vancouver, and on clear days, he and Mair look wistfully across toward their promised land. A few years in West Van, they assure us, then they'll be over here, not just for vacations, but for keeps.

North at Campbell River, where celebrating tame apes once washed the bark-dust from their throats with overproof Demarara, I sat down last week to a well-mixed martini.

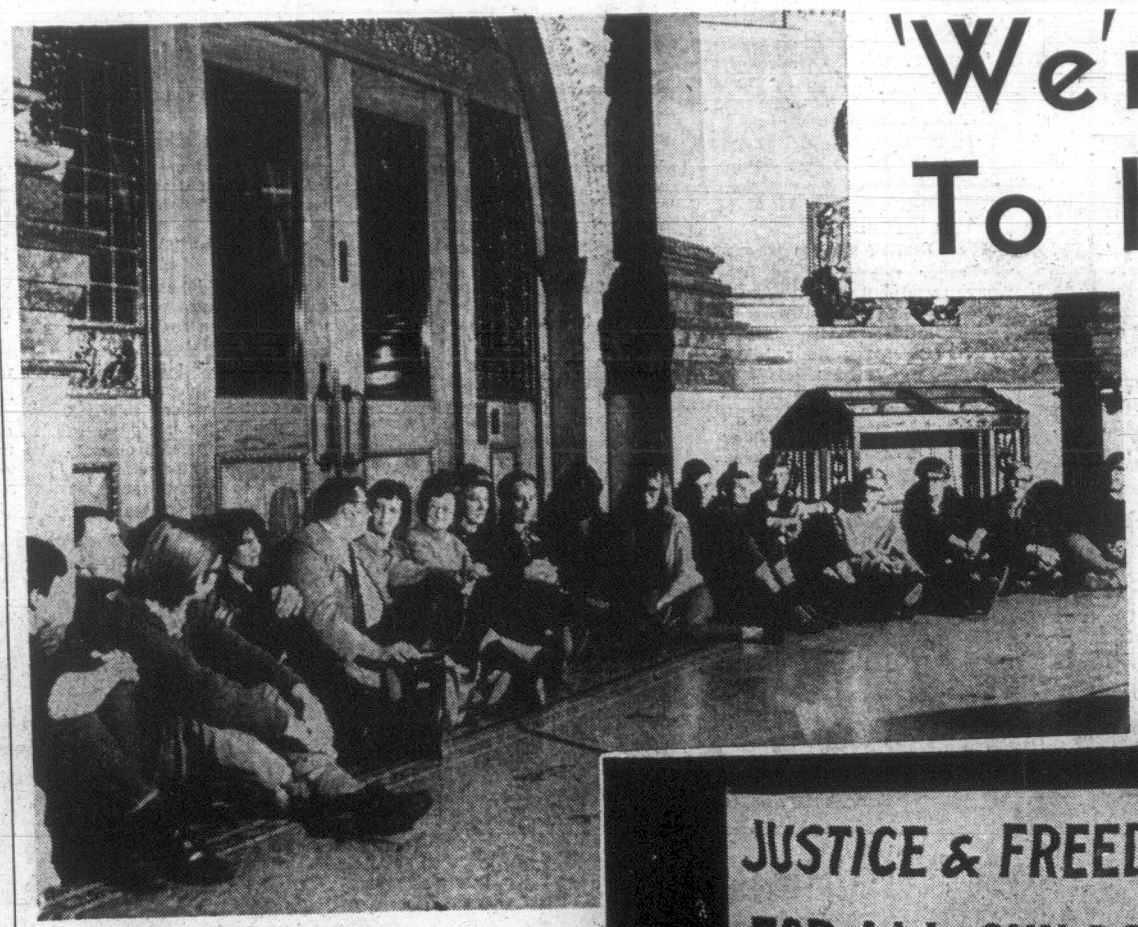
Then, after nibbling a couple of dainty hors d'oeuvres, up by elevator to a Driftwood Inn room that included among its furnishings a bed vibrator.

This device, if you've never encountered one, is supposed to rest the restless, and lull the insomniac into blissful sleep. Even though no lulling was needed, I dropped a quarter into the neat little control box.

Then, while the vibrator got in its licks, I fell to remembering the Campbell River we knew before its boosters began referring to it as a city. There was a government wharf, a general store, the Willows Hotel (a fire razed it), and damn-little else.

"This town has a real future," the old man who sat in the sun on the landing used to assure us in pre-vibrator days. We smiled then. But . . . between drowsily-chattering teeth . . . it seems he was right after all.

'We're Going Back To House Tonight'



NEARING THE END of their first sit-in at 4:30 this morning, mothers of Victoria Low Income Group had plenty of support form other more fortunate mothers and university students. The weary group left the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings at 5:30 vowing to return tonight.

Sit-In Mothers Stay All Night

By PETE LOUDON

With those words Reg. Clarkson, parade marshal of the first sit-in ever held in the B.C. Legislative Buildings, dismissed his troops at 5:30 this morning.

With that, 26 members of Victoria Low Income Group and supporters, got up from the floor of the rotunda where they had sat unchallenged for more than two hours.

"We've got to come back tonight so we've got to preserve ourselves," said Mr. Clarkson.

If there was chagrin at the fact their protest against welfare rates was unrecognized by the government officially, it was hidden.

Everyone who sat through the long night was satisfied the government was fully aware of the protest and that accounted for the late, late session.

They felt they had outsat the Premier. And they planned to be back at the legislative chambers before 6 tonight.

The demonstration had started 10 hours earlier. Mothers of the Low Income Group had arranged babysitters and turned out at First United Church prepared to risk arrest in a civil disobedience aimed at winning government consent to an unbiased arbitration board to consider higher welfare rates.

TWO CLERICS

Backing them and swelling their numbers to 75, were a group of sympathetic mothers who were not on welfare, a group of University of Victoria students and two clergymen, Rev. A. G. MacLeod of St. Aidans and a missionary just returned from Africa, Fred Anderson.

The group sat in a circle while Mr. Clarkson laid down

UP TO COUNCIL

New Pool By Summer Of Next Year?

Victoria should have a new swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden by the summer of 1969.

The city's recreation and community services committee went on record this morning as favoring the phasing out of the old Garden and the building of a new public swimming complex.

The committee's decision will now go to city council as a strong recommendation.

The committee made its decision after receiving a special committee report on the pool.

It will recommend that:

- The Crystal be discontinued as a community swimming pool and phased out of operation in as short a time as possible.
- That a new pool be constructed in the general area of Central Park, Royal Athletic Park and the Memorial Arena.
- That the committee immediately start detailed site studies for further recommendation to council.
- That the committee commence immediate studies on the most desirable pool design.
- And that land acquisition for the new pool be paid for with money borrowed from the McPherson Estate fund now standing at $1.2 million.

$650,000 TOTAL

Total cost of the new pool, including land acquisition, was estimated at $650,000.

Cost of the pool itself has been estimated at between $350,000 and $500,000.

Of the recommendations brought in by the study committee only one was tabled.

That was the suggestion the Crystal be demolished and the site disposed of at a price compatible with its highest and best land use.

It was suggested the disposition of the site be tabled until greater progress has been made on the construction of a new pool and until a final decision is made on the location of a proposed convention centre for the city.

The committee was informed that just keeping the Crystal operative for the next three years would cost $105,000 and to bring it up to reasonable standards would cost nearly $600,000.

No target date was set for the completion of the new pool but city manager Dennis Young said if an immediate start is made it could be ready in a minimum of 18 months with two years a more likely period.

"Construction, based on local experience, starting in the early fall of this year could see a new pool ready for use in the summer of 1969," Mr. Young said.

Argus Replaces Comox Neptunes

Bigger Sub-Hunters Coming West In June From Eastern Squadrons

The Neptune submarine-hunting aircraft based at Comox will be phased out of service by the end of June, department officials disclosed today.

The eight twin-engined Neptunes will be replaced by six of the larger four-engined Argus aircraft gleaned from other squadrons across Canada.

Twelve Neptunes in service on Canada's east coast will also be taken out of service.

$8 MILLION

The move is expected to save annually in personnel, maintenance and operating costs.

There are now three Argus squadrons in the east with eight aircraft each. They will be reduced to six each, the remainder coming to Comox.

MORE RANGE

Defence officials said because of the greater range of the Argus, replacing eight Neptunes with six Argus will increase the Comox-based squadron's operational capabilities.

The American-built Neptune carries a crew of 10 and replaced the Second World War Lancasters in 1957.

The Canadian-built Argus carries a crew of 15 and first went into service with the then Royal Canadian Air Force in 1958.

The switch to the larger aircraft is expected to result in a slight increase in the number of personnel attached to the maritime command squadron of CFB Comox.

Water Board Merger Urged On Peninsula

Establishment of a new water district to cope with the needs of the northern end of the Saanich peninsula was advocated today by Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee.

The peninsula has four water districts — Central Saanich, Brentwood, Deep Cove and Sidney — all acting independently.

The merged district would plan for the extension of existing facilities in the three municipalities, the reeve said.

"Apart from the need for more water, we will soon face high costs for improving our present waterworks system," the reeve said. "We have to get down to business."

The reeve's suggestion is expected to be discussed by representatives of the four boards in April.

One of the most pressing problems is the renewal of the existing 12-inch pipeline from Elk Lake which serves a large part of Central Saanich, Deep Cove in North Saanich and Sidney.

Crump In Town Recuperating

Norris Crump, chairman of Canadian Pacific Railway Co., is having a brief "no interviews" holiday at the Empress Hotel until Thursday morning.

He caught influenza on a trip to Calgary and is taking it easy to recuperate, a spokesman said.

En route to Montreal Mr. Crump is expected to visit CPR managers informally at Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Quick Decision Asked to Solve High Tide Sewer Woes at Sidney

A malfunction in the main Sidney sewerage outfall is creating a serious pollution problem.

The "urgent problem" caused when a high tide and wind combine to back sewage up into the main disposal line is at present under study by the Regional District sewage and waste disposal committee.

Tuesday the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health decided to ask the regional board for a quick decision on the matter.

Sidney's main sewer system was constructed in 1945 and the main Ocean Avenue outfall, some 700 feet long, was completed in 1966.

At low or medium tide on a calm day it works fine.

CAN'T USE TOILETS

But when the tide is high and the breeze a little higher than average homeowners on Ocean Avenue can't use toilets, baths or even drain the kitchen sink.

And the sewage that does get out of the main outfall washes right back on to the beach.

The sewage is untreated.

A consulting engineer familiar with the Sindey problem said this morning that while the immediate problem lay with the outfall the main problem lay within the municipal boundaries of the town.

"The problem starts with the fact that there are no true records of just what they have below ground," he said. "What they have to do out there first of all is spend a few thousand dollars on a survey to find out what they have got, what levels existing lines are at and just what goes into them.

"Once they have that information they can find out just what they have to do."

$140,000

Cost of the extension, based on 1965 construction costs, was set at $140,000. The cost of the outfall extension, because it ties in with the main trunk and outfall program, would be shared with other municipalities using the main trunks and the outfall.

While calling on the regional district for a fast answer the metro health board decided to commence immediately its "polluted water" sign posting problem.

Other signs will be posted at the following locations:

Foot of St. Lawrence Street (Dallas Road) small beach; foot of Howe Street (Dallas Road) beach; Clover Point, east and west sides (2 signs); Dallas Road ramp, east of Bushby Street Ross Bay; foot of St. Charles Street, Ross Bay; all ramps and steps leading to Ross Bay and Clover Point to be stencilled on the walkway; foot of Crescent Road (Oak Bay) small sewer outfall; Twin Beaches opposite 586 Beach Drive; Golf Links Beaches, foot of Newport Avenue, posted, recommended 2 additional signs required one on each small beach; Beach Drive, foot of Broom Road (2 signs); Beach Drive, foot of Humber Road, near steps to small beach—small septic tank outfall; Ten Mile Point side of Cadboro Bay Beach; Finnerty Cove at Solarium; Shoreline School (Christie Point) 2 locations; corner Admirals and Craigflower Road; Craigflower Park Bridge; Kinsmen Beach, outside waters; Tillicum Park, Gorge Bridge; Admirals Road and Colquitz Creek; parking lot, No. 1 Highway, signs both ends; Craigflower Creek Estuary at Helmcken Road; Banfield Park, Victoria West.

'They'd Sooner Look At Gorge Than Swim'

"Far more" people want to drive by the Gorge and enjoy the view than want to swim in it, Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

He made the comment in defending Saanich support for a Capital Improvement District Commission shoreline beautification project near Craigflower Bridge paid for by provincial money.

He said the reason CIDC accepted the project in the first place was that it is a start on the "total rehabilitation" of the waterway, both in that water and on the shore, and it is within reasonable and attainable economic limits compared with some million-dollar schemes.

To date, $86,000 has been spent plus $105,000 for underground wiring. Second stage costing $65,000 was delayed because of a postponment in allocation of provincial money.

Earlier, Gorge resident Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, called the shoreline project beautiful "and the kind of thing we really need, but it doesn't change the state of polluted water.

"It's something like going to town in a beautiful fur coat and dirty underwear. Some people might do it but I wouldn't."

'REAL PROGRESS'

Reeve Curtis said concern over swimming has to be tempered with "real progress" through the regional sewerage plan, the Saanich study of Portage Inlet and Gorge area undertaken with professional help from the University and the shoreline project.

"I don't think government should refuse to move ahead on shoreline beautification just because it isn't able at the moment to finance the total environmental rehabilitation of the waterway," he said.

"I don't believe that residents of the Gorge area are really aware of the man hours and detailed thinking now under way towards saving this waterway.

"Their criticisms over the years have been justified and they have spurred on this municipality at least to taking a complete look at the problem."

'OBEY THE LAW, DO ALL YOU CAN TO CHANGE IT' SAYS MAGISTRATE

By DON VIPOND

Victoria's senior magistrate was challenged Tuesday on the jail terms he has been handing convicted marijuana users.

"I know this question concerns young people very deeply," Magistrate William Ostler told a meeting of the Pre-Law Society at the University of Victoria.

He had been invited to deliver a noon-hour talk on the functions of the magistrate's office. But he devoted most of his hour-long stay to answering questions, the majority dealing with drug laws. About two dozen students were present.

Questioners challenged the justice in similar jail terms for convicted muggers and those caught with marijuana, the deterrent value of jail for "pot" smokers and what they should do about laws they think are unjust.

The Court of Appeal has directed that suspended sentences are generally inappropriate in marijuana possession convictions, said the magistrate. He and other magistrates must follow directions from a higher court.

"The court of appeal is trying to say the only thing we can do is provide a deterrent. Narcotics, even marijuana, are considered such a social evil, the deterrent is given predominance."

He said that if students could see some of the probation reports he deals with showing drug progression from marijuana to LSD and others they might feel differently.

He cited the case of a youth who took a drug without knowing what it was, was arrested, and 12 hours later in court was "still hallucinating badly."

"Perhaps there is a tenable argument that marijuana taken by a mature person will do no harm."

But the law is concerned with irresponsible use of drugs and alcohol and for this reason there are some people who are forbidden alcohol because they have proved not responsible.

Magistrate Ostler said there might be a "compelling argument" in not having marijuana under the Narcotics Control Act "but this has nothing to do with magistrates."

"How do you see our duty if we feel a law is unjust?" asked one student.

Their duty was clearly to obey the law first "and then do all you can to get it changed."

"It may be that when your generation is in charge," said the magistrate, "you may see some difficulties you don't see now."

There isn't anything that can't be changed, he said.

"And it's up to you to do it. "But don't let your frustration bring you into folly."

On another topic, one student asked him why persons responsible in a fatal accident are sometimes charged simply with careless driving and receive light fines when convicted.

It was important to examine the circumstances of such cases carefully, replied the magistrate.

A person can be killed but the degree of negligence might have been minimal.

Ask The Times

Q. What are the nationalities of Ed Sullivan and Dean Martin? M.E.

A. Both are Americans. Edward Vincent Sullivan, newspaper columnist and television emcee, was born in the borough of Manhattan, city of New York, Sept. 28, 1902. Dean Martin was born in Steubenville, Ohio, of Italian parents June 17, 1917.

Q. Do you have any statistics for 1966 or 1967 as to how many deaths in Canada were attributable to smoking in bed? J.T.P.

A. The most recent figures available are for 1965. In that year 32 deaths were attributed to fires caused by smoking in bed.

RUSSIAN CREWMEN PICKED UP SAFELY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 45-man crew of the Russian cargo ship Velikiyi Ustyug were picked up safely today after they abandoned their vessel in the stormy North Atlantic, the United States coast guard reported. Another Russian ship rescued the crew of the stricken ship and they apparently were in good condition.

Legislature Sits All Night In Battle Over Education

GROGGY BUT READY for a second round tonight, two mothers from Victoria Low Income Group and a sympathizer put in the long hours in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings. They outlasted the legislators by continuing their sit-in until 5:30 this morning. Total of 75—mothers and supporters—joined the demonstration protesting low welfare rates. See page 17. Tempers Flare; Estimates Pass

By JOHN MIKA and BRUCE YEMEN

The Legislature adjourned at 4:55 this morning after a stormy session during which the Social Credit government beat down three attempts by Opposition Leader Strachan to end the marathon sitting.

Premier Bennett didn't allow the exhausted MLAs to go home until all 23 separate votes in the $271.1 million estimates of the education department were passed.

As a concession after the ordeal, he ordered resumption for 2:30 this afternoon, a half-hour later than usual.

But he told reporters there would be another late sitting tonight and Thursday and the legislature will go into a steady day-and-night-sitting routine until the session ends.

The education estimates came before the house at 2 p.m. Monday and took 16½ hours to complete half of it in continuous sitting that began after the Tuesday supper break.

Mr. Strachan's adjournment attempts all came after midnight.

It was the longest sitting for several years but short of the record set during the Bill 42 wrangle in 1961 when Premier Bennett kept the house sitting until after 6 a.m.

Mr. Bennett timed the all-night sitting to follow the annual press gallery dinner for MLAs Monday which saw many of them late to bed.

Through most of the early hours this morning, there were three or four backbenchers, and occasionally a minister, obviously sleeping in their chairs while opposition members spelled each other off criticizing education policies or asking questions.

Premier Bennett several times was accused of slipping off to catch 40 winks on the couch in his office but he denied it.

Bennett Refuses Recorded Vote

He retaliated by refusing the traditional consent for recording the results of the four divisions—one non-confidence vote in Education Minister Peterson and the three adjournment attempts—in the journals of the legislature.

Throughout the marathon sitting, the "sit-in" group of mothers on welfare and sympathetic students — along with a covey of uniformed and plain-clothes RCMP watching them —sat in the spectator galleries.

"I don't think it's necessary to have armed RCMP protecting us because some people come to visit us here," he said during the education estimates.

The Legislative Building janitors were added to the listening audience as they began cleaning up while the house still sat in the chamber below.

Tempers flared frequently as the hours wore on, most of them vented on the head of Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) as chairman of estimates committee who frequently ruled the opposition complaints about the lateness of the hour were out of order.

Twice Mr. Bruch called in Speaker William Murray to restore order and the speaker warned MLAs that regardless of their private opinions about the government's insistence they stay in session, they had to obey the rules or face serious consequences.

Demand Speaker Be Called In

By 4 a.m. opposition members angrily were demanding that Mr. Bruch call in the speaker a third time because they were unsatisfied with his conduct of the committee but he ignored the demand.

"You don't know the rules, you've never known the rules and what's more you never will," Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) screamed at Mr. Bruch.

Mr. Bruch spent much of the time pounding his gavel and rising to his feet to outshout MLAs he claimed were straying from the estimates and twice he shouted at MLAs who were sitting in their seats to sit down.

Mr. Bruch also twice became

U.S. SEEKS MORE MEN FROM ALLIES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is pressing its Vietnam allies — Australia, New Zealand, Korea and Thailand — to commit more men to the war, according to reliable sources.

CANBERRA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Gorton reiterated today his decision not to send additional troops to Vietnam. He told Parliament he was standing by a promise not to do so.

Stampede For Gold At London

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush became a virtual stampede today and bullion dealers curtailed trading sharply in the London market.

The curtailment was the first such action taken since the formation of the international gold pool in 1960.

London dealers made clear there was no suspension of sales. They raised the price of gold five cents to $35.20 an ounce and refused to take small orders. No big orders were refused.

The action came as the Italian treasury described as "without foundation" a report from Zurich that the United States was shouldering Italy's share of bullion in the international pool.

U.S. DENIAL

In Washington, the treasury also denied the Zurich report. "The report is without foundation," a spokesman said.

The dealer's action came as the gold stampede in Europe reached near panic proportions.

Sales of gold in Paris reached a record of more than 16 tons, compared with the previous high Dec. 15 of 14 tons. Sixty to 80 tons were estimated to have been sold in Zurich during the morning alone.

A source in Zurich said Swiss banks expect an embargo on gold sales will be announced soon by the United States, which with the other six nations of the gold pool is pledged to sell gold at $35 an ounce.

LBJ Scores 'Empty Victory' In New Hampshire Primary

ROBERT KENNEDY
... party divided

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire Democrats returned a startling split decision today, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory in the first U.S. presidential primary—while awarding rebellious Eugene J. McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 20 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Richard M. Nixon won the overwhelming Republican vote he sought to help wipe out the memory of past defeats and propel his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

But the drama was in the Democratic story. It was a story of political trouble for Johnson, and a leadoff success for McCarthy, whose campaign on a platform protesting Vietnam policy once was scorned as inconsequential by Democratic professionals.

Minnesota's McCarthy far surpassed his forecasts—and those of his opponents. Johnson's name was not on the ballot, but the state Democratic organization waged a tough write-in campaign. Its product: a minority win for the president, who received 49 per cent of the vote.

4,000-VOTE EDGE

The near-final count had Johnson leading McCarthy by less than 4,000 votes. The president's promoters had forecast a 3-to-1 victory—and even that prediction was toned down from earlier odds of 10 to 1.

The contest for delegates appeared to be reversing the verdict of the presidential preference poll. Actually, the poll, popularly called a "beauty contest," is binding on no one.

In the separate contest for Democratic delegates, candidates pledged to vote for McCarthy's nomination were leading for 20 of the 24 national convention seats at issue, while contenders favoring Johnson led for four.

LBJ SCOFFS

That showing lent new stature to his campaign of opposition to Johnson's policy in Vietnam, although the president scoffed at the outcome, saying New Hampshire is the only place where a candidate can claim "40 per cent is a mandate."

Nixon, a former vice-president, swept 79 per cent of the vote in a state where Republicans outnumber Democrats two to one, smothering the last-minute write-in campaign for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Nixon was out to erase the label of loser pinned to him after defeats for the White House in 1960 and for the governorship of California in 1962.

With 99 per cent of the anticipated 54,000 Democratic votes counted, Johnson had 25,970 and McCarthy had 22,479.

NIXON LANDSLIDE

On the Republican ballot, with 99 per cent of the expected 106,000 votes in, Nixon had 83,071 and Rockefeller had 11,517.

Nixon and McCarthy were listed on the ballot; Johnson and Rockefeller were not.

Despite the Johnson ridicule, there could be no doubt that the outcome in snowy New Hampshire stirred concern at the White House. That concern may not in fact be about McCarthy himself, but about the possible impact of his showing on the plans of New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Few believe that McCarthy can wrest the Democratic nomination from Johnson.

PRIMARY MAKES DIFFERENCE

Kennedy Reconsiders Whether He'll Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Kennedy said today he is thinking of running against President Johnson for the Democratic nomination because of the strong showing of peace candidate Eugene McCarthy in New Hampshire's primary.

"I am reassessing the possibility of whether I will run against President Johnson," the 42-year-New York senator said.

Reporters asked Kennedy if he believed the New Hampshire results showed the Democratic party already was "so seriously divided it can't be hurt much more?"

"It's my impression that's true," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the result "clearly indicates that a sizable group of Democrats are concerned about the direction in which the country is going both in the fields of foreign and domestic policy."

Kennedy added that the party division which exists has been shown to be one of issues, not personality differences between the president and a democratic opponent.

"I'm aware there has been a good deal of unrest," Kennedy told reporters. "It is clear from New Hampshire that the unrest is deep and considerable."

Kennedy began the political season saying that he would support Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey for re-election this year. After McCarthy entered the race, Kennedy switched his position to one of neutrality; he said he would not take sides but would support the Democratic nominee.

Asked if he would actively support McCarthy if he decided against directly opposing Johnson, Kennedy said, "I will have more information on all of that at a later time."

Discussing the "personality struggle" that he said was one of the factors that has kept him out of the race up to now, Kenedy said he feared the primary focus would be "the differences between President Johnson and myself that have been built up over the years."

"I think the New Hampshire primary has demonstrated quite clearly that it had nothing to do with personalities—that it was the deep concern of the United States . . ."

Emergency UN Session Urged

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Thirty-six African countries Tuesday requested an urgent session of the United Nations Security Council to consider the possible use of armed force against Rhodesia.

A letter to the council president, Ousmane Soce Diop of Senegal, described the situation in Rhodesia as "a threat to international peace and security."

35 Africans Reprieved By Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The government of Prime Minister Ian Smith today reprieved 35 Africans under sentence of death, including four who have been under a stay of execution since Monday.

Clifford Du Pont, officer administering the government, under the advice of the executive council of the cabinet, had "reviewed all cases pending and gave prior consideration to those which had the strongest claims for the exercise of clemency," government announcement said.

The government said this was done "in view of the lapse of time since the conviction of the men concerned."

"The remaining 33 cases, which include the most serious ones, require further consideration and these will be dealt with as speedily as possible," the statement said.

85 CASES

"There were 85 cases which were up to the stage where they could be considered by the executive council but which had to be held up pending the recent decision of the appelate division of the high court.

"Five of these persons have been executed and 47 persons have been reprieved, their sentences being commuted to varying terms of imprisonment."

The 47 reprieves included earlier grants of clemency.

The government said at previous trials some persons were reprieved but the court ordered their names should not be published for security reasons.

Africans Call U.K. 'Toothless Bulldog'

Anger over recent executions of Negroes in white ruled Rhodesia erupted in three African capitals Tuesday, although in each incident the Negro demonstrators were venting their anger against Britain's failure to prevent the executions in its breakaway colony.

In the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, British Ambassador Sir Thomas Bromley was forced to retreat to safety as some 2,000 students he was addressing hurled a barrage of rocks.

In Nairobi, Kenya, British Deputy High Commissioner Bruce Greatbatch was pelted with coins and garbage when some 200 students from Nairobi's University College met to present a petition of protest.

Another group of 200 students in Accra, Ghana, tore down the Union Jack, halted traffic and harangued whites during a parade in front of the British high commission building.

Shouts of "toothless bulldog" come from the demonstrators in both Accra and Nairobi.

Student Riots Spread To Second Polish City

WARSAW (Reuters) — Club-swinging militiamen went into action against about 1,000 students demonstrating in Cracow, south Poland, today in sympathy with Warsaw students, reliable sources said.

The students were reported to have marched from a hostel to the main university building in the centre of the medieval former royal capital of Poland.

They carried banners reading, "Warsaw is not alone, we want justice," the source said by telephone from Cracow.

The students burned newspapers and defaced and tore down wall posters reprinting editorials from Warsaw newspapers condemning recent student demonstrations in the capital, the sources said.

MILITIA ON GUARD

Before the procession started professors addressed a one-hour student meeting over loudspeakers and appealed for calm. But the students shouted them down. Militiamen were waiting for the students when they reached the 14th century Jagielonian University and the clash followed, the source said.

The official Polish news agency PAP said student demonstrations took place in Lubin, east Poland, Monday. Informed sources said there were also demonstrations in Poznan, west Poland.

Warsaw, which saw three days of street violence between students and militia starting Friday, was calm today. Students attended classes as usual at the two focal points of previous demonstrations, the uni-

Th' markets seem t' be havin' quite a golden jubilee.

Seems th' Legislature had a hard day's night.

UNWELCOME guests Tuesday at these three homes on Saginaw Bay, near Bay City, Mich., were huge chunks of ice driven on to the shore by 35-mile-per-hour winds. Ice jams were evident from Linwood Beach to Bay City State Park. (AP Wirephoto.)

Hippies Agree To Follow Store Rules

Legal action will be taken against teen-agers if they refuse to behave like mature adults when congregating in the basement cafeteria of a downtown store.

The ultimatum was made at a meeting Tuesday by the management of the Bay.

Personnel and operations manager John Jellison and other store officials met for two hours with four teen-age leaders to make clear the stand to be taken by the department store.

"We laid out some rules and they agreed to abide by them," Mr. Jellison said.

Friction had been brewing over a period of time as teen-agers used The Bay's Olympic Room as a place to 'hang out.'

Mr. Jellison said the store had been plagued by the juveniles milling about and lingering by the hour, annoying customers.

RULES

The new rules which will be put in writing and posted throughout the store, state:

- Lying on table tops, feet on tables, is out.
- Obscene language must stop immediately.
- Everybody who occupies a table must make a purchase, and no more than four persons may sit at a large table.
- The teen-aged hippies must use discretion in the length of time they take in the restaurant.

"We're not out to build up a crusade against hippies," Mr. Jellison said. "We just want to make our place a clean place.

"They now know that we are prepared to bring in the police and later take the case to court," if the rules are not followed.

STAGED SIT-IN

The showdown meeting came as a result of a major confrontation last Saturday when about 50 teen-agers were invited to leave the restaurant.

But they trooped up to the fourth floor and staged a sit-in alongside the executive offices. Their complaint was "discrimination."

Mr. Jellison said Tuesday's meeting turned out to be "a pretty good session."

Colin Constant, leader of the young people, said, "Probably everyone is happy with The Bay. All that remains to be settled is police intolerance, harrassment and discrimination."

Tank Lights Spark Climb By Searchers

NANAIMO (CP) — Headlights of a military tank were mistaken Tuesday for a missing light aircraft and prompted searchers to make a fruitless climb up the side of mountain 23 miles west of here.

A logging company employee spotted a light at the 3,500-foot level of Mount Moriarty but searchers found it was a tank taking part in a Canadian Armed Forces training exercise.

The search resumed today for the float-equipped, single-engined Cessna, missing since March 1 on a flight from Vernon to Port Alberni.

300 to Compete In March 22-24 Bridge Tourney

About 300 players are expected to compete in the annual duplicate Bridge tournament held by the Victoria unit of the American contract Bridge League March 22-24.

One third will be from Oregon, Washington, the mainland and up-land points.

The tournament will take place in the Empress Hotel with games starting at 1:30 and 8 p.m.

Vancouver Island championships will be decided in the Men's Pair, Women's Pairs, Mixed Pairs and Teams of Four.

CONFERRING in Ottawa today with Consumer Affairs Minister Turner is Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon, chairman of the royal commission on consumer problems and inflation in the three prairie provinces. She is expected to ask for an immediate probe of the profit records of at least two western companies. Judge Batten presented the commission report to members of the department.

2,000 Protest

EDMONTON (CP) — About 2,000 University of Alberta students marched a mile to the legislature Tuesday to protest a scheduled increase of about $75 in tuition fees. They listened at the steps to speeches by student representatives and Education Minister Raymond Reierson.

In an upstairs room, student union representatives presented a petition to Premier Manning and cabinet representatives. Al Anderson, students union president, said the fee increase would work a hardship on students from low-income background.

Mr. Manning told the delegation the government found it hard to understand why the universities could not adjust their spending to get along within the total framework of the $51,000,000 provided this year for operating expenses.

Mr. Reierson said gross costs per student in Alberta are about $3,000; in British Columbia $2,250 and in Saskatchewan $2,035.

SWEDISH SOCIALIST URGES JUSTICE FOR ALL UNDERPRIVILEGED

Negro-Only Program Will Create Resentment

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A better life for Negroes will not come about if national programs are directed only toward the Negro, Swedish socialist Gunar Myrdal said Tuesday night.

"Every advantage given to Negroes helps to create resentment in other underprivileged groups," Myrdal said.

Therefore, he said, all the groups, including "poor whites," in the "submerged underclass" must work together in pressing for justice.

Negro housing cannot be improved unless it is a general policy for all, Myrdal said. Schooling must be improved for all. In the labor market "there is little chance of accomplishing much as long as there is unemployment among whites."

Myrdal stressed in his speech at the University of Hartford that the Negro problem "cannot be solved except in the frame of solving the poverty problem."

This he acknowledged, makes the problem three times as big.

He also commented that "Negro nationalism must be a blind alley." Black Power, he said, is no solution.

WAR CAUSES UNREST

Much of American racial unrest is caused by the Vietnam war, he said.

The war, he said, takes away money that might be spent domestically "and lowers morals."

"It breeds moral cynicism. You see in pictures how people are being killed, real people being shot and killed and maimed."

"I am not hopeless about America," he said, however. "I am not speaking in anger, but with anxiety and sorrow."

LAKE REACHES FAR

Russia's Lake Baikal is a mile deep in the middle and is larger than Belgium in area.

Coroners To Meet

The annual conference of B.C. coroners will be held at Trail, May 27, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced Tuesday.

The coroner's conference will be followed in Trail by the annual conference of B.C. magistrates, to be held May 28, 29 and 30, Mr. Bonner said.

Why Can't You Control Your Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name and address to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-213, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

Legislature Sits All Night In Battle Over Education

RUSSIAN CREWMEN PICKED UP SAFELY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 45-man crew of the Russian cargo ship Velikiyi Ustyug were picked up safely today after they abandoned their vessel in the stormy North Atlantic, the United States coast guard reported. Another Russian ship rescued the crew of the stricken ship and they apparently were in good condition.

GROGGY BUT READY for a second round tonight, two mothers from Victoria Low Income Group and a sympathizer put in the long hours in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings. They outlasted the legislators by continuing their sit-in until 5:30 this morning. Total of 75—mothers and supporters—joined the demonstration protesting low welfare rates. See page 17. Tempers Flare; Estimates Pass

By JOHN MIKA and BRUCE YEMEN

The Legislature adjourned at 4:55 this morning after a stormy session during which the Social Credit government beat down three attempts by Opposition Leader Strachan to end the marathon sitting.

Premier Bennett didn't allow the exhausted MLAs to go home until all 23 separate votes in the $271.1 million estimates of the education department were passed.

As a concession after the ordeal, he ordered resumption for 2:30 this afternoon, a half-hour later than usual.

But he told reporters there would be another late sitting tonight and Thursday and the legislature will go into a steady day-and-night-sitting routine until the session ends.

The education estimates came before the house at 2 p.m. Monday and took 16½ hours to complete half of it in continuous sitting that began after the Tuesday supper break.

Mr. Strachan's adjournment attempts all came after midnight.

It was the longest sitting for several years but short of the record set during the Bill 42 wrangle in 1959 when Premier Bennett kept the house sitting until after 6 a.m.

Mr. Bennett timed the all-night sitting to follow the annual press gallery dinner for MLAs Monday which saw many of them late to bed.

Through most of the early hours this morning, there were three or four backbenchers, and occasionally a minister, obviously sleeping in their chairs while opposition members spelled each other off criticizing education policies or asking questions.

Premier Bennett several times was accused of slipping off to catch 40 winks on the couch in his office but he denied it.

Bennett Refuses Recorded Vote

He retaliated by refusing the traditional consent for recording the results of the four divisions—one non-confidence vote in Education Minister Peterson and the three adjournment attempts—in the journals of the legislature.

Throughout the marathon sitting, the "sit-in" group of mothers on welfare and sympathetic students — along with a covey of uniformed and plain-clothes RCMP watching them —sat in the spectator galleries.

"I don't think it's necessary to have armed RCMP protecting us because some people come to visit us here," he said during the education estimates.

The Legislative Building janitors were added to the listening audience as they began cleaning up while the house still sat in the chamber below.

Tempers flared frequently as the hours wore on, most of them vented on the head of Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) as chairman of estimates committee who frequently ruled the opposition complaints about the lateness of the hour were out of order.

Twice Mr. Bruch called in Speaker William Murray to restore order and the speaker warned MLAs that regardless of their private opinions about the government's insistence they stay in session, they had to obey the rules or face serious consequences.

Demand Speaker Be Called In

By 4 a.m. opposition members angrily were demanding that Mr. Bruch call in the speaker a third time because they were unsatisfied with his conduct of the committee but he ignored the demand.

"You don't know the rules, you've never known the rules and what's more you never will," Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) screamed at Mr. Bruch.

Mr. Bruch spent much of the time pounding his gavel and rising to his feet to outshout MLAs he claimed were straying from the estimates and twice he shouted at MLAs who were sitting in their seats to sit down.

Mr. Bruch also twice became

U.S. SEEKS MORE MEN FROM ALLIES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is pressing its Vietnam allies — Australia, New Zealand, Korea and Thailand — to commit more men to the war, according to reliable sources.

CANBERRA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Gorton reiterated today his decision not to send additional troops to Vietnam. He told Parliament he was standing by a promise not to do so.

Stampede For Gold At London

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush became a virtual stampede today and bullion dealers curtailed trading sharply in the London market.

The curtailment was the first such action taken since the formation of the international gold pool in 1960.

London dealers made clear there was no suspension of sales. They raised the price of gold five cents to $35.20 an ounce and refused to take small orders. No big orders were refused.

The action came as the Italian treasury described as "without foundation" a report from Zurich that the United States was shouldering Italy's share of bullion in the international pool.

U.S. DENIAL

In Washington, the treasury also denied the Zurich report. "The report is without foundation," a spokesman said.

The dealer's action came as the gold stampede in Europe reached near panic proportions.

Sales of gold in Paris reached a record of more than 16 tons, compared with the previous high Dec. 15 of 14 tons. Sixty to 80 tons were estimated to have been sold in Zurich during the morning alone.

A source in Zurich said Swiss banks expect an embargo on gold sales will be announced soon by the United States, which with the other six nations of the gold pool is pledged to sell gold at $35 an ounce.

LBJ Scores 'Empty Victory' In New Hampshire Primary

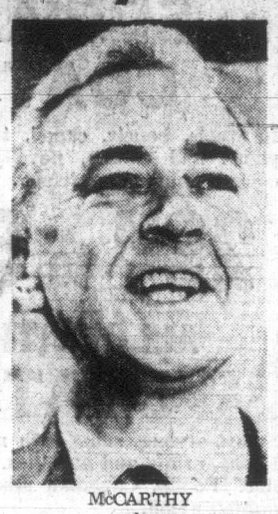
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire Democrats returned a startling split decision today, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory in the first U.S. presidential primary—while awarding rebellious Eugene J. McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 20 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Richard M. Nixon won the overwhelming Republican vote he sought to help wipe out the memory of past defeats and propel his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

But the drama was in the Democratic story. It was a story of political trouble for Johnson, and a leadoff success for McCarthy, whose campaign on a platform protesting Vietnam policy once was scorned as inconsequential by Democratic professionals.

Minnesota's McCarthy far surpassed his forecasts—and those of his opponents. Johnson's name was not on the ballot, but the state Democratic organization waged a tough write-in campaign. Its product: a minority win for the president, who received 49 per cent of the vote.

ROBERT KENNEDY
... party divided



McCARTHY
... early success

4,000-VOTE EDGE

The near-final count had Johnson leading McCarthy by less than 4,000 votes. The president's promoters had forecast a 3-to-1 victory—and even that prediction was toned down from earlier odds of 10 to 1.

The contest for delegates appeared to be reversing the verdict of the presidential preference poll. Actually, the poll, popularly called a "beauty contest," is binding on no one.

In the separate contest for Democratic delegates, candidates pledged to vote for McCarthy's nomination were leading for 20 of the 24 national convention seats at issue, while contenders favoring Johnson led for four.

LBJ SCOFFS

That showing lent new stature to his campaign of opposition to Johnson's policy in Vietnam, although the president scoffed at the outcome, saying New Hampshire is the only place where a candidate can claim "40 per cent is a mandate."

See Story Page 53

Nixon, a former vice-president, swept 79 per cent of the vote in a state where Republicans outnumber Democrats two to one, smothering the last-minute write-in campaign for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Nixon was out to erase the label of loser pinned to him after defeats for the White House in 1960 and for the governorship of California in 1962.

With 99 per cent of the anticipated 54,000 Democratic votes counted, Johnson had 25,970 and McCarthy had 22,479.

NIXON LANDSLIDE

On the Republican ballot, with 99 per cent of the expected 106,000 votes in, Nixon had 83,071 and Rockefeller had 11,517.

Nixon and McCarthy were listed on the ballot; Johnson and Rockefeller were not.

Despite the Johnson ridicule, there could be no doubt that the outcome in snowy New Hampshire stirred concern at the White House. That concern may not in fact be about McCarthy himself, but about the possible impact of his showing on the plans of New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

35 Africans Reprieved By Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The government of Prime Minister Ian Smith today reprieved 35 Africans under sentence of death, including four who have been under a stay of execution since Monday.

Clifford Du Pont, officer administering the government, under the advice of the executive council of the cabinet, had "reviewed all cases pending and gave prior consideration to those which had the strongest claims for the exercise of clemency," government announcement said.

The government said this was done "in view of the lapse of time since the conviction of the men concerned."

"The remaining 33 cases, which include the most serious ones, require further consideration and these will be dealt with as speedily as possible," the statement said.

85 CASES

"There were 85 cases which were up to the stage where they could be considered by the executive council but which had to be held up pending the recent decision of the appelate division of the high court.

"Five of these persons have been executed and 47 persons have been reprieved, their sentences being commuted to varying terms of imprisonment."

The 47 reprieves included earlier grants of clemency.

The government said at previous trials some persons were reprieved but the court ordered their names should not be published for security reasons.

Emergency UN Session Urged

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Thirty-six African countries Tuesday requested an urgent session of the United Nations Security Council to consider the possible use of armed force against Rhodesia.

A letter to the council president, Ousmane Soce Diop of Senegal, described the situation in Rhodesia as "a threat to international peace and security."

Africans Call U.K. 'Toothless Bulldog'

Anger over recent executions of Negroes in white ruled Rhodesia erupted in three African capitals Tuesday, although in each incident the Negro demonstrators were venting their anger against Britain's failure to prevent the executions in its breakaway colony.

In the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, British Ambassador Sir Thomas Bromley was forced to retreat to safety as some 2,000 students he was addressing hurled a barrage of rocks.

In Nairobi, Kenya, British Deputy High Commissioner Bruce Greatbatch was pelted with coins and garbage when some 200 students from Nairobi's University College met to present a petition of protest.

Another group of 200 students in Accra, Ghana, tore down the Union Jack, halted traffic and harangued whites during a parade in front of the British high commission building.

Shouts of "toothless bulldog" come from the demonstrators in both Accra and Nairobi.

Student Riots Spread To Second Polish City

WARSAW (Reuters) — Club-swinging militiamen went into action against about 1,000 students demonstrating in Cracow, south Poland, today in sympathy with Warsaw students, reliable sources said.

The students were reported to have marched from a hostel to the main university building in the centre of the medieval former royal capital of Poland.

They carried banners reading, "Warsaw is not alone, we want justice," the source said by telephone from Cracow.

The students burned newspapers and defaced and tore down wall posters reprinting editorials from Warsaw newspapers condemning recent student demonstrations in the capital, the sources said.

MILITIA ON GUARD

Before the procession started professors addressed a one-hour student meeting over loudspeakers and appealed for calm. But the students shouted them down. Militiamen were waiting for the students when they reached the 14th century Jagiellonian University and the clash followed, the source said.

The official Polish news agency PAP said student demonstrations took place in Lubin, east Poland, Monday. Informed sources said there were also demonstrations in Poznan, west Poland.

Warsaw, which saw three days of street violence between students and militia starting Friday, was calm today. Students attended classes as usual at the two focal points of previous demonstrations, the uni-

PRIMARY MAKES DIFFERENCE

Kennedy Reconsiders Whether He'll Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Kennedy said today he is thinking of running against President Johnson for the Democratic nomination because of the strong showing of peace candidate Eugene McCarthy in New Hampshire's primary.

"I am reassessing the possibility of whether I will run against President Johnson," the 42-year-New York senator said.

Reporters asked Kennedy if he believed the New Hampshire results showed the Democratic party already was "so seriously divided it can't be hurt much more?"

"It's my impression that's true," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the result "clearly indicates that a sizable group of Democrats are concerned about the direction in which the country is going both in the fields of foreign and domestic policy."

Kennedy added that the party division which exists has been shown to be one of issues, not personality differences between the president and a democratic opponent.

"I'm aware there has been a good deal of unrest," Kennedy told reporters. "It is clear from New Hampshire that the unrest is deep and considerable."

Kennedy began the political season saying that he would support Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey for re-election this year. After McCarthy entered the race, Kennedy switched his position to one of neutrality; he said he would not take sides but would support the Democratic nominee.

Asked if he would actively support McCarthy if he decided against directly opposing Johnson, Kennedy said, "I will have more information on all of that at a later time."

Discussing the "personality struggle" that he said was one of the factors that has kept him out of the race up to now, Kenedy said he feared the primary focus would be "the differences between President Johnson and myself that have been built up over the years."

"I think the New Hampshire primary has demonstrated quite clearly that it had nothing to do with personalities—that it was the deep concern of the United States . . ."

. . . ALL NIGHT SITTING

confused as to which specific vote was before the house and Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) seized on this as proof that the government was forcing MLAs to deal with huge sums while they were too tired.

"Mr. Chairman, if you can't keep your mind on this—and you're supposed to be in charge here—how can we?" Mr. Macfarlane demanded.

Through most of the debate, the opposition hammered at Mr. Peterson's refusal to described school construction restrictions as a "freeze", his refusal to reveal the financial requests of the universities and his refusal to concede the cabinet did not make full use of federal funds for building technical and vocational school facilities.

At one point, Mr. Macfarlane said he simply did not believe the minister's protestations he did not know how much the university boards asked by way of grants.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Mr. Petson's refusal to divulge the information was part "of this government's efforts to destroy parliamentary democracy in B.C."

Mr. Strachan made his first attempt at an adjournment shortly after midnight and it was voted down 28 to 22 with NDP and Liberals voting together. His second attempt attempt came an hour later and it went down 27 to 21.

Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) also tangled with Mr. Bruch when, stopped by the chairman from discussing the government's capital grants to schools in his riding, he argued that a vote providing homeowner grants for school levies entitled him to "discuss the whole housing policy of this government."

Reduce Salary

An opposition move to reduce Education Minister Peterson's salary to $1—the traditional non-confidence motion—was defeated 28-22 at 12:20 a.m.

It was moved by Mr. Strachan and supported by the Liberal MLAs.

The vote came after Mr. Strachan catalogued criticism of the government's education policies which he said had met opposition from every segment of society.

He said the minister had failed to answer the criticisms or give assurances needed to guarantee the needed educational opportunity for the youth of B.C.

He called the minister's performance "a demonstration of 1920 Babbitry—"we should be proud of this, we should be proud of that . . . of an education system heading straight for 1930."

After the 12:20 a.m. vote Premier Bennett refused consent for the result to be recorded.

Restore Order

"Obstruction," cried Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) and there were cried of "afraid to face the music."

Mr. Bruch called the speaker from his chambers to restore order at 1:20 a.m. after Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) refused to sit down while ripping the government for letting the house sit so late.

The speaker urged members to "keep calm and discuss things rationally" and reminded them of the "most severe penalties" at the chairman's command when members disobey.

"In all due respect Mr. Speaker you don't discuss things rationally at 1:20 a.m.," he said.

Mr. Nimsick began the uproar by noting the people still in the public gallery and observing:

"We must look very very silly to those people and the people of B.C. to be sitting here at this hour . . . It's just a pack of foolishness that we're working at twenty after one.

Sleeping

"This is the way you treat the people of British Columbia."

As the house awaited the speaker's arrival Mr. Nimsick accused Premier Bennett of "sleeping all afternoon on a couch" to get an unfair advantage over other MLAs.

"That's a straight lie," shouted the premier.

Subsequently several MLAs repeated the charge that the premier was snoozing on the job.

As the premier laughed and pointed at him, Mr. Nimsick challenged him, "You laugh and point at the people of B.C. . . ."

After the speaker's counsel, Mr. Strachan moved the second motion for adjournment, the government refused, and a division was called.

"Abuse of the rules!" snapped Attorney-General Bonner.

"Masochists!" shot back Mr. Dowding.

The flare-up had developed after Mr. Dowding had failed to get an explanation from Education Minister Peterson on how the $53,000,000 operating grants to universities are arrived at and how they are split.

Again Defied

The speaker was called a second time about an hour later at 2:20 a.m. after chairman Bruch was defied again by Mr. Nimsick.

Mr. Bruch interrupted the MLA as he questioned the minister about department plans, if any, to aid rural students in attending college.

"You're repeating yourself," said Mr. Bruch.

"At this time of morning you're bound to repeat yourself," Mr. Nimsick snapped back.

The call for the speaker went in as the MLA refused to sit down.

After the MLA had been seated several seconds and continued talking, Mr. Bruch yelled at him over the din:

"Order! Be seated!"

"I am seated!" cried Mr. Nimsick, as the house exploded into laughter.

The speaker warned the house that if he were called a third time severe penalties would be imposed on any member defying the chair.

Mr. Harding then recommended the chairman be removed.

Exhaustion

Mr. Strachan told the speaker he had some "sympathy" for the chairman in view of his obvious exhaustion but "he was calling for a member to sit down and he was already sitting down."

Liberal Leader Perrault said the speaker should be made aware that the premier had "told the press" the house would sit until noon on Friday if necessary to get the education estimates through.

Shortly after, Mr. Bruch ordered Dr. Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver-Point Grey) to withdraw a remark that Mr. Peterson showed "cowardice" in failing to give the legislature "an honest declaration" of the needs of B.C.'s universities.

Dr. McGeer withdrew it and substituted "lack of courage."

A further Nimsick-Bruch clash developed when Mr. Peterson demanded a withdrawal of the NDP member's statement that he was not telling the truth about rural access to university education.

After repeated denials that he hadn't meant that the minister never told the truth, Mr. Nimsick withdrew the remark, adding that he had been misled by the minister.

In a heated exchange with William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet) chairman Bruch again found himself ordering a member to be seated who had already sat down.

The house settled down as the debate droned on.

A third attempt at adjournment went down to a 26-20 defeat at 3:20 a.m. as the house considered $160,000,000 in grants to school districts.

"As 20 after three is no time to be debating this amount of money," Opposition Leader Strachan said, "it gives me a great deal of pleasure to move that the committee rise and report progress."

The government refused a recorded vote for the third time, leading Mr. Strachan to say, "Thank you once again for your courtesy and kindness."

As Mr. Berger resumed efforts to get the education minister to announce an end to the "freeze," the premier leaped up to accuse him of being "unworthy of the socialist movement."

Chairman Bruch declared the premier out of order as he continued his attack.

Liberal Leader Perrault at 3:50 a.m. criticized the "attempt to bludgeon this house into voting $160,000,000 when it's on its knees and groggy."

Back to 6-Day Week

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Low labor productivity has forced some Russian factories to return to an unofficial six-day work week, Pravda complains in an editorial. The Communist party newspaper says the introduction of the five-day week during the last two years led in some places to slower growth of labor productivity.

versity and the polytechnic school.

Four Polish writers were blamed for provoking the student riots, and a veterans organization headed by Interior Minister Mieczyslaw Moczar demanded punishment for "inspirers" of student unrest.

Polish Communist leaders were also trying to turn the wrath of the people by accusing Jews of being behind the riots.

Warsaw newspapers printed the names of alleged Jewish instigators among the students, and leading party officials are making speeches in which they try to put the blame on the Jews.

The government apparently is relying on the Polish tradition of anti-semitism to discredit the political opposition which has matured among the young people of Poland—including the relatively few Jews remaining after the Nazi slaughter.

CRITICIZE WRITERS

The newspaper Durier Polski called the writers "enemies of People's Poland" and said demagogic slogans and speeches hostile to socialism made during a recent meeting of the Polish Writers' Union were addressed to academic youth.

The riots Friday, Saturday and Monday began as protests against the expulsion from Warsaw university of two students for participating in a previous demonstration against a government ban on a 19th century Polish play.

The writers' meeting passed a resolution understood to have condemned the ban on the play Dziady, imposed because of enthusiastic audience applause at anti-Russian lines.

The newspaper said one writer, Pawel Jasienica, gave information about the meeting to two leaders of the student "excesses"—Adam Michnik, one of the two expelled students, and Irena Grudzinskia, daughter of a dismissed undersecretary of state at the forestry ministry.

Other writers attacked by the newspaper were Antoni Slonimski, a Jewish poet; Stefan Kisielewski, a Catholic author and former parliamentary deputy, and Leszek Kolakowski, professor of philosophy at Warsaw University. Kolakowski was expelled from the Communist party in 1966.

Jan Grundzinski, forestry ministry undersecretary of state, was one of three government officials dismissed from their posts after their children were named as ringleaders in student demonstrations.

The others were Jan Gorecki, finance ministry director-general, and Fryderyk Topolski, responsible for Warsaw industrial questions.

Three hundred persons most of them teen-agers, were arrested after street clashes in Warsaw Monday. The Polish news agency said all the teen-agers were released after being made to clear up the riot debris.

No Health Risk In Chickens, Says Minister

Canada's food laws ensures that chickens sold to the public do not contain substances which would endanger public health, Agricultural Minister Frank Richter said Tuesday.

The use of substances having estrogenic activity was prohibited by law in the production of all poultry products, he said.

His statement backs an assurance made by Dr. Kenneth Thornton, pathologist at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, that chicken sold in Canada carried no risk to health.

A lecture by Dr. Thornton last week carried a suggestion that chicken meat might contain hormones which may cause cancer.

But, as the doctor explained later he was not referring to the Canadian chicken industry which, he said, produced a "first class and absolutely safe product."

Indian Model Charged With Assault

MONTREAL (CP) — Kahn-Tineta Horn, outspoken Indian model, was arrested by RCMP officers Tuesday night as she got off a train from Toronto.

Miss Horn was detained overnight on a charge of assault causing bodily harm after a warrant was sworn out following a visit to a Toronto newspaper Tuesday.

After being allowed to see his client at police headquarters, Mr. Campbell said Miss Horn would likely be returned to Toronto today to face arraignment on the charge.

Miss Horn was in Toronto to speak to the Canadian Club before visiting the newspaper.

The complainant in the assault case is Robert MacBain of The Telegram who wrote articles about Miss Horn last month.

Miss Horn wrote several letters to The Telegram about Mr. MacBain, then challenged him to debate the issues at the Toronto Men's Press Club. When he did not appear she went to The Telegram office.

Mr. MacBain said Miss Horn thought his articles had put her in a bad light and that she accused him of degrading Indian women. He said The Telegram had offered to publish an article stating her case while he wrote his side of the controversy but that she declined, issuing the challenge to a debate.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

First Things First

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNment is hardly likely to accept the opposition challenge to a general election on the issue of school construction. Important as it is, education is only one facet of the broad problem of provincial spending policy, and the Social Credit government, in its present financial squeeze, is not ready to face a very uneasy electorate without having much more in the way of general results to show.

This, however, does not reduce the gravity of the school situation in this province, and particularly in Greater Victoria. The local school board has submitted plans for $7 millions worth of urgent construction. These projects are being held up by refusal of the provincial department to authorize a go-ahead. The effects of the classroom shortage are already evident in this district in the form of mis-use of existing facilities. Gymnasiums, auditoriums and stages, music rooms and other special quarters have in many cases been converted to classroom use. The next step, in the absence of more needed teaching space, will be the shift system.

There is something to be said for extended use of school classrooms throughout the daylight hours on the basis that full value should be received for public expenditure. There is less to be said for the disruption of households which must be adapted to the demands of varied school hours. There is, too, the problem of providing the full benefits which pupils should be receiving from their school experience — band and choir practices, club activities, sports and social gatherings. This would be difficult under the shift system. A price must be paid for scrimping on school facilities, and in this case the children pay it.

Education Minister Peterson refers to the pre-fabricated and so-called mobile classrooms which are being provided in Greater Victoria and elsewhere in British Columbia. These are a very handy means of meeting an emergency situation such as a sudden flood of pupils to a particular area of the community which cannot be met immediately through permanent construction. The temporary rooms are appropriate too, in situations where the increased school population is expected soon to return to a previous level.

But Mr. Peterson speaks of the mobile accommodation as though it were a permanent answer to schoolroom requirements. He refers to an expected levelling-off of the elementary school population here, but there seems in this regard to be a basic disagreement between the minister and the school board and it should be resolved as quickly as possible.

The large backlog of local school construction has not been vetoed in principle by the government — the understanding is that it has merely been deferred. But if the government believes that much of it will never need to be implemented, due to a levelling-off of the school population, why has this not been made clear? The school board lives in hopes that the proposed items will be approved at any time. But now a fundamental difference in thinking emerges. If the population of Greater Victoria is expected to level out at its present total, this must be news to the planning bodies which have projected almost continuous growth through the coming decades.

Schools and hospitals should have a top priority claim on public funds. This is not an age in which education can be relegated to a secondary position, for the whole future of our society — political, technological and social — rests on intensive training of the population to manage the vast machine it is producing, and the encouragement of learning and wisdom to provide necessary guidance. The government has not yet grasped this principle, apparently. But full comprehension cannot safely be deferred.

The Owikeno Testing Ground

THE LIMITED AWARD OF FOREST lands granted to Crown Zellerbach to permit the company's consolidation of a coast tree farm licence excludes the Owikeno Lake area sought by the company. This is the region where prospective logging has caused concern to the Fisheries Association of B.C. Owikeno Lake and tributary rivers, the association notes, are the spawning grounds for Rivers Inlet salmon and have consistently been one of the three important sockeye-producing areas of British Columbia as well as an important source of major coho, spring, pink and chum salmon populations.

"It is not our objective to argue against or to resist logging operations in the Owikeno area," the association explains. "It is our objective to argue that these logging operations, if permitted, must not be allowed to jeopardize the rich salmon and other fish populations of the area."

The anxiety of the fisheries interests arises from the fear that careless operations in the woods could result in clogging or scouring of spawning grounds, which would vary water temperature and flow to the detriment of the fish and eventually block their migration. Exclusion of the Owikeno land from the Crown Zellerbach award does not, of course, prevent logging. The region is still within a public sustained yield unit where some cutting is now under way and more is due in the future.

Controls are established by the B.C. Forest Service over such cutting and contracts to loggers specify procedures which must be followed to protect the fisheries. There have been, however, earlier occasions, notably in the Stellako, where conflict has arisen between fisheries and logging interests. Presumably there will be differences on the Owikeno.

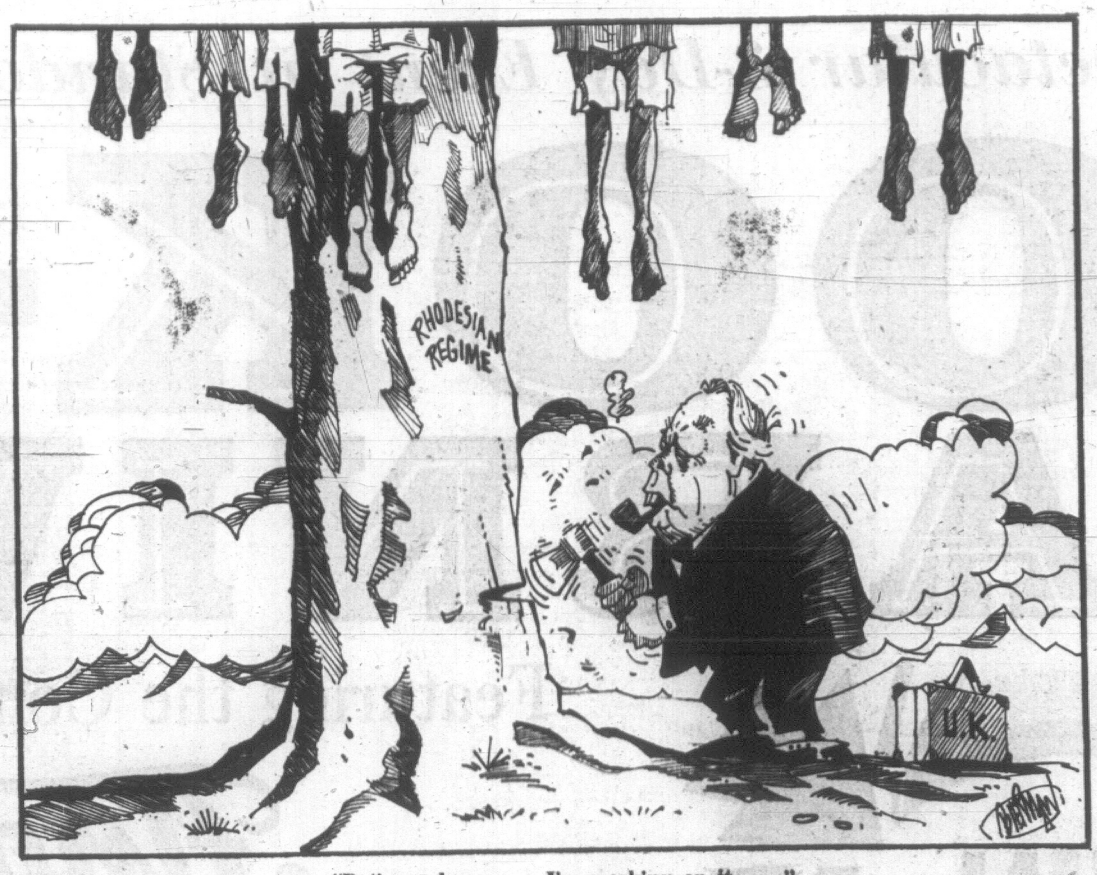
Under the circumstances, the Owikeno becomes an excellent testing ground to determine how far British Columbia has progressed in satisfactory application of the multiple use principle. As far as resource industries are concerned, that involves the best return one industry can glean from a resource without serious interference with any other. And in the Owikeno watershed also exists the opportunity for loggers to demonstrate the degree of responsibility they have reached in honoring the requisites of the multiple-use ideal.

Who Gets Whose?

DR. CHRISTIAAN BARNARD, heart-transplant pioneer, has presented his case for a doctor's right to withdraw supportive therapy from dying patients whose organs are destined for transplantation. His argument involves points raised on the issue of euthanasia and, perhaps, more.

"The authority to decide legal and ethical implications in cardiac transplants rests with the medical profession alone," he says. "Doctors have one obligation—to treat their patients until no further means are available."

The lay public is left wondering, however, what decision would be made in the hypothetical cases of a cardiac patient requiring a new heart to survive and an equally critical case whose life depended on a kidney transplant. Which doctors decide who shall get whose?



"Patience boys . . . I'm working on it . . ."

Negotiate

New York Times

THREE years ago the first American combat units were dispatched to Vietnam, with the announced purpose of defending United States bases. Their arrival boosted the number of American military personnel in Vietnam to 27,000.

By the end of that year — 1965 — the United States had 185,000 troops in Vietnam, and they had taken over the brunt of the fighting from the South Vietnamese.

Nearly two years and 300,000 additional American fighting men later, Gen. William C. Westmoreland came home from Saigon last fall to report that the enemy was on the run and that he expected the United States to begin to "phase out" its operation in Vietnam within two years. He expressed himself as content with the ceiling of 525,000 troops President Johnson promised him by next June.

More recently the chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, was in Vietnam to review the most critical situation the United States has faced in that ravaged land. He was pressed for more troops, well beyond the 525,000 limit, to shore up thinly spread allied forces. In anticipation of that call, the Joint Chiefs are reported drawing up plans for partial mobilization of National Guard and Reserve ground forces.

Given the precarious predicament of the American forces now in Southeast Asia and the dangerous deterioration of the strategic ready reserve at home, both the dispatch of more troops to Vietnam and the mobilization of reserves are inescapable. Such is the grim compulsion of a policy that has mired this country ever deeper in a land war in Asia against long-standing expert military advice.

The time has come for Americans and their leaders to recognize that the policy itself is illogical; that it entraps the United States in a war without visible limits, despite all official optimism; that it will continue to make insatiable demands on American manpower, resources and energy far beyond the worth of any conceivable gains. The only sound policy is to move from the battlefield to the negotiating table with fullest speed.

The search for a road to a negotiated settlement must start with a bombing halt. The risks in such a pause are obviously far less than those in the boundless escalation on which Washington is embarked, especially since United Nations Secretary General Thant reported recently his belief that meaningful negotiations would begin "perhaps within a few days" if American planes stopped bombing North Vietnam.

DAUGHTER OUT ON THE TOWN — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Indications of Canada's New Look

THE wisest Canadian of my acquaintance puts the current political phenomenon in a nutshell. "If Trudeau becomes prime minister," he says, "then this isn't the country we have always taken it for. It's a different country."

Hutchison

My friend didn't mean that Mr. Trudeau was unfit for the highest office. Indeed, he was inclined to the opposite view. He merely meant that the Canada of our national legend and stereotype would never choose a man of Mr. Trudeau's temperament, habits and brief apprenticeship.

This seems to me incontestable. But surely Mr. Trudeau's overnight rise is not the first or only evidence of a deep change in the nation's outlook. One can think of many others.

We had always assumed, for example, and foreigners had taken it for granted, that Canada might be dreadfully dull but it was the most stable nation on earth. Until recently a Canadian travelling in the United States was almost embarrased to hear Americans lamenting their own instability and envying the sound, plodding government of their northern neighbors.

Stereotype Broken

Yet the fact of record is that in 11 years and five elections we have elected a workable, majority government only once — in 1958. A people famous for their cold, sub-Arctic judgement and steady common sense could not make up their minds on the first order of business. In party politics at least, we can see now that the stereotype was broken in 1957, with John Diefenbaker's arrival (an event as extraordinary as the emergence of Mr. Trudeau) and the pieces still haven't been put together.

Or again, take the management of the national economy. Here we were long distinguished, in the war and postwar years, by our thrifty housekeeping. Canada was probably the only Western nation that taxed itself to pay off a large part of the wartime debt and soon its currency became more valuable than the American.

Deficits

Starting in 1957, under the Conservatives, we began to run gigantic deficits which the Liberals denounced as ruinous, Water Gordon warning us that we would soon be "on the rocks." When he took over our finances the deficits continued to pile up and the rocks turned out to be nothing more than a harmless mirage.

And when Mr. Gordon was succeeded by Mitchell Sharp, that grim portrait and living symbol of Canadian frugality, the deficits were increased, for wise Keynesian reasons, until, in the autumn of 1967, the rocks suddenly appeared again, close at hand, undeniably solid rocks this time and terrifying to the nation's treasurer.

We need not go over all this painful history but it shows that in financial affairs Canada has not behaved as natives or foreigners expected. In a recent book an eminent foreigner, Dean Acheson, called Canada the "stern daughter of the voice of God." I wonder if he still thinks that his quotation from Wordsworth applies any longer. The stern daughter has been out on the town, painting it red.

Repudiating the Legend

According to the stereotype, Canada's harsh experience in the wilderness has made it a naturally conservative country, even under Liberal administration. Other countries, with more people and better climate, might gamble on the future but we could afford to take no chances. And yet we have far outstripped the Americans and the British, our original mentors, in social experiments of all sorts while borrowing massively from our neighbors to build the second highest living standard in the world. These were bold and hopeful ventures, generally approved by the electorate, but they didn't fit the legend.

Nor did our latest effort to increase our wealth still faster by raising our prices, since our productivity has not risen in proportion.

Here, too, a personality change is vividly marked. Our grandfathers, who made the stereotype in the first place, had few machines of production but they built the CPR across the continent, sometimes a mile a day, and that was productivity on a stupendous scale, though no one had heard the word in those days before the new economics were invented.

The common assumption has been that we retain all the virtues of our grandfathers, with some new ones added, and perhaps we do. Clearly however, there has been a deeper change in our nature than we suspected. Otherwise, as my friend says, we would not be considering a prime minister like Mr. Trudeau, who is supposedly the new Canada incarnate, as Mr. Winters is the old.

Of course, these are extreme and over-simplified versions of a complex process which no one understands very well, neither man being much like his public caricature and the cliches of television. Nevertheless, their contest is interesting far outside the ordinary concerns of politics, because they do represent, within the broad bosom of a single party, a clash of basic attitudes, a rough litmus test of a Canada unquestionably changed, but how much and in what direction? By rejecting both men the Liberal convention will avoid any answer. By choosing one or the other it will give us a useful measurement of ourselves.

Correspondence From Our Readers

Keep the Old Names

I quite agree with the Kamloops Council of British Columbia in its objection to changing the name Yellowhead to any personnel-named highway.

Those old names of our early day landmarks, of our rivers and mountains, etc., as given by our early explorers, should never be changed. They were here before many of us. Please leave these things as they are.—H. Milne, Langford.

Lessons in Vietnam

The logic of reviewer David Marquand as he seeks to propitiate, somehow, the gods of unreasoning brutality, is understandable . . . he has a living to make.

But one fails to understand the quavering voices of some onlookers who want to soften the description of the tributes to an unrelenting Caesar.

Americans proclaim themselves the best people on earth; the brightest, the most progressive, the most liberty-loving advocates of justice, equality, and fraternity . . . then they go to Vietnam and give lessons.

For my part they can stop now. Let them begin to behave like the human beings they claim to be and I am sure they and their admirers will get the applause they seem to crave.—E. Bailey, 728 Haliburton.

CBC "Trash"

Canada is supposed to be Christian, yet on every side I see more heathen attitudes and way of life than can be found in most parts of Africa.

What has stirred me to write is the programs presented by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. In recent days the CBC have placed on screen, the very type of life the laws of our country are trying to keep Canadians from.

The latest episode was seen on a program called Wojeck. It appeared Tuesday, February 27, at 9:30 p.m. This displayed an unmarried girl on a bed with two different men. All the girl was wearing were two small pieces of underclothing. How much more deplorable can the CBC become? I urge all respectable people to write to their member of Parliament, to call for a clean up around the CBC. We pay for this trash. Why should we have what is rapidly becoming the ruination of our country, produced at our expense?

The CBC is starving our youth of what they not only need, but are desperately searching for. Canadians need to know the true meaning of their name. They need to know what it is to be one of Christ's followers and to give this to the youth of today, not the demoralizing program the CBC is now producing.—Dan A. Chapman, Minister of Cobble Hill Baptist Church.

Too Tired

May I through the vehicle of these cool columns extend hearty condolences to a recent correspondent, describing herself as a "tired Canadian," who submitted an impressive list of grievances. Mayhap she was born already ancient. Should the latter be the case she may enjoy the quite unique experience of outliving the ennui through the rejuvenation of her ideas.

I would suggest to Patricia Young that before "or else," she make an effort to comprehend how very fortunate she is residing in Canada, rather than being a Vietnamese citizen gasping out her last breath because dear devout benign Uncle Sam decided on her behalf to burn her to death rather than permit her to suffer the indignity along with a billion or so other inhabitants of this globe of living out an expanding life within the framework of a communist economy. —P. Gibbens, 1205 Fernwood.

Three Cheers

Three cheers for Patricia Young . . . I've started to write a similar letter many times, but always gave up in disgust, or hadn't the courage to mail it.

It just takes one spark (like Patricia's) to ignite the fires of public indignation, that will eventually put this great country of ours back on a sensible pathway.

Sing out and march on, all ye Patricia Youngs! We need you. —Roy Bullough, 975 Brighton Crescent.

— And a Tiger

Three cheees for Patricia Young for putting into words so aptly the feelings of many fellow Canadians. Her letter was worthy of space on the front page of the Times.—L.G.

Clothes Maketh, Etc.

The Speaker has "lowered the boom" on the wearing of turtleneck sweaters in the Legislature by MLAs, and all of them must appear in conventional dress.

A newspaper article suggested that some informality should be permitted in the interest of greater comfort.

This overlooks the necessity for maintaining dignity (as far as possible) in such a body, and the fact that people tend to behave in accordance with how they are dressed. Proper decorum in law courts is enhanced by the formal attire of judges and others. Even boys react, mostly unconsciously, to being better dressed.

Surely the whole history of civilization shows that for the maintenance of appropriate conduct in serious affairs it is necessary to have rules, and that of these the ones concerning attire do much to bring about a desirable atmosphere.—R. Morris Wilson, 235 Cook.

Follow-up Care

I am only one parent of a child who is in desperate need of follow-up care and treatment following a mental illness.

Being a divorced, working mother I am unable to find the time to organize similar parents into a group so that some force would be behind this plea for assistance.

My daughter is 18 and has been through the Mental Health Clinic; has been to several psychiatrists; and has twice been in the Bay Pavilion following which she was released because that was as far as treatment could go. This left her half treated; back where she came from; where somehow she was expected to pick up her life and live it as a normal person.

Where is the final treatment centre? Where is the follow-up — a 'home' as I would prefer to call it, where these mental patients can be gradually brought to the stage where they can fit into the outside world and its daily problems?—Concerned mother.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times, March 13, 1908.

Long Willie, the west coast Indian, was set at liberty this morning by Magistrate Jay. He was accused of having obtained from Capt. Heater of the sealing schooner Dora Steward, the sum of $10 by a "trick".

The charge against Long Willie was that he had taken $10 in advance on the understanding that he was to go on the Dora Steward as a hunter. Later he took an advance from the captain of another schooner.

Magistrate Jay found Long Willie not guilty.

By NORMAN COUSINS
Editor, Saturday Review

A home television set is more than a technological triumph in communications. It is a symbol of a comfortable way of life. People sit in easy chairs to watch it — most frequently after the evening meal.

It was in such a setting of security and prosperity that the American people saw the other evening a segment of the Vietnam war.

They saw people in a South Vietnam village being herded together by American soldiers and sent off in the direction of refugee camps, there to become part of a homeless band of more than 2,000,000.

They saw an old woman crying out and struggling to get back to her little hut, then carried off by force. Then they saw the village destroyed by U.S. fire bombs.

The news announcer said that this was only one of hundreds of villages being similarly bombed or set afire in order to deny targets to the Viet Cong. There is not much the Viet Cong can do with scorched earth, he explained.

America, 1968.

It is in the name of freedom that the United States has gone into Vietnam. And it is in the name of freedom, if freedom is to have any meaning, that the American people must denounce the massive and destructive blundering being carried out in their name.

The notion that the best way to save people from the terrors of the Viet Cong is to burn down their homes, uproot them, and send them off to refugee camps is the kind of logic that makes moral cripples of us all. Why not carry this incredible process to its weird conclusion and shoot down the Vietnamese themselves in order to keep them from becoming the victims of the Viet Cong?

Does anyone know — can anyone guess — how many new Viet Cong are created as the result of such policies? Is there any quicker way to make heroes out of the Viet Cong than to drop fire bombs on villages?

President Dwight D. Eisenhower once estimated that 80 per cent of the Vietnamese people would turn to Ho Chi Minh if a nationwide free election were held. Are we likely to win the Vietnamese by burning down their houses, defoliating their crops, and dislocating their families?

There is a tendency in some quarters to shy away from these facts and their implications by saying:

(1) War has always been messy; we shouldn't flinch from facing up to its grim necessities;

(2) We ought to be talking about the pervasive terror-and-assassination tactics of the Communists rather than about people who get hurt by us in the line of fire;

(3) The more we criticize and lament our own role in the war, the more encouraged Hanoi will be to think the United States will be forced by its own people to pick up and go home.

On the first argument: It is ghastly nonsense to say that anything goes in war. It is precisely at a time of sanctioned killing and devastation that it becomes critically important to make morally responsible decisions.

We commit lives to war and we take lives in war, but that does not mean that life should ever be held cheaply or that there are no moral obligations in war.

The problem here is not that we may be condemned by others but that we have to live with ourselves. If we accept policies calling for the bombing of villages, or the spraying of farmlands with poisonous chemicals, then it will be only a matter of time before the moral collapse represented by these acts becomes the standard for government at home.

Second: The fact that the Viet Cong have cut off heads and terrorized people is incontestable. Such being the case, we ought not involve ourselves in a competition of raw horror. We ought rather to seize every opportunity to provide the Vietnamese with a dramatically effective alternative. Increasingly, however, we have subordinated human values to military values and have thus lost support of many of the people we seek to save.

The way to deal with the Viet Cong is not to shoot into a crowd in the hope of killing a few of the enemy but to persuade people to turn to us rather than to the Viet Cong for social justice, liberation, and peace.

Here, however, the hard fact is that the far-reaching social and economic objectives promised by President Johnson at the Honolulu Conference last year have yet to be effectively pursued by the Saigon government. The one thing that might make a difference—land reform—is as remote now as it was five years ago.

On the third point: There is no doubt that Hanoi believes the American people will force their government to pull out of Vietnam. The way to cope with this danger is to pursue policies in Vietnam that the American people can support.

The Hanoi theory that the United States will at some point just go home is the same as the one held in certain Washington quarters about Hanoi.

Members of the American military who complain that dissension in the United States over the war is aiding the enemy should know that such dissension is a direct expression of what Americans have been taught best to do by their own history.

They have been taught to insist on straight answers and to refuse to be manipulated by men of powerful station who apparently have little understanding of the democratic process.

The Tonkin Gulf episode and the Pueblo incident indicate that there may be contempt rather than respect for the intelligence of the American people and for the Constitutional process of decision-making.

So long as this is so, what is most to be feared is not severe criticism of the war but its erosion under mindless and powerful pressure.

Lots of Talk, But is It Actually Communication?

By ART STOTT

Have you ever been a member of a discussion group in which one participant so monopolized the conversation that the dialogue became a monologue?

That's the point that was put across to me, ever so gently, during a weekend conference on education. It was done with infinite kindness, but it was done. "This is very interesting," a lady said, "but do you think we might have opinions or observations from those who have remained quiet so far?" Pat handles the problem more forcibly. "If you thought before you spoke," she says, "you wouldn't talk so much."

Stott

She and the lady at the conference are right, of course. But it's tough on a compulsive talker. I should know better. The lesson has been driven home to me since childhood, and I accept the truth of the statement, that the art of good conversation is achieved by those who have cultivated the ability to be good listeners.

No doubt most of us who suffer my affliction agree with that theme. They know that silver as speech may be, silence is golden. Knowing this, we persist in emulating the farmer in Tennyson's "Brook", babbling.

Reacting to the delicate reproof at the conference, I maintained a specially-sworn vow of silence for at least half an hour. In that time the group swung back to one of the problems studied by the conference—the lack of communication where it was needed.

The irony of it. Here I was ready to communicate and all they wanted me to do was shut up. By conforming to their wish I had the opportunity to turn the idea of communication over in my mind a time or two and, with a flash of enlightenment recognize the obvious. The obvious is that using the vehicle of communication—talk or the written word—isn't necessarily communication.

Communication starts with an idea or concept that should be thought through before it's articulated. I have a friend who disagrees. He says he has to state an idea before he can properly formulate it. When the words are out he then has a thesis. It causes him all sorts of trouble, he says, because he has then placed himself in a fixed position and has to defend what he has said.

Still, in most cases, a person has to know what he wants to say before he goes through the mechanics of expression. With a lot of us, the difficulty arises because we don't think through what we think we have to say or, in other cases, we just don't know what we're talking about.

Was it Gracie Allen or Mary Livingstone who gave the procedure classical form with her announcement that "People have more fun that anybody?"

But the problems of communication are not restricted to the difficulties which arise when those seeking to convey ideas to others suffer a sudden rush of words to the mouth without the preconditioning of thought. Sometimes the danger is the reverse: Somebody who has given a particular case a great deal of thought, who wants to serve a special interest and knows the mechanics of communication, creates the hazard.

The ingenuous listener is impressed by the plausibility of the argument, yields unconsciously to some of the gimmicks that are effective in influencing a relatively uncritical mind and accepts the presentation handed to him. As far as the thoughtful individual delivering the message is concerned, his communication has been successful. The same can scarcely be said for the responsive receiver of the message if he has failed to use adequate critical faculties in assessing it.

It is one thing for individuals involved in both ends of communication to seek an honest understanding of the idea one wishes to convey to the other. It's another when one has an axe to grind—and is probably quite honest in the grinding.

Years ago I used to listen in court to Stuart Henderson speaking for the defence in criminal cases. It was his job to get his client off. In the pursuit of that objective, he very properly used what powers of persuasion he possessed to influence the jury favorably. As one of his techniques he used to set up a possibility, try to convert it into a plausibility and eventually refine it into a probability. The skill of his communication technique was attested by the number of acquittals he won in murder defences.

Even when there is no ulterior intent, communication can become infinitely complex. I have an acquaintance high in public life. He has policy to establish and decisions not only to make but to justify. He does his homework, marshals his facts, given them logical sequence and delivers his case. He has a natural impatience for people who contradict him without doing the same amount of fact-gathering as he does or applying the same degree of logic as he applies to his conclusions. Therefore opposing critics, to him, are wrong. He is right. But in his case communication is a one-way street, not always acceptable to others who do not wish to travel it.

Just possibly he should consider the axiom which I disregard for other reasons. As in good conversation, so also in communication, success depends in part on the development of the good listener.

Three Principal Groups Contend Within Latin American Church

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

(This is the second of two articles by the Latin American correspondent for The Washington Post on the role of the Roman Catholic Church today in the southern half of the Western Hemisphere.)

In considering recent developments in the role of the Catholic Church in Latin America in recent years there is a general tendency to categorize the main church blocs within three principal groups: conservatives, radicals and progressives—although this is obviously an oversimplification.

In the forefront of the conservative camp stand such unabashed counter-revolutionaries as Brazil's Dom Jaime de Barros Camara and Colombia's Cardinal Concha —men who sincerely view such encyclicals as Pope Paul's Populorum Progressio as verging on heresy and who stubbornly resist the decrees of Ecumenical Council Vatican II. Even those who sympathize with their position, however, privately concede that they have lost the initiative and that time and the weight of papal authority are running against them.

Too Slow

Of greater concern to liberals are those bishops of more loosely conservative stamp such as Peru's Juan Cardinal Landazuri Ricketts and Argentina's recently retired primate, Antonio Cardinal Caggiano. Although they have bowed to the Vatican Council dictates and made certain gestures toward reform, they have done so at a pace that many younger clerics regard as too slow and half-hearted.

Says one observer: "They, and too many of our other bishops, are basically opportunists who blow with the wind. Right now, the prevailing winds are toward reform, so they're trying to adjust and go along. But their hearts aren't in it. If a reaction were to set in, they'd be right back on the conservative bandwagon."

At the opposite end of the spectrum are the radicals. Mostly, they are younger priests and nuns whose first-hand experience with the misery of the masses has convinced them that the church must join the vanguard of radical social reform movements.

Two Forms

In its mildest form, this radicalism has led priests to buck the established order by organizing unions and peasants' co-operatives, by leading strikes and by campaigning openly for leftist political candidates. At its most extreme, it has resulted in breaks with higher church authority and calls for the violent overthrow of the existing political, social and economic order.

Impetuous, idealistic and inclined to emotionalism, the radicals understandably have captured the fancy of the foreign press and reaped a vast harvest of publicity (more, in the opinion of some observers, than their actual influence and accomplishments rightly warrant). Still, they have played a big part in dramatizing the revolution within the church and people-

These include Father Salomon Bolo Hidalgo, the Peruvian priest who addressed an impassioned appeal to Pope Paul after he was jailed in 1965 for supporting a Castroite guerrilla uprising in the Andes; Father Juan Zaffaroni, an Uruguayan who eulogized the late Che Guevara as "the revolutionary I idolize," and Panama's Father Carlos Perez Herrera, another Guevara admirer who has announced plans to run as an "anti-imperialist" candidate in the Panamanian congressional elections next May.

Rocked Order

The group's most celebrated recent recruits are the three Americans — Father Thomas Melville; his brother, Father Arthur Melville, and his wife, the former Sister Marian Peter — who rocked the Maryknoll Order in December by casting their lot with Guatemala's Communist guerrillas.

As one admirer of the trio puts it: "There are lots of priests who condemn the United States for supporting reactionary, oppressive systems down here. But how many of them have U.S. passports?"

The real idol of the radicals remains Camilo Torres. A member of one of Colombia's best-known upper-class families, this charismatic young man spent most of his career in the church as a sociologist trained at the University of Minnesota and the Belgian University of Louvain.

Toward the end of his short life (he was killed at the age of 38), he became actively involved in politics, advocating violent revolution if necessary to win social justice. This, in turn, led to his departure from the church, his enlistment with the guerrillas, his death in a skirmish with Colombian army troops on Feb. 15, 1966, and his burial in an unmarked grave.

Since then, his name has become a legend and rallying cry across the entire length of Latin America. To Catholic radicals, his confrontation with the aged Cardinal Concha symbolizes the struggle between progress and reaction within the church.

Castroites revere him as a martyr on the same heroic scale as Che Guevara. In an even broader context, an entire generation of young, politically informed Latin Americans sees him as the personification of selfless idealism.

In distinct contrast to Camilo Torres and his "way of arms" are the progressives — the most loosely knit and difficult to define of the major groups within the Latin theological struggle. These are the people to whom North American journalists and diplomats usually are referring when they talk about the development of a non-Communist Catholic left in Latin America.

The description is actually a misnomer since the term "left" in this context is more applicable to the radicals. Still, there are similarities between the two groups that make such confusions understandable.

Like the radicals, the progressives believe both in an accelerated reform of the church's internal doctrines and a ministry of the temporal that would enlist the church actively in the cause of social justice. And like the radicals, they believe that the achievement of such justice ultimately depends on profound changes in the existing political, social and economic structure of the region.

Parting Point

Where the two groups reach a parting is over the proper means of effecting these changes. The radicals, in their despair, generally come out thinking that the entire structure must be torn down violently and rebuilt from scratch. The progressives feel that reform can be brought about from within — that change is possible through evolutionary rather than revolutionary means.

Although there are many other theoretical differences between the two factions, their major practical disagreement involves their attitude toward Marxist groups. The radicals advocate co-operation with Marxist and other extremist groups committed to revolutionary change; the progressives are firmly anti-Communist on the grounds that Communist doctrine is in fundamental conflict with the eternal truths of the church.

Diversity

Yet, once one moves beyond these basic shared principles, it is possible to find a wide diversity of opinion sheltered under the progressive tent. Included here are the advocates of change through such Catholic-inspired political movements as Christian democracy, the scholars and theorists mapping position papers for the church of the future, the prelates of the more liberal national hierarchies and the dissenters from those countries dominated by a clergy of conservative cast.

If this polyglot assemblage can be said to have a leader, then it is probably Brazil's Dom Helder Camara. But he is not a leader in the sense of a general who lays down specific battle plans for his lieutenants to carry into the field. The problems of Latin America's myriad dioceses are too numerous for any one man to fill that type of role.

Close to Pope

Instead, Dom Helder holds his distinctive position among the progressives mainly by virtue of his pioneering courage, his eloquence and his well-known closeness to Pope Paul — all qualities that make him a figure around whom the progressives can rally on basic questions.

For despite their many disagreements, the progressives are united on the basics. They want, on the one hand, to pull the church out of the moribund state into which it fell under the conservatives and make it a viable, relevant force in the lives of the Latin American faithful.

On the other hand, they want to do this without falling into what they see as the error of the radicals — allowing a legitimate concern for temporal suffering to obscure and crowd out the church's basic theological mission.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Tax Proposals, Board Under Sharp Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — The government trotted out its proposed prices and wages review board for Commons inspection Tuesday only to have the opposition judge it unfit "and a complete hoax."

Prime Minister Pearson entered the debate on Finance Minister Sharp's latest tax bill —to levy a three-per-cent surtax on corporation and personal income taxes—to outline the new board's role.

The opposition heard him out, then responded with blistering criticism of the board and the tax proposals generally. The Commons was to continue with second-reading debate on the bill today.

Mr. Pearson said the proposed board would move quickly in an attempt to curb inflationary moves by business and labor.

The agency will:

—Discuss price and cost problems with representatives of management, labor and consumers "in order to clarify the issues involved and insure that, before major decisions are reached, all concerned are aware of these issues and that the public interest is taken into account."

PLAN TALKS

The agency's precise terms of reference, Mr. Pearson said, will be determined after consultations with interested parties including the provincial governments, leading elements in the labor movement and industry and professional associations.

It was important the agency be established quickly and this could be done under the Enquiries Act.

"If—and when—in the light of experience, an agency with greater powers and authority is required, then government can submit legislation in Parliament for that purpose."

Richard A. Bell (Carleton), a former Conservative immigration minister, termed Mr. Pearson's proposal "a tangled and belated compromise between expediency and necessity."

The prime minister did not say what teeth the proposed agency would have, he said.

Dave Lewis (NDP—York South) accused Mr. Pearson of "spending an awfully long time on a silly, elementary exposition of orthodox economic nonsense," then revealing something he did not define.

'MEANS NOTHING'

The prime minister's statement "literally means nothing at all and tell us nothing about what he will do about prices, wages, incomes or anything else."

Mr. Pearson said that an immediate step to deal with price stability in Canada will be creation of an ad hoc cabinet committee made up of ministers with responsibilities in such matters.

He had sent letters to all premiers expressing the government's concern about the problem "and our ideas as to how we should proceed to deal with it." Early federal-provincial meetings to discuss details of co-operation on the topic were proposed.

RETURNING as chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations is Jacob A. Malik. He held the job from 1948 to 1953 during the Stalin era and succeeds Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Snow, Not Spring, for East

MONTREAL (CP) — The heaviest snowfall of the winter swept into Montreal Tuesday night, dumping nearly 10 inches of snow on streets bared by recent spring-like temperatures.

Montrealers looking forward to an early spring awoke today to find major roads only passable and side streets clogged with drifting snow whipped by 20 mile-an-hour winds.

Planes and trains were running late schedules in most cases. Air Canada said its two Toronto-bound flights would be delayed as much as two hours and reported flights to and from the Maritimes were operating under "abnormal" conditions.

Both railways reported delays of more than an hour arrivals.

The weather office said the storm dumped the highest amount of snow on the city this winter.

The storm, which gave more than 12 inches to southern Ontario Tuesday, drifted eastward into the Maritimes today.

Hippies Agree To Follow Store Rules

Legal action will be taken against teen-agers if they refuse to behave like mature adults when congregating in the basement cafeteria of a downtown store.

The ultimatum was made at a meeting Tuesday by the management of the Bay.

Personnel and operations manager John Jellison and other store officials met for two hours with four teen-age leaders to make clear the stand to be taken by the department store.

"We laid out some rules and they agreed to abide by them," Mr. Jellison said.

Friction had been brewing over a period of time as teen-agers used The Bay's Olympic Room as a place to 'hang out.'

Mr. Jellison said the store had been plagued by the juveniles milling about and lingering by the hour, annoying customers.

RULES

The new rules which will be put in writing and posted throughout the store, state:

- Lying on table tops, feet on tables, is out.
- Obscene language must stop immediately.
- Everybody who occupies a table must make a purchase, and no more than four persons may sit at a large table.
- The teen-aged hippies must use discretion in the length of time they take in the restaurant.

"We're not out to build up a crusade against hippies," Mr. Jellison said. "We just want to make our place a clean place.

"They now know that we are prepared to bring in the police and later take the case to court," if the rules are not followed.

STAGED SIT-IN

The showdown meeting came as a result of a major confrontation last Saturday when about 50 teen-agers were invited to leave the restaurant.

But they trooped up to the fourth floor and staged a sit-in alongside the executive offices. Their complaint was "discrimination."

Mr. Jellison said Tuesday's meeting turned out to be "a pretty good session."

Colin Constant, leader of the young people, said, "Probably everyone is happy with The Bay. All that remains to be settled is police intolerance, harrassment and discrimination."

Tank Lights Spark Climb By Searchers

NANAIMO (CP) — Headlights of a military tank were mistaken Tuesday for a missing light aircraft and prompted searchers to make a fruitless climb up the side of mountain 23 miles west of here.

A logging company employee spotted a light at the 3,500-foot level of Mount Moriarty but searchers found it was a tank taking part in a Canadian Armed Forces training exercise.

The search resumed today for the float-equipped, single-engined Cessna, missing since March 1 on a flight from Vernon to Port Alberni.

300 to Compete In March 22-24 Bridge Tourney

About 300 players are expected to compete in the annual Duplicate Bridge tournament held by the Victoria unit of the American contract Bridge League March 22-24.

One third will be from Oregon, Washington, the mainland and up-land points.

The tournament will take place in the Empress Hotel with games starting at 1:30 and 8 p.m.

Vancouver Island championships will be decided in the Men's Pair, Women's Pairs, Mixed Pairs and Teams of Four.

CONFERRING in Ottawa today with Consumer Affairs Minister Turner is Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon, chairman of the royal commission on consumer problems and inflation in the three prairie provinces. She is expected to ask for an immediate probe of the profit records of at least two western companies. Judge Batten presented the commission report to members of the department.

Air Force Resumes Search

The search for Vernon flyer Jerry Brock and three others has been resumed today, the Air Search and Rescue unit at CFB Comox reported.

The search for Mr. Brock, his wife, their son Tim and Jim McClusky, both 14, was halted Tuesday due to bad weather.

A spokesman for the rescue centre at Comox said "although the weather isn't what we wanted, we've got planes in the air.

"There is a lot of cloud over the mainland, but the Nanaimo area is fairly clear."

In the air are two Albatross aircraft and a helicopter. A third Albatross is being considered for the search.

Search officials said "we will continue searching until we feel we've done everything we can to locate these people."

Earlier, on March 5, a suspected sighting on the side of Mount Arrowsmith near Cameron Lake turned out to be a snowbank.

SWEDISH SOCIALIST URGES JUSTICE FOR ALL UNDERPRIVILEGED

Negro-Only Program Will Create Resentment

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A better life for Negroes will not come about if national programs are directed only toward the Negro, Swedish socialist Gunar Myrdal said Tuesday night.

"Every advantage given to Negroes helps to create resentment in other underprivileged groups," Myrdal said.

Therefore, he said, all the groups, including "poor whites," in the "submerged underclass" must work together in pressing for justice.

Negro housing cannot be improved unless it is a general policy for all, Myrdal said. Schooling must be improved for all. In the labor market "there is little chance of accomplishing much as long as there is unemployment among whites."

Myrdal stressed in his speech at the University of Hartford that the Negro problem "cannot be solved except in the frame of solving the poverty problem."

This he acknowledged, makes the problem three times as big.

He also commented that "Negro nationalism must be a blind alley." Black Power, he said, is no solution.

WAR CAUSES UNREST

Much of American racial unrest is caused by the Vietnam war, he said.

The war, he said, takes away money that might be spent domestically "and lowers morals."

"It breeds moral cynicism. You see in pictures how people are being killed, real people being shot and killed and maimed."

"I am not hopeless about America," he said, however. "I am not speaking in anger, but with anxiety and sorrow."

LAKE REACHES FAR

Russia's Lake Baikal is a mile deep in the middle and is larger than Belgium in area.

Coroners To Meet

The annual conference of B.C. coroners will be held in Trail, May 27, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced Tuesday.

The coroner's conference will be followed in Trail by the annual conference of B.C. magistrates, to be held May 28, 29 and 30, Mr. Bonner said.

Why Can't You Control Your Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name and address to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-213, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Transportation Scrutiny Set

By AR KENT
Business Editor

The role of transportation in the future of Vancouver Island will come under close scrutiny when delegates to the 1968 meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce gather in Powell River this week.

Kent

First of all it should be pointed out that Powell River, a mainland community lying some 70 miles up-coast from Vancouver, itself falls victim to transportation and communication inadequacies, being dependent on circuitous, unpaved roads and two ferry connections to West Vancouver.

The paper mill community therefore feels closer to Vancouver Island than the lower mainland and its business community maintains membership in the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island. (Comox is just one ferry trip away.)

The ACCVI was one of the groups that protested withdrawal of the Queen of Prince Rupert ferry last year, partly on the basis that it formed a highway link with Central B.C. and stimulated traffic along the Island Highway.

With problems of limited access and remoteness to overcome, communities of upper Vancouver Island especially are sensitive to interruptions in transportation such as the Queen of Prince Rupert grounding.

To deal with coastal transportation problems, the conference will present a panel of speakers, including ACCVI past-president Pat Frumento, of Victoria, and Gerald Furney, a Port McNiell campaigner for better existing roads and new access on the northern end of the island.

Some of these are triple-deck ships capable of carrying 400 automobiles per trip.

He suggests that as mass transportation develops, fewer and fewer frills will find their way into the systems as concern concentrates on getting as quickly and cheaply as possible from point A to point B.

Moderating the discussion will be University of B.C. Prof. William Hardwicke.

Also taking part in the two-day program will be Canadian Chamber of Commerce president William Anderson, of Vancouver, and provincial minister without portfolio Isabel Dawson, whose home is Powell River.

Delegates from Victoria Chamber of Commerce will include manager Earl Dicknoether, Hector Alexander and ACCVI president Stan Britt.

Chamber president William Armstrong, Mr. Dicknoether and director Newton Cameron will study the format of an important regional conference to be held in Eugene, Ore., next month.

They have high motives in their mission to the 1968 Pacific Northwest Trade Association spring conference, April 21-23: the 1969 PNTA meeting will be held in Victoria.

This is the first year the Victoria chamber has been a member of the association, but under Mr. Armstrong it is anxious to make a contribution to the concept of regional trade.

Referring to PNTA, Mr. Dicknoether said:

"They seem to be the only organization interested in trade on a regional basis. And this becomes more important with development of the Pacific rim trading community."

General theme of the conference will be forest resources, and one of the speakers will be B.C. Minister of Recreation and Conservation Kenneth Kiernan. Others include Ed. Cliff, chief of the U.S. forest service, Washington, D.C., and executive vice-president Otis Hallin, of Crown Zellerbach Corp., San Francisco.

Brenda Mines Ltd. said Tuesday it plans to bring its Okanagan copper-molybdenum property into production in late 1969. Earlier a mid-year start-up was forecast.

Of the estimated $60 million capital cost, Noranda Mines will put up $27.5 million and will hold about 50 per cent of the common shares.

Nippon Mining Co. will have around 9 per cent and will put up about $7.5 million of the capital.

Bank of Nova Scotia will provide loans of $25 million for the balance of capital requirements.

Plans call for a 24,000-ton-per-day open pit mining operation to recover higher grade ore for about three years and large low-grade deposits of copper and molybdenum for the balance of its lifetime.

A total of 4.19 million shares are authorized, of which the financing - management group will own about 3.2 million, leaving no more than 1 million shares free.

'Canada Must Taper Off Cost-Price Increases'

OTTAWA (CP) — The governor of the Bank of Canada expressed some satisfaction Tuesday about Canada's adjustment from the 1961-66 economic boom, but he repeated his warning that the country must make a better attack on inflationary pressures.

Louis Rasminsky said in his annual report there are a few hopeful signs the country is beginning to arrest the price increases that marked the economy last year.

Yet wages and salaries continue to increase at "very high rates," frustrating a return to price stability and a "more vigorous rate of expansion of the economy on a non-inflationary basis."

In phrases echoing those of Finance Minister Sharp, the central bank governor said direct fiscal and monetary policies will not be enough to meet the problem of excessive price increases.

He urged governments to press powerful groups in the economy to restrain their demands for increased incomes.

It appeared to be another call for the kind of wage-price guidelines promised by coincidence Tuesday in a speech Prime Minister Pearson delivered to the Commons about an hour after Mr. Rasminsky's report was formally tabled in the House.

Mr. Pearson outlined the program that a government wage-price review agency will follow in submitting major decisions of business and labor to analysis and public discussion.

The Rasminsky report offered reassurance that price increases have been lower during the 1960s in Canada than in other major industrial countries with the exception of the United States.

But Canada must do better. It is a matter of "greatest importance" to taper off the increases in costs and prices.

Major wage settlements in 1967 continued to provide for annual increases of at least eight per cent—far ahead of gains in output, and therefore inflationary.

Happily, said the report, other countries also face inflation and Canada has not lost its competitive position in world trade.

In fact, there was an extraordinary improvement last year in the deficit on current transaction with other countries. The current-account deficit as announced last week dropped to $425,000,000 from $1,140,000,000 in 1966.

The report said the deficit represented only two per cent of the total output of goods and services in the economy, compared with about 4½ per cent when conditions were similar in the mid-1950s.

But unless inflation subsides, Canada faces the prospect of pricing itself out of world markets. A better attack on inflation could protect or improve Canada's competitive position, said the report.

Sun Reports $1,906,741 Net Income

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sun Publishing Company Ltd. had a net income of $1,906,741 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1967, it was reported Tuesday.

C. B. Delbridge, Sun chairman, said Sun Publishing's fiscal year was changed to Dec. 31 from Aug. 31, so comparable figures with the previous 12-month periods are not available. In the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1966, the company had net earnings of $667,483.

Included in the 1967 net income was $934,428 which represents the company's share of undistributed income from Pacific Press Ltd.

Sun Publishing holds a 50 per cent interest in Pacific Press which prints the Sun and the Vancouver Province.

The annual report said the Sun's daily circulation for December was about 250,000, an increase of 1.2 per cent over the similar period in 1966.

Advertising lineage was down slightly but revenues were 6.4 per cent ahead of one year ago because of rate changes, the report added.

TRADE DEFICIT DOUBLED IN BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters) — The British trade deficit doubled to £700,000,000 ($182,000,000) last month, it was announced today.

The January deficit was £35,000,000.

Exports fell by £3,000,000 to £515,000,000. Imports jumped £38,000,000 to a record £655,000,000.

The £70,000,000 deficit took account of invisible exports, such as shipping and insurance earnings, the Board of Trade said in a monthly announcement.

The board said the figures reflected initial effects of devaluation of the pound Nov. 18, which were mainly adverse to Britain's trade balance.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted today at $1.08⅝ for cheques, $1.08¼ for notes and $1.06¼ for silver. Sales were $1.09¼ for cheques and $1.09¼ for notes.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was up 1/32 at $1.08⅝. Pound sterling was down 3/16 at $2.60.

NEW YORK—The Canadian dollar was unchanged at 92 5/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 9/64 at $2.39 21/64.

Shipbuilding Future 'Bleak'

By ROGER STONEBANKS

"Bloody bleak."

In plain language, that is how arrows general manager John Wallace sums up the west coast hipbuilding outlook.

In the last two months, Victoria Machinery Depot shipard has closed down and the ederal government has slashed efence and other marine work.

With hundreds of skilled men aid off, at least seven Ameri-an companies — from as far ast as Baltimore and as far outh as Mississippi as well as an Diego, San Francisco and eattle—have either advertised r sent recruiters to British olumbia for workers. Nearly 00 men have gone from ictoria.

Mr. Wallace says west coast hipbuilders have been "ignored ompletely in Ottawa" and all hey want is a fair share and easonable opportunity.

He makes these points, in an nterview and in the company ublication Yarrows Review:

- The federal government's austerity program knocked out all defence and other marine work previously-scheduled for the west coast;
- Ship repair work has become dominant, but it is unpredictable and by its nature won't keep skilled men around;
- In terminal ports such as Vancouver, ship repair is essential but it has to be sustained by new construction to provide a nucleus work force to draw on for "spasmodic" ship repairs.

Yarrows is building a $2.5 million fisheries research ship, due for completion in June or July, but peak employment on this vessel is only 120.

He said that recruiters from American and eastern Canadian companies have met with some success in Victoria and Vancouver.

"And we should be thankful that those unemployed by ourselves are at least having the task of relocating made easier and with some choice in that their skills are being actively sought by others.

"Both the unions and ourselves are very much aware that such inroads into the available manpower with shipyard skills will directly affect us for the future.

"The lack of new construction s h i pbuilding and insecurity created by the hire-layoff procedures of ship repair work destroys any thought of job security in the industry and makes the task of training future shipyard workers extremely difficult.

Arthur Mayse

For a start today, here is a letter from Pascagoula, Miss., where former Victoria Machinery Depot boilermaker William Lyons and his family are shaping a new life.

"I've been hearing so much about the griping and complaining regarding the 'Mississippi Move' that I just have to speak out," Mrs. Lyons writes.

"I was born in Victoria, and I had never lived anywhere else. I left my Mum and Dad and all my relatives and friends when we moved. We sold our house and furniture. But when I speak of Victoria, I cannot say 'home,' because home is where my husband and three children are.

"Certainly the way of life is a bit different here, but then again, we're not cut off from civilization, either. My husband is doing one of the dirtiest jobs in the yard, but the men did similar jobs in Victoria without complaint. Working and living here, we know that we'll not have to go on welfare. In Victoria, that was questionable.

"Most of us have only been here a month, and I don't think that's long enough to judge. But we have not been treated any differently than a newcomer to Victoria would be. Also, we did not expect a royal reception just because we are Canadian."

Mrs. Lyons finds the Negro's situation "ugly" in her adopted town, but does not see it as basically different from the Canadian Indian's.

"I look on this move as a good opportunity to see different parts of a country both scenic and historic," she concludes.

A stout-hearted letter, and I learn from union sources that a good many like it are being received from ex-Victorians whom the VMD closure forced to up-stakes and head south.

On Tuesday I told you about a Montrealer who, though she likes our city, would sooner fight than switch. Not all who come visiting from the Eastern townships are so stubborn, however, and I am glad to report that B.C. has wooed and won two keen and skilful anglers from Ontario.

They are Ed and Mair Wiskin, a couple who came here in the course of a trailer honeymoon from Ottawa two summers ago, and as many another has done before them, got hooked.

When I last mentioned this pair, their trailer was grounded under Goldstream Park's dripping fir trees, and they were stubbornly waiting the return of spring.

The elastic honeymoon extended yet another summer. Not until the salmon were into their autumn spawning run did Mair and Ed set off for an Ottawa neglected, except for a couple of look-ins by plane, for about two years.

But they didn't stay.

Ed, a builder, has set up shop in West Vancouver, and on clear days, he and Mair look wistfully across toward their promised land. A few years in West Van, they assure us, then they'll be over here, not just for vacations, but for keeps.

North at Campbell River, where celebrating tame apes once washed the bark-dust from their throats with overproof Demarara, I sat down last week to a well-mixed martini.

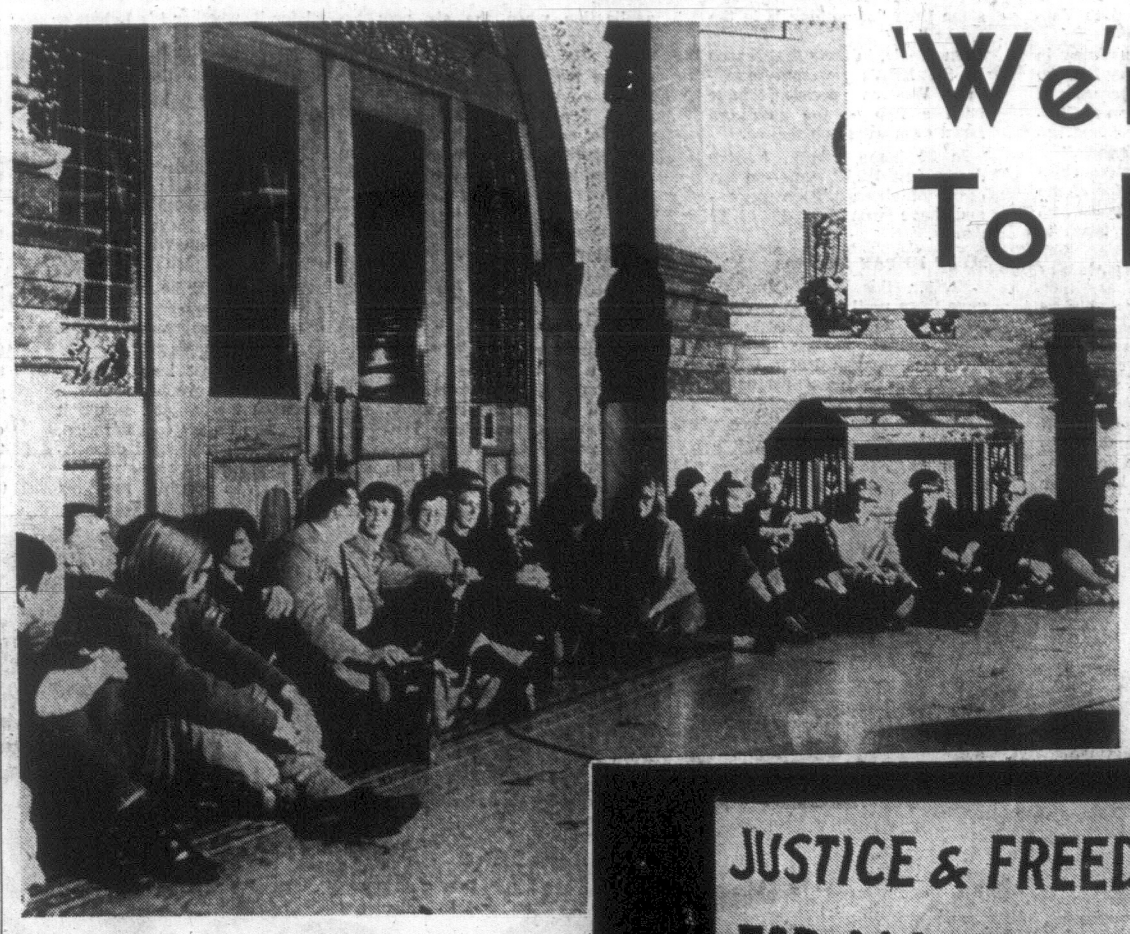
Then, after nibbling a couple of dainty hors d'oeuvres, up by elevator to a Driftwood Inn room that included among its furnishings a bed vibrator.

This device, if you've never encountered one, is supposed to rest the restless, and lull the insomniac into blissful sleep. Even though no lulling was needed, I dropped a quarter into the neat little control box.

Then, while the vibrator got in its licks, I fell to remembering the Campbell River we knew before its boosters began referring to it as a city. There was a government wharf, a general store, the Willows Hotel (a fire razed it), and damn-little else.

"This town has a real future," the old man who sat in the sun on the landing used to assure us in pre-vibrator days. We smiled then. But . . . between drowsily-chattering teeth . . . it seems he was right after all.

'We're Going Back To House Tonight'



NEARING THE END of their first sit-in at 4:30 this morning, mothers of Victoria Low Income Group had plenty of support form other more fortunate mothers and university students. The weary group left the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings at 5:30 vowing to return tonight.

Sit-In Mothers Stay All Night

By PETE LOUDON

With those words Reg Clarkson, parade marshal of the first sit-in ever held in the B.C. Legislative Buildings, dismissed his troops at 5:30 this morning.

With that, 26 members of Victoria Low Income Group and supporters, got up from the floor of the rotunda where they had sat unchallenged for more than two hours.

"We've got to come back tonight so we've got to preserve ourselves," said Mr. Clarkson.

If there was chagrin at the fact their protest against welfare rates was unrecognized by the government officially, it was hidden.

Everyone who sat through the long night was satisfied the government was fully aware of the protest and that accounted for the late, late session.

They felt they had outsat the Premier. And they planned to be back at the legislative chambers before 6 tonight.

The demonstration had started 10 hours earlier. Mothers of the Low Income Group had arranged baby-sitters and turned out at First United Church prepared to risk arrest in a civil disobedience aimed at winning government consent to an unbiased arbitration board to consider higher welfare rates.

TWO CLERICS

Backing them and swelling their numbers to 75, were a group of sympathetic mothers who were not on welfare, a group of University of Victoria students and two clergymen, Rev. A. G. MacLeod of St. Aidans and a missionary just returned from Africa, Fred Anderson.

The group sat in a circle while Mr. Clarkson laid down

UP TO COUNCIL

New Pool By Summer Of Next Year?

Victoria should have a new swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden by the summer of 1969.

The city's recreation and community services committee went on record this morning as favoring the phasing out of the old Garden and the building of a new public swimming complex.

The committee's decision will now go to city council as a strong recommendation.

The committee made its decision after receiving a special committee report on the pool.

It will recommend that:

- The Crystal be discontinued as a community swimming pool and phased out of operation in as short a time as possible.
- That a new pool be constructed in the general area of Central Park, Royal Athletic Park and the Memorial Arena.
- That the committee immediately start detailed site studies for further recommendation to council.
- That the committee commence immediate studies on the most desirable pool design.
- And that land acquisition for the new pool be paid for with money borrowed from the McPherson Estate fund now standing at $1.2 million.

$650,000 TOTAL

Total cost of the new pool, including land acquisition, was estimated at $650,000.

Cost of the pool itself has been estimated at between $350,000 and $500,000.

Of the recommendations brought in by the study committee only one was tabled.

That was the suggestion the Crystal be demolished and the site disposed of at a price compatible with its highest and best land use.

It was suggested the disposition of the site be tabled until greater progress has been made on the construction of a new pool and until a final decision is made on the location of a proposed convention centre for the city.

$600,000

The committee was informed that just keeping the Crystal operative for the next three years would cost $105,000 and to bring it up to reasonable standards would cost nearly $600,000.

No target date was set for the completion of the new pool but city manager Dennis Young said if an immediate start is made it could be ready in a minimum of 18 months with two years a more likely period.

"Construction, based on local experience, starting in the early fall of this year could see a new pool ready for use in the summer of 1969," Mr. Young said.

Argus Replaces Comox Neptunes

Bigger Sub-Hunters Coming West In June From Eastern Squadrons

The Neptune submarine-hunting aircraft based at Comox will be phased out of service by the end of June, department officials disclosed today.

The eight twin-engined Neptunes will be replaced by six of the larger four-engined Argus aircraft gleaned from other squadrons across Canada.

Twelve Neptunes in service on Canada's east coast will also be taken out of service.

$8 MILLION

The move is expected to save annually in personnel, maintenance and operating costs.

There are now three Argus squadrons in the east with eight aircraft each. They will be reduced to six each, the remainder coming to Comox.

MORE RANGE

Defence officials said because of the greater range of the Argus, replacing eight Neptunes with six Argus will increase the Comox-based squadron's operational capabilities.

The American-built Neptune carries a crew of 10 and replaced the Second World War Lancasters in 1957.

The Canadian-built Argus carries a crew of 15 and first went into service with the then Royal Canadian Air Force in 1958.

The switch to the larger aircraft is expected to result in a slight increase in the number of personnel attached to the maritime command squadron of CFB Comox.

Water Board Merger Urged On Peninsula

Establishment of a new water district to cope with the needs of the northern end of the Saanich peninsula was advocated today by Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee.

The peninsula has four water districts — Central Saanich, Brentwood, Deep Cove and Sidney — all acting independently.

The merged district would plan for the extension of existing facilities in the three municipalities, the reeve said.

"Apart from the need for more water, we will soon face high costs for improving our present waterworks system," the reeve said. "We have to get down to business."

The reeve's suggestion is expected to be discussed by representatives of the four boards in April.

One of the most pressing problems is the renewal of the existing 12-inch pipeline from Elk Lake which serves a large part of Central Saanich, Deep Cove in North Saanich and Sidney.

Crump In Town Recuperating

Norris Crump, chairman of Canadian Pacific Railway Co., is having a brief "no interviews" holiday at the Empress Hotel until Thursday morning.

He caught influenza on a trip to Calgary and is taking it easy to recuperate, a spokesman said.

En route to Montreal Mr. Crump is expected to visit CPR managers informally at Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Quick Decision Asked to Solve High Tide Sewer Woes at Sidney

A malfunction in the main Sidney sewerage outfall is creating a serious pollution problem.

The "urgent problem" caused when a high tide and wind combine to back sewage up into the main disposal line is at present under study by the Regional District sewage and waste disposal committee.

Tuesday the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health decided to ask the regional board for a quick decision on the matter.

Sidney's main sewer system was constructed in 1945 and the main Ocean Avenue outfall, some 700 feet long, was completed in 1966.

At low or medium tide on a calm day it works fine.

CAN'T USE TOILETS

But when the tide is high and the breeze a little higher than average homeowners on Ocean Avenue can't use toilets, baths or even drain the kitchen sink.

And the sewage that does get out of the main outfall washes right back on to the beach.

The sewage is untreated.

A consulting engineer familiar with the Sidney problem said this morning that while the immediate problem lay with the outfall the main problem lay within the municipal boundaries of the town.

"The problem starts with the fact that there are no true records of just what they have below ground," he said. "What they have to do out there first of all is spend a few thousand dollars on a survey to find out what they have got, what levels existing lines are at and just what goes into them.

"Once they have that information they can find out just what they have to do."

$140,000

Cost of the extension, based on 1965 construction costs, was set at $140,000. The cost of the outfall extension, because it ties in with the main trunk and outfall program, would be shared with other municipalities using the main trunks and the outfall.

While calling on the regional district for a fast answer the metro health board decided to commence immediately its "polluted water" sign posting project.

Other signs will be posted at the following locations:

Foot of St. Lawrence Street (Dallas Road) small beach; foot of Howe Street (Dallas Road) beach; Clover Point, east and west sides (2 signs); Dallas Road ramp, east of Bushby Street Ross Bay; foot of St. Charles Street, Ross Bay; all ramps and steps leading to Ross Bay and Clover Point to be stencilled on the walkway; foot of Crescent Road (Oak Bay) small sewer outfall; Twin Beaches opposite 586 Beach Drive; Golf Links Beaches, foot of Newport Avenue, posted, recommended 2 additional signs required one on each small beach; Beach Drive, foot of Broom Road (2 signs); Beach Drive, foot of Humber Road, near steps to small beach—small septic tank outfall; Ten Mile Point side of Cadboro Bay Beach; Finnerty Cove at Solarium; Shoreline School (Christie Point) 2 locations; corner Admirals and Craigflower Road; Craigflower Park Bridge; Kinsmen Beach, outside waters; Tillicum Park, Gorge Bridge; Admirals Road and Colquitz Creek; parking lot, No. 1 Highway, signs both ends; Craigflower Creek Estuary at Helmcken Road; Banfield Park, Victoria West.

'They'd Sooner Look At Gorge Than Swim'

"Far more" people want to drive by the Gorge and enjoy the view than want to swim in it, Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

He made the comment in defending Saanich support for a Capital Improvement District Commission shoreline beautification project near Craigflower Bridge paid for by provincial money.

He said the reason CIDC accepted the project in the first place was that it is a start on the "total rehabilitation" of the waterway, both in that water and on the shore, and it is within reasonable and attainable economic limits compared with some million-dollar schemes.

To date, $86,000 has been spent plus $105,000 for underground wiring. Second stage costing $65,000 was delayed because of a postponment in allocation of provincial money.

Earlier, Gorge resident Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, called the shoreline project beautiful "and the kind of thing we really need, but it doesn't change the state of polluted water.

"It's something like going to town in a beautiful fur coat and dirty underwear. Some people might do it but I wouldn't."

'REAL PROGRESS'

Reeve Curtis said concern over swimming has to be tempered with "real progress" through the regional sewerage plan, the Saanich study of Portage Inlet and Gorge area undertaken with professional help from the University and the shoreline project.

"I don't think government should refuse to move ahead on shoreline beautification just because it isn't able at the moment to finance the total environmental rehabilitation of the waterway," he said.

"I don't believe that residents of the Gorge area are really aware of the man hours and detailed thinking now under way towards saving this waterway.

"Their criticisms over the years have been justified and they have spurred on this municipality at least to taking a complete look at the problem."

'OBEY THE LAW, DO ALL YOU CAN TO CHANGE IT' SAYS MAGISTRATE

By DON VIPOND

Victoria's senior magistrate was challenged Tuesday on the jail terms he has been handing convicted marijuana users.

"I know this question concerns young people very deeply," Magistrate William Ostler told a meeting of the Pre-Law Society at the University of Victoria.

He had been invited to deliver a noon-hour talk on the functions of the magistrate's office. But he devoted most of his hour-long stay to answering questions, the majority dealing with drug laws. About two dozen students were present.

Questioners challenged the justice in similar jail terms for convicted muggers and those caught with marijuana, the deterrent value of jail for "pot" smokers and what they should do about laws they think are unjust.

The Court of Appeal has directed that suspended sentences are generally inappropriate in marijuana possession convictions, said the magistrate. He and other magistrates must follow directions from a higher court.

"The court of appeal is trying to say the only thing we can do is provide a deterrent. Narcotics, even marijuana, are considered such a social evil, the deterrent is given predominance."

He said that if students could see some of the probation reports he deals with showing drug progression from marijuana to LSD and others they might feel differently.

He cited the case of a youth who took a drug without knowing what it was, was arrested, and 12 hours later in court was "still hallucinating badly."

"Perhaps there is a tenable argument that marijuana taken by a mature person will do no harm."

But the law is concerned with irresponsible use of drugs and alcohol and for this reason there are some people who are forbidden alcohol because they have proved not responsible.

Magistrate Ostler said there might be a "compelling argument" in not having marijuana under the Narcotics Control Act "but this has nothing to do with magistrates."

"How do you see our duty if we feel a law is unjust?" asked one student.

Their duty was clearly to obey the law first "and then do all you can to get it changed."

"It may be that when your generation is in charge," said the magistrate, "you may see some difficulties you don't see now."

There isn't anything that can't be changed, he said.

"And it's up to you to do it.

"But don't let your frustration bring you into folly."

On another topic, one student asked him why persons responsible in a fatal accident are sometimes charged simply with careless driving and receive light fines when convicted.

It was important to examine the circumstances of such cases carefully, replied the magistrate.

A person can be killed but the degree of negligence might have been minimal.

MUST COME UP WITH $2,000,000 SAYS OAKLAND SECRETARY

CHARLEY O. JOINS BIDDING FOR FRANCHISE

'Got Gun the Size of Cannon Pointed at Our Heads'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For a team that can't win hockey games, can't draw fans, is reported in debt up to $700,000 and is being sued for $100,000, Oakland Seals are mighty popular.

The extent of interest in the National Hockey League club became clear Tuesday when at least two, and possibly three groups, expressed a desire to purchase the club.

A spokesman for Labatt Breweries announced Tuesday negotiations for purchase and transfer of the franchise to Vancouver are in progress.

A second group is headed by Calgary millionaire sportsman Max Bell and Vancouver industrialist Frank McMahon, is reported to be negotiating with Frank Tatum, secretary and director of the Seals.

The third interested party is Charles O. Finley, owner of Oakland Athletics of the American League. The baseball magnate, also dickering with Tatum, said Tuesday his main concern is to keep the Seals in Oakland.

Tatum said Tuesday that Labatt's would assume control of the Seals in exchange for paying off the club's debt to the NHL.

"Labatt's will provide us with funds to meet our commitment on the date it is due, May 15. We owe the league several hundred thousand dollars, but not nearly as much as the published figure of $700,000."

He also said the Labatt's offer is completely contingent on the franchise being moved to Vancouver.

"Labatt's have let us know in spades that the brewery is in no way interested in operating a hockey club in northern California. They want control and operation to repose in Canada."

Sale or transfer of a franchise requires approval of nine of the other 11 NHL clubs. Indications are that this could be tough to obtain.

A meeting of NHL governors is set for March 19, at which time a vote would probably be taken should the negotiations have been completed successfully by one of the competing groups.

In Montreal Tuesday, NHL president Clarence Campbell said he had no first-hand knowledge of the reported negotiations, but that he has known for some time "something is in the works."

The Seals, in their first season in the NHL's six-team expansion Western division, have been a flop at the gate and fared even worse on the ice.

In 32 home games, they've drawn just 182,732 fans—an average of about 5,400 a game—and have won just 15 of 67 games.

MUST REPAY $700,000

Earlier this year Campbell gave them until May 15 to clear what he said were $700,000 in commitments to the league. Former manager Rudy Pilous is suing the Seals for $100,000 he claims is owed him for breaching a three-year contract.

Vancouver has been bidding for an NHL franchise for some time, losing out in their original application when the six new league teams were formed, and early this year moving back into the thick of speculation following a visit to Vancouver by Barry Van Gerbig, 29-year-old principal owner of the Seals.

Bell and McMahon are among 14 owners of Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, which would be replaced should the Seals move to Vancouver. But other Canucks officials say the bid is in no way a move by the group to obtain the franchise.

"This is news to me," Bell, who is vacationing in California, said of a report that he is heading a Canadian group to buy the club and move it to Vancouver. "But I am interested that Vancouver get big-league hockey.

"If somebody is going to bring in big-league hockey, I'm all for it, whether it's Labatt or whomever. I think Vancouver is a big-league town and they're entitled to a National Hockey League club as quickly as possible."

SEATING FOR 15,000

If the franchise is shifted, Vancouver is ready with a new 15,000-seat $6,000,000 arena built by the Pacific National Exhibition and now used by the Canucks.

Campbell said he was aware of some resistance to the switch in the franchise from Oakland. He refused to elaborate.

Although most league governors said they would keep open minds on the subject, should it ever come up for consideration, at least two expressed dissatisfaction with the possible move.

After Van Gerbig and his group bought out San Francisco Seals of the WHL from George Fleharty and Shasta Corp., then paid the NHL $2,000,000 for the expansion franchise, their troubles started.

The team first was called California Seals, but because the arena was in Oakland and San Franciscans didn't support the team, the name was changed to Oakland Seals in a bid for fan identification.

Now Tatum says the owners have a $5,000,000 investment in the club.

"If we don't pay the NHL by the termination date, they can take back the franchise and we go down the tube.

"We've got a gun the size of a cannon pointed at our heads and the only way we can solve it is to come up with at least $2,000,000."

FROM LEAFS . . . . . AND KINGS

Opposition to Move

TORONTO (CP) — Chances of Oakland's National Hockey League franchise moving to Vancouver took a decided dip Tuesday night when Toronto Maple Leafs executives joined the opposition.

Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday in Vancouver that they were negotiating takeover of the tottering franchise and shifting it to Vancouver.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Kings, said he was opposed to the move and Sidney Solomon III of St. Louis Blues said he would go along with whatever the league decided although "I'd like to see the team stay where it is."

"I don't want to see hockey used by beer or whisky people.

"I don't think the game should be used to promote either beverage, and the only reason Labatt's is interested in a hockey franchise in Vancouver is to peddle their product."

Cellar Finish Looming For Floundering Wings

PETE STEMKOWSKI
. . . Detroit scorer

By The Canadian Press

The propect of finishing last in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division loomed desparingly closer for Detroit Red Wings.

Only once before in 32 years have the Wings finished last and Tuesday night's 2-2 tie with Los Angeles Kings left them on the brink of elimination from this year's division playoffs.

Wings have just nine games left in the 74-game schedule and trail fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks by 18 points. Their only hope of escaping the cellar is to overtake Toronto Maple Leafs, whom they trail by six points.

The Leafs have a game in hand on the floundering Wings and they haven't finished last since 1958, the year before the Wings gained that dubious honor.

Toronto, however, appears headed out of the playoff picture for the first time since that 1958 tumble, the year before Punch Imlach became general manager-coach.

Detroit's Gordie Howe scored No. 33 of the season Tuesday while Peter Stemkowski got the other Wing goal. Doug Robinson opened scoring in the game for Los Angeles and Ed Joyal, the Kings' leading scorer with 22 goals, tied it in the third period.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

A heavy schedule is planned for tonight with Toronto at St. Louis against the Blues, Boston Bruins in New York to play the Rangers, Detroit at Oakland, Pittsburgh Penguins in Chicago and Philadelphia Flyers in Minnesota against the North Stars.

The Flyers, who hold a one-point lead on the Kings in the western standings, still are looking hard for a home since the Philadelphia Spectrum was closed two weeks ago for repairs and inspection.

GAME FINALLY SET

Their Thursday game with Los Angeles, originally scheduled for Philadelphia, then switched to Quebec City's Coliseum for Friday now is rescheduled for Thursday, but still in Quebec City. Their Sunday game against the Leafs also is to be played in Quebec.

The only other Thursday game has New York in Montreal to take on the Canadiens, Eastern Division leaders by six points over the Rangers. Oakland is in St. Louis Friday.

While the lack of scoring is the clear reason for the demise of both Toronto and Oakland this season, the same can hardly be said of the Red Wings.

Their 214 goals are second only to the 236 scored to date by Boston among all 12 teams in the two-division league.

GOOD YEAR PREDICTED FOR AMERICAN ANGLERS

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Preliminary figures indicate 1967 may have been a record year for Washington sports fishermen and the outlook is good for 1968, the state department of fisheries has announced.

Frank Haw, sport fishing project leader for the department, said about a million salmon were caught last year, including catches in fresh water areas which totalled about 2½ times the previous record.

"This year should be another big year for salmon anglers," Haw said. "It depends chiefly on the ocean distribution of coho. Our hatcheries have put a lot of good fish out there and if feeding fish are concentrated near our sport fishing ports, we are in great shape."

Predictions for hatchery returns of chinook and coho salmon to Puget Sound are good, Haw said, but pink salmon will be absent and prospects for a good run in 1969 are poor.

Rivals Wait as Farmer Keeps His Curling Cool

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Three provincial rinks in the Canadian mixed curling championship are sitting on the edge of second place, waiting for Larry McGrath, of Kindersley, Sask., to blow his cool.

McGrath, undefeated after the fourth round Tuesday, is defending mixed champion. The 28-year-old farmer, curling with the same rink, won nine of 10 games last year.

The three rinks tied for second hope McGrath will lose one while they maintain their one-loss records to force a playoff Saturday.

With 3-1 records after the fourth round were Edward Stochinsky of Edmonton, Bill Tetley's Northern Ontario rink from Port Arthur and Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown.

SERVICE RINK FIFTH

Fifth spot in the 11-team round-robin event was shared by Quebec's Earl Carson of Canadian Forces Base, Bagotville, who had the fourth bye, and Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont.

Three rinks had 1-2 records after playing only three games—Nova Scotia's Cliff Robertson of Halifax, Vern Becker of Kimberley, B.C., and Frank Stent of St. John's, Nfld.

Saskatchewan started Tuesday walloping Quebec 14-7, then doubled B.C. 10-2 in a game that lasted only eight ends.

Alberta and Northern Ontario came from behind and forced their fourth-round games into extra ends to win.

Alberta had to score a three-ender in the ninth to tie Nova Scotia 6-6 then stole two in the extra end for an 8-6 victory.

Northern Ontario got two in the 10th and stole two in the extra end to down Manitoba 9-7.

In the afternoon round, McGrath was down 4-2 to Quebec after four ends. Saskatchewan stole nine points in the fifth to ninth ends on the way to the 14-7 win.

Carson said later that the ice changed midway in the game and he lost his draw weight. "I couldn't cope with it too well and started chipping my draw shots off guards."

PENTICTON ONE GAME FROM FINAL

PENTICTON (CP) — Penticton swamped Vernon 8-3 Tuesday night to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Hockey League semi-final.

Fourth game will be played Friday in Vernon.

Referee John Culos called a tight game, each team taking 10 minor penalties.

Ontario Tracks Facing a Strike

TORONTO (CP) — The Jockey Club Ltd., which operates thoroughbred and standard bred race tracks in southern Ontario, faces a strike by mutuel clerks, with Greenwood race track opening March 30.

The clerks Tuesday authorized their bargaining committee to take strike action, if necessary, to gain a wage increase of $6.40 a day over the $19 a day they received under their old three-year contract, which expired Dec. 31, 1967.

Fred G. Lane, president of Local 528, Building Service Employees International Union, said Tuesday the strike authorization was not a threat against Jockey Club, but added:

"Surely we are entitled to something more than nothing in lieu of the increased cost of living."

The Jockey Club, which operates tracks at Woodbine and Greenwood in Toronto, Fort Erie, Ont., Campbellville and St. Catharines, told the clerks at a meeting Feb. 21 it was in no position to offer wage increases and proposed a continuation of the old contract terms.

Clerks End Strike At Yonkers Track

NEW YORK (AP) — The strike of pari-mutuel clerks at nearby Yonkers, N.Y., raceway was settled Tuesday night and harness racing will resume at the suburban track in Weatchester County tonight.

The strike extended for eight racing days. The track was to have opened a 70-night meeting March 4.

The strike idled 2,000 other track employees and cost the state an estimated $200,000 a night in taxes, a total of $1,600,000.

The strikers were members of Local 32-E, AFL-CIO Building Service Employees Union. They had demanded a $6 a night increase over three years in their wages of $30 to $32 a night. The new contract provides a $1 a night increase in the first year and an unspecified productivity bonus in the third year.

Aussies Keep Rifle Trophy

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters) — Australia retained the Empire Rifle Shooting Trophy in competition against Canada and Britain at Williamstown Rifle Range Tuesday.

The Australian team will make a nine-week tour of Britain and Canada in June and take part in the annual Queen's Prize and British Empire match.

Australia finished the competition with a 95-point lead over Canada and 56 points over Britain.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Pressure Forces Olympic Meeting

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The executive board of the International Olympic Committee will meet here April 20 and 21 to discuss the controversial admission of South Africa to the Summer Games at Mexico City.

The meeting was called by Avery Brundage, IOC president, after pressure from the Mexican organizing officials and other sources.

Brundage spurned a demand by five members of the nine-man Executive Board to bypass the board meeting in favor of a general meeting of the 73-member IOC.

It was the IOC general convention which voted last month at Grenoble, France, to readmit South Africa, which had been barred from the 1964 Games at Tokyo because of its policies of separating blacks and whites.

The South Africans were brought back into the Olympics after promising to field a mixed team with mixed managers.

ANNOUNCE BOYCOTT

However, 32 African countries, protesting South Africa's apartheid policy, announced they would boycott the Mexican Olympics, scheduled Oct. 12-27. Some dozen other countries followed suit.

The Olympic Committee of the Soviet Union issued a strong denunciation of the IOC action, re-admitting South Africa, and hinted of a withdrawal unless the move was rescinded.

Russia was one of the Executive Board members who called for a general IOC meeting.

The Mongolian Olympic Committee echoed the Soviet statement, threatening to reconsider participation at Mexico City unless there is a reversal of the South African stand.

Soviet satellite nations in mid-Europe would be expected to follow any move made by Russia.

Hall-of-Fame Member Dies

TORONTO (CP) — George Duthie, 66, a member of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's Hall of Fame, died Monday in hospital after a long illness.

Born in Scotland, he was an organizer of the Canadian Boating Federation, the governing body for motor boat racing in Canada.

He was a life member of the AAU of the United States.

IN 1967 he was appointed to the national advisory council on fitness and amatuer sports.

Don Leo Wins Over Butcher

Kelly Balks Bucks As Streaks Broken

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Third-place San Diego Gulls scored a 5-1 Western Hockey League victory Tuesday night over Portland, breaking San Diego's six-game losing streak.

The decision also snapped Portland's five-game unbeaten string that included four victories and a tie.

San Diego goalie Dave Kelly made the big plays to keep the Bucks scoreless until early in the third period, when the Gulls already had a 4-0 cushion.

ALLEGE DISCRIMINATION, RACIAL PROBLEMS . . . . . AT U OF WASHINGTON

Negro Athletes Demand Trainer's Dismissal

SEATTLE (AP) — Demands by Negro athletes to end alleged discrimination and racial problems at the University of Washington, including formation of a Negro Athletic Committee and dismissal of the school's trainer, have been made public.

The demands of 13 Negro athletes at the big Seattle school first were reported in a 10-page March 15 Life magazine spread on discontent of Negro college athletes around the U.S.

Jim Owens, athletic director and head football coach, said he would not comment immediately on the reported demands. Dave Carr, captain of the school's basketball team and one of four Negro athletes who met with Owens Sunday, verified the demands as "basically" correct.

The demands were listed as:

1—Neutralization of 'Jim Owens power' through the formation of a four-man black athletic committee, which could be consulted on such matters as 'demoting a black athlete to the second string.'

"2—A review of all coaches to bring to light examples of prejudice and discriminatory practices.

"3—Immediate dismissal of Washington trainer Bob Peterson because of alleged inferior and perfunctory treatment of injuries and his reported use of the word 'nigger.'

"4—Permanent appointment of a black coach or administrator 'to bridge the gap in communications between the black athletes and the administration.'"

That is "basically what was presented to Owens," said Carr. "but the part about neutralization of Jim Owens power is wrong."

The star basketballer said: "We do not have the right to suggest this. We are athletes and Jim Owens is the man in charge. We recognize his authority and we respect him as a man and we respect the position he holds."

Carr said the reference to consulting on such matters as "demoting a black athlete to the second string" did not refer to day-to-day lineup changes, which occur frequently in all sports.

"But we want the black committee to be recognized and if there is an injustice we want to have some recourse," Carr said.

"I just can't make any statement at this time," Owens said. "I will probably have a statement to make at a later date."

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Barlow of Rochester Americans is within seven points of the American Hockey League's scoring leader, Andre Lacroix of Quebec Aces.

Lacroix, who was called up by the National Hockey League Philadelphia Flyers, still holds the top position with 41 goals and 46 assists for 87 points.

Confusing Spitball Rule Has Some Teeth Pulled

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The commissioner and two major league presidents stepped in Tuesday and took some of the teeth out of baseball's confusing and controversial spitball rule.

A pitcher no longer will be subject to ejection from the game ofter two violations. He will be charged instead with an illegal pitch, similar to a balk.

Commissioner William D. Eckert, making the announcement, said the revised rule would be in effect until the rules committee is able to restudy the problem, probably before the season opening April 8.

The spitter has been illegal for years but nobody did anything about it. Violations became so flagrant last year the rules committee decided to get tough.

At winter meetings in Mexico City it was decided a pitcher would not be allowed to bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips nor be permitted to spit on the ball, his pitching hand or glove.

The penalty was drastic. For the first violation, the umpire warned the pitcher. For the second, the umpire was supposed to thumb the pitcher out of the game.

SOME ENFORCE RULE

Confusion arose when American League umpires enforced the rule and the National League umpires did not.

Under the temporary rule announced Tuesday, a pitcher is given one warning as before on his first offense. If he repeats the offense, he is charged with an illegal pitch.

With men on base, this would have the same effect as a balk. The runner or runners would advance. With nobody on base, the illegal pitch would be called a ball.

The batter is not to be penalized. If he gets a hit on the illegal pitch, the hit counts. If he hits the ball and is out, the pitch is called a ball. If it's the fourth ball, he walks.

REVISION NECESSARY

Warren Giles, National League president, said the revision was necessary because of the confusion caused in spring training games.

At Palm Spring, Calif., last Sunday, Emmett Ashford, an AL umpire, threw out two Chicago Cub pitchers, Frank Reberger and Dean Burk, in a game won by the California Angeles 3-1.

There have been half a dozen instances of ejections this spring. Pitchers who have been given the heave-ho included Dean Chance of Minnesota, Camilo Pascual of Washington and Denny Ribant of Detroit.

Sandra Post Ready For Debut as Pro

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra Post watched her first professional golf tournament when she was six, got her first clubs at seven and wanted to be a woman professional ever since.

Miss Post, the 19-year-old sensation from Oakville, Ont., will play in her first professional tournament this week—the $12,500 Orange Blossom Classic, which opens Friday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

"You know it will be funny playing against Marilyn Smith. She's a real good friend, but she was the girl who gave me my first set of clubs."

Miss Smith, formerly of Australia, lived in Ottawa for a time before becoming a regular on the women's professional golf circuit.

The blonde, who becomes Canada's first woman professional golfer, first caused a stir in local golf when she won the Canadian junior title at 14.

The entire Post family headed south this winter with one goal—that Sandra play well enough to play professional. She made it after winning the prestige South Atlantic title, perhaps the biggest she has won to date.

Miss Post filed her application for professional status Feb. 26. She must pay $50 as a rookie competing in any tournament.

To get her regular card and save the $50 fee, she must finish in the top 80 per cent of the field in three of four events. If she misses, she starts another four event series, again paying the extra tab.

The system was introduced because there are not enough women professionals to justify qualifying rounds and the $50 eliminates camp followers.

She began under family financing, although an equipment and sponsorship company is being negotiated.

Meanwhile, Marlene Stewart-Streit, of Toronto, one of Canada's top women golfers, says Sandra's decision to turn professional will pave the way for many other Canadian girls.

"Now that someone has taken the plunge, I think someone else might not be as reluctant," Mrs. Streit said.

Royals Switch to Victoria

Special to The Times

VANCOUVER — Victoria's climate is beckoning Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League.

Coach Ferenc Puskas announced today that he will take the professional club to Victoria Thursday morning for four days of training in an attempt to get the Royals badly-needed work on outdoor pitches.

In training at Richmond since Feb. 5, the Royals have been forced to work indoors in recent days as heavy rains left mainland turf pitches in water-logged condition.

Puskas expects to run his club through training paces at Victoria's Topaz Park on Thursday and Friday and to have the Royals play exhibition games against Victoria clubs on Saturday.

One of the games will be against Victoria O'Keefes of the Coast League. In order to allow Puskas to use most of his players, substitution rules will be waived for the match, which will be played at 2 p.m. Sunday on the Macdonald Park pitch.

Royals, who are scheduled to face Oakland Clippers in an exhibition game in Victoria on March 24, usually practice around 11 a.m.

Puskas considers outdoor workouts are vital since he must trim several players from his roster in the new two weeks.

Puskas has been pleased with the way forward Johnny Green from Blackwood United of the English League first division has injected new life in the Vancouver attacking unit. Green, who has one of the hardest shots in the league, was a late arrival at training camp but is rapidly rounding into top conditions.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

'They Should' Go Away Enriched'

DUNCAN — Piano adjudicator Eleanor Patch is impressed by the high standards of achievement at the Cowichan Music Festival.

"I have found the standard of performance and teaching very good," Mrs. Patch said Tuesday.

She praised the warm, friendly attitude among the contestants and organizers and the feeling of camaraderie.

"The children seem to enjoy getting together and this is wonderful.

"If they don't go away enriched then the festival will have been a waste of time."

Mrs. Patch is from Vancouver and one of her pupils won second place in the national centennial competition at New Brunswick.

TOP MARK

She gave top mark of the day to Ronald Kilian of Duncan, son of music teacher, Dr. Heinz Kilian.

Ronald was awarded 86 points for his performance in the senior class.

Tuesday was also a day for speech art competition and the day's full results were:

HEINZ DIEKERT
. . . "the body relaxes; mind stays alert"

Do-It-Yourself Hypnosis 'Helps Them Help Themselves'

BY DON DINGWALL

At a night school class here he teaches self-hypnosis.

It's the only course of its kind either Mr. Diekert or adult education director Robert Thorburn know about.

Mr. Diekert also teaches a window display course and it was only through friendly discussion about his interest in hypnosis that the latter course developed.

Mr. Thorburn advertised it and now the class has an enrolment of 15.

They include a biologist, nurse, store clerk, stenographer and housewives.

Mr. Diekert, 29, lives in Victoria at 160 Olive with his wife and two children.

He is licenced by Victoria to practise hypnotism.

Unlike the United Kingdom and the United States, no diploma is required in Canada.

Mr. Diekert says: "The course is mainly to help people help themselves.

"The biggest percentage of those enrolled would like to be able to help themselves with problems of nervous tension, insomnia and the breaking of bad habits."

One businessman said: "I just want to learn to relax."

Mr. Diekert said the class members are mainly in the 40-50 age group and are "keen and fascinated."

Mr. Diekert's interest in hypnosis sprang from reading, then he studied more and more.

He finds the easiest way to hypnotize people is by verbal suggestion but he does have equipment such as a pen light and hypno disc.

"I also use music sometimes. It's just an aid to give people something on which to focus their attention."

His idea is not to put people into a deep state of hypnosis but into an advanced state of relaxation.

"Under this kind of hypnosis the person's mind is quite alert but the body is relaxed.

"They are completely aware of all going on around them unless they are in the deepest state of hypnosis.

"Most people have full recall afterwards."

Mr. Diekert said hypnosis is approved by the medical profession but because it is time consuming is not practised too widely.

He said he is trying to make all the people in his class independent of him and able to induce hypnosis in themselves.

"During this state they are able to give themselves auto suggestions which will benefit them.

"It is completely harmless," he said.

Mr. Thorburn said the class is stressing the therapeutic benefits to be derived from hypnosis.

SHIFTS AT PREVOST?

'200 More Students, Nowhere to Put Them'

DUNCAN — Mount Prevost Junior Secondary School is going to have an additional 200 students in September with no place to put them.

Cowichan school board chairman Joseph Frumento told a PTA meeting he hopes the education department will approve construction of additions at the school.

"We do not build luxury classrooms and we can certainly prove the need.

'COULD HAPPEN'

"I'm opposed to the shift system for students.

"It is not a good policy but we must face the possibility that it could happen because of lack of funds."

He said even if new construction started July 1 (earliest possible date) the new accommodation could not be ready before Jan. 1, 1969.

Mr. Frumento said: "From the board's point of view there is no alternative to the shift system if the additions are not completed in time."

HE'LL HIT THE HEIGHTS FOR CHARITY

PORT ALBERNI — The manager of a five-man band called the "Kinking Machine" plans to spend two weeks in a tent atop a 35-foot pole to raise $2,000 for the March of Dimes.

John Frahill, 25, plans to remain in the six by eight-foot tent for the full two weeks or until he collects $2,000.

After a 1.3-inch rainfall he's hoping citizens will be generous enough to put up the cash before his stay runs the limit.

Every night the weather holds, the Kinking Machine will be in the parking lot where the pole is set up.

Donations are being received at the Toronto-Dominion Bank, the B and W Fidelity and radion station CJAV.

Top Rider From Europe To Judge

Dressage judge for the April 14, show will be Dietrich Von Hopffgarten of Germany.

Club president Don McCool said Tuesday he is in Vancouver for 12 months training such peope as Miss Inez Fischer-Credo, a member of the Canadian Olympic team and a previous judge of the Cowichan show.

GUEST INSTRUCTOR

Mr. Von Hopffgarten is guest instructior at Southlands Riding School, Vancouver.

He is a house guest of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. G. Mackenzie, former residents of Maple Bay and members of Cowichan Pony Club.

This year's two-day show will include jumping and equitation classes Saturday, April 13.

Cowichan district riding club's Easter hunter trials and gymkhana will be held Monday, April 15, at Genoa Bay.

Smoke Damage Extensive In House Fire

Some of the children had apparently been home at lunchtime. A neighbor raised the alarm at 1:30 p.m.

Municipal South End fire chief Pat Clackson said the fire started in a living room clothes closet.

It must have been smoulding for hours as it had burned through the top of the closet to the attic, he said.

There was extensive smoke damage and part of the small, older house, was damaged by water.

Mr. Scholefield is up the west coast working at a logging camp.

PILOTS' BID FOR GRANT SHOT DOWN

DUNCAN — City council Monday night congratulated Cowichan Airport Society on its enterprise but refused a request for a grant.

Society spokesman Bob Maxwell said they have run into financial difficulty by going into debt to build a cross-strip, and subsequently having their electrical wiring system at the airport condemned under new provincial regulations.

Mr. Maxwell said normally the society could run the airport on its annual budget of $1,700.

He told council the society has plans to develop float plane facilities at Somenos Lake and make them revenue-producing.

Peterson Forced To Toss in Towel

Opposition Attack On ETV Lack Prompts Minister's Wild Swings

By JOHN MIKA

Opposition MLAs Tuesday attacked the absence of a provincial educational television so Education Minister Peterson swung back—at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

But some of his haymakers went wild.

Mr. Peterson said more ETV programs should be produced by the CBC.

"Here is one area where the federal government could provide more help for education through the CBC and get some of these objectionalbe programs off the air," he said.

Hecklers demanded he name the objectionable programs.

"I can't remember any names now but you know what I mean," he said.

Mr. Peterson then told the MLAs the province has an ETV program which was responsible for beaming 150 half-hour programs into the schools last year alone.

CBC-PRODUCED

But, under questioning, he admitted they were produced and paid for by the CBC to meet his department's requests.

"But you are taking credit for them," stormed Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

Mr. Peterson danced away from that verbal punch by pointing out that the province also employs closed circuit television within the school system for some instruction.

Asked where, he said its experimental use is under way at Kamloops, Campbell River and Duncan.

Mrs. Eileen Dailly (NDP — Burnaby-Edmonds) asked if it was true that these experimental programs are conducted and paid for by the local school boards involved and Mr. Peterson admitted they were.

"Well how can you claim credit for your department?" she demanded.

THREW IN TOWEL

Mr. Peterson retreated to his corner where he threw in the towel after a final feint:

"Well at least the percentage increase in my department, if I may use percentages in this respect, is up 50 per cent for EVT," he said.

"But it still is a modest sum, I admit," he added hastily.

(The department estimates for radio and television programming have been increased from $20,000 to $30,000 for the coming fiscal year.)

The minister finally conceded his department "has not launched itself into ETV yet" but said it was due to uncertainty whether the federal government would undertake a major program using ultra-high frequency television channels or some other technique.

'NATURAL RESOURCE'

Mr. Peterson later told Mr. Clark that B.C. has asked the federal department of transport not to issue any licences for ultra high frequency TV channels without clearing them with the province.

He was replying to questions from Mr. Clark who wondered if the province realized that television channels are "a natural resource" and are rapidly being used up.

Mr. Clark said the province should be considering reserving a channel for University of British Columbia, Simon Fraser University and possibly B.C. technology institute.

'INVALUABLE'

Educational TV is the cheapest form of adult education ever devised, besides being an invaluable aid to the school system, he said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said Mr. Peterson's earlier concern that educational TV is excessively expensive was not justified and used the Washington State system as an example.

It runs 12 to 14 hours a day for six days a week at a total annual cost of $378,000 and a capital outlay of $1,421,000. This represents a tremendous educational bargain, he said.

CLASS ROOM BUILDING 'GENEROUS'

Education Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday said the province is building class rooms faster than it is enrolling new students.

He told the legislature that in the past three years 3,569 new class rooms were built, while the total student population increased by 69,460 pupils.

"Which suggests that every new class room has been filled, on the average, with 19 pupils and this is generous treatment by any standard," he said.

END DELAYS

Teacher Certification Speeded Up

A new system for certifying teachers will be introduced to eliminate "undue delays" hampering the teacher supply, Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced in the legislature Tuesday.

He said the present eight step certification process will be cut to two steps and a special licence intoduced for acceptable teachers who do not meet the exact qualifications.

Mr. Peterson said the new system will include a standard teaching certificate available after three years post-high school training.

In addition, there will be a higher level certificate for those who complete five years of training, including a university degree.

The licence will be good for four years and will be available to out-of-province teachers obtaining posts in B.C. or others who are in the process of qualifying for certificates.

"This is a simpler method of evaluation than we have had in the past and we hope it will substantially speed up the certification of teachers trained outside the province," Mr. Peterson said.

CUSTOMIZED SCHOOLS OUT, SAYS MINISTER

'Second Layer of Ice Added'

The government did not restrict B.C. Hydro in building "the nice (W. A. C. Bennett) dam for that nice man with that nice name" the way it clamped restrictions on school construction, Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) charged Tuesday night.

He claimed that two weeks ago the government "added a second layer of ice to the freeze" by putting a $15,000 ceiling on classroom construction costs in addition to its prohibition against building of gymnasiums, libraries, activity rooms and administrative facilities in the schools.

Mr. Berger said this means that Vancouver school board will not be able to build anything but portable classrooms during the freeze and "it's questionable if they can even do that."

He said the ceiling is a "bureaucratic edict made for political reasons to cut back costs without any relation to the school requirements or any consultation with boards.

'DON'T BUILD THEN'

The government is saying you can have schools so long as you don't build, them," he charged.

"Has the government in any other sphere of the province made such an edict?

"What about the W. A. C. Bennett dam—did the government tell B.C. Hydro 'you build that nice dam but don't spend more than $100 million even if you know you can't do it for that'?

"Did the government say 'you build that nice dam for that nice man with that nice name but don't built the powerhouse?"

He argued that library rooms, gymnasiums and activity rooms are as essential to a proper school as a powerhouse was to a dam.

Both sides of the house hammered desks loudly and heckled persistently several times as Mr. Berger spoke.

He warned the opposition "has no confidence in this minister and will not pass his (salary) vote tonight unless or until he lifts the freeze."

'BULLDOZING'

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan jumped up to say that if the opposition "makes that kind of ultimatum then we might as well call the vote right now." Several opposition MLAs shouted "bulldozing."

Mr. Peterson said he had answer all the points raised by Mr. Berger Monday "when you chose to absent yourself to make a political speech to the students at Selkirk College."

He said it was presumptious for Mr. Berger to rely on press reports of the house's business while he was away because "the questions he posed today and the answers given yesterday didn't appear in the press."

"Well tell those of us who were here, we didn't hear any answers," called out Dr. Ray Parkinson (NDP — Vancouver-Burrard).

Mr. Peterson said Mr. Berger "deserves the Pulitzer Prize for fiction in the way he has resented the school situation. I can only compliment him on his frank disclosure that he will conduct a filibuster.

"His comments are just a lot of nonsense because there are millions of dollars of schools being constructed in the province today."

Mr. Peterson said the current "restrictions are temporary but I feel great savings can be made in this area (prefabricated and modular construction schools) and I don't want to be misconstrued on this oint but I doubt that we shall epver go back completely to customized schools in B.C."

He said lessons learned in legitimate cost-savings during the temporary restrictions will not be forgotten when they are lifted.

Bill Would Approve Debate Broadcasting

A bill which would provide for the broadcasting of debates was given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

The bill was introduced by Barrie Clark (L—North Vancouver-Seymour), a Vancouver broadcaster. Mr. Clark is on the air staff of CKWX.

The bill defines broadcast to include live or delayed transmission by radio, television, tape or film recording.

One clause reads that "the Crown shall not make any financial contributions directly or indirectly to the broadcasting of debates . . ."

A similar bill introduced by Mr. Clark last year never received the required three readings to become law. It died on the Order paper at the end of the session.

Fund Started For New Organ

Rotary Boys' Choir will hold a choir concert Friday night to start a fund for a new organ for Esquimalt United Church, it was announced Tuesday.

The concert, starting at 8 p.m., will be held in the church hall at Lyle and Constance.

Admission for adults is 50 cents, for children, 25 cents.

Look Mr. Premier, We'll Replace You'

The cabinet should dump Premier Bennett if it wants to survive the school construction issue, it was warned by an opposition MLA Tuesday night.

"Education comes first with this party and this province and it's time it came first in this government," said Randolph Harding (NDP — Revelstoke-Slocan) to Education Minister Peterson.

"If the premier won't give you the money, I'm going to give you a suggestion.

"The cabinet can hold a meeting and say 'look Mr. Premier, we're going to replace you'."

Laughter burst out but Mr. Harding persisted that the cabinet "has just got to proceed on schools" regardless of Premier Bennett's opinion.

Mr. Peterson repled that Mr. Bennett "is deserving of a great deal of praise for the way he has managed this province's finances" and borrowed one of the premier's favorite homilies.

"The last thing I would want to see is education being Saturday night rich and Monday morning poor."

David Barrett (NDP — Coquitlam) prompted more laughter when he said the suggestion that Mr. Bennett be deposed has at least made Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell sit up in his seat and Mines Minister Donald Brothers take off his dark glasses "so everyone could better see their leadership images."

Grit Quotes Alberta Figures

A statement by the Alberta provincial treasurer was waved at the B.C. government Tuesday as proof they weren't spending enough on education.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault quoted Alberta Provincial Treasurer Anders O. Aalborg as telling Opposition Leader Peter Lougheed that the province could balance its budget if it cut back spending on education and health to the lower levels of British Columbia and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Perrault said Education Minister Peterson had admitted the Alberta Social Credit government was a good one so he could hardly disagree with the statement.

The Liberal Leader said Mr. Aalborg gave figures showing B.C.'s per-capita education of spending of $150 well behind Alberta's $189.

Per-capita health spending in B.C. was given as $112 compared with $130 in Alberta.

Name Officials

Robert Stokes was elected secretary-treasurer; Allan McKinnon and George Jones, directors from Victoria; Mary Jane Hall and Owen Dermod-Flood, directors from Oak Bay; Mrs. Thomas Jackson and Peter Pollen, directors at large.

Keen Plantswoman A Legendary Figure

By HILDA BEASTALL

Known to hundreds of gardeners throughout Vancouver Island and the adjacent islands, Mrs. E. W. Carey has been a plants woman and amateur horticulturist among us since coming to the coast 21 year ago.

Hilda

Interest in plants of this remarkable woman seemed to be even more keen if that were possible as years passed.

I say remarkable without apologies for, at the age of 86, Mrs. Carey counted it a lost day if she failed to learn something new.

It was a tremendous pleasure for her to recognize and be able to name a plant which perhaps she last saw in England 70 years ago.

New plants were a challenge, things to be catalogued mentally and stored away for reference at some future date.

PRACTICAL LESSONS

Among the treasures and prized possessions in her garden were her compost heap and coldframe, counted as essentials, and practical lessons in gardening were always available on the spot.

A visitor could see where special soil conditions had been created to accommodate a few rhododendrons and other choice acid-loving plants; or a terraced section in the sun for alpine plants.

Vegetables and small fruits were grown in quantities, always enough to distribute among friends so that successes and failures became of general importance in the community.

JUDGING

During the last 12 years or so, her prime interest was judging at horticultural shows and various garden club affairs on the island.

Always stern in her decisions, there were those who differed with Mrs. Carey's judgments on some occasions, but the legacy of intense interest in her surroundings and the people and plants making up her environment is something all of us must treasure. She is destined to become a legendary figure in our records.

We who knew this personality intimately, find joy without sorrow in our memories of her.

New Gibraltar Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain announced Tuesday it will reopen discussions with Spain this weekend over the future of its colony of Gibraltar. However, British officials reiterated that there could be no question of transferring sovereignty over Gibraltar from Britain to Spain.

TWO NERVOUS GUNMEN AND AN OLD MAN

Jet-Style Kidnappers 'Were Expected'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A passenger jet with 58 persons aboard was hijacked over south Florida Tuesday by two nervous gunmen kidnapping an old man who tearfully told passengers, "I'm going to be killed!"

The pilot of National Airlines flight 28, Capt. Clarence J. Delk, said: "They were expecting us. I don't know how they knew we were coming. We were identified from the Cuban tower by flight number during our approach to Havana airport."

The hijackers' prisoner, a man who appeared to be in his 60s, was led from the plane crying and gesturing for help.

Stewardess Sarah E. West said the man slipped her some personal papers when the men weren't looking. She hid them on the plane and they were not found when Cuban soldiers searched the aircraft during the six hours at Havana. The papers were given to the FBI.

All three men were met at Jose Marti Airport in Havana by Jose Abrantes, Cuban vice-minister in charge of security. They were driven away with him in a government security car.

The three Spanish-speaking men boarded together in Tampa. The airline said they gave their names as J. Arnentero, G. Carrazana, and R. Donate when they bought tickets.

Four minutes after takeoff on the Tampa-to-Miami leg of a flight that began in San Francisco, one of the gunmen put a .45-calibre automatic pistol at the neck of stewardess Donna Goldinher, 26, and forced her into the cockpit.

American officials tracked the plane on radar. Cuba notified U.S. officials after the plane's safe landing at 12:36 p.m. The plane returned to Miami at 7:57 p.m.

The man who said he was going to be killed sat quietly in the coach section of the plane until the landing in Cuba.

"I heard noise that sounded like a fight in the cockpit," said stewardess Sally Jackson Kenner, "but then I saw it was the old man beating his hands and arms on the chair armrest.

"Then he began pacing up and down saying in his broken English, 'I'm going to be killed!' "

To reports that the hijackers were drunk or on dope, Mrs. Kenner said: "They were not drunk. They were just petrified, scared to death."

PM Probes Northern 'Apartheid'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson told the House Monday he has asked for a report from the justice department on the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court upholding the validity of an apartheid clause in a job contract.

The prime minister was asked in the Commons by Opposition members if his government would introduce legislation making such contract clauses illegal in the future.

Mr. Pearson said he would examine the report from the justice department before replying.

The Supreme Court Friday upheld the validity of an apartheid clause in the job of a white man fired for wooing an Eskimo woman, a petite, pretty, well-educated Eskimo called Anniapik, now Mrs. Ann Shields.

The decision upheld rulings of lower courts and washed out the $25,000 damages action brought by electrician Terence John Whitfield against Canadian Marconi Company of Montreal.

AUSTRALIAN

Mr. Whitfield, an Australian reported to be working now in Labrador, was fired from his $650-a-month Arctic radar base job by Canadian Marconi in 1961 for associating with Anniapik.

The relevant clause in his contract read:

"Indians and Eskimo cillages are considered out of bounds and the personnel are prohibited from fraternization or association with the native populations except in special circumstances. Infringement of these orders is cause for discharge."

Mrs. Shields told newsmen after the Supreme Court ruling: "Canadians go around saying there is no discrimination in my country. They are dreaming."

It Once Was Too Big

Oak Bay council decided some weeks ago that a proposed change house for Windsor Park was too big.

Now council's B committee thinks less grandiose plans prepared last week are too small.

The plans unveiled at a committee meeting Monday night incorporated most of the features of the original design, in a smaller and cheaper space.

But committee members thought the three showers per shower room would not be enough for large sports teams using the facility.

They decided to look into the cost of putting extra features into the building to make sure they build something adequate.

Municipal engineer Geoffrey White was asked to look at change houses built by other areas to see how Oak Bay's plan compared.

Original plans calling for a $90,000 change house to be built in three stages were scrapped by council to avoid spreading the cost over three years.

It had been decided to cut the ornate, Tudor trim from the exterior of the building and cut down on size to save money.

Test Case Set In Loitering

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men arrested Saturday and charged with loitering near the courthouse were remanded Monday to March 18 for what a defence lawyer described as test cases against the arrests.

Fourteen others were remanded to March 19. Arrests came after police ordered a crowd of about 200 to move from the courthouse square. Many were described by police as "hippie types."

Sidney Symons, a Vancouver lawyer who is a member of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association which protested the arrests, said he will argue the arrests were improper.

Remanded to March 18 were Stanley Persky, 27, undergraduate arts president at University of British Columbia, and Joseph Richardson, 19, both of Vancouver.

Deputy police chief John Fisk said the arrests could be seen as a warning to hippies who may be planning to come here in spring and summer. Arrests were prompted by provincial authorities' complaints.

Youth Fined $75 For Obstructing

A youth police say blocked their way when they were attempting to place an arrested man in the patrol wagon was fined $75 in central court Monday.

Victor Kraeling, 18, of 2702 Victor, was found guilty of obstructing a police officer at Paul's Restaurant, 1900 Douglas, Feb. 2.

Const. Clifford Harrison testified he and Sgt. John Maybin were taking a man to the patrol wagon when Kraeling told them the man had done nothing wrong and put his arm against the wagon, blocking Const. Harrison's path.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Entertain Ambassador

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will give a dinner at Government House on Thursday evening in honor of His Excellency Francois Leduc, ambassador of France. The ambassador will be guest at Government House during his stay in Victoria.

Left Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stokes have been visiting Victoria and were the house guests of Mrs. Stokes' cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Osmund Matson of High Street, View Royal. A consulting restoration architect, Mr. Stokes was here on official business for the federal government. The Stokes left here on Sunday for their home at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont.

Visiting Victoria

Former Victorian, Miss Vivienne Coombs, is currently visiting Victoria and is now the house guest of Mrs. Hew Paterson of Victoria Avenue. She plans to stay with a few more friends before returning to her home in Vancouver at the end of the month. The visitor intends to spend the summer at Banff.

Fete Couple

The Brentwood home of Rev. and Mrs. John Wood was the scene of a recent get-together of members of the United Church and other friends, gathered to honor Rev. and and Mrs. Harold Marshall, who have lived in the Brentwood area for the past 15 years. Retired for that time, Rev. Marshall has assisted the local church in many ways. In recognition of these services, he was thanked by Rev. Wood and presented with a gift of money, to be spent at his pleasure. Mrs. Roy Tidman presented Mrs. Marshall with a bouquet and paid tribute to her musical contributions to the district. Rev. and Mrs. Marshall are leaving Brentwood soon to make their home in Victoria.

Return to City

Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah of King George Terrace have recently returned from a vacation in Hawaii. They spent January and February at the Coral Seas Hotel in Waikiki. While they were there they saw many Canadian tourists including Mr. John Manning and his wife, Pat, of Victoria, who are currently on a 12,000-mile cruise aboard their sailing ship Powindah.

AT JOINT MEETING HELD IN THE INN

Speeches Cover Variety of Subjects

The doctor's right to withdraw supportive treatment of terminal cases with a view to transplanting of organs; the necessity of conformity in boulevard trees and the desirability of women handling government finances — all were topics for discussion when the Arbutus Toastmistress Club and the Camosun Toastmaster Club held their first joint meeting at the Inn recently.

Speaking were Mrs. G. L. Cook who gave a lesson on speech construction, Mrs. R. S. Butt, "Dynamo"; R. A. Hodge, "The Abuse of Love"; Mrs. H. Winstone, an impromptu speech on "Should Civil Servants Have the Right to Strike?"; W. Mertton, an impromtu speech on the Camosun Club's youth training program.

The speeches were evaluated by Mrs. H. M. Butt, Mrs. L. R. Hammett, Mrs. P. Small, J. Farthing and V. J. Christison.

Mrs. A. M. Clarkson commented on the meeting and presented awards to Mrs. Butt for her speech and V. Christison for his evaluation.

The inspiration was given by Mrs. J. A. Miller. Mrs. D. E. Pite gave the education, Mrs. C. M. Dowling acted as lexicologist and grammarian, and Miss Mary Horan gave the vote of thanks. Mrs. F. R. Morris gave the closing thought.

President Mrs. G. H. Love welcomed several guests to the meeting. They were: Mrs. Lil Larsen, a toastmistress from Saskatchewan; Bert Farthing, a toastmaster from California; Mrs. Joan Hackney, Mrs. Sheila Arnot, Miss Helen Ranson, Mrs. S. H. Ferris and Frank Ericson.

Swimmers Hosts For Games Night

Feel like sawing a log or walking for a cake? You'll have an opportunity to do just that when the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club holds its games night on Thursday. The event will be held at Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street from 7 to 9 p.m. The swimmers will assist with the games, which will include a log sawing contest, fish pond, cake walk and many more. Hot dogs, coffee and popcorn will be sold to keep up the strength of the players.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

Shown in Reports Made at RJH Alumnae Association's 47th Annual Meeting

GROUP PROVIDES LOANS, BURSARY AND EQUIPMENT

Mrs. Barbara McNeish was re-elected president of the Alumnae Association of the Royal Jubilee Hospital's School of Nursing when the group held its annual meeting in the nurses' residence, Monday evening.

Other 1968 officers are: Past president, Mrs. R. A. Bolt; first vice-president, Mrs. R. Eldridge; second, Mrs. J. R. Parris; secretary, Mrs. G. Chater; assistant secretary, Mrs. C. M. Nicholson, and treasurer, Mrs. N. McConnell.

Conveners are: Social, Mrs. R. Lewell, and assistant, Mrs. R. Godtel; sick visiting, Miss Treva Lewis; press, Mrs. V. J. Wilson; program, Miss Mary A. Smith; membership, Miss Avonne Dixon, and phoning, Mrs. W. R. Hindle.

Mrs. Bolt was nominating committee chairman.

Miss Margaret Plunkett reported on the group's current project which is to supply a suitable cabinet for the rotunda of the hospital which will house a collection of dolls, each dressed in a nurse's uniform. The uniforms trace development since the first nurse was appointed to the hospital.

A year of service was shown in the reports given at the 47th annual meeting.

Nursing equipment totalling $500 had been donated to the hospital. This included six commode chairs, a radio for the Fourth West ward, and a punching bag for the Bay Pavilion.

A bursary had been awarded to Miss Marilyn Phillips, who is completing her final year for a bachelor of nursing degree. Five student loans, totalling $500, were made, and a grant of $100 given to an alumnae member.

The group had provided refreshments for two capping teas and sponsored a mother and daughter tea as part of the graduation festivities. Miss Paula Klammer and Miss Mary Shaw had been awarded gifts marking their high achievement in the pre-clinical training period.

Mrs. McConnell announced receipts of $4,059.77, disbursements amounting to $1,615.96 and a bank balance of $2,443.96. Other funds on hand included a $250 bond, a $2,300 fund earmarked for reunion expenses, and $2,066.60 in the sick nurses' fund.

Mrs. Eldridge had convened the annual hospital ball, which netted $125.13. The sum of $112.25 was realized from a games night, organized by Mrs. Nicholson. A fashion show had raised $189, being convened by Mrs. V. Skinner.

Mrs. L. Kahler had convened the annual reunion dinner, held in the McPherson Playhouse Restaurant.

It was agreed to hold a fashion show and hospital ball during the new year of activities.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Marriage Counsellor The Best Answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a woman who has many fine qualities, but she is the world's lousiest cook.

I could forgive her if she would only try, but she doesn't. She buys frozen foods and canned foods, and doesn't even follow the instructions. Everything she makes is either undercooked or burned. I know food isn't everything, but if I want something that's fit to eat I have to make it myself.

She doesn't have an outside job, and we have no children. We've been married nearly two years and she hasn't made one decent meal. Any suggestions?

HAROLD

DEAR HAROLD: A wife who hasn't cooked or even thawed out a "decent" meal for her husband, and won't even try, needs more help than I can give her in a letter. Find a marriage counsellor — and invite him to dinner.

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary of a very busy man and I like my job. My problem is that my boss has instructed me to find out not only who is calling and his telephone number, but with whom he is associated and the nature of the call.

I have tried to get all this information by asking, "Would you please tell me, what is this call regarding."

You would be surprised at some of the answers I get from businessmen and lawyers who probably expect the same information from their secretaries. They usually say, "Just have him call me. He'll know." (Usually, he doesn't.) How can I let these callers know that I am not nosy, I simply want to give my boss the information he seeks?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Continue to ask the questions in your usually courteous, business-like manner, and report the responses to your boss. And don't take them personally.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son has recently become engaged, which is fine. Up until now I have minded my own business, but last night was the straw that broke the camel's back.

My son is about to go into the service, so while he is gone he is giving his brand new automobile to his girl to use for her convenience. He is also paying for her insurance so she can drive it.

Now, Abby, what kind of girl would accept things like that from an 18-year-old boy? And what kind of parents would allow her to? Please advise the parents of their duty to their daughter and my son. And please let my son know that he is being the world's biggest sucker. Thank you.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Apparently this 18-year-old "boy" is man enough to own a "brand-new" car, and to become engaged. If the car (and insurance money) belongs to your son, he may do with it as he pleases, and shouldn't be labeled "sucker."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RICH BUT POOR": Don't borrow any more money unless you're prepared to face the music when the note is due.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Legs Show, Even When Fashions Become Longer

Are we women—or slaves? SLAVES!

It is like a holdup job. The fashion designers say, "Put them up" and up go the skirt lengths. Then they say, "Take them down" and down they come.

Lowman

They have us where they want us because it is practically impossible not to comply. After a certain length of time the eye becomes so accustomed to any new style which has been almost universally adopted, that we feel dull and dowdy if we look very different.

The smart woman goes along with the new fashion to a certain extent; the extent to which it is flattering to her individually. There she stops. There is always enough margin so that a woman can be up to date without looking like a freak.

Now there are great rumblings that skirt lengths are coming down. In fact, some designers have some longer lengths in their spring collections. I think it is going to take quite a while for this brainstorm to take hold. In the first place, many women are wedded to the short skirt. Then, too, if hems are dropped too suddenly, women are not going to discard all the clothes they have.

Although mini-skirts will prevail, there are also the midi-skirts, and maxi-skirts that extend to the ankle. Today a woman has a great variety to choose from.

Anyway, legs are here to stay and will always be an important part of a woman's total figure. Even if there are ankle-length skirts, there will still be swim suits and play clothes.

This exercise is excellent for firming and contouring the entire leg. Stand tall, arms hanging at sides. Bend the knees all the way down to a deep knee bend and touch the fingertips to the floor. Now straighten the knees and lift the trunk to erect position, rising on the toes and raising the arms overhead. Lift the chin slightly and stretch toward the ceiling. Continue. This is slimming to the diaphragm too.

If you would like to have my tested leg exercises, send for my free leaflet, "Why Not Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs?" To obtain your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mouth Lines Fade Away

The quicker mouth lines . . . and crows feet around the eyes . . . disappear, the quicker you'll look younger! You, too, may know the thrill of a second debut when you try 2nd Debut, the lotion-like substance containing CEF 600. Applied nightly and before daily make-up, 2nd Debut Liquid pushes so much moisture under the skin, it pushes mouth lines and crows feet up and out. Make-up goes on smooth and easy. No wonder mothers say they've enjoyed a 2nd Debut. You can also get "2nd Debut" with CEF 1200 for double strength moisturizing action. Ask for 2nd Debut by name at drug and department stores and see almost immediate results that are absolutely astonishing.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Gay, Filmy Slip Sets Steal Penny's Heart

By Penny Saver

Gifts! Finding them will be the death of me yet. I feel as though I have just finished with Christmas (indeed, my husband is still paying some of the bills) and I am already having to come up with more gifts for various occasions. I'm scraping the bottom of the idea barrel. Every time I must choose a gift for someone, I find myself torn between the practical and the frivolous. Some of my gifts must seem very strange to the receiver! Beautiful things act as a balm to my soul, even if they are for someone else. On the other hand, I like the feeling of having helped someone find an item that they can really use. I usually descend from the horns of this dilemma by means of an impulsive twitch toward my pocket-book when I see the item that "feels" more right than any other.

One item that I couldn't resist as a birthday gift for a fashionable young miss on my list was a mini-slip complete with matching bikini briefs. This daring little ensemble was made in sheer chiffon in a breathtaking shade of mauve. A row of ruffles were on the hem and a short slit had been made up one side to allow for a full walking stride. These slips also are available in turquoise and sherbet orange shades. These mini-length sets come with both full and half-slips. The half-slips and matching briefs are $3.98. The full slip is slightly fitted with the broader style shoulder straps. The set of slip and briefs is $4.98. Just buying this delightful little ensemble made me feel years younger.

Protect Baby With These

Another item I gave in to was a pair of baby scissors. This was for a shower gift for another of my nieces who is expecting a child soon. I think these are a wonderful idea since baby's sharp little nails must be clipped often to keep him from scratching himself. Since he cannot be expected to co-operate it is best to have him as well protected as possible. With this in mind, the manufacturer produced these special scissors with a rounded tip so that even if baby should move suddenly, there is no danger of stabbing him with a sharp point. I also noticed that these scissors curved ever so slightly, making them ideal for clipping nails. They are 69 cents a pair.

Both practical and a practical joke was the item I picked up for my sister. She has lately begun fighting against the grey with bi-weekly applications of hair-dye. Her hair looks fine, but the first time she forgot to cover her hands! By now the dye has worn off, but she has complained that the protective gloves she has are clumsy and hard to use. With this in mind I picked up a little item I saw—five gloves for 89 cents. These are of a lighter weight rubber than the ones she has and look to be more flexible. They are economical and give adequate protection from all liquids, like hair dye, that could be harmful to the hands. My sister will laugh when she sees what I have bought her, but I know she will find my gift practical as well.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I found these items.

Libraries Need $200 Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — A sweeping $200,000,000 improvement program for Canadian university libraries was recommended Tuesday in a brief to the Senate committee on scientific policy prepared by the Canada Council.

The action was encouraged as a first step in a general upgrading of research into the humanities and social sciences in Canada.

The four council representatives were the first witnesses to appear before the committee established to discuss questions of the adequacy, balance and efficiency of Canada's scientific efforts.

The present condition of university libraries, the brief stated, "is the fundamental and most dramatic shortcoming of Canadian research institutions especially compared with American ones."

Canada was lagging behind the U.S. in the development of library facilities for use in research and "this gap is broadening every day."

If Canadian universities were not to slip into the role "of glorified high schools very soon," university library collections would have to be doubled and extensive use made of available technological facilities.

"This will call for real co-operation and self-discipline among universities and for quite substantial expenditures by government. It is easily a $200,000,000 operation," the brief said.

SCREEN STAR Maureen O'Hara was married in the Virgin Islands Tuesday to PWA airlines pilot Charles Blair. It was her second marriage. Miss O'Hara was divorced from movie director Will Price in 1952 after an 11-year marriage.

'Don't Try to Convert Us,' Say Indians

VANCOUVER (CP)—A white man's conference on Indian education was told by a group of Indians Tuesday there is too much emphasis on conversion and not enough on education at residential schools.

Four men and one woman, members of a recently-formed Indian organization known as the Native Alliance for Red Power, picketed a workshop conference of the National Association of Principals and Administrators of Indian Residences for two hours before being invited to place their demands before the association.

"We are taught the white man is good, but our way of life is heathen," Indian spokesmen said. "we are losing our culture, our history, our background and our language. When we graduate from residential Indian schools we are white Indians."

He charged there is too much emphasis on religion in residential schools, most of which are operated by church organizations but subsidized by the federal government.

"Priests and religious teachers have our souls not our education at heart," he said.

Mr. Antoine said the "Red Power" organization feels:

—Curriculums of Indian schools should be brought up to the level of the white man's schools;

—Indians should become members of school boards;

—Residential Indian schools should be abolished;

—Indians should be taught by Indian teachers, not by white men;

Association representatives and R. F. Davie, head of education services for the federal Department of Indian Affairs, told the Indians that many changes they advocated are in the making now, with more coming.

He said only 16 per cent of Indian children are in residential schools, down from 65 per cent in 1945.

J. A. Andrews, association secretary-treasurer, told the group the association was formed three years ago "because a lot of school principals feel the way you do."

"We see the writing on the wall and it is our duty to do something about it," he said.

Group Has $75,000 Towards New Clinic

The Handicapped Children's Association has raised about $75,000 of the $250,000 needed as the local share of a new clinic.

Campaign chairman Rear Admiral Michael Stirling said Tuesday most of the money had come from special names and corporate donors and a community wide campaign was being organized.

Provincial and federal governments have pledged another $400,000 toward the clinic that will be built on the grounds of the Queen Alexander Solarium.

The present clinic, located in old army huts behind the University of Victoria's former Lansdowne campus, is treating 112 children in crowded conditions.

One of the techniques being used to promote the campaign is a movie of the clinic's work, made by a group of local photographers.

Admiral Stirling said it was recently shown to the students of S. J. Willis junior high school, who were so moved by it they decided they would do everything possible to help the handicapped youngsters.

As a result, the high school students are holding a car wash Saturday at Gorge Royalite.

Panel to Discuss High Schoolers

South Vancouver Island branch, B.C. Social Workers, Thursday will probe the problems of the secondary school student and discuss how he can best be helped by his family.

Taking part in a panel discussion at the closed meeting will be Don Bingham, superintendent of child welfare in B.C.: Jack Drummond, Colquitz Junior High principal; Dr. Pierre D'estrube, a psychiatrist in the provincial mental health department and Dr. Elizabeth Patriarche, a public health official.

CYC Giving Financial Aid To Schools?

OTTAWA (CP) — A complaint by a British Columbia MP that the Company of Young Canadians is subsidizing two Vancouver private schools will be drawn to the attention of the company's director.

He said a weekend CBC program—Through the Eyes of tomorrow — dealt with the Barker School and the No Place School but did not publicize the fact that both are subsidized through CYC employees teaching at the institutions.

Further, the program through interviews with workers at the school, was critical of the public school system. The company's terms of reference did not allow such subsidization.

John Matheson, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister, said the complaint will be relayed to company Director A. M. Clarke.

IN BERLIN

New Wall Thwarts Escapes

BERLIN (Reuters) — A new wall being built around West Berlin by East German authorities has so far proved escape-proof.

It consists of mesh - wire fences, ditches, plowed strips and trip wire. There are watch-towers around which blood-hounds roam about on long leads.

West Berlin police say 25,000 East Germans have escaped to West Germany and West Berlin since the first Berlin Wall was built in 1961. Last year there were just under 1,000 escapes to West Germany and 120 to West Berlin.

None of the 120 who reached West Berlin made their escape by way of the new wall, of which one-quarter has been constructed. When completed it will extend for 102 miles along the East German frontier with West Germany.

U.S. Tourist Curb Vetoed By Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Washington Post says the Canadian government has refused a U.S. request, made "cautiously and unofficially," to help enforce proposed restrictions on tourist travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

The Post says the plan "was for Canadian customs officials to check the passports of persons leaving for Europe from Canadian airports and seaports and report back with the names and addresses of all Americans."

"This would have plugged a possible loophole permitting evasion of a travel tax. Canadian officials rejected the suggestion, according to informed sources."

No confirmation of the Post story was available from Canadian or U.S. officials here. Nor was there any denial of the report.

Disturbance Brings Fine

Ignoring Warning Costs Driver $350

A man police say was warned Monday night not to drive and was observed 15 minutes later driving on Topaz Ave. was fined $350 in central court Tuesday.

Duncan Turner, 1790 Chandler, pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Magistrate Ostler also prohibited Turner from driving for eight months except for business purposes.

Fund Started to Aid Emotionally Disturbed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Youth Resources Society has launched a $180,000 fund drive to finance facilities to treat emotionally disturbed adolescents from 13 to 18 years of age. The organization plans to establish six group homes, Dr. Bennett Wong, a Vancouver psychiatrist and acting treatment director, told a news conference.

DIRECT CYPRUS TALKS PROPOSED BY THANT

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Secretary-General U Thant says he intends to invite Greek and Turkish-Cypriot leaders to hold direct talks on the Cyprus problem.

Despite an improvement in the atmosphere of the island during recent months, Thant said basic issues were still unresolved and he recommended that the Security Council extend the mandate of the UN peace force for a further three months from March 26.

'MUST PUT GUN AWAY' SAYS AFL-CIO BOSS

Reuther Challenge Accepted by Meany

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany has accepted a challenge for a special AFL-CIO convention to judge whether American labor is foundering under his leadership. But he said Walter Reuther must first abide by the verdict.

Reuther, the United Auto Workers president who joined with Meany to found the 14,000,000-member labor federation 12 years ago, can have the special convention he demanded "if he puts his gun away," Meany said.

Reuther, who for more than a year has been attacking the 72-year-old Meany's leadership in the AFL-CIO presidency as "stagnant," "undemocratic" and "vegetating," called a meeting today of the Auto Workers executive board to consider the offer of a special convention.

Meany said the AFL-CIO's 29-man executive council unanimously agreed to the demand for a special convention if Reuther first promises to show up and accept any decisions of the convention.

But he said the council "unanimously rejects out of hand the ultimatum" by Reuther that he will pull his 1,500,000 Auto Workers out of the federation if he doesn't get the convention.

Reuther said the AFL-CIO had failed in its responsibility to organize millions more workers and to use labor's total resources to help solve racial discrimination, poverty and other social ills.

NO CRISIS—PETERSON

Teacher Dropout Rate 'Alarming'

By BRUCE YEMEN

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) told the Legislature Monday the dropout rate from the teaching profession has reached alarming proportions.

He said 2,500 of the province's 17,000 teachers left the profession last year and that 3,400 new teachers are needed annually.

There is a teacher recruitment crisis and it is made all the more serious by the province's failure to give financial aid to prospective teachers, he said.

Education Minister Peterson replied that there is a problem but no crisis, expressing alarm at the danger that "loose political talk" would "destroy public confidence in the public school system."

2,500 QUIT

Mr. Peterson said that of the 2,500 who left teaching last year only 300 went into another profession, indicating that women teachers leaving to get married or raise families were a substantial part of the total.

Government student assistance is already available to prospective teachers, he said.

Mr. Macdonald said teachers must be given professional status including a full share in curriculum and school planning. They should have self-government over teaching standards and membership in the profession, he said.

"Attractive loans" to young people who show teaching aptitude would be acceptable aid "if that's the best you can do," he said.

Teachers face unattractive conditions, including a shortage of teaching aids and too much time spent on superivison and marking of papers.

LONG-STANDING PROBLEM

Mr. Peterson defended the quality of teaching in B.C., said the recruitment problem is a long-standing one and rejected a claim by the NDP member that the province isn't doing enough for instruction in languages such as German, Spanish and Russian.

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) complained that the school system tends to promote many teachers into positions they are not competent to hold and that the best teachers are made into administrators.

He called for a study of the utilization of teachers and a greater emphasis on teaching machines and audio-visual aids to get the most out of good teachers.

PRIORITIES

Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) said the Victoria West school criticized Monday by Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) needs replacing but stressed the need for spending priorities.

He said that a case could be made that the Coquitlam area—with its low cost ratio per student and rapid population growth—has a greater need for schools than Victoria.

He said opposition MLAs wanted more money spent on practically everything and they asked for reduced taxes too.

Mr. Bruch defended his early departure last week from a meeting of parents concerned about schools by pointing out he had to be back at the legislature to serve as supply committee chairman.

Mr. Bruch called for greater use of school facilities during evening hours to teach vocational skills such as those of the restaurant, motel and home construction industries.

HORSES SAVE LIVES

Snakebite antivenin is prepared from the blood of horses treated with snake poison.

SEX COURSE READY BY FALL

A sex education course approved by the department of education for general use in the public school system will be ready for classes this September, Education Minister Leslie Peterson indicated early this morning.

He told the legislature at 1 a.m. that a curriculum revision committee is working on the "health course" now.

"I hope we will have a provincial program for all schools this September, but it would be permissive and not mandatory," he said.

He was replying to questions by Dr. Ray Parkinson (N D P —V a ncouver-Burrard) who asked when there would be a generally-applied sex education course "not just in a few districts but for all children in this province to prepare them for family life."

EXCHANGE SHOUTS

Harding Tees Off On Capozzi

A 23-year veteran of the legislature told off a sophomore member in a shouting exchange Tuesday night.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) said he is "sick and tired" of the "disgusting vocabulary" of Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) and berated supply committee chairman James Chabot (SC—Columbia River) for not demanding withdrawal of a Capozzi insult.

Mr. Capozzi had called Mr. Harding "an idiot."

The exchange occured after the Socred had interrupted Mr. Harding when he said rural people in B.C. are subsidizing urban people who lived "in the lap of luxury" and have an unfair advantage in access to universities.

"What garbage," said Mr. Capozzi.

Mr. Harding then accused him of having no knowledge of what it was like to live in a rural area and the "idiot" charge was thrown.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell interrupted Mr. Harding's fiery lecture to chairman Chabot to say that "after 23 years in the legislature you should be ashamed of yourself for abusing the chair."

Mr. Harding said that Mr. Capozzi's behavior in the house is the most "disgusting" of any MLAs that he could remember.

Board May Expand Yoga Courses

Yoga continues to be an "in" subject.

Two evening classes totalling about 70 students complete a 10-week course this week and one, perhaps two beginners' courses start shortly.

Instructor Gordon Limbrick gives lessons on Yogic concentration, breathing, mind control, mysticism and Yogic diet. The classes are sponsored by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board.

Pupils will also be taught how to perform various yogic postures and the Yogic fundamentals of good health.

The four-week course, which starts March 19 at Oak Bay junior secondary, is designed for all ages interested in the basic principles of Hatha Yoga and something of its deeper aspects.

The second class will be held at the Ewing Building on Thursday evenings if enrolment justifies.

Strachan, to deputy chairman Chabot while Bruch discussed federal Liberal leadership candidate Eric Kierans during education estimates: "Mr. Chairman, the regular chairman (Bruch) wouldn't allow this conduct."

Perrault, about education TV plans of the British labor government: "I don't care what kind of government it is—they're good plans."

An NDP voice: "Come on home, Ray."

NO CONFUSION ON OTTAWA STAND: HELLYER

Superport 'Ready by 1970'

OTTAWA (C P) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked Tuesday for a full statement on the projected Roberts Bank port in British Columbia, claiming "there is much confusion about the federal government's position in this matter."

Transport Minister Hellyer said there is no confusion about it. The federal government wants the port, in Vancouver's southern outskirts, to be ready by March, 1970, and intends to go ahead and build it so that it will be ready.

He agreed to consider making a fuller statement on the project, however, when transport department estimates come before the Commons later this month.

In reply to D. V. Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) Mr. Hellyer said the federal government was just beginning a review of the country's port facilities and administration.

It would be some months before the government could say what "local participation" in federally operated ports might be permitted in the national interest.

Mr. Hellyer said the governments of the Prarie provinces have "considerable reservations" about British Columbia's desire to share in the running of Roberts Bank, which would be a major outlet for exports of grain, potash and Alberta coal.

"We decided that the best course of action would be to build the port, continue with our study, and at the same time keep an open mind about further discussion with the province at a later date as to the possibility of additional local representation."

QUESTIONED OFTEN

Mr. Hellyer has been under questioning almost daily in the Commons about Roberts Bank since the B.C. government moved into the picture, and he has been saying constantly that Ottawa is determined to go ahead with the $20,000,000 development.

Howard Johnston (SC — Okanagan-Revelstoke) asked Tuesday whether the federal government may submit its case to the Supreme Court of Canada.

He thought this might be done because of a review by the B.C. attorney - general's department of "the relative legal positions of the federal and provincial governments with regard to jurisdicition over Roberts Bank."

Mr. Hellyer said he had not seen the review Mr. Johston was talking about.

Mr. Johnston said it "indicates the strength of the provincial position."

Mr. Hellyer said the federal government hopes to get ahead with construction of the port without the interference of any "unnecessary legal obstacles."

The federal government has volunteered to co-operate with the province in reclaiming land for use by industries associated witht the port's development, he said.

He was waiting to hear whether Premier Bennett wants to pursue this proposal.

In reply to H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West) the transport minister said it is not necessary for the federal government to accept any money from the B.C. government for construction of the port itself.

1100 Patricia Boulevard,
Prince George, B.C.

AUCTION FOR CHARITY

It's Top Secret Until You Buy It

Do you have a craving for the unknown, for purchasing surprise packages?

If so, your big opportunity is coming in two weeks—a Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored mystery auction.

The sale is being run March 28 and 29 to raise funds for a new building to house the White Cross Centre of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Present quarters used by the association are in a house on Lee Avenue, rented from Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"We're too cramped here," says CMHA executive director Mrs. Joan Dumka.

"We have an average of 25 members using the house every day, for rehabilitation and recreation. We have a terrible basement with a saw set up, and some of the members work on projects in the dining room.

"But we need larger quarters," Mrs. Dumka said.

Persons are steadily referred to the centre for mental after-care by doctors and Royal Jubilee Hospital's Bay Pavilion staff.

GROCERY STORE

CMHA has its eye on a Fort St. building that once housed a grocery store.

"But first we have to raise the down payment," Mrs. Dumka said.

The first night of the auction will be the traditional attic auction held every year by the CMHA—selling off goods that are donated from private citizens.

But that will be just a warmup for the second night of the auction when the element of mystery comes to the fore.

No one will know what they are bidding for—the three mystery articles will be a closely-guarded secret.

Joe Kampman, Jaycee in charge of the auction, said the sale will be a regular auction, with the mystery merchandise bargained off at intervals during the evening.

LOT OF MONEY

The only information he would divulge is that the articles will be donated by local businesses and that "they will be worth a lot of money."

Funds raised from the auction will go directly into the down-payment fund.

The CMHA has collected about $3,000, mostly through member donations and rummage sales. Mrs. Dumka said they will have to raise at least that amount again through the sale to buy the premises and renovate the interior.

Articles wanted for the auction include china, pottery, paintings, books, records, luggage, furniture, garden tools and handicrafts.

'Best Thing That's Ever Happened'

The needy can be found close to home.

That's the discovery of 20 teen-aged boys from the Victoria Chapter of DeMolay who have decided to help a welfare family here rather than send the money to the needy in Greece, which is their usual practice.

Through the father of one of the members, they heard of a house in need of refurbishing on Cloverdale.

Two weeks ago they went along and prepared five rooms for painting.

Paint was donated and they started in Saturday with the painting, which they hope to finish next week.

"We chopped some firewood too," master councillor Arthur Joyce said. "We had to use wedges — it's no job for a woman."

SIX CHILDREN

They are helping a mother who was left alone with six children, aged 1½ to 9, three years ago.

The family gets along on social assistance, but as the condition of the house deteriorates, the mother finds it impossible to put money into upkeep.

"With so many young children, I must be home to look after them properly, so I can't work," she said. "I have to depend on social assistance, and what they won't pay for, I do without."

She receives $260 a month.

"The help from these boys is the best thing that's ever happened to us. It's showing the children that someone cares about them and they'll be able to take a pride in their home once this job's finished."

Auxiliary Police To Be Sworn

Victoria Magistrate J. A. Byers will swear in 24 special constables of the Auxiliary Police Service at a ceremony Thursday night.

The men have just completed a 20-week intensive training course to earn their auxiliary police certificates, an association official said today.

They represent Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Central Saanich and North Saanich municipalities.

Certificates will be presented by Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant at the ceremony at the service's training hall, 4512 West Saanich Road in Royal Oak.

Those to be sworn in are: B. C. Akehurst, R. C. Baylis, L. J. Binks, R. J. Burgess, D. C. Coughlin, J. W. Edwards, R. W. Hatch, E. G. Hawkins, W. D. Hemming, P. J. Holden, K. A. Mossman, R. E. Neil, D. R. Oakley, J. W. Payne, J. S. Paxton, M. B. Perry, L. N. Reid, K. W. Skead, K. D. Sluggett, R. B. Smith, M. N. Sudds, C. R. Upward, R. K. Warren and J. B. Wright.

In addition to the swearing in ceremony, three special constables will be sworn in as corporals. They are: A. Stewart, F. Lindgren and A. Rowley.

Corporal I. S. Fredin will also be promoted to the rank of sergeant.

This is the 13th class to complete training since the auxiliary police program was organized in 1958.

Faith Healing Provision Asked In Legislation

Workmen's compensation allowances should be paid to an injured worker who goes to a faith healer for a cure as well as to one going to a doctor, the legislature's labor committee was told Tuesday.

Edward T. Rand, chairman of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for B.C., proposed an amendment to the new workmen's compensation bill under study by the committee.

It would permit a workman, with the consent of his employer, to seek a cure "in good faith on treatment by prayer through spiritual means alone in accordance with the tenets and practice of a recognized church or religious denomination by a duly accredited practitioner thereof without suffering loss or diminution of his compensation benefits under this act."

Welfare Council To Hear Campbell

Welfare Minister Dan Campbell will address the annual meeting of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria Thursday at the Red Lion Motor Inn at 12:15 p.m.

He will speak on "Total War on Welfare Problems Needs Total Community Mobilization."

Car Struck Three Vehicles

The driver of a car which struck three cars parked on Esquimalt Road early Saturday was fined $250 in central court Monday.

Sidney Colleypriest, 1444 Camosun, was fined $200 for failing to remain at the scene of the accident and $50 for careless driving.

Esquimalt police said Colleypriest's car struck three cars parked in a row causing a total of over $1,000 damage. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Hospital Rush Wards Are Instant Success

In its first 12 days of operation, Royal Jubilee Hospital's new instant surgery ward has cared for 77 patients.

St. Joseph's Hospital has used emergency ward beds in a similar crash program which is making dramatic gains on the 3,000-name hospital waiting lists.

The new procedure — bringing in selected cases as outpatients and sending them home for recuperation — was made possible recently when Health Minister W. D. Black announced the hospitals would be compenstated for day care surgery.

Under B.C. Hospital Insurance Service such cases now are treated with the patient paying a $2 fee and BCHIS assuming the balance. Previously there was no legal assurance that outpatient costs would be covered and the service was limited.

It is expected to greatly reduce the number of people waiting for simpler, elective surgery. Royal Jubilee has set up a six-bed ward that has handled as many as 14 patients per day.

There's Hope For Autistic Children

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Some time ago, Dr. Margaret Lovatt of Toronto wrote an excellent article on some 200 children studied at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto—all suffering from some form of childhood schizophrenia. A large number of them were called autistic, because of their isolation and withdrawal from all contact with people.

Alvarez

These children were unresponsive even to their mothers; they seemed to live in a dream-world of their own, unrelated to anything outside them. They appeared to be mentally retarded, most of them lacked speech, or seemed to refuse to learn to talk, or to talk if they had learned some words. They did not play like other children do. They might seem to play a bit, but always with one toy, and twirling that in some queer, weird way.

As all psychiatrists know, these children do not seem to be able to feel any affection for anybody, even their mother. As Margaret Lovatt said, the children either do not learn much speech, or if they do, they do not use it to communicate with others. They may keep parroting phrases such as they may have heard many times in television commercials.

Even their play is compulsive, aimless, a mere handling of things, and it seems to give them little if any pleasure. If left to themselves, some may spend hours just sifting sand or playing with bits of paper. As one watches them, one wonders how anyone can ever learn to help them. Actually, a teacher will first try to get the child interested in playing properly with a toy, using it sensibly; and as she does this she will try to keep him from withdrawing into his inner world of silence and complete unconcern.

A schizophrenic child finds great difficulty in distinguishing between the characteristics of inanimate objects and people. He has to learn that it hurts a child if you kick him, but it does not hurt a ball. Also, without any concept of space and time, he may try to squeeze himself into a tiny box, or he may be unable to understand why some of the things he wants to happen cannot happen instantly—"right now."

It is hard to teach him even how to use a swing or a slide; he is too afraid of them. If taken into a playroom where there are normal children, he will ignore them or seem to look right through them. Perhaps he will brush their toys off onto the floor, and then he will go out.

The first sign of some success may be that he will imitate what healthy children are doing; but he will not yet join them in their activities. Some of the autistic children will eventually learn to play, but their relationship with normal children has "in no instance become very close." Sometimes when introduced into a normal group of children, the autistic child's behavior will become so very disruptive that he will have to be taken out.

What can give great hope to many parents of autistic children is that Dr. Lovatt says that four of their first graduates are now in the second and third grades, and "are doing remarkably well."

I am so glad to see that Dr. Lovatt feels that the usual theories that cause psychiatrists to blame the parents of the autistic children aren't always correct.

ASK ANDY

is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Steven J. DeBellis, age 12, of St. Louis, Missouri, for his question:

What is a tuatara?

After a full day at the zoo, you may think you have been introduced to every fair-sized animal on this planet. Not at all. Chances are, you missed a captive tuatara from the Antipodes. You would remember him as a 30-inch dragon-type fellow. You might suspect that he is rather an unusual lizard.

The tuatara is called a living fossil because he is the sole survivor of a long-gone group of animals. His ancestors thrived in large numbers and vast varieties before the dinosaurs reached their monstrous peak. They were beak-headed reptiles of the Triassic Period that opened about 200 million years ago. Fossil remains found in many lands show that many beak-heads grew five or six feet in length. They were, of course, midgets beside the bulky dinosaurs of the Mesozoic Era. This may explain why the beak-heads began to decline. Scientists assumed that the last of them departed with the dinosaurs at the end of the Mesozoic Era, about 65 million years ago.

One species, however, survived and thrived securely into modern times. He found a home in New Zealand and on several nearby islands where none of the big, meat-eating animals ever encroached. His days of secret seclusion ended soon after settlers from Europe arrived to make their homes in far-off Australia and New Zealand. They were astonished by the outlandish kangaroo, the wallaby and an assortment of other unheard-of marsupials of Australia. Perhaps they were less surprised by the New Zealand tuatara. He looked like a doghouse-sized dragon and he seemed to be a lizard.

Protected by Law

When the experts found him, they were astonished. No, certainly he could not be classed as a small dragon. But neither was he a true lizard. He had the expandable lower jaw of a snake and certain features of the extinct beak-head reptiles. The sole survivor was given an order of his own and an animal family for himself alone. The New Zealand Maoris had named him Tuatara, meaning spiny back. Zoologists decided to keep this name for him. The living fossil is classified in the Tuatara Order and the Tuatara family. His name is pronounced too-a-tar-ra.

A sizable tuatara grows 2½ to 3 feet long. His lizard-type body is brownish olive and speckled with small yellow spots on each of his bumpy scales. From his neck to the tip of his tail, he has a crested row of spike-shaped scales. This, of course, accounts for his spiny-back name. The tuatara's most amazing feature is the dwindling remains of a third eye, right in the middle of his forehead. A three-eyed, lizard-type animal, you would think, just has to be dragon. But experts are positive that he is neither a dragon nor a lizard.

The tuatara is a harmless fellow, inclined to be friendly. Dogs and other meat-eaters that came with the settlers soon ended his days in New Zealand. Fortunately laws were passed to protect him before he was totally exterminated. He now lives securely on several nearby isles and islands. He shares his small world with flocks of nesting mutton birds and makes himself comfortable in their burrows. All possible enemies are banned from his refuges. Even the birds and the trees he enjoys are protected by law.

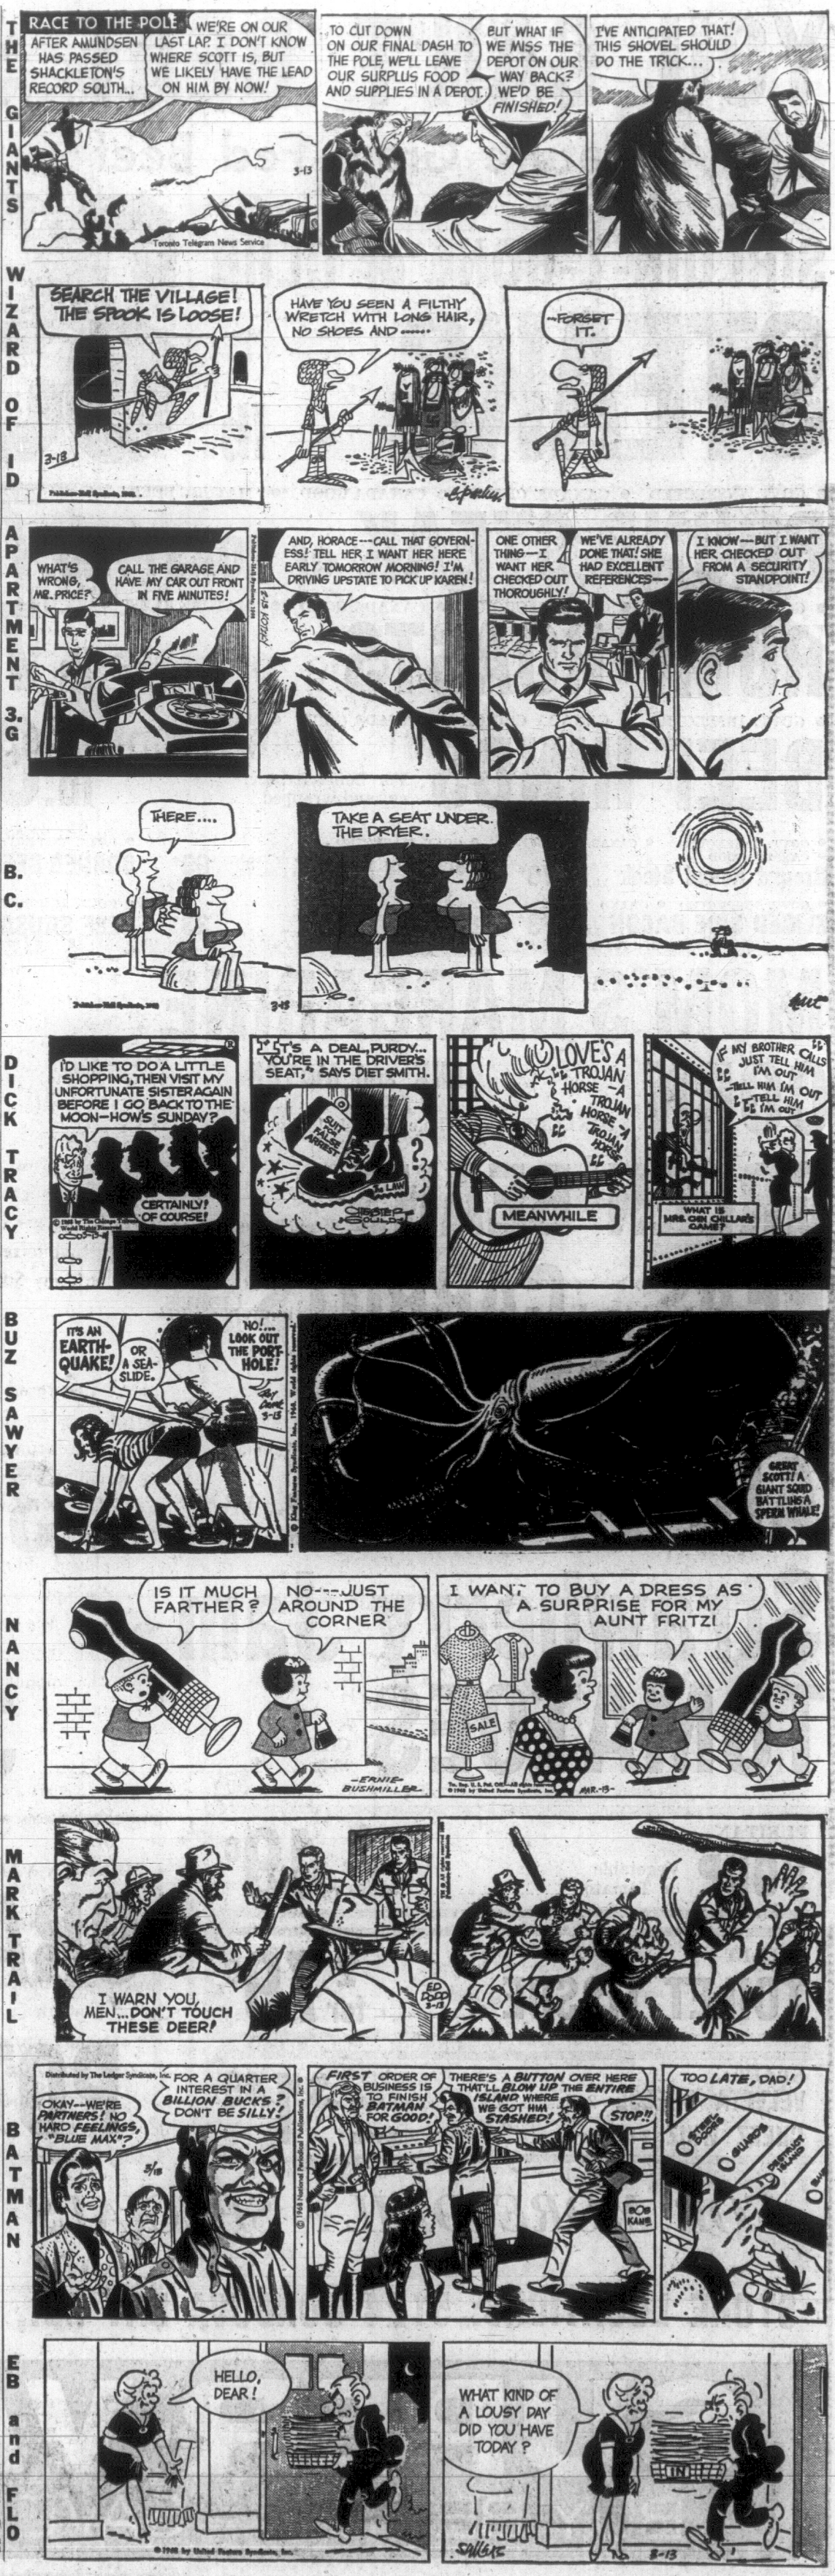
Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Rhonda Chambless, age 13, of Sarepta, Louisiana, for her question:

Was a real body buried in the grave of the Unknown Soldier?

No nation can express its full heart-felt grief for the young men who lose their lives in warfare. But a nation can try. After the First World War, the allied nations tried to honor their dead with a special token. Each nation took an unknown body from the torn battlefields. It was buried with the national honors usually reserved only for heroes. And the tomb became a national shrine. Yes, there is a body in the tomb.

The tomb of Canada's and other Commonwealth countries' Unknown Soldiers is in Westminster Abbey, London, England.



MOTORISTS, SMOKERS, HORSE PLAYERS HIT

Heavy Increases in Ontario Taxes

MacNAUGHTON
. . . keep down deficit

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario citizens started paying more today to refuel motor vehicles and planes, smoke and play the horses as a result of tax changes announced in the legislature Tuesday by Treasurer Charles MacNaughton.

On July 1, they will pay more for provincial hospital and medical coverage, and $5 to $10 more to license a car on Dec. 1. Owners of trucks weighing up to three tons face a $10 increase when their plates expire next March 31. Car registration costs now are $15 for a four-cylinder vehicle, $20 for six cylinders and $25 for eight cylinders.

No date was set for a number of other changes, including introduction of a $3 resident angling licence and increases in resident hunting licences.

In presenting his budget for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969, Mr. MacNaughton raised by one cent a gallon the provincial tax on aviation fuel and by two cents the tax on a gallon of gasoline and diesel fuel.

The tax on cigarettes jumped four cents for a pack of 20 while the tax on pari-mutuel betting at race tracks rose to seven from six per cent of the take.

A pack of 20 cigarettes now sells for 46 cents in most of Ontario. A gallon of regular gasoline sells for between 45 and 49 cents in major centres. Premium gasoline retails for as high as 53 cents a gallon. Prices are higher in Northern Ontario.

Minutes after Mr. MacNaughton presented his second budget since being appointed treasurer in November, 1966, the legislature gave first reading to four bills formalizing the increases that went into effect today.

There is no chance of the bills being defeated in the 117-seat house that holds 69 Conservatives, 28 Liberals and 20 New Democrats.

Mr. MacNaughton said in forecasting record government spending of $2,780,000,000—up $489,000,000 from 1967-68—that the tax changes were necessary to keep the provincial deficit at $252,000,000.

They would add an estimated $105,000,000 to provincial coffers in the next fiscal year while increases in hospital and medical care premiums would raise them "to levels that reflect the true cost of operating these plans."

The new monthly rate for the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan will be $5.90 for a single person, $11.80 for married couples and $14.75 for families.

Current rates are $5, $10 and $12.50 respectively.

The Ontario hospital care insurance plan rates will be $5.50 for single persons and $11 for married couples with or without families, up from $3.25 and $6.50.

Mr. MacNaughton said the government would spend $78,000,000 to support the hospital plan, a drop of $12,000,000 over the previous year, and $37,000,00 on OMSIP, an increase of $12,000,000.

Total health department expenditures would come to $396,454,000; an increase of $37,712,000 over 1967-68.

Canada Safeway Limited Statement regarding press reports of Prairie Commission Report:

"We in Safeway are frankly perplexed as well as shocked by what has been reported in the Press as the conclusions of the Prairie Commission.

"We categorically and emphatically deny that Canada Safeway has derived any excessive profits, in any area of Canada, from discriminatory discounts in our procurement, as alleged, or from our retail pricing, as also charged, or from any other source.

"A year or so ago, Safeway co-operated fully in the investigation of the Prairie Provinces Cost Study Commission, under the Chairmanship of Judge Mary J. Batten. We submitted extensively detailed records of Safeway Operations in the Prairies, including our Departmental gross margins, our store operating expenses, and our Stores' net operating profits. We also provided a great deal of additional information concerning Safeway's pricing and operating policies and practices. Although we have not yet been able to examine the Commission's Report in detail, the charges recently publicized do not appear to be merited, in any way, by the facts clearly revealed by Safeway Submissions to the Batten Commission, and to other investigatory bodies.

"In early 1967, for example, Safeway responded to the request of the Chartered Accountants firm of Clarkson, Gordon & Co., which conducted an exhaustive study for the Special Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Commons. That report documented the fact that profitability rates of Canadian Food Retailing Chains, including Safeway, were only slightly higher than in the United States as a percentage of sales. Moreover, chain food retailing profits in Canada were about equal as percentages of equity, and were, in fact, lower than in the United States as ratios to the assets employed. Furthermore, that study clearly demonstrated that good profits are not derived simply from higher prices, but rather from more efficient operations, often at lower prices. We believe our Prairie Operations are efficient, and we are certainly striving to make them more efficient . . . not only to keep them profitable, but also to help curb the impact upon our customers of the inflationary forces at work throughout our economy.

"The recently publicized criticisms of Prairie Food Retailing appear to have been based upon misconception and theoretical conjecture, rather than upon the by now well documented record.

"Safeway regrets this unfortunate and misleading publicity. But we pledge that we shall continue to serve our customers in the Prairies as well as throughout our Canadian operating areas with quality products, at fair and reasonable prices, in convenient and attractive facilities. We are grateful for the confidence in Safeway which our customers have proven by their patronage. And we fully intend to continue to conduct our business as efficiently as possible within our own operations, with fairness to our suppliers and to our customers alike. This is the way, and the only way, by which we may competitively earn the nominal profit rates necessary to conduct a successful food retailing business in our growing Canadian Economy."

Bibliology Of Early B.C. Printed

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A little over two-and-a-half years ago, Barbara Lowther, newly graduated from library school, was assigned by the Social Science Research Centre of University of Victoria, to compile a bibliology of British Columbia for the years 1849 to 1899—the first of its kind in the province.

She started with an ideal of a perfect bibliology. She had worked at McGill University on the Lande Collection of Canadiana, considered to be the finest book ever produced in Canada. Her name appears in the preface as indexer.

So, in compiling the British Columbia effort, it was the Lande standard she adopted.

"We didn't reach its perfection," she told me as she turned the pages of the British Columbia effort "Laying The Foundations", published this month. "We didn't have their kind of money."

That may be true. But in aiming for the ideal, Barbara Lowther has produced a book that compares favorable with it.

Included in the 328 pages are the titles of several thousand publications that deal in whole or part with some phase of life in the British Columbia of the chosen period. Authors' names are given and there are short annotations on them and on their subjects.

I asked what was entailed in finding and selecting the chosen items. Time, effort and complete absorption in the project for the full two-and-a-half years, Barbara Lowther said.

She had two librarians working with her. Also a small clerical staff.

In all, 34,000 catalogued books and pamphlets were checked. Of these, 2,173 were chosen.

One thousand, seven hundred of that number was found in the provincial archives here. "After going over shelf after shelf reaching from floor to ceiling and crowded with every imaginable type of writing."

This necessitated climbing up and down an old-fashioned ladder, making selections for further study and then climbing up and down again to return the books to their proper places.

While Mrs. Lowther was busy with the non-fiction items on the main floor of the archives, one of her librarians, Miss Muriel Laing, was in the tower going over the fiction collection.

Miss Laing worked along a narrow passage, lined two deep with books. She had a single electric light bulb attached to a coat hanger above an orange box she used for a seat and desk. Her principal weapons of attack, besides pen and paper, were a duster and a dust mop.

At Ottawa' national library, where Mrs. Lowther spent several months, she discovered "a terrific source" of material, on card forms encompassing 10 volumes with 25 thousand entries of literature dealing with Canadian works 1867 to 1900. From these cards she chose 500 that "might" relate.

Then she had to "go looking" for the publications, in the archives and the parliamentary and national libraries at Ottawa, in Toronto libraries, at the Glenbow Foundation in Calgary and in a swing around to various libraries in the Pacific Northwest.

When that phase of her research was completed, only about half of the 500 books culled from the Ottawa cards were relative and could be included in the B.C. bibliology.

Every entry in the book had to be checked and double checked.

First names of the authors and their birthdays had to be established. Places and dates of publication had to be authenticated. Once the book reached the printers there were proofs to read. "Proofs ... proofs ... and more proofs!"

Greatest responsibility Mrs. Lowther believes, was centred in the need "for critical but not biased judgment." It was important that there be no prejudice, for or against an item. Two main highlights were essential, physical description and correct annotation.

Now that the bibliology is off the press, would Barbara Lowther like to compile another in the series that will eventually include explorations and 20th century writings?

Perhaps! First however, she'd prefer "to rest a bit." This means working at the reference desk in the Uvic library "and loving every minute of it!"

9 IN MEMORIAM

MORTON—In loving memory of my dear husband William, who passed away March 13, 1967.
Many a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear
But always a beautiful memory
Of one I loved so dear.
—Lovingly remembered by his loving wife Jessie and Family.

MORTON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Morton, who passed away March 13, 1967.
We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep
But still within our aching hearts
His memory we keep.
—His loving daughter Evelyn, son-in-law Allen and grandchildren Marjorie and Robert.

SEEDHOUSE—In loving memory of my dear husband and a loving father:
Four years have passed since that sad day,
Your Heavenly Father called you away,
But, sealed in my heart,
your love will stay,
When, one glad day we will meet again
And then never, no never,
part again.
The Good Lord knew what was best for you,
But, we cannot Lord thy purpose see
Though all is well, when done
by thee,
So, sleep on beloved, sleep, and take thy rest.
—Your loving wife Elizabeth and all the family.

OAK BAY OFFICE

OPEN HOUSE
3055 BEACH DRIVE
THURS. 1:30-4:30

For executives and professional men, because your weekends are busy, we invite you to inspect this fine property, in a leisurely manner, Thursday is the day we chose.

This modern family home, built in 1960, is set in a large landscaped garden close to the beach and Uplands Park. The wide entry hall leads to either the main floor or the ground floor and its large rumpus room with fireplace, bedroom and 3-pce. bathroom and excellent storage space.

The main living area has a living room 23x15, separate dining room 13.6x12, large modern kitchen with breakfast nook and utility area off. The den with fireplace, is located away from the busier parts of the house, permitting the busier professional man to relax with some privacy.

There are three children's bedrooms on this floor, a main bathroom and the large master bedroom en suite. The whole of this floor is covered with good quality wall-to-wall carpet. There is a 2-car garage, fully plastered and many other attractive features in this fine property, realistically priced at $55,000.

Prior appointments, please call D. G. Whyte, 385-7707 anytime.

HOUSE ADJOURNMENT EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Possibility of the present session of Parliament adjourning this weekend appeared to disappear today when the New Democratic Party indicated it wanted to get one or more additional pieces of legislation passed before it rose for the Liberal leadership convention.

Members of Parliament are now looking for the House to adjourn next Tuesday or Wednesday.

This will give the Liberal leadership candidates little time to intensify their campaigns before the convention takes place April 4.

. . . MOTHERS

the rules for the demonstration.

"The most important thing is that we all recognize the seriousness of what we are about," he said.

He said in order for the community to support the Low Income Group in the campaign which it hopes to extend over four weeks, "we've got to show that we are good citizens."

He said, "our strength comes from our right" and he said that in order for the final civil disobedience to carry weight (the sit-in) all laws up to that point must be respected.

"We must show we know the seriousness of what we are doing and that we are conscious of the responsibility and recognize the seriousness of what we are doing."

SIDEWALKS ONLY

He cautioned the group to march to the Buildings using the sidewalks only, in two columns, each pair of marchers four to five feet apart.

Group president Mrs. Donna Langstaff and Mrs. Elaine Olszewski led the parade. Mr. Clarkson warned that the signs carried on the march (the largest said "Justice and Freedom For Our Children") must not be carried into the Buildings.

The plan was to enter the legislative chamber and take seats and it was anticipated the house would rise at midnight. Then the marchers were to gather in the rotunda and seat themselves around the wall—"We don't want to obstruct anybody."

NO SMOKING

Mr. Clarkson added, "Unless we are there a long time you shouldn't smoke. It doesn't make a good impression."

He said the sitters should be prepared to stay all night if necessary and must be prepared for the fact the government might ignore them.

"If anyone comes and makes any effort to remove us, make no reply. And the minute they touch you we'll leave—and leave as a group.

"If people try to provoke you, do not respond. If there is any sort of upset which may reflect on us, we will leave the Buildings."

He said that once the authorities began to remove the demonstrators they would have committed their civil disobedience.

MET BENNETT

Mr. Clarkson said he had had a last-minute meeting with Premier Bennett late in the afternoon Tuesday.

"He wouldn't listen to any compromise. He just started talking and you couldn't get a word in edgewise. It's a technique he uses."

The demonstrators followed Mr. Clarkson's every word. The walk through downtown Victoria was completed almost in silence with the only comment the occasional hooted insult from youths in cars.

They were unhindered in entering the Buildings and were admitted to the public galleries in small groups. But soon after midnight, the debates began to pall and several gathered in the hallways. Some began to drift away.

ALONG WELL

By 3:30 a.m., with signs of exhaustion evident, the group decided to stage its sit-in without waiting for the house to rise. Twenty-six people seated themselves along the wall.

No one interfered with them except a television reporter who sat among them while pictures were taken. Soon some were asleep. They were visited by several MLAs but no government representative.

A group of RCMP officers and civilian guards were apparent throughout most of the evening but they disappeared then the house rose.

The demonstrators left with the admonition from Mr. Clarkson:

"Tomorrow we form up at Bastion Square. Be there before 5:15 p.m."

He was to speak to University of Victoria students today to enlist more support for the demonstrations.

Woodwynn Farm Scores Win At Kamloops Show

Mr. Turner, formerly of Victoria, is the son of the late Jim Turner, a pioneer exhibitor who was part of the annual show for 39 years, who farmed at Sayward Beach, Victoria.

Piped Water Soon For Residents Of Prospect Lake

Prospect Lake area residents should be able to drink piped water next month.

Saanich engineer Neville Life said Tuesday he expects the watermain extension work will be finished in four or five weeks.

Residents currently draw their water from the lake or from wells, but for several years have been told to boil domestic water coming from the lake.

Last September, 166 property owners voted 66 per cent in favor of a bylaw to extend municipal water mains.

Cost is $226,455 with $86,455 coming from Saanich waterworks fund. Interest on the $143,000 to be borrowed and repaid by area residents over 20 years was given as $117,910 in the bylaw.

Viet Debate Sought In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate's Vietnam war doubts spilled over into the house Tuesday with members demanding a review of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia before any major war escalation is undertaken.

Rep. Paul Findley, R—Ill., triggered an outburst on the house floor when he announced that his 1967 resolution to reappraise the Gulf of Tonkin resolution carried 120 co-sponsors or about one-quarter of the house's 433-man membership.

Reps. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., and John Dent, D-Pa., accused the Findley group and dissidents on the Senate foreign relations committee of trying to "second-guess" the president.

'WOULD HELP UNITY'

But Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., brother of Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, said a full-scale debate on Vietnam would aid in unifying a divided nation.

"Don't regard it (Findley's resolution) as a hawkish or a dovish resolution," Udall said. "It's a congress resolution. It says we in congress should be in on the take-off."

Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., said he was not against the principle of congressional participation in the decision-making process, but disputed Udall's claim that President Johnson was considering a request for 200,000 additional troops to be sent to Vietnam.

"We shouldn't act on the basis of what's in the newspapers," Carey told Udall. "I prefer to take my recommendations from the president of the United States."

Cleanup Starts April 22

The annual spring cleanup in Saanich will start April 22 and continue for two weeks.

Garbage trucks will pick up discarded material on a rotation basis and residents will be informed of details, engineer Nevill Life told public works committee Tuesday night.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said it will be a good time for residents to improve their property and get rid of accumulated junk.

The committee also decided to send to the solicitor a rough draft of a bylaw to regulate junked and discarded cars on private property.

And police chief W. A. Pearson will be asked for a review of the strets and traffic bylaw and the problems of enforcement.

Committee chairman Coun. William Campbell said it is "not unusual" to drive through Saanich and see an accumulation of old cars.

Development officer Joseph Barber-Starkey said the new compulsory motor vehicle testing station, due to open June 1, will produce a "major problem." He recommended it be tacked on a regional basis.

Group Studies Use Of Schools

A committee established to study greater utilization of public school facilities in B.C. is inviting opinions from interested organizations and individuals, Education Minister Peterson announced Tuesday.

The committee, under chairmanship of J. L. Canty, coordinator of services for the department of education, has already had its first meeting, Mr. Peterson said.

He said the committee will include in its investigation possible use of a quarter and semester system and alternative organization of the school day for greater utilization of facilities.

South To Invade North?

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government's chief spokesman said today that a volunteer "liberation army" is being formed to invade North Vietnam.

U.S. officials expressed surprise at the report.

The spokesman, Nguyen Ngoc Linh, director-general of information, said the invasion army would be made up of Vietnamese who are "sick and tired of those people who want to 'liberate' South Vietnam." This was a reference to the Viet Cong, who call themselves the South Vietnamese Liberation Army.

Vietnam Press, the government news agency, reported earlier today that authoritative sources had said a "high-ranking member of the vice-president's office is forming a March-to-the-North army." The vice-president is Nguyen Cao Ky, the former commander of the air force who was premier for two years before he and President Nguyen Van Thieu were elected last fall.

Linh told a reporter the new force would ask the government to provide it arms and ammunition and would be called the North Vietnam Liberation Army. He said it would consist of guerrillas and would not be part of the regular South Vietnamese Army.

U.S. officials had no comment.

Israeli exports dropped $300,000 during January compared with January, 1967, to a total value of $16,000,000.

Will History Repeat In Khe Sahn Siege?

SAIGON (AP) — By day, green, mist-shrouded hills from a military plane, there was little to see but the dark brooding over a seemingyl empty land.

By night, the earth spat fire.

A ring of death surrounded the fortress. Planes no longer could land there. It had to be supplied and reinforced by air.

That was Dien Bien Phu toward the end of the road for the French.

The decisive battle began 14 years ago today. It ended May 7. And with it ended France's colonial empire in Asia.

Many in Vietnam wonder: Is Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the military mastermind of that 1954 battle, seeking another Dien Bien Phu for precisely the same reasons he sought the first victory, at a frightful cost in human life?

YEARNED VICTORY

The 1954 victory was as much psychological as military—perhaps much more important psychologically. The build-up for the battle had begun months earlier. As Giap built, there was talk of an international meeting to bring the war to an end. Giap desperately wanted a big victory, to have a winning hand at the table.

Today there is frequent talk of the possibility of a conference. Some here say they are convinced that the Communist offensive of the lunar new year was intended to seek a winning hand in the event of talks.

By the time the 1954 agreement was reached on Geneva talks opening in April, Giap was ready, patiently awaiting his opportunity to isolate the French and starve them out of a fortress designed originally as the bait to lure him into battle.

The psychological moment was at hand. France was in an uproar over the war. For a long time it had looked hopeless. Giap and his chief, Ho Chi Minh, saw a chance to win the war more quickly in Paris than in the hills of Tonkin.

SYMPTOMS APPARENT

Some of the things you hear the Americans saying today about the Viet Cong you heard the French say 14 years ago about the Viet Minh, Ho's Communist League for Independence. The sort of war Ho and Giap were fighting was new and bewildering for a French army accustomed to classical war on fixed fronts.

Frenchmen had looked with scorn on the little men they called "les jaunes"—the yellows—and considered them cowards for scattering and running away from superior forces. The French could not understand why "les jaunes" would never get involved in a "set-piece" battle, the sort the French wanted, so that superior forces could mow the enemy down.

The Viet Minh, unless they were sure of victory, would melt away into the countryside. Their war was one of ambush, of sporadic terror in the cities, of long and patient attrition.

By French estimate, the Viet Minh had 300,000 men, many of them conscripts dragooned against their wills but others considering themselves patriots fighting to drive out the foreigner. The French had their own forces of 200,000 along with 200,000 in a Vietnamese army. But—as is the case today—the Vietnamese army fighting with the foreigner often was ineffective against the shadowy foe. As today, young men dodged the draft or bought their way out of it.

It is the suddenly enigmatic Kennedy who is more likely to be the major concern of the men who work for Lyndon Johnson.

McCarthy did not talk like a man who would willingly step aside to see Kennedy take over the torch of dissent to Johnson's leadership.

"I intend to go on in Wisconsin and on to California," McCarthy said. "I've said that I would run as long as anyone wanted me to. And I mean to do that."

Wisconsin is the next state to vote on potential presidential nominees balloting April 2.

NO PRIMARY RIVAL

On the Republican ballot, Nixon was left without a real rival when Michigan Gov. George Romney withdrew as a presidential candidate 12 days before the primary.

While Rockefeller brushed off the vote in advance, saying Nixon "deserved it, he's worked hard for it," the former vice-president said the returns "far exceed our expectations."

Nixon said the outcome would "put pressure on Rockefeller to get in or get out."

Rockefeller said he would decide by March 22 whether to become an active, declared candidate for the Republican nomination. That is the deadline for withdrawal from the Oregon primary—which looms as the New Yorker's chosen battleground with Nixon.

ADMIRING decorations made by patients at St. Mary's Priory are Sister Mary Elizabeth, left, and Sister Laurice Beaudry, from Minnesota, featured speaker at Rehabilitation Workshop.

AT NURSING HOMES

Aged 'Renewing Lost Abilities'

By KATHRINE THOMAS

"Doesn't it bother you to work with the elderly?" people used to ask Sister Laurice Beaudry.

"Yes," was the reply, "it bothers me enough to do something about it."

Sister Beaudry has been doing something about it ever since she entered nursing.

Now director of the St. Francis Nursing Home in Breckenridge, Minnesota, she was in town last week for a day-long rehabilitation workshop at St. Mary's Priory.

"I've always had a love for older people ever since I was young," she recalled. "As a night nursing supervisor I used to sit up with them."

From nursing, Sister Beaudry soon moved into the field of administration. She spent eight years at St. Otto's Nursing Home in Little Falls, Minn. and in 1960 moved to St. Francis.

132 PATIENTS

At St. Francis she is in charge of 132 patients and 90 staff who are engaged in an imaginative attempt in rehabilitating the elderly through physiotherapy, occupational therapy, recreational therapy and social service.

For the past four years she was also chairman of a National Conference on Aging sponsored by the Catholic Hospital Association.

"We feel it's important that older people remain active for as long as possible even though they may be afflicted with an infirmity or disability," she says.

"Everyone prizes their independence and since an elderly person is a human being we want to give them every opportunity to exercise their independence to the very end of their days.

"In doing this we help them to help themselves in every possible way we can. We use the means of encouragement, reassurance, challenge, competition, recognition, praise and tender loving care."

Sister Beaudry feels the greatest effort must be made to make the aging self-sufficient and self-reliant within the scope of their capabilities.

"The key to the success of a nursing home," she says, "is good communication to effect good resident care. The staff needs to be open and communicative in regard to the resident's response to every effort made by the staff."

Great strides have been made in the past 10 years in understanding the need to renew the lost abilities, interests and activities of the elderly.

"For years people had the misgiving that the elderly with disabilities were not capable of doing their former activities.

"We have found this to be untrue since every capability can be strengthened even to the extent where one who has only his voice left can use it in many ways such as dictating to a secretary, emceeing a radio program, phoning the handicapped in a telephone assurance program and giving guidance to teen-agers."

COUNSELLING

St. Francis also gives counselling advice to families of their patients through their social service department.

"We correspond constantly with families and they are invited for activities in the home," says Sister Beaudry.

A concerted effort is also made to make young people and even children understanding and concerned about the elderly.

The nursing home has produced a coloring book that educates small children with regard to the aging. Teenagers are also hired in an attempt to help acquaint them with the field and St. Francis sponsors writing contests for youngsters on such themes as "Why we should respect older people."

"We all also have many volunteers of all ages," says Sister Beaudry. "They have found that they really enjoy it."

IT'S BAD NEWS FOR JOHNSON

By JACK BELL

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Johnson can expect the storm of criticism over his Vietnam policies to grow in national fury as a result of the outcome of the New Hampshire primary.

While the president's supporters may dismiss as insignificant the verdict by about 53,000 Democrats in a state that is Republican by a two-to-one margin, the inescapable fact is that when he and his policies were tested at the polls for the first time in this presidential year Johnson could barely manage to get 48 per cent of the vote.

Added to this is the fact that a heavy turnout of Republicans, reaching nearly 100,000, gave 79 per cent of their votes to former vice-president Richard Nixon, who concentrated his campaign attacks on Johnson.

When politicians add all of this up, they are likely to call it a psychological setback for the president.

The performance of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in racking up 42 per cent of the Democratic vote is certain to give the war critics a shot in the arm that will spur them to greater efforts to dynamite Johnson's policies.

BECOMES HOPEFUL

McCarthy began his low-keyed campaign with the announced intention of stimulating debate within the party and forcing the president to change his war course. Not until recent days has he become starry-eyed with the belief that perhaps he might prevent Johnson's renomination.

McCarthy's showing under drumfire attack on him as an appeaser whose victory would give comfort to Hanoi has demonstrated that he and other candidates can stand up under this kind of political infighting.

Colleagues who have muted their criticism of the president in an election year are likely to become bolder in speaking out against him. If McCarthy, little known in New Hampshire, could come close to beating the president, they will feel that there is a strong wind against Johnson's ship on its present course.

The squads of youngsters who joined in ringing doorbells, passing out leaflets and doing all of the hard chores of campaigning for McCarthy indicated that there is a reservoir of support available for an anti-war candidate.

Candidates who share McCarthy's dissent are likely to try to organize their own youth teams of volunteers, particularly if their opponents support Johnson's policies.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

For a start today, here is a letter from Pascagoula, Miss., where former Victoria Machinery Depot boilermaker William Lyons and his family are shaping a new life.

"I've been hearing so much about the griping and complaining regarding the 'Mississippi Move' that I just have to speak out," Mrs. Lyons writes.

"I was born in Victoria, and I had never lived anywhere else. I left my Mum and Dad and all my relatives and friends when we moved. We sold our house and furniture. But when I speak of Victoria, I cannot say 'home,' because home is where my husband and three children are.

"Certainly the way of life is a bit different here, but then again, we're not cut off from civilization, either. My husband is doing one of the dirtiest jobs in the yard, but the men did similar jobs in Victoria without complaint. Working and living here, we know that we'll not have to go on welfare. In Victoria, that was questionable.

"Most of us have only been here a month, and I don't think that's long enough to judge. But we have not been treated any differently than a newcomer to Victoria would be. Also, we did not expect a royal reception just because we are Canadian."

Mrs. Lyons finds the Negro's situation "ugly" in her adopted town, but does not see it as basically different from the Canadian Indian's.

"I look on this move as a good opportunity to see different parts of a country both scenic and historic," she concludes.

A stout-hearted letter, and I learn from union sources that a good many like it are being received from ex-Victorians whom the VMD closure forced to up-stakes and head south.

On Tuesday I told you about a Montrealer who, though she likes our city, would sooner fight than switch. Not all who come visiting from the Eastern townships are so stubborn, however, and I am glad to report that B.C. has wooed and won two keen and skilful anglers from Ontario.

They are Ed and Mair Wiskin, a couple who came here in the course of a trailer honeymoon from Ottawa two summers ago, and as many another has done before them, got hooked.

When I last mentioned this pair, their trailer was grounded under Goldstream Park's dripping fir trees, and they were stubbornly waiting the return of spring.

The elastic honeymoon extended yet another summer. Not until the salmon were into their autumn spawning run did Mair and Ed set off for an Ottawa neglected, except for a couple of look-ins by plane, for about two years.

But they didn't stay.

Ed, a builder, has set up shop in West Vancouver, and on clear days, he and Mair look wistfully across toward their promised land. A few years in West Van, they assure us, then they'll be over here, not just for vacations, but for keeps.

North at Campbell River, where celebrating tame apes once washed the bark-dust from their throats with overproof Demarara, I sat down last week to a well-mixed martini.

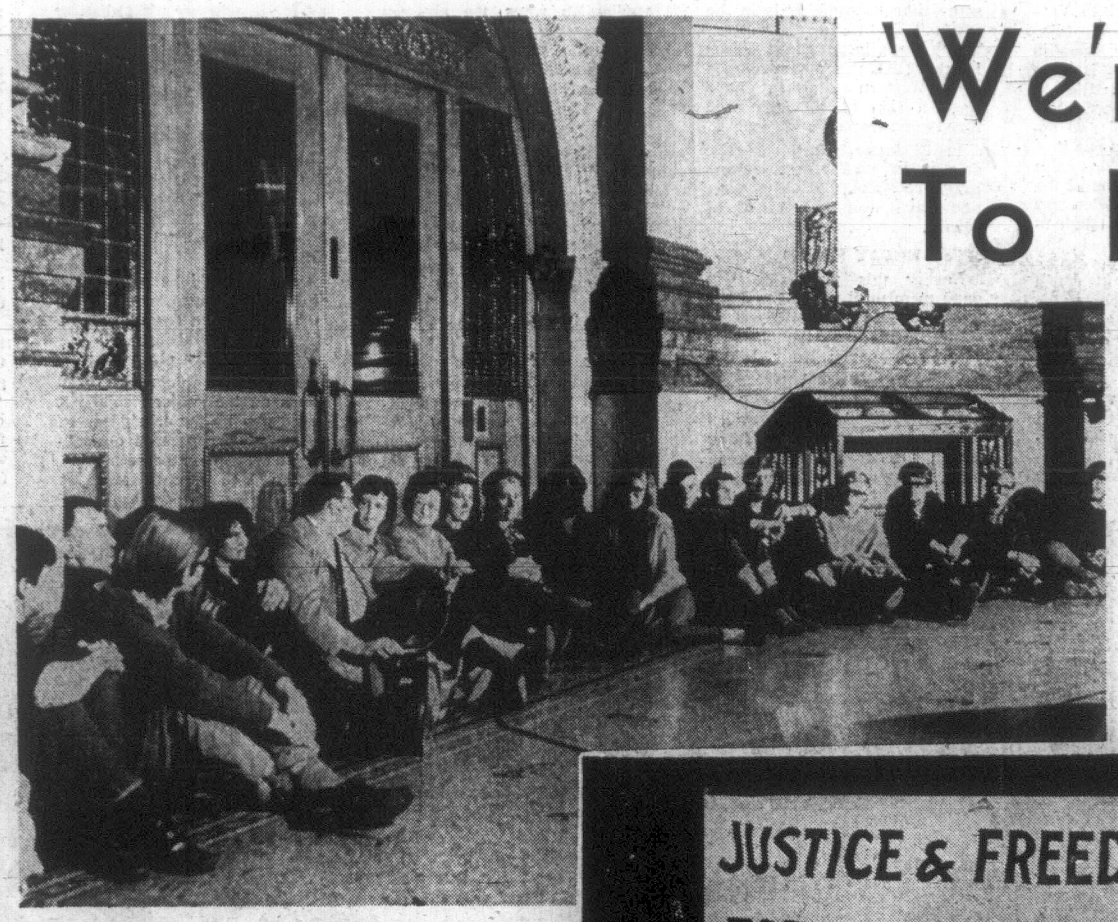
Then, after nibbling a couple of dainty hors d'oeuvres, up by elevator to a Driftwood Inn room that included among its furnishings a bed vibrator.

This device, if you've never encountered one, is supposed to rest the restless, and lull the insomniac into blissful sleep. Even though no lulling was needed, I dropped a quarter into the neat little control box.

Then, while the vibrator got in its licks, I fell to remembering the Campbell River we knew before its boosters began referring to it as a city. There was a government wharf, a general store, the Willows Hotel (a fire razed it), and damn-little else.

"This town has a real future," the old man who sat in the sun on the landing used to assure us in pre-vibrator days. We smiled then. But . . . between drowsily-chattering teeth . . . it seems he was right after all.

'We're Going Back To House Tonight'



NEARING THE END of their first sit-in at 4:30 this morning, mothers of Victoria Low Income Group had plenty of support form other more fortunate mothers and university students. The weary group left the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings at 5:30 vowing to return tonight.

Sit-In Mothers Stay All Night

By PETE LOUDON

"We called their bluff and they didn't throw us out. We'll go home."

With those words Reg. Clarkson, parade marshal of the first sit-in ever held in the B.C. Legislative Buildings, dismissed his troops at 5:30 this morning.

With that, 26 members of Victoria Low Income Group and supporters, got up from the floor of the rotunda where they had sat unchallenged for more than two hours.

"We've got to come back tonight so we've got to preserve ourselves," said Mr. Clarkson.

If there was chagrin at the fact their protest against welfare rates was unrecognized by the government officially, it was hidden.

Everyone who sat through the long night was satisfied the government was fully aware of the protest and that accounted for the late, late session.

They felt they had outsat the Premier. And they planned to be back at the legislative chambers before 6 tonight.

The demonstration had started 10 hours earlier. Mothers of the Low Income Group had arranged baby-sitters and turned out at First United Church prepared to risk arrest in a civil disobedience aimed at winning government consent to an unbiased arbitration board to consider higher welfare rates.

TWO CLERICS

Backing them and swelling their numbers to 75, were a group of sympathetic mothers who were not on welfare, a group of University of Victoria students and two clergymen, Rev. A. G. MacLeod of St. Aidans and a missionary just returned from Africa, Fred Anderson.

The group sat in a circle while Mr. Clarkson laid down

UP TO COUNCIL

New Pool By Summer Of Next Year?

Victoria should have a new swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden by the summer of 1969.

The city's recreation and community services committee went on record this morning as favoring the phasing out of the old Garden and the building of a new public swimming complex.

The committee's decision will now go to city council as a strong recommendation.

The committee made its decision after receiving a special committee report on the pool.

It will recommend that:

- The Crystal be discontinued as a community swimming pool and phased out of operation in as short a time as possible.
- That a new pool be constructed in the general area of Central Park, Royal Athletic Park and the Memorial Arena.
- That the committee immediately start detailed site studies for further recommendation to council.
- That the committee commence immediate studies on the most desirable pool design.
- And that land acquisition for the new pool be paid for with money borrowed from the McPherson Estate fund now standing at $1.2 million.

$650,000 TOTAL

Total cost of the new pool, including land acquisition, was estimated at $650,000.

Cost of the pool itself has been estimated at between $350,000 and $500,000.

Of the recommendations brought in by the study committee only one was tabled.

That was the suggestion the Crystal be demolished and the site disposed of at a price compatible with its highest and best land use.

It was suggested the disposition of the site be tabled until greater progress has been made on the construction of a new pool and until a final decision is made on the location of a proposed convention centre for the city.

$600,000

The committee was informed that just keeping the Crystal operative for the next three years would cost $105,000 and to bring it up to reasonable standards would cost nearly $600,000.

No target date was set for the completion of the new pool but city manager Dennis Young said if an immediate start is made it could be ready in a minimum of 18 months with two years a more likely period.

"Construction, based on local experience, starting in the early fall of this year could see a new pool ready for use in the summer of 1969," Mr. Young said.

Argus Replaces Comox Neptunes

Bigger Sub-Hunters Coming West In June From Eastern Squadrons

The Neptune submarine-hunting aircraft based at Comox will be phased out of service by the end of June, department officials disclosed today.

The eight twin-engined Neptunes will be replaced by six of the larger four-engined Argus aircraft gleaned from other squadrons across Canada.

Twelve Neptunes in service on Canada's east coast will also be taken out of service.

$8 MILLION

The move is expected to save annually in personnel, maintenance and operating costs.

There are now three Argus squadrons in the east with eight aircraft each. They will be reduced to six each, the remainder coming to Comox.

MORE RANGE

Defence officials said because of the greater range of the Argus, replacing eight Neptunes with six Argus will increase the Comox-based squadron's operational capabilities.

The American-built Neptune carries a crew of 10 and replaced the Second World War Lancasters in 1957.

The Canadian-built Argus carries a crew of 15 and first went into service with the then Royal Canadian Air Force in 1958.

The switch to the larger aircraft is expected to result in a slight increase in the number of personnel attached to the maritime command squadron of CFB Comox.

Water Board Merger Urged On Peninsula

Establishment of a new water district to cope with the needs of the northern end of the Saanich peninsula was advocated today by Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee.

The peninsula has four water districts — Central Saanich, Brentwood, Deep Cove and Sidney — all acting independently.

The merged district would plan for the extension of existing facilities in the three municipalities, the reeve said.

"Apart from the need for more water, we will soon face high costs for improving our present waterworks system," the reeve said. "We have to get down to business."

The reeve's suggestion is expected to be discussed by representatives of the four boards in April.

One of the most pressing problems is the renewal of the existing 12-inch pipeline from Elk Lake which serves a large part of Central Saanich, Deep Cove in North Saanich and Sidney.

Crump In Town Recuperating

Norris Crump, chairman of Canadian Pacific Railway Co., is having a brief "no interviews" holiday at the Empress Hotel until Thursday morning.

He caught influenza on a trip to Calgary and is taking it easy to recuperate, a spokesman said.

En route to Montreal Mr. Crump is expected to visit CPR managers informally at Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Quick Decision Asked to Solve High Tide Sewer Woes at Sidney

A malfunction in the main Sidney sewerage outfall is creating a serious pollution problem.

The "urgent problem" caused when a high tide and wind combine to back sewage up into the main disposal line is at present under study by the Regional District sewage and waste disposal committee.

Tuesday the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health decided to ask the regional board for a quick decision on the matter.

Sidney's main sewer system was constructed in 1945 and the main Ocean Avenue outfall, some 700 feet long, was completed in 1966.

At low or medium tide on a calm day it works fine.

CAN'T USE TOILETS

But when the tide is high and the breeze a little higher than average homeowners on Ocean Avenue can't use toilets, baths or even drain the kitchen sink.

And the sewage that does get out of the main outfall washes right back on to the beach.

The sewage is untreated.

A consulting engineer familiar with the Sindey problem said this morning that while the immediate problem lay with the outfall the main problem lay within the municipal boundaries of the town.

"The problem starts with the fact that there are no true records of just what they have below ground," he said. "What they have to do out there first of all is spend a few thousand dollars on a survey to find out what they have got, what levels existing lines are at and just what goes into them.

"Once they have that information they can find out just what they have to do."

The Ocean Avenue outfall is destined for a major extension from 700 feet to 1,400 feet between 1971-75 under the master sewerage plan for the Saanich Peninsula.

$140,000

Cost of the extension, based on 1965 construction costs, was set at $140,000. The cost of the outfall extension, because it ties in with the main trunk and outfall program, would be shared with other municipalities using the main trunks and the outfall.

While calling on the regional district for a fast answer the metro health board decided to commence immediately its "polluted water" sign posting problem.

Ocean Avenue will be one of the first recipients of 24 signs carrying the message: "Warning. Water Polluted. Unsafe for Swimming."

Other signs will be posted at the following locations:

Foot of St. Lawrence Street (Dallas Road) small beach; foot of Howe Street (Dallas Road) beach; Clover Point, east and west sides (2 signs); Dallas Road ramp, east of Bushby Street Ross Bay; foot of St. Charles Street, Ross Bay; all ramps and steps leading to Ross Bay and Clover Point to be stencilled on the walkway; foot of Crescent Road (Oak Bay) small sewer outfall; Twin Beaches opposite 586 Beach Drive; Golf Links Beaches, foot of Newport Avenue, posted, recommended 2 additional signs required one on each small beach; Beach Drive, foot of Broom Road (2 signs); Beach Drive, foot of Humber Road, near steps to small beach—small septic tank outfall; Ten Mile Point side of Cadboro Bay Beach; Finnerty Cove at Solarium; Shoreline School (Christie Point) 2 locations; corner Admirals and Craigflower Road; Craigflower Park Bridge; Kinsmen Beach, outside waters; Tillicum Park, Gorge Bridge; Admirals Road and Colquitz Creek; parking lot, No. 1 Highway, signs both ends; Craigflower Creek Estuary at Helmcken Road; Banfield Park, Victoria West.

'They'd Sooner Look At Gorge Than Swim'

"Far more" people want to drive by the Gorge and enjoy the view than want to swim in it, Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

He made the comment in defending Saanich support for a Capital Improvement District Commission shoreline beautification project near Craigflower Bridge paid for by provincial money.

He said the reason CIDC accepted the project in the first place was that it is a start on the "total rehabilitation" of the waterway, both in that water and on the shore, and it is within reasonable and attainable economic limits compared with some million-dollar schemes.

To date, $86,000 has been spent plus $105,000 for underground wiring. Second stage costing $65,000 was delayed because of a postponment in allocation of provincial money.

Earlier, Gorge resident Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, called the shoreline project beautiful "and the kind of thing we really need, but it doesn't change the state of polluted water.

"It's something like going to town in a beautiful fur coat and dirty underwear. Some people might do it but I wouldn't."

'REAL PROGRESS'

Reeve Curtis said concern over swimming has to be tempered with "real progress" through the regional sewerage plan, the Saanich study of Portage Inlet and Gorge area undertaken with professional help from the University and the shoreline project.

"I don't think government should refuse to move ahead on shoreline beautification just because it isn't able at the moment to finance the total environmental rehabilitation of the waterway," he said.

"I don't believe that residents of the Gorge area are really aware of the man hours and detailed thinking now under way towards saving this waterway.

"Their criticisms over the years have been justified and they have spurred on this municipality at least to taking a complete look at the problem."

'OBEY THE LAW, DO ALL YOU CAN TO CHANGE IT' SAYS MAGISTRATE

By DON VIPOND

Victoria's senior magistrate was challenged Tuesday on the jail terms he has been handing convicted marijuana users.

"I know this question concerns young people very deeply," Magistrate William Ostler told a meeting of the Pre-Law Society at the University of Victoria.

He had been invited to deliver a noon-hour talk on the functions of the magistrate's office. But he devoted most of his hour-long stay to answering questions, the majority dealing with drug laws. About two dozen students were present.

Questioners challenged the justice in similar jail terms for convicted muggers and those caught with marijuana, the deterrent value of jail for "pot" smokers and what they should do about laws they think are unjust.

The Court of Appeal has directed that suspended sentences are generally inappropriate in marijuana possession convictions, said the magistrate. He and other magistrates must follow directions from a higher court.

"The court of appeal is trying to say the only thing we can do is provide a deterrent. Narcotics, even marijuana, are considered such a social evil, the deterrent is given predominance."

He said that if students could see some of the probation reports he deals with showing drug progression from marijuana to LSD and others they might feel differently.

He cited the case of a youth who took a drug without knowing what it was, was arrested, and 12 hours later in court was "still hallucinating badly."

"Perhaps there is a tenable argument that marijuana taken by a mature person will do no harm."

But the law is concerned with irresponsible use of drugs and alcohol and for this reason there are some people who are forbidden alcohol because they have proved not responsible.

Magistrate Ostler said there might be a "compelling argument" in not having marijuana under the Narcotics Control Act "but this has nothing to do with magistrates."

"How do you see our duty if we feel a law is unjust?" asked one student.

Their duty was clearly to obey the law first "and then do all you can to get it changed."

"It may be that when your generation is in charge," said the magistrate, "you may see some difficulties you don't see now."

There isn't anything that can't be changed, he said.

"And it's up to you to do it.

"But don't let your frustration bring you into folly."

On another topic, one student asked him why persons responsible in a fatal accident are sometimes charged simply with careless driving and receive light fines when convicted.

It was important to examine the circumstances of such cases carefully, replied the magistrate.

A person can be killed but the degree of negligence might have been minimal.

Ask The Times

Q. What are the nationalities of Ed Sullivan and Dean Martin? M.E.

A. Both are Americans. Edward Vincent Sullivan, newspaper columnist and television emcee, was born in the borough of Manhattan, city of New York, Sept. 28, 1902. Dean Martin was born in Steubenville, Ohio, of Italian parents June 17, 1917.

Q. Do you have any statistics for 1966 or 1967 as to how many deaths in Canada were attributable to smoking in bed? J.T.P.

A. The most recent figures available are for 1965. In that year 32 deaths were attributed to fires caused by smoking in bed.

RUSSIAN CREWMEN PICKED UP SAFELY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 45-man crew of the Russian cargo ship Velikiyi Ustyug were picked up safely today after they abandoned their vessel in the stormy North Atlantic, the United States coast guard reported. Another Russian ship rescued the crew of the stricken ship and they apparently were in good condition.

Legislature Sits All Night In Battle Over Education

GROGGY BUT READY for a second round tonight, two mothers from Victoria Low Income Group and a sympathizer put in the long hours in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings. They outlasted the legislators by continuing their sit-in until 5:30 this morning. Total of 75—mothers and supporters—joined the demonstration protesting low welfare rates. See page 17. Tempers Flare; Estimates Pass

By JOHN MIKA and BRUCE YEMEN

The Legislature adjourned at 4:55 this morning after a stormy session during which the Social Credit government beat down three attempts by Opposition Leader Strachan to end the marathon sitting.

Premier Bennett didn't allow the exhausted MLAs to go home until all 23 separate votes in the $271.1 million estimates of the education department were passed.

As a concession after the ordeal, he ordered resumption for 2:30 this afternoon, a half-hour later than usual.

But he told reporters there would be another late sitting tonight and Thursday and the legislature will go into a steady day-and-night-sitting routine until the session ends.

The education estimates came before the house at 2 p.m. Monday and took 16½ hours to complete half of it in continuous sitting that began after the Tuesday supper break.

Mr. Strachan's adjournment attempts all came after midnight.

It was the longest sitting for several years but short of the record set during the Bill 42 wrangle in 1961 when Premier Bennett kept the house sitting until after 6 a.m.

Mr. Bennett timed the all-night sitting to follow the annual press gallery dinner for MLAs Monday which saw many of them late to bed.

Through most of the early hours this morning, there were three or four backbenchers, and occasionally a minister, obviously sleeping in their chairs while opposition members spelled each other off criticizing education policies or asking questions.

Premier Bennett several times was accused of slipping off to catch 40 winks on the couch in his office but he denied it.

Bennett Refuses Recorded Vote

He retaliated by refusing the traditional consent for recording the results of the four divisions—one non-confidence vote in Education Minister Peterson and the three adjournment attempts—in the journals of the legislature.

Throughout the marathon sitting, the "sit-in" group of mothers on welfare and sympathetic students — along with a covey of uniformed and plain-clothes RCMP watching them —sat in the spectator galleries.

David Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam) protested the presence of uniformed RCMP at the doors of the spectator galleries.

"I don't think it's necessary to have armed RCMP protecting us because some people come to visit us here," he said during the education estimates.

"I'm not afraid of people expressing their opinions in a democracy and this is a democracy."

The Legislative Building janitors were added to the listening audience as they began cleaning up while the house still sat in the chamber below.

Tempers flared frequently as the hours wore on, most of them vented on the head of Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) as chairman of estimates committee who frequently ruled the opposition complaints about the lateness of the hour were out of order.

Twice Mr. Bruch called in Speaker William Murray to restore order and the speaker warned MLAs that regardless of their private opinions about the government's insistence they stay in session, they had to obey the rules or face serious consequences.

Demand Speaker Be Called In

By 4 a.m. opposition members angrily were demanding that Mr. Bruch call in the speaker a third time because they were unsatisfied with his conduct of the committee but he ignored the demand.

"You don't know the rules, you've never known the rules and what's more you never will," Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) screamed at Mr. Bruch.

Mr. Bruch spent much of the time pounding his gavel and rising to his feet to outshout MLAs he claimed were straying from the estimates and twice he shouted at MLAs who were sitting in their seats to sit down.

Mr. Bruch also twice became

U.S. SEEKS MORE MEN FROM ALLIES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is pressing its Vietnam allies — Australia, New Zealand, Korea and Thailand — to commit more men to the war, according to reliable sources.

CANBERRA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Gorton reiterated today his decision not to send additional troops to Vietnam. He told Parliament he was standing by a promise not to do so.

Stampede For Gold At London

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush became a virtual stampede today and bullion dealers curtailed trading sharply in the London market.

The curtailment was the first such action taken since the formation of the international gold pool in 1960.

London dealers made clear there was no suspension of sales. They raised the price of gold five cents to $35.20 an ounce and refused to take small orders. No big orders were refused.

The action came as the Italian treasury described as "without foundation" a report from Zurich that the United States was shouldering Italy's share of bullion in the international pool.

U.S. DENIAL

In Washington, the treasury also denied the Zurich report. "The report is without foundation," a spokesman said.

The dealer's action came as the gold stampede in Europe reached near panic proportions.

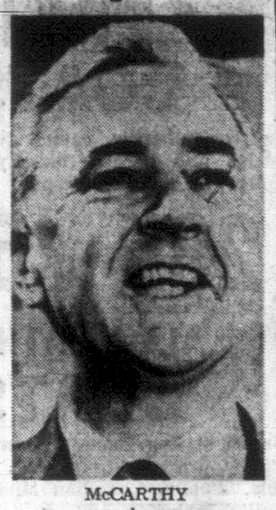
Sales of gold in Paris reached a record of more than 16 tons, compared with the previous high Dec. 15 of 14 tons. Sixty to 80 tons were estimated to have been sold in Zurich during the morning alone.

In London 40 tons were sold, more than double Tuesday's figure.

A source in Zurich said Swiss banks expect an embargo on gold sales will be announced soon by the United States, which with the other six nations of the gold pool is pledged to sell gold at $35 an ounce.

LBJ Scores 'Empty Victory' In New Hampshire Primary

ROBERT KENNEDY
... party divided



McCARTHY
... early success

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire Democrats returned a startling split decision today, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory in the first U.S. presidential primary—while awarding rebellious Eugene J. McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 20 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Richard M. Nixon won the overwhelming Republican vote he sought to help wipe out the memory of past defeats and propel his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

But the drama was in the Democratic story. It was a story of political trouble for Johnson, and a leadoff success for McCarthy, whose campaign on a platform protesting Vietnam policy once was scorned as inconsequential by Democratic professionals.

Minnesota's McCarthy far surpassed his forecasts—and those of his opponents. Johnson's name was not on the ballot, but the state Democratic organization waged a tough write-in campaign. Its product: a minority win for the president, who received 49 per cent of the vote.

4,000-VOTE EDGE

The near-final count had Johnson leading McCarthy by less than 4,000 votes. The president's promoters had forecast a 3-to-1 victory—and even that prediction was toned down from earlier odds of 10 to 1.

The contest for delegates appeared to be reversing the verdict of the presidential preference poll. Actually, the poll, popularly called a "beauty contest," is binding on no one.

In the separate contest for Democratic delegates, candidates pledged to vote for McCarthy's nomination were leading for 20 of the 24 national convention seats at issue, while contenders favoring Johnson led for four.

the outcome, saying New Hampshire is the only place where a candidate can claim "40 per cent is a mandate."

Nixon, a former vice-president, swept 79 per cent of the vote in a state where Republicans outnumber Democrats two to one, smothering the last-minute write-in campaign for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Nixon was out to erase the label of loser pinned to him after defeats for the White House in 1960 and for the governorship of California in 1962.

With 99 per cent of the anticipated 54,000 Democratic votes counted, Johnson had 25,970 and McCarthy had 22,479.

NIXON LANDSLIDE

On the Republican ballot, with 99 per cent of the expected 106,000 votes in, Nixon had 83,071 and Rockefeller had 11,517.

Nixon and McCarthy were listed on the ballot; Johnson and Rockefeller were not.

Despite the Johnson ridicule, there could be no doubt that the outcome in snowy New Hampshire stirred concern at the White House. That concern may not in fact be about McCarthy himself, but about the possible impact of his showing on the plans of New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Few believe that McCarthy can wrest the Democratic nomination from Johnson.

35 Africans Reprieved By Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The government of Prime Minister Ian Smith today reprieved 35 Africans under sentence of death, including four who have been under a stay of execution since Monday.

Clifford Du Pont, officer administering the government, under the advice of the executive council of the cabinet, had "reviewed all cases pending and gave prior consideration to those which had the strongest claims for the exercise of clemency," government announcement said.

The government said this was done "in view of the lapse of time since the conviction of the men concerned."

"The remaining 33 cases, which include the most serious ones, require further consideration and these will be dealt with as speedily as possible," the statement said.

85 CASES

"There were 85 cases which were up to the stage where they could be considered by the executive council but which had to be held up pending the recent decision of the appelate division of the high court.

"Five of these persons have been executed and 47 persons have been reprieved, their sentences being commuted to varying terms of imprisonment."

The 47 reprieves included earlier grants of clemency.

The government said at previous trials some persons were reprieved but the court ordered their names should not be published for security reasons.

Emergency UN Session Urged

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Thirty-six African countries Tuesday requested an urgent session of the United Nations Security Council to consider the possible use of armed force against Rhodesia.

A letter to the council president, Ousmane Soce Diop of Senegal, described the situation in Rhodesia as "a threat to international peace and security."

Africans Call U.K. 'Toothless Bulldog'

By REUTERS

Anger over recent executions of Negroes in white ruled Rhodesia erupted in three African capitals Tuesday, although in each incident the Negro demonstrators were venting their anger against Britain's failure to prevent the executions in its breakaway colony.

In the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, British Ambassador Sir Thomas Bromley was forced to retreat to safety as some 2,000 students he was addressing hurled a barrage of rocks.

In Nairobi, Kenya, British Deputy High Commissioner Bruce Greatbatch was pelted with coins and garbage when some 200 students from Nairobi's University College met to present a petition of protest.

Another group of 200 students in Accra, Ghana, tore down the Union Jack, halted traffic and harangued whites during a parade in front of the British high commission building.

Shouts of "toothless bulldog" come from the demonstrators in both Accra and Nairobi.

Student Riots Spread To Second Polish City

WARSAW (Reuters) — Club-swinging militiamen went into action against about 1,000 students demonstrating in Cracow, south Poland, today in sympathy with Warsaw students, reliable sources said.

The students were reported to have marched from a hostel to the main university building in the centre of the medieval former royal capital of Poland.

They carried banners reading, "Warsaw is not alone, we want justice," the source said by telephone from Cracow.

The students burned newspapers and defaced and tore down wall posters reprinting editorials from Warsaw newspapers condemning recent student demonstrations in the capital, the sources said.

MILITIA ON GUARD

Before the procession started professors addressed a one-hour student meeting over loudspeakers and appealed for calm. But the students shouted them down. Militiamen were waiting for the students when they reached the 14th century Jagiellonian University and the clash followed, the source said.

The official Polish news agency PAP said student demonstrations took place in Lubin, east Poland, Monday. Informed sources said there were also demonstrations in Poznan, west Poland.

Warsaw, which saw three days of street violence between students and militia starting Friday, was calm today. Students attended classes as usual at the two focal points of previous demonstrations, the uni-

PRIMARY MAKES DIFFERENCE

Kennedy Reconsiders Whether He'll Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Kennedy said today he is thinking of running against President Johnson for the Democratic nomination because of the strong showing of peace candidate Eugene McCarthy in New Hampshire's primary.

"I am reassessing the possibility of whether I will run against President Johnson," the 42-year-New York senator said.

Reporters asked Kennedy if he believed the New Hampshire results showed the Democratic party already was "so seriously divided it can't be hurt much more?"

"It's my impression that's true," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the result "clearly indicates that a sizable group of Democrats are concerned about the direction in which the country is going both in the fields of foreign and domestic policy."

Kennedy added that the party division which exists has been shown to be one of issues, not personality differences between the president and a democratic opponent.

"I'm aware there has been a good deal of unrest," Kennedy told reporters. "It is clear from New Hampshire that the unrest is deep and considerable."

Kennedy began the political season saying that he would support Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey for re-election this year. After McCarthy entered the race, Kennedy switched his position to one of neutrality; he said he would not take sides but would support the Democratic nominee.

Asked if he would actively support McCarthy if he decided against directly opposing Johnson, Kennedy said, "I will have more information on all of that at a later time."

Discussing the "personality struggle" that he said was one of the factors that has kept him out of the race up to now, Kenedy said he feared the primary focus would be "the differences between President Johnson and myself that have been built up over the years."

"I think the New Hampshire primary has demonstrated quite clearly that it had nothing to do with personalities—that it was the deep concern of the United States . . ."

IN CAFETERIA

Hippies Agree To Follow Store Rules

Legal action will be taken against teen-agers if they refuse to behave like mature adults when congregating in the basement cafeteria of a downtown store.

The ultimatum was made at a meeting Tuesday by the management of the Bay.

Personnel and operations manager John Jellison and other store officials met for two hours with four teen-age leaders to make clear the stand to be taken by the department store.

"We laid out some rules and they agreed to abide by them," Mr. Jellison said.

Friction had been brewing over a period of time as teen-agers used The Bay's Olympic Room as a place to 'hang out.'

Mr. Jellison said the store had been plagued by the juveniles milling about and lingering by the hour, annoying customers.

RULES

The new rules which will be put in writing and posted throughout the store, state:

- Lying on table tops, feet on tables, is out.
- Obscene language must stop immediately.
- Everybody who occupies a table must make a purchase, and no more than four persons may sit at a large table.
- The teen-aged hippies must use discretion in the length of time they take in the restaurant.

"We're not out to build up a crusade against hippies," Mr. Jellison said. "We just want to make our place a clean place.

"They now know that we are prepared to bring in the police and later take the case to court," if the rules are not followed.

STAGED SIT-IN

The showdown meeting came as a result of a major confrontation last Saturday when about 50 teen-agers were invited to leave the restaurant.

But they trooped up to the fourth floor and staged a sit-in alongside the executive offices. Their complaint was "discrimination."

Mr. Jellison said Tuesday's meeting turned out to be "a pretty good session."

Colin Constant, leader of the young people, said, "Probably everyone is happy with The Bay. All that remains to be settled is police intolerance, harrassment and discrimination."

Tank Lights Spark Climb By Searchers

NANAIMO (CP) — Headlights of a military tank were mistaken Tuesday for a missing light aircraft and prompted searchers to make a fruitless climb up the side of mountain 23 miles west of here.

A logging company employee spotted a light at the 3,500-foot level of Mount Moriarty but searchers found it was a tank taking part in a Canadian Armed Forces training exercise.

The search resumed today for the float-equipped, single-engined Cessna, missing since March 1 on a flight from Vernon to Port Alberni.

It carried pilot Jerry Brock, his wife, 14-year-old son Tim and Jim McClusky, 14, all of Vernon.

CONFERRING in Ottawa today with Consumer Affairs Minister Turner is Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon, chairman of the royal commission on consumer problems and inflation in the three prairie provinces. She is expected to ask for an immediate probe of the profit records of at least two western companies. Judge Batten presented the commission report to members of the department.

2,000 Protest

EDMONTON (CP) — About 2,000 University of Alberta students marched a mile to the legislature Tuesday to protest a scheduled increase of about $75 in tuition fees. They listened at the steps to speeches by student representatives and Education Minister Raymond Reierson.

In an upstairs room, student union representatives presented a petition to Premier Manning and cabinet representatives. Al Anderson, students union president, said the fee increase would work a hardship on students from low-income background.

Mr. Manning told the delegation the government found it hard to understand why the universities could not adjust their spending to get along within the total framework of the $51,000,000 provided this year for operating expenses.

Mr. Reierson said gross costs per student in Alberta are about $3,000; in British Columbia $2,250 and in Saskatchewan $2,035.

SWEDISH SOCIALIST URGES JUSTICE FOR ALL UNDERPRIVILEGED

Negro-Only Program Will Create Resentment

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A better life for Negroes will not come about if national programs are directed only toward the Negro, Swedish socialist Gunar Myrdal said Tuesday night.

"Every advantage given to Negroes helps to create resentment in other underprivileged groups," Myrdal said.

Therefore, he said, all the groups, including "poor whites," in the "submerged underclass" must work together in pressing for justice.

Negro housing cannot be improved unless it is a general policy for all, Myrdal said. Schooling must be improved for all. In the labor market "there is little chance of accomplishing much as long as there is unemployment among whites."

Myrdal stressed in his speech at the University of Hartford that the Negro problem "cannot be solved except in the frame of solving the poverty problem."

This he acknowledged, makes the problem three times as big.

He also commented that "Negro nationalism must be a blind alley." Black Power, he said, is no solution.

WAR CAUSES UNREST

Much of American racial unrest is caused by the Vietnam war, he said.

The war, he said, takes away money that might be spent domestically "and lowers morals."

"It breeds moral cynicism. You see in pictures how people are being killed, real people being shot and killed and maimed."

"I am not hopeless about America," he said, however. "I am not speaking in anger, but with anxiety and sorrow."

Why Can't You Control Your Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name and address to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-213, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.
